district within the proposed boundaries with the powers conferred upon it by this act is administratively practicable and feasible. To assist the supervisors in making this determination, they shall, within a reasonable time after the entry of a finding that there is need for the organization of a watershed conservation district and the determination of the boundaries thereof, hold a referendum within the proposed watershed conservation district upon the proposition of the creation of the watershed conservation district. Due notice of the referendum shall be given by the supervisors. Such notice shall state the date of holding the referendum, the hours of opening and closing the polls, and shall designate one or more places within the proposed watershed conservation district as polling places and shall give notice that the directors shall have the power of eminent domain. The supervisors shall have full charge of the referendum and shall have suitable ballots printed and furnished to each polling place; appoint necessary box managers and other referendum officials, and shall canvass the referendum and announce the results. The cost of holding the referendum shall be paid from the general fund of Allendale County. Provided, that notwithstanding any provision of law to the contrary the power of eminent domain shall not be exercised over the protest of any landowner until it is conclusively established that the land proposed to be condemned is absolutely essential to the creation and operation of the watershed conservation district.

SECTION 7. Question.—The question to be voted on shall be submitted by ballots upon which appear the words:

“For creation of _____ Watershed Conservation District”

“Against creation of _____ Watershed Conservation District”

A square shall follow each proposition. The ballot shall contain a direction to insert an “X” mark in the square following one or the other of the propositions as the voter may favor or oppose creation of the watershed conservation district. The ballot shall set forth the boundaries of the proposed watershed conservation district as determined by the supervisors of the soil conservation district. No one except owners of lands lying within the boundaries of the proposed watershed conservation district, as determined by the supervisors of the soil conservation district, shall be eligible to vote in the referendum. Qualified voters may vote by absentee ballot in the referendum under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the supervisors. No informalities in the conduct of the referendum or in any matters relating thereto shall invalidate the referendum or the result thereof if notice of the referendum shall have been given substantially as herein provided and the referendum shall have been fairly conducted.

SECTION 8. Results—district to be created if results and determination favorable.—The votes shall be counted by the referendum officials at the close of the polls and a report of the results along with the ballots shall be delivered and certified to the supervisors of the soil conservation district; and thereafter the supervisors shall determine whether the operation of the watershed conservation district within the defined boundaries is administratively practicable and feasible. If the supervisors determine that the operation of such district is not administratively practicable and feasible, they shall record such determination and deny the petition. If the supervisors determine that the operation of such district is administratively practicable and feasible, they shall record such determination and shall proceed with the organization of such district in the manner hereinafter set forth; provided, however, that the supervisors shall not have authority to determine that the operation of such district is administratively practicable and feasible unless at least a majority of the votes cast in the referendum upon the proposition of the creation of such district shall have been cast in favor of the creation of such district. If the supervisors shall determine that the operation of such district is administratively practicable and feasible, they shall certify such determination to the clerk of Court of Allendale County and to the Secretary of State. Upon proper recordation of such determination, such watershed conservation district shall constitute a governmental subdivision of this State and a public body corporate and politic. After being recorded, such certification shall be filed with the State Soil Conservation Committee.

SECTION 9. Board of directors to govern district—nominating petitions—election—ballots—terms—officers—bond of treasurer.

—(1) The governing body of the watershed conservation district shall consist of five directors, elected as provided herein.

(2) Within thirty days after a watershed conservation district has been created, nominating petitions may be filed with the supervisors of the soil conservation district to nominate candidates for directors of the watershed conservation district. No such nominating petition shall be accepted by the supervisors unless it is signed by twenty-five or more landowners within the watershed conservation district, or, if less than fifty landowners are involved, by a majority of such landowners. If the candidates nominated do not exceed the number of directors to be chosen, the supervisors shall declare them to be elected. No person shall be eligible to be a director of a watershed conservation district who is not a landowner in the watershed conservation district in which he seeks election.

(3) If the candidates nominated for directors of the watershed conservation district exceed the number of directors to be chosen, the supervisors of the soil conservation district shall, after having given due notice thereof, cause an election to be held within the watershed conservation district within a reasonable time after the expiration of the nominating period. The provisions of Sections 5, 6 and 7 of this act as to notice, qualification of voters, absentee voting, and the manner of holding the referendum in organizing a watershed conservation district, shall apply insofar as practicable to the election of the directors. The names of all qualified nominees shall be printed in alphabetical order upon ballots with a square before each name and a direction to insert an "X" mark in the square before any five names to indicate the voter's preference. Only landowners within the watershed conservation district shall be eligible to vote in the election. The five candidates who shall receive the largest number respectively of the votes cast in the election shall be the directors of the watershed conservation district, and shall, upon the supervision of the supervisors of the soil conservation district, be the governing body of the watershed conservation district.

(4) Of the directors first elected, the two receiving the largest number of votes shall serve for terms of four years, the two receiving the next largest number of votes shall serve for terms of three years, and the one receiving the next largest number of votes shall serve for a term of two years. The term of office of each of their successors shall be for four years, and until their successors have been appointed or elected and qualify. Vacancies shall be filled in the manner of the original appointment for the unexpired portion of the term only.

(5) The directors shall annually designate from among their number a chairman, secretary, and treasurer. The treasurer shall execute an official bond for the faithful performance of the duties of his office, to be approved by the directors. Such bond shall be executed by a surety company authorized to do business in this State and shall be in an amount determined by the directors. The premium on each bond shall be paid by the watershed conservation district.

SECTION 10. District to be corporate body—powers and duties.

—A watershed conservation district organized under the provisions of this act shall constitute a governmental subdivision of this State, and a public body corporate and politic, exercising public powers, and such district and the directors thereof shall, subject to the approval of the supervisors of the soil conservation district, have the following powers, in addition to others granted in other sections of this act:

(1) To acquire, by purchase, exchange, lease, gift, grant, bequest, devise, or otherwise, or through condemnation proceedings in the manner provided in Sections 25-101 through 25-140 and Sections 33-121 through 33-148, Code of Laws of South Carolina, 1962, such lands, easements or rights-of-way as are needed to carry out any authorized purpose of the watershed conservation district; and to sell, lease, or otherwise dispose of any of its property or interests therein in furtherance of the purposes and provisions of this act;

(2) To construct, reconstruct, repair, enlarge, improve, operate, and maintain such works of improvement as may be necessary or convenient for the performance of any of the operations authorized by this act;

(3) To borrow money and to execute promissory notes and other evidences of debt in connection therewith for payment of the costs and expenses of organizing the watershed conservation district or for carrying out any authorized purpose of such district, and if promissory notes are issued, to execute such mortgages on any property owned by such district, or assign or pledge such revenues or assessments of such district as may be required by the lender as security for the repayment of the loan; and to issue, negotiate, and sell its bonds as provided in Section 11 of this act;

(4) To levy an annual tax on the real property within the district subject to the limitations provided in Section 13 of this act for payment of the costs and expenses of organizing the watershed conservation district or for carrying out any authorized purpose of such district. Such levy shall be made only after approval by the supervisors of the soil conservation district and upon notifying the county auditor.

(5) Where watersheds cross county or state lines, the watershed directors are authorized to work with similar organizations in determining cost sharing to solve common problems.

SECTION 11. Bonds not to be issued unless referendum held.—

(1) Bonds authorized by Section 10 of this act shall not be issued until proposed by order or resolution of the directors of the watershed conservation district, specifying the purpose for which the funds are to be used and the proposed undertaking, the amount of bonds to be issued, the rate of interest they are to bear, and the amount of any necessary tax levy in excess of the maximum authorized in Section 13 of this act. A copy of the order or resolution shall be certified to the supervisors of the soil conservation district.

(2) The supervisors shall hold a hearing on such proposal after having given due notice. If it appears that the proposal is within the scope and purpose of this act and meets all other requirements of the law, the proposal shall be submitted to the landowners of the district by a referendum held by the supervisors.

(3) The provisions of Sections 5, 6 and 7 of this act as to notice, qualifications of voters, absentee voting, and manner of holding the referendum in organizing a watershed conservation district shall apply to the referendum held under this section.

(4) If two-thirds of the votes cast in such referendum favor the proposal, the directors shall, with the approval of the supervisors, be authorized to issue such bonds.

SECTION 12. Compensation.—The directors of the watershed conservation district shall receive no compensation for their services, but they may be reimbursed for expenses, including traveling expenses, necessarily incurred in the performance of their duties as approved by the supervisors of the soil conservation district.

SECTION 13. Budget—tax levy.—Within the first quarter of each calendar year, the directors of the watershed conservation district shall prepare an itemized budget of the funds needed for administration of the watershed conservation district and for construction, operation and maintenance of works of improvement. After approval of such budget by the supervisors of the soil conservation district, the county auditor shall levy a tax sufficient to meet such budget on all real property within the watershed conservation district of not to exceed five mills on each dollar of assessed valuation, except that this limitation shall not apply to any levy necessary to provide a sinking fund for the retirement of bonds authorized by Section 11 of this act. A copy of such budget shall be certified to the Auditor of Allendale County.

SECTION 14. List of landowners and acres subject to assessment.—(1) The directors of the watershed conservation district, with the assistance of the county auditor, shall prepare a list of the landowners involved showing the number of acres subject to assessment.

(2) When the property tax rolls are delivered to the county treasurer by the county auditor, as required by law, the county treasurer shall compute the tax due the watershed conservation district from each landowner in accordance with the rate fixed by the directors and the value of the real property indicated on the tax roll. The computation shall be made on the regular tax bills.

SECTION 15. Collection of taxes.—(1) The county treasurer shall collect the taxes due the watershed conservation district at the same time and in the same manner as he collects other taxes of the county.

(2) The taxes shall be subject to the same due and delinquency dates, discounts, penalties and interests as are applied to the collection of county taxes.

SECTION 16. Expenditures.—Tax funds collected shall be transferred to and held by the treasurer of the watershed conservation district for the specific purpose for which they have been collected. All expenditures of such funds shall be made by the directors of the watershed conservation district with the approval of the supervisors of the soil conservation district.

SECTION 17. Petition to have lands detached.—The owners of lands which have not been, are not and cannot be benefited by their inclusion in the watershed conservation district may petition the supervisors of the soil conservation district to have such lands detached. The petition shall describe such lands and state the reasons why they should be detached. A hearing shall be held by the supervisors within thirty days after the petition is filed and due notice of such hearing shall be given by the supervisors. If it is determined by the supervisors that such lands shall be detached, such determination shall be certified to the Auditor of Allendale County for recording. After being recorded, the certification shall be filed with the State Soil Conservation Committee.

SECTION 18. Petition for discontinuance of district—hearing—referendum—discontinuance if election and determination favorable.—(1) At any time after five years after the organization of a watershed conservation district, twenty-five or more landowners within such district, or if less than fifty landowners are involved, a majority of such landowners, may file a petition with the supervisors of the soil conservation district asking that the existence of the watershed conservation district be discontinued. The petition shall state the reasons for discontinuance, and that all obligations of the watershed conservation district have been met. The supervisors may conduct such hearings upon the petition as may be necessary to assist them in the consideration thereof.

(2) Within sixty days after such petition has been filed with the supervisors they shall give due notice of the holding of a referendum. The supervisors shall hold such referendum substantially as provided for in Section 11 of this act. The question shall be submitted by ballots upon which the words "For terminating the existence of the—Watershed Conservation District" and "Against terminating the existence of the Watershed Conservation District" shall be printed, with a square before each proposition and a direction to insert an "X" mark in the square before one or the other of the propositions as the voter may favor or oppose the discontinuance of such watershed conservation district. Only landowners within the watershed conservation district shall be eligible to vote in such referendum. No informality in the conduct of the referendum or in any matters relating thereto shall invalidate the referendum or the results thereof if notice of the referendum shall have been given substantially as herein provided and the referendum shall have been fairly conducted.

(3) The supervisors shall publish the results of the referendum and shall thereafter determine whether the continued operation of the watershed conservation district is administratively practicable and feasible. If the supervisors determine that the continued operation of the watershed conservation district is administratively practicable and feasible, they shall record such determination and deny the petition. If the supervisors determine that the continued operation of the watershed conservation district is not administratively practicable and feasible, they shall record such determination and shall certify such determination to the directors of the watershed conservation district; provided, however, that the supervisors shall not be authorized to determine that the continued operation of the watershed conservation district is administratively practicable and feasible unless at least a majority of the votes cast in the referendum shall have been cast in favor of the continuance of the watershed conservation district.

(4) Upon receipt from the supervisors of a certification that they have determined that the continued operation of the watershed conservation district is not administratively practicable and feasible, the directors shall forthwith proceed to terminate the affairs of the watershed conservation district. A copy of the determination shall be certified to the Auditor of Allendale County for recording. After being recorded, the certification shall be filed with the State Soil Conservation Committee.

SECTION 19.—Supervisory authority if district discontinued.—

If the Allendale County Soil Conservation District is discontinued, all supervisory authority over the affairs of the watershed conservation district which was previously exercised by the supervisors shall thereafter be exercised by the governing body of Allendale County.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of South Carolina:

SECTION 1. Definitions.—Whenever used or referred to in this act, unless a different meaning clearly appears from the context:

(1) "Watershed conservation district" means a governmental subdivision of this State, and a public body corporate and politic, organized in accordance with the provisions of this act, for the purposes, with the powers, and subject to the restrictions hereinafter set forth.

(2) "Director" means one of the members of the governing body of a watershed conservation district, elected in accordance with the provisions of this act.

(3) "Supervisor" means one of the members of the governing body of the Beaufort-Jasper Soil and Water Conservation District in which any part of a watershed conservation district is situated.

(4) "Petition" means a petition filed under the provisions of Section 4 of this act for the creation of a watershed conservation district.

(5) "County" means Beaufort County of South Carolina.

(6) "Landowner" or "owner of land" includes any person, firm or corporation who shall hold legal or equitable title to any lands lying within a watershed conservation district organized under the provisions of this act.

(7) "Due notice" means notice published at least twice, with an interval of at least one week between the two publication dates, in a publication of general circulation within the appropriate area, or, if no such publication of general circulation be available, notice posted at a reasonable number of conspicuous places within the appropriate area, such posting to include, where possible, posting at public places where it is customary to post notices concerning county or municipal affairs generally. Notices shall be sent by registered mail to landowners within the appropriate area.

SECTION 2. Watershed conservation districts may be formed in Beaufort County.—Authority is hereby granted to form watershed conservation districts within Beaufort County for the purpose of developing and executing plans and programs relating to any phase of the control and prevention of soil erosion, flood prevention, or the conservation, development, utilization and disposal of water.

SECTION 3. Area.—The area embraced in a watershed conservation district must be contiguous and must lie within a well-defined watershed; and such area shall not include lands located within the boundary of any incorporated city or town, or lands embraced in another watershed conservation district.

SECTION 4. Petition for formation.—When twenty-five or more landowners within a proposed watershed conservation district, or, if less than fifty landowners are involved, a majority of such landowners, desire to form a watershed conservation district, they shall file a petition with the supervisors of the soil and water conservation district asking that a watershed conservation district be organized to function in the area described in the petition. Such petition shall set forth: the proposed name of the watershed conservation district; that there is need, in the interest of the public health, safety and welfare, for a watershed conservation district to function in the territory described in the petition; a description of the territory proposed to be organized as a watershed conservation district, which description need not be given by metes and bounds or by legal subdivisions, but shall be deemed sufficient if generally accurate; and the approximate number of acres of land included in the proposed watershed conservation district.

SECTION 5. Hearing on petition.—(1) Within thirty days after such petition has been filed with the supervisors, they shall cause due notice to be given of a hearing upon the question of the desirability and necessity, in the interest of the public health, safety and welfare, of the creation of such watershed conservation district. All interested parties shall have the right to attend such hearing and to be heard. If it shall appear at the hearing that other lands should be included in the petition or that lands included in the petition should be excluded, the supervisors shall permit such inclusion or exclusion, provided the land area involved still meets the requirements of Section 3 of this act.

(2) If it appears upon the hearing that it may be desirable to include within the proposed watershed conservation district territory outside of the area within which due notice of the hearing has been given, the hearing shall be adjourned and due notice of a further hearing shall be given throughout the entire area considered for inclusion in the proposed watershed conservation district, and such further hearing shall be held. After final hearing, if a majority of the supervisors determine, upon the facts presented at the hearing and upon other available information, that there is need, in the interest of the public health, safety and welfare, for a watershed conservation district to function in the territory considered at the hearing, they shall make and record such determination, and shall define the area, but the description need not be given by metes and bounds. The description shall be deemed sufficient if generally accurate and the approximate number of acres of land included in the proposed watershed conservation district is shown.

(3) If a majority of the supervisors fail to determine after the hearing that there is a need for a watershed district, the petition for such district shall be denied.

SECTION 6. Referendum.—If a majority of the supervisors make and record a determination that there is need, in the interest of the public health, safety and welfare, for a watershed conservation district to function in the territory considered at the hearing, and have defined the boundaries thereof, they shall consider the question of whether the operation of a watershed conservation district within the proposed boundaries with the powers conferred upon it by this act is administratively practicable and feasible. To assist the supervisors in making this determination, they shall, within a reasonable time after the entry of a finding that there is need for the organization of a watershed conservation district and the determination of the boundaries thereof, hold a referendum within the proposed watershed conservation district upon the proposition of the creation of the watershed conservation district. Due notice of the referendum shall be given by the supervisors. Such notice shall state the date of holding the referendum, the hours of opening and closing the polls, and shall designate one or more places within the proposed watershed conservation district as polling places and shall give notice that the directors shall have the power of eminent domain. The supervisors shall have full charge of the referendum and shall have suitable ballots printed and furnished to each polling place; shall appoint necessary box managers and other referendum officials; and shall canvass the referendum and announce the results. The cost of holding the referendum shall be paid from the General Fund of Beaufort County. Provided, that notwithstanding any provision of law to the contrary, the power of eminent domain shall not be exercised over the protest of any landowner until it is conclusively established by the governing body of the watershed conservation district that the land proposed to be condemned is absolutely essential to the creation and operation of the watershed conservation district.

SECTION 7. Question.—The question to be voted on shall be submitted by ballots upon which appear the words:

“For the creation of Watershed Conservation District”

“Against creation of Watershed Conservation District”

A square shall follow each proposition. The ballot shall contain a direction to insert an “X” mark in the square following one or the other of the propositions as the voter may favor or oppose creation of the watershed conservation district. The ballot shall set forth the boundaries of the proposed watershed conservation district as determined by the supervisors. No one except owners of lands lying within the boundaries of the proposed watershed conservation district, as determined by the supervisors, shall be eligible to vote in the referendum. Where a parcel of land within the boundaries of the watershed conservation district is owned by more than one person under a joint tenancy or tenancy in common, not more than two such owners may vote in any election held under this act. Qualified voters may vote by absentee ballot in the referendum under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the supervisors. No informalities in the conduct of the referendum or in any matters relating thereto shall invalidate the referendum or the result thereof if notice of the referendum shall have been given substantially as herein provided and the referendum shall have been fairly conducted.

SECTION 8. Results—district to be created if results and determination favorable.—The votes shall be counted by the referendum officials at the close of the polls and a report of the results, along with the ballots, shall be delivered and certified to the supervisors; and thereafter the supervisors shall determine whether the operation of a watershed conservation district within the defined boundaries is administratively practicable and feasible. If the supervisors determine that the operation of such district is not administratively practicable and feasible, they shall record such determination and deny the petition. If the supervisors determine that the operation of such district is administratively practicable and feasible, they shall record such determination and shall proceed with the organization of such district in the manner hereinafter set forth; provided, however, that the supervisors shall not have authority to determine that the operation of such district is administratively practicable and feasible unless at least a majority of the votes cast in the referendum upon the proposition of the creation of such district shall have been cast in favor of the creation of such district. If the supervisors shall determine that the operation of such district is administratively practicable and feasible, they shall certify such determination to the Clerk of Court of Beaufort County and to the Secretary of State. Upon proper recordation of such determination, such watershed conservation district shall constitute a governmental subdivision of this State and a public body corporate and politic. After being recorded, such certification shall be filed with the State Soil Conservation Committee.

SECTION 9. Board of directors to govern district—nominating petitions—election—ballots—terms—officers—bond of treasurer.

—(1) The governing body of the watershed conservation district shall consist of five directors, elected as provided herein.

(2) Within thirty days after a watershed conservation district has been created, nominating petitions may be filed with the supervisors to nominate candidates for directors of the watershed conservation district. No such nominating petition shall be accepted by the supervisors unless it is signed by twenty-five or more landowners within the watershed conservation district, or, if less than fifty landowners are involved, by a majority of such landowners. If the candidates nominated do not exceed the number of directors to be chosen, the supervisors shall declare them to be elected. No person shall be eligible to be a director of a watershed conservation district who is not a landowner in the watershed conservation district in which he seeks election.

(3) If the candidates nominated for directors of the watershed conservation district exceed the number of directors to be chosen, the supervisors shall, after having given due notice thereof, cause an election to be held within the watershed conservation district within a reasonable time after the expiration of the nominating period. The provisions of Sections 5, 6 and 7 of this act as to notice, qualifications of voters, absentee voting, and the manner of holding the referendum in organizing a watershed conservation district, shall apply insofar as practicable to the election of the directors. The names of all qualified nominees shall be printed in alphabetical order upon ballots with a square before each name and a direction to insert an "X" mark in the square before any five names to indicate the voter's preference. Only landowners within the watershed conservation district shall be eligible to vote in the election. The five candidates who shall receive the largest number respectively of the votes cast in the election shall be the directors of the watershed conservation district, and shall, upon the supervision of the supervisors, be the governing body of the watershed conservation district.

(4) Of the directors first elected, the two receiving the largest number of votes shall serve for terms of four years, the two receiving the next largest number of votes shall serve for terms of three years, and the one receiving the next largest number of votes shall serve for a term of two years. The term of office of each of their successors shall be for four years, and until their successors have been elected and qualify. Vacancies shall be filled by selection by the supervisors for the unexpired portion of the term only.

(5) The directors shall annually designate from among their number a chairman, secretary, and treasurer. The treasurer shall execute an official bond for the faithful performance of the duties of his office, to be approved by the directors. Such bond shall be executed by a surety company authorized to do business in this State and shall be in an amount determined by the directors. The premium on each bond shall be paid by the watershed conservation district.

SECTION 10. District to be corporate body—powers and duties.

—A watershed conservation district organized under the provisions of this act shall constitute a governmental subdivision of this State, and a public body corporate and politic, exercising public powers, and such district and the directors thereof shall, subject to the approval of the supervisors, have the following powers, in addition to others granted in other sections of this act:

(1) To acquire, by purchase, exchange, lease, gift, grant, bequest, devise, or otherwise, or through condemnation proceedings in the manner provided in Sections 25-101 through 25-140 and Sections 33-121 through 33-148, Code of Laws of South Carolina, 1962, such lands, easements or rights-of-way as are needed to carry out any authorized purpose of the watershed conservation district; and to sell, lease, or otherwise dispose of any of its property or interests therein in furtherance of the purposes and provisions of this act; provided, that the power of eminent domain conferred hereunder shall not extend to the property of any public utility or public service corporation that the utility or public service corporation could have acquired under its power of eminent domain;

(2) To construct, reconstruct, repair, enlarge, improve, operate, and maintain such works of improvement as may be necessary or convenient for the performance of any of the operations authorized by this act;

(3) To borrow money and to execute promissory notes and other evidences of debt in connection therewith for payment of the costs and expenses of organizing the watershed conservation district or for carrying out any authorized purpose of such district, and if promissory notes are issued, to execute such mortgages on any property owned by such district, or assign or pledge such revenues or assessments of such district as may be required by the lender as security for the repayment of the loan; and to issue, negotiate, and sell its bonds as provided in Section 11 of this act; provided, that the indebtedness of the district other than bonded indebtedness shall not exceed ten thousand dollars;

(4) To levy an annual tax on the real property within the district, subject to the limitations provided in Section 13 of this act for payment of the costs and expenses of organizing the watershed conservation district, or for carrying out any authorized purpose of such district. Such levy shall be made only after approval by the supervisors and upon notifying the county auditor; and

(5) Where watersheds cross county or state lines, the watershed directors are authorized to work with similar organizations in determining cost sharing to solve common problems.

SECTION 11. Bonds not to be issued unless referendum held.—

(1) Bonds authorized by Section 10 of this act shall not be issued until proposed by order or resolution of the directors, specifying the purpose for which the funds are to be used and the proposed undertaking, the amount of bonds to be issued, the rate of interest they are to bear, and the amount of any necessary tax levy in excess of the maximum authorized in Section 13 of this act. A copy of the order or resolution shall be certified to the supervisors.

(2) The supervisors shall hold a hearing on such proposal after having given due notice. If it appears that the proposal is within the scope and purpose of this act and meets all other requirements of law, the proposal shall be submitted to the landowners of the district by a referendum held by the supervisors.

(3) The provisions of Sections 5, 6 and 7 of this act as to notice, qualifications of voters, absentee voting, and manner of holding the referendum in organizing a watershed conservation district shall apply to the referendum held under this section.

(4) If two-thirds of the votes cast in such referendum favor the proposal, the directors shall, with the approval of the supervisors, be authorized to issue such bonds.

SECTION 12. Compensation.—The directors shall receive no compensation for their services, but they may be reimbursed for expenses, including traveling expenses, necessarily incurred in the performance of their duties as approved by the supervisors.

SECTION 13. Budget—tax levy.—Within the first quarter of each calendar year, the directors of the watershed conservation district shall prepare an itemized budget of the funds needed for administration of the watershed conservation district and for construction, operation and maintenance of works of improvement. After approval of such budget by the supervisors, the county auditor shall levy a tax sufficient to meet such budget on all real property within the watershed conservation district of not to exceed five mills on each dollar of assessed valuation, except that this limitation shall not apply to any levy necessary to provide a sinking fund for the retirement of bonds authorized by Section 11 of this act. A copy of such budget shall be certified to the Auditor of Beaufort County.

SECTION 14. List of landowners and acres subject to assessment.—(1) The directors of the watershed conservation district, with the assistance of the county auditor, shall prepare a list of the landowners involved, showing the number of acres subject to assessment.

(2) When the property tax rolls are delivered to the county treasurer by the county auditor, as required by law, the county treasurer shall compute the tax due the watershed conservation district from each landowner in accordance with the rate fixed by the directors and the value of the real property indicated on the tax roll. The computation shall be made on the regular tax bills.

SECTION 15. Collection of taxes.—(1) The county treasurer shall collect the taxes due the watershed conservation district at the same time and in the same manner as he collects other taxes of the county.

(2) The taxes shall be subject to the same due and delinquency dates, discounts, penalties and interest as are applied to the collection of county taxes.

SECTION 16. Expenditures.—Tax funds collected shall be transferred to and held by the treasurer of Beaufort County for the specific purpose for which they have been collected. All expenditures of such funds shall be made by the directors of the watershed conservation district with the approval of the supervisors.

SECTION 17. Petition to have lands detached.—The owners of lands which have not been, are not and cannot be benefited by their inclusion in the watershed conservation district may petition the supervisors to have such lands detached. The petition shall describe such lands and state the reasons why they should be detached. A hearing shall be held by the supervisors within thirty days after the petition is filed and due notice of such hearing shall be given by the supervisors. If it is determined by the supervisors that such lands shall be detached, such determination shall be certified to the Auditor of Beaufort County for recording. After being recorded, the certification shall be filed with the State Soil and Water Conservation Committee.

SECTION 18. Petition for discontinuance of district—hearing—referendum—discontinuance if election and determination favorable.—(1) At any time after two years after the organization of a watershed conservation district, twenty-five or more landowners within such district, or if less than fifty landowners are involved, a majority of such landowners, may file a petition with the supervisors asking that the existence of the watershed conservation district be discontinued. The petition shall state the reasons for discontinuance, and that all obligations of the watershed conservation district have been met. The supervisors may conduct such hearings upon the petition as may be necessary to assist them in the consideration thereof.

(2) Within sixty days after such petition is filed with the supervisors, they shall give due notice of the holding of a referendum. The supervisors shall hold such referendum substantially as provided for in Section 11 of this act. The question shall be submitted by ballots upon which the words “For terminating the existence of the Watershed Conservation District” and “Against terminating the existence of Watershed Conservation District” shall be printed, with a square before each proposition and a direction to insert an “X” mark in the square before one or the other of the propositions as the voter may favor or oppose the discontinuance of the watershed conservation district. Only landowners within the watershed conservation district shall be eligible to vote in such referendum. No informality in the conduct of the referendum or in any matters relating thereto shall invalidate the referendum or the results thereof if notice of the referendum shall have been given substantially as herein provided and the referendum shall have been fairly conducted.

(3) The supervisors shall publish the results of the referendum and shall thereafter determine whether the continued operation of the watershed conservation district is administratively practicable and feasible. If the supervisors determine that the continued operation of the watershed conservation district is administratively practicable and feasible, they shall record such determination and deny the petition. If the supervisors determine that the continued operation of the watershed conservation district is not administratively practicable and feasible, they shall record such determination and shall certify such determination to the directors of the watershed conservation district; provided, however, that the supervisors shall not be authorized to determine that the continued operation of the watershed conservation district is administratively practicable and feasible unless at least a majority of the votes cast in the referendum shall have been cast in favor of the continuance of the watershed conservation district.

(4) Upon receipt from the supervisors of a certification that they have determined that the continued operation of the watershed conservation district is not administratively practicable and feasible, the directors shall forthwith proceed to terminate the affairs of the watershed conservation district. A copy of the determination shall be certified to the Auditor of Beaufort County for recording. After being recorded, the certification shall be filed with the State Soil and Water Conservation Committee.

SECTION 19. Supervisory authority if district discontinued.—

If the Beaufort-Jasper County Soil and Water Conservation District is discontinued, all supervisory authority over the affairs of the watershed conservation district which was previously exercised by the supervisors shall thereafter be exercised by the governing body of Beaufort County.

SECTION 20. This act shall take effect upon approval by the Governor.

Approved the 14th day of May, 1966.

No. 1205

A Joint Resolution Proposing An Amendment To Article I, Section 17, Of The Constitution Of South Carolina, 1895, Relating To Criminal Punishment, Double Jeopardy And The Taking Of Private Property, So As To Authorize The City Of Charleston To Undertake And Carry Out Slum Clearance And Redevelopment Work And To Provide For The Use Of The Power Of Eminent Domain By The City Of Charleston Acting Through Its City Council Or Any Housing Or Redevelopment Authority.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of South Carolina :

SECTION 1. Findings of General Assembly.—The General Assembly finds that if the City of Charleston is to be permitted to undertake urban renewal programs, it is necessary that Section 17 of Article I of the Constitution be amended in such fashion as to authorize the City of Charleston to acquire private property for such purposes, inasmuch as without such specific authorization the provisions of Section 17 of Article I relating to taking of private property, as construed by the Supreme Court of South Carolina in the case of Edens vs. City of Columbia, decided January 30, 1956 and reported in 228 S. C., page 563, 91 SE 2d 280, do not now authorize such action. Accordingly, the General Assembly proposes to submit to the qualified electors of the State at the next general election the question of whether Section 17 of Article I of the State Constitution should be amended in such fashion as to permit the City of Charleston to acquire private property in order to undertake a program of urban renewal within the corporate limits of such city as now or hereafter constituted.

SECTION 2. Amendment to Article I, Section 17, State Constitution, proposed—City of Charleston to undertake slum clearance and redevelopment work—use of eminent domain.—It is proposed that Section 17 of Article I of the Constitution of South Carolina, 1895, be amended by adding at the end thereof the following: “Provided, that the City of Charleston may, pursuant to statutory law, now existing or hereafter enacted, and acting through its City Council or through any housing or redevelopment authority, now or hereafter established, undertake and carry out slum clearance and redevelopment work in areas which are predominantly slum or blighted, the preparation of such areas for re-use, and the sale or other disposition of such areas to private enterprise for private uses or to public bodies for public uses, and to that end may exercise the power of eminent domain as to any property essential to the plan of slum clearance and redevelopment.”

SECTION 3. Submission to electors.—The proposed amendment shall be submitted to the qualified electors at the next general election for representatives. Ballots shall be provided at the various voting precincts with the following words printed or written thereon:

“Shall Section 17 of Article I of the Constitution of South Carolina, 1895, be amended so as to permit the use of the power of eminent domain by the City of Charleston or housing or redevelopment authorities functioning in the City of Charleston for the purpose of slum clearance and redevelopment work in areas within the corporate limits of the City of Charleston which are predominantly slum or blighted, in order to acquire and clear such areas, to prepare them for re-use and for sale or other disposition to private enterprise for private purposes or to public bodies for public purposes?

In favor of the amendment ☐

Opposed to the amendment ☐

Those voting in favor of the amendment shall deposit a ballot with a check or cross mark in the square after the words ‘In favor of the amendment’, and those voting against the amendment shall deposit a ballot with a check or cross mark in the square after the words ‘Opposed to the amendment’.”

That portion of Mechanic Street now lying to the east of Interstate Highway 26 (I-26) is bounded on the east by King Street Extension, to the west by the embankment above referred to, to the north by lands of Ashmead F. Pringle, Jr., et al, as Trustees, and to the south by lands of Ashmead F. Pringle, Jr., et al, as Trustees (Pringle, as Trustee). As now constituted, Mechanic Street (as hereafter used the term Mechanic Street shall relate only to that portion thereof lying east of I-26) serves properties of Pringle, as Trustee, and no others. Mechanic Street was formally deeded to the County of Charleston and, if it shall be removed from the State secondary highway system, title thereto will revert in Charleston County. Some one hundred or so feet north of Mechanic Street, and constituting the northern boundary of the lands of Pringle, as Trustee, is situate a forty-foot street or road known as Monrovia Street. A portion of this street is in the highway secondary system, and the balance is in the Charleston County road system. Monrovia Street furnishes ingress and egress not only to the properties owned by Pringle, as Trustee, but to others as well. Pringle, as Trustee, seeks legislative authorization to permit the State Highway Department to eliminate Mechanic Street from the secondary state highway system and to authorize Charleston County to convey its interest therein to Pringle, as Trustee, and in consideration thereof, Pringle, as Trustee, proposes to convey to Charleston County a strip of land ten feet in width on the south side of that portion of Monrovia Street lying east of I-26, in order that Monrovia Street as thus reconstituted would have a width of fifty feet and be capable of providing ingress and egress to the lands of Pringle, as Trustee, and to others whose properties abut Monrovia Street to the north.

The General Assembly has made appropriate investigations and has noted that Mechanic Street has become a cul-de-sac, serving no public interest and providing access only to properties owned by Pringle, as Trustee. It has therefore determined to approve the proposal and by this action to authorize:

(a) the State Highway Commission to remove Mechanic Street from the State secondary system and to accept, in lieu thereof, as a part of the State Secondary system, that portion of Monrovia Street lying east of I-26, once it has been widened as above set forth and a suitable deed of conveyance thereto has been given to Charleston County; and

(b) the County Council of Charleston County to execute a quitclaim deed conveying in fee simple such interest as Charleston County might have in Mechanic Street to Pringle, as Trustee.

SECTION 2. Portion of Mechanic Street in Charleston County removed from highway system—Monrovia Street included in highway system.—The State Highway Commission is authorized to remove Mechanic Street from its secondary road system and include in the State secondary system Monrovia Street, as widened.

SECTION 3. Charleston County empowered to give quitclaim.—If Charleston County receives a conveyance of a strip of land ten feet wide, lying to the south of Monrovia Street, and bounded to the west on the right-of-way of Interstate Highway 26 and to the east on King Street Extension, it is empowered to execute and deliver to Pringle, as Trustee, or his successors or assigns, a quitclaim deed in fee simple, conveying to Pringle, as Trustee, all of the right, title, interest and estate of Charleston County to Mechanic Street.

SECTION 4. Time effective.—This act shall take effect upon approval by the Governor.

Approved the 16th day of March, 1966.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of South Carolina:

SECTION 1. Findings of General Assembly.—The General Assembly finds that careful surveys of the physical facilities of the public school system of School District No. 20 of Charleston County (hereinafter called the School District) has been made by the Board of Trustees of the School District (hereinafter called the Board). Such studies have established that additional public school facilities must be provided for the School District and that the cost to be borne by the School District should be raised by an issue of general obligation bonds. The General Assembly has therefore determined to empower the Board to provide additional public school facilities for the School District and raise therefor the sum of not exceeding five hundred thousand dollars or such lesser amount as may be within the applicable constitutional debt limit through the sale of the bonds authorized by this act.

SECTION 2. Bonds may be issued.—The Board is hereby authorized and empowered to provide such additional public school facilities as it shall deem necessary and to repair, enlarge and improve the existing facilities. The Board is hereby further empowered to issue general obligation bonds of the School District, without the necessity of holding an election, in the aggregate principal amount of not exceeding five hundred thousand dollars or such lesser amount as may be within the applicable constitutional debt limit at the time of their issuance and to apply the proceeds of such bonds to the purposes prescribed by this act.

SECTION 3. Maturity.—All bonds shall mature in such annual series or instalments as the Board shall provide, except that the first maturing bonds of any issue shall mature not later than three years from the date as of which they shall be issued, and no bond shall mature later than twenty-five years from the date it is issued.

SECTION 4. Redemption.—Any bond may be issued with a provision for its redemption prior to its stated maturity at par and accrued interest, plus such redemption premium as may be prescribed by the Board, but no bond shall be redeemable before maturity unless it contains a statement to that effect. In the proceedings authorizing the issuance of such bonds, provisions shall be made specifying the manner of call and the notice that must be given.

SECTION 5. Form.—The bonds shall be in the form of negotiable coupon bonds, payable to bearer, but may be issued with the privilege to any holder of having them registered as to principal on the books of the Treasurer of Charleston County, upon such condition as the Board may prescribe. Except when so registered, all bonds shall have all attributes of negotiable instruments under the law merchant and the negotiable instruments law.

SECTION 6. Denomination.—The bonds shall be in such denomination and shall be made payable at such places, within or without the State, as the Board shall prescribe, and shall bear such interest as may be determined by the Board.

SECTION 7. Execution.—The bonds, and the coupons to be thereunto attached, shall be executed in such manner as the Board shall by resolution prescribe.

SECTION 8. Sale.—The bonds shall be sold at a price of not less than par and accrued interest to the date of their respective deliveries. They shall be sold at public sale, after public advertisement of the sale in a newspaper of general circulation in South Carolina. In such event the published notice shall appear not less than ten days prior to the occasion set for opening bids.

SECTION 9. Payment.—For the payment of the principal and interest of all bonds, as they respectively mature, and for the creation of such sinking fund as may be necessary therefor, the full faith, credit and taxing power of the district shall be irrevocably pledged, and there shall be levied annually by the Auditor, and collected by the Treasurer of Charleston County, in the same manner as county taxes, a tax without limit, on all taxable property in the School District, sufficient to pay the principal and interest of such bonds as they respectively mature and to create such sinking fund as may be necessary therefor.

SECTION 10. Exempt from taxes.—The principal and interest of bonds issued pursuant to this act shall have the tax exempt status prescribed by Section 65-4.1 of the 1962 Code.

SECTION 11. Proceeds.—The proceeds derived from the sale of any bonds issued pursuant to this act shall be paid to the Treasurer of Charleston County, to be deposited in a bond account fund for the School District, and expended by the Board as follows:

(a) Any accrued interest shall be applied to the payment of the first instalment of interest to become due on such bonds.

(b) Any premium shall be applied to the payment of the first instalment of principal of such bonds.

(c) The remaining proceeds shall be used to defray the cost of issuing the bonds authorized hereby, and to pay costs to be incurred in the constructing and equipping of additional public school facilities in the School District.

(d) Any balance remaining shall be held by the Treasurer of Charleston County in a special fund and used to effect the retirement of bonds authorized hereby.

SECTION 12. Powers to be additional.—The powers and authorizations hereby conferred upon the Board shall be in addition to all other powers and authorizations previously vested in the Board, and may be availed of pursuant to action taken at any regular or special meeting of the Board.

SECTION 13. Issuance of bonds.—No election is prescribed as a condition precedent to the issuance of the bonds, and no action other than that prescribed herein need be taken to effect the issuance of the bonds, nor shall the Board be required to obtain the approval of any public agency to any action taken pursuant to the authorizations of this act.

SECTION 14. Time effective.—This act shall take effect upon approval by the Governor.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of South Carolina:

SECTION 1. Definitions.—Whenever used or referred to in this act, unless a different meaning clearly appears from the context:

(1) "Watershed conservation district" means a governmental subdivision of this State, and a public body corporate and politic, organized in accordance with the provisions of this act, for the purposes, with the powers, and subject to the restrictions hereinafter set forth.

(2) "Director" means one of the members of the governing body of a watershed conservation district, elected in accordance with the provisions of this act.

(3) "Supervisor" means one of the members of the governing body of the Charleston Soil and Water Conservation District in which any part of a watershed conservation district is situated.

(4) "Petition" means a petition filed under the provisions of Section 4 of this act for the creation of a watershed conservation district.

(5) "County" means Charleston County of South Carolina.

(6) "Landowner" or "owner of land" includes any person, firm or corporation who shall hold legal or equitable title to any lands lying within a watershed conservation district organized under the provisions of this act.

(7) "Due notice" means notice published at least twice, with an interval of at least one week between the two publication dates, in a publication of general circulation within the appropriate area, or, if no such publication of general circulation be available, notice posted at a reasonable number of conspicuous places within the appropriate area, such posting to include, where possible, posting at public places where it is customary to post notices concerning county or municipal affairs generally.

SECTION 2. Watershed conservation districts may be formed in Charleston County.—Authority is hereby granted to form watershed conservation districts within Charleston County for the purpose of developing and executing plans and programs relating to any phase of the control and prevention of soil erosion, flood prevention, or the conservation, development, utilization and disposal of water.

SECTION 3. Area.—The area embraced in a watershed conservation district must be contiguous and must lie within a well-defined watershed; and such area shall not include lands located within the boundary of any incorporated city or town, or lands embraced in another watershed conservation district.

SECTION 4. Petition for formation.—When twenty-five or more landowners within a proposed watershed conservation district, or, if less than fifty landowners are involved, a majority of such landowners, desire to form a watershed conservation district, they shall file a petition with the supervisors of the soil and water conservation district asking that a watershed conservation district be organized to function in the area described in the petition. Such petition shall set forth the proposed name of the watershed conservation district; that there is need, in the interest of the public health, safety and welfare, for a watershed conservation district to function in the territory described in the petition; a description of the territory proposed to be organized as a watershed conservation district, which description need not be given by metes and bounds or by legal subdivisions, but shall be deemed sufficient if generally accurate; and the approximate number of acres of land included in the proposed watershed conservation district.

SECTION 5. Hearing on petition.—(1) Within thirty days after such petition has been filed with the supervisors of the soil and water conservation district, they shall cause due notice to be given of a hearing upon the question of the desirability and necessity, in the interest of the public health, safety and welfare, of the creation of such watershed conservation district. All interested parties shall have the right to attend such hearing and to be heard. If it shall appear at the hearing that other lands should be included in the petition or that lands included in the petition should be excluded, the supervisors shall permit such inclusion or exclusion, provided the land area involved still meets the requirements of Section 3 of this act.

(2) If it appears upon the hearing that it may be desirable to include within the proposed watershed conservation district territory outside of the area within which due notice of the hearing has been given, the hearing shall be adjourned and due notice of a further hearing shall be given throughout the entire area considered for inclusion in the proposed watershed conservation district, and such further hearing shall be held. After final hearing, if the supervisors of the soil and water conservation district determine, upon the facts presented at the hearing and upon other available information, that there is need, in the interest of the public health, safety and welfare, for a watershed conservation district to function in the territory considered at the hearing, they shall make and record such determination, and shall define the area, but the description need not be given by metes and bounds. The description shall be deemed sufficient if generally accurate and the approximate number of acres of land included in the proposed watershed conservation district is shown.

(3) If the supervisors of the soil and water conservation district determine after such hearing that there is no need for a watershed conservation district to function in the territory considered at the hearing, they shall make and record such determination and shall deny the petition.

SECTION 6. Referendum.—After the supervisors of the soil and water conservation district have made and recorded a determination that there is need, in the interest of the public health, safety and welfare, for a watershed conservation district to function in the territory considered at the hearing, and have defined the boundaries thereof, they shall consider the question of whether the operation of a watershed conservation district within the proposed boundaries with the powers conferred upon it by this act is administratively practicable and feasible. To assist the supervisors in making this determination they shall, within a reasonable time after the entry of a finding that there is need for the organization of a watershed conservation district and the determination of the boundaries thereof, hold a referendum within the proposed watershed conservation district upon the proposition of the creation of the watershed conservation district. Due notice of the referendum shall be given by the supervisors. Such notice shall state the date of holding the referendum, the hours of opening and closing the polls, and shall designate one or more places within the proposed watershed conservation district as polling places and shall give notice that the directors shall have the power of eminent domain. The supervisors shall have full charge of the referendum and shall have suitable ballots printed and furnished to each polling place, appoint necessary box managers and other referendum officials, and shall canvass the referendum and announce the results. The cost of holding the referendum shall be paid from the general fund of Charleston County. Provided, that notwithstanding any provision of law to the contrary, the power of eminent domain shall not be exercised over the protest of any landowner until it is conclusively established that the land proposed to be condemned is absolutely essential to the creation and operation of the watershed conservation district.

SECTION 7. Question.—The question to be voted on shall be submitted by ballots upon which appear the words:

“For creation of Watershed Conservation District”

“Against creation of Watershed Conservation District”

A square shall follow each proposition. The ballot shall contain a direction to insert an “X” mark in the square following one or the other of the propositions as the voter may favor or oppose creation of the watershed conservation district. The ballot shall set forth the boundaries of the proposed watershed conservation district as determined by the supervisors of the soil and water conservation district. No one except qualified electors within the boundaries of the proposed watershed conservation district, as determined by the supervisors of the soil and water conservation district, shall be eligible to vote in the referendum. Qualified voters may vote by absentee ballot in the referendum under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the supervisors. No informalities in the conduct of the referendum or in any matters relating thereto shall invalidate the referendum or the result thereof if notice of the referendum shall have been given substantially as herein provided and the referendum shall have been fairly conducted.

SECTION 8. Results—district to be created if results and determination favorable.—The votes shall be counted by the referendum officials at the close of the polls and a report of the results, along with the ballots, shall be delivered and certified to the supervisors of the soil and water conservation district; and thereafter the supervisors shall determine whether the operation of the watershed conservation district within the defined boundaries is administratively practicable and feasible. If the supervisors determine that the operation of such district is not administratively practicable and feasible, they shall record such determination and deny the petition. If the supervisors determine that the operation of such district is administratively practicable and feasible, they shall record such determination and shall proceed with the organization of such district in the manner hereinafter set forth; provided, however, that the supervisors shall not have authority to determine that the operation of such district is administratively practicable and feasible unless at least a majority of the votes cast in the referendum upon the proposition of the creation of such district shall have been cast in favor of the creation of the district. If the supervisors shall determine that the operation of such district is administratively practicable and feasible, they shall certify such determination to the Clerk of Court for Charleston County and to the Secretary of State. Upon proper recordation of such determination, such watershed conservation district shall constitute a governmental subdivision of this State and a public body corporate and politic. After being recorded, such certification shall be filed with the State Soil and Water Conservation Committee.

SECTION 9. Board of directors to govern district—nominating petitions—election—ballots—terms—officers—bond of treasurer.

—(1) The governing body of the watershed conservation district shall consist of five directors, elected as provided herein.

(2) Within thirty days after a watershed conservation district has been created, nominating petitions may be filed with the supervisors of the soil and water conservation district to nominate candidates for directors of the watershed conservation district. No such nominating petition shall be accepted by the supervisors unless it is signed by twenty-five or more landowners within the watershed conservation district, or, if less than fifty landowners are involved, by a majority of such landowners. If the candidates nominated do not exceed the number of directors to be chosen, the supervisors shall declare them to be elected. No person shall be eligible to be a director of a watershed conservation district who is not a landowner in the watershed conservation district in which he seeks election.

(3) If the candidates nominated for directors of the watershed conservation district exceed the number of directors to be chosen, the supervisors of the soil and water conservation district shall, after having given due notice thereof, cause an election to be held within the watershed conservation district within a reasonable time after the expiration of the nominating period. The provisions of Sections 5, 6 and 7 of this act as to notice, qualifications of voters, absentee voting, and the manner of holding the referendum in organizing a watershed conservation district, shall apply insofar as practicable to the election of the directors. The names of all qualified nominees shall be printed in alphabetical order upon ballots with a square before each name and a direction to insert an "X" mark in the square before any five names to indicate the voter's preference. No one except qualified electors within the watershed conservation district shall be eligible to vote in the election. The five candidates who shall receive the largest number respectively of the votes cast in the election shall be the directors of the watershed conservation district, and shall, under the supervision of the supervisors of the soil and water conservation district, be the governing body of the watershed conservation district.

(4) Of the directors first elected, the two receiving the largest number of votes shall serve for terms of four years, the two receiving the next largest number of votes shall serve for terms of three years, and the one receiving the next largest number of votes shall serve for a term of two years. The term of office of each of their successors shall be for four years, and until their successors are elected and qualify. Vacancies shall be filled by selection by the supervisors for the unexpired portion of the term only.

(5) The directors shall annually designate from among their number a chairman, secretary, and treasurer. The treasurer shall execute an official bond for the faithful performance of the duties of his office, to be approved by the directors. Such bond shall be executed by a surety company authorized to do business in this State and shall be in an amount determined by the directors. The premium on each bond shall be paid by the watershed conservation district.

SECTION 10. The petition shall state the reasons for discontinuance, and that all obligations of the watershed conservation district have been met. The supervisors may conduct such hearings upon the petition as may be necessary to assist them in the consideration thereof.

(3) The supervisors shall publish the results of the referendum and shall thereafter determine whether the continued operation of the watershed conservation district is administratively practicable and feasible. If the supervisors determine that the continued operation of the watershed conservation district is administratively practicable and feasible, they shall record such determination and deny the petition. If the supervisors determine that the continued operation of the watershed conservation district is not administratively practicable and feasible, they shall record such determination and shall certify such determination to the directors of the watershed conservation district; provided, however, that the supervisors shall not be authorized to determine that the continued operation of the watershed conservation district is administratively practicable and feasible unless at least a majority of the votes cast in the referendum shall have been cast in favor of the continuance of the watershed conservation district.

(4) Upon receipt from the supervisors of a certification that they have determined that the continued operation of the watershed conservation district is not administratively practicable and feasible, the directors shall forthwith proceed to terminate the affairs of the watershed conservation district. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of South Carolina:

SECTION 1. Findings of General Assembly.—The General Assembly finds that by statute heretofore enacted and now codified as Article 16, Chapter 3, Title 51 of the 1962 Code, the General Assembly did create a special purpose district in Charleston County designated as St. Andrew's Parish Parks and Playgrounds District and did commit to its governing body designated as St. Andrew's Parish Parks and Playgrounds Commission (the commission) the function of creating, developing, operating and maintaining a public system of parks and playgrounds within the district for the use and benefit of the residents, inhabitants and institutions therein located. It further finds that the population of such area has grown to the point where further recreational facilities are needed to promote the health and welfare of those within its territorial area. It has therefore determined to empower the commission to issue not exceeding thirty-five thousand dollars of general obligation bonds of the district for general playground improvements, and in the event of a favorable vote in the election imposed by this act to issue not exceeding sixty-five thousand dollars of general obligation bonds for the construction of a recreation center.

In the proceedings authorizing the issuance of such bonds, provision shall be made specifying the manner of call and the notice thereof that must be given as to bonds made redeemable prior to their stated maturities.

SECTION 5. Form.—The bonds issued pursuant to this act shall be in the form of negotiable coupon bonds, payable to bearer, but may be issued with the privilege to any holder of having them registered as to principal on the books of the Treasurer of Charleston County, upon such conditions as the county board may prescribe. Except when so registered, all bonds issued pursuant to this act shall have all attributes of negotiable instruments under the law merchant and the negotiable instruments law.

SECTION 6. Denomination.—The bonds issued pursuant to this act shall be in such denominations and shall be made payable at such places, within or without the State, as the commission shall provide.

SECTION 10. Payment.—For the payment of the principal and interest of all bonds issued pursuant to this act, as the same respectively mature, and for the creation of such sinking fund as may be necessary therefor, the full faith, credit and taxing power of the area shall be irrevocably pledged, and there shall be levied annually by the Auditor of Charleston County and collected by the Treasurer of Charleston County, in the same manner as county taxes are levied and collected, a tax without limit on all taxable property in the St. Andrew's Parish Parks and Playgrounds area, sufficient to pay the principal and interest of such bonds as they respectively mature and to create such sinking fund as may be necessary therefor.

SECTION 11. Exempt from taxes.—The principal and interest of bonds issued pursuant to this act shall have the tax exempt status prescribed by Section 65-4.1, Code of Laws of South Carolina, 1962.

SECTION 12. Proceeds.—The proceeds derived from the sale of any bonds issued pursuant to this act shall be paid to the Treasurer of Charleston County, to be deposited in a bond account fund, and shall be expended and made use of as follows:

(a) Any accrued interest shall be applied to the payment of the first instalment of interest to become due on such bonds.

(b) Any premium shall be applied to the payment of the first instalment of principal of such bonds.

SECTION 15. Election—further issuance of bonds.—Upon the favorable result of the election hereinafter prescribed and in order to obtain funds to be used for the purpose of constructing a recreation center, the commission is hereby authorized to issue, either as a single issue, or from time to time as several separate issues, not exceeding sixty-five thousand dollars of general obligation bonds of the district.

SECTION 16. Election.—The commission is empowered to make provision for the holding of an election in the district at the same time as the general election for the election of members of the House of Representatives, at which time there shall be submitted to the qualified electors of the district the question of issuing general obligation bonds of the district for the purpose of constructing a recreation center. The election shall be conducted by the Commissioners of Election for Charleston County, who shall give notice thereof by publication once each week for three successive weeks prior thereto, in one or more newspapers with general circulation in the district, stating the question to be submitted at the election and specifying the amount in dollars of the bonds proposed to be issued. The election shall be conducted in the district as the same is now established by law, and at the regular voting place therein. The question submitted shall be substantially in the following form:

"Shall the St. Andrew's Parish Parks and Playgrounds Commission issue general obligation bonds in a sum not exceeding sixty-five thousand dollars, whose proceeds shall be used for the construction of a recreation center?

An Act To Provide For An Advisory Election For The Office Of Magistrate For Cherokee Township In Cherokee County To Fill The Unexpired Term And For The Full Term Commencing January 1, 1967.

Whereas, the Honorable Ralph Hardin has resigned as magistrate for Cherokee Township in Cherokee County; and

Whereas, his term would normally expire on January 1, 1967; and

Whereas, it is essential to the best interest of the people of Cherokee Township that the vacancy be filled without undue delay; and

Whereas, custom dictates that the qualified electors recommend a person for the office; and

Whereas, the earliest practical time for holding such an advisory election will be in April when school trustees must be elected; and

Whereas, it would not be fair to require candidates for the office to campaign twice in such a short period of time. Now, therefore,

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of South Carolina :

SECTION 1. Advisory election concerning election of magistrate for Cherokee Township.—An advisory election shall be held for the office of magistrate for Cherokee Township in Cherokee County for the unexpired portion of the term of Ralph Hardin, resigned, and for the full term commencing January 1, 1967, to be held at the same time by the same officials and under the same conditions as the election for school trustees.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of South Carolina :

SECTION 1. Findings of General Assembly.—The General Assembly finds that heretofore under the provisions of Act 1022 of 1964 the Daniel Morgan Rural Community Water District of Cherokee County, with the territory described in Section 2 of this act, was duly formed in accordance with Act 1022 of 1964, including the appointment and organization of the board of directors and the execution of certain contracts.

The General Assembly further finds that the question exists as to the validity of the actions taken pursuant to Act 1022 by reason of the fact that in the election prescribed therefor the qualifications for voting vary from the qualifications prescribed for voting under the Constitution of South Carolina. Notwithstanding, it finds that a need exists for water service in the area purportedly created into the Daniel Morgan Rural Community Water District of Cherokee County and, accordingly, has determined to confirm such action and recreate the district.

SECTION 2. Daniel Morgan Rural Community Water District, Cherokee County, created.—There is hereby recreated a body corporate and politic of perpetual succession to be known as the Daniel Morgan Rural Community Water District of Cherokee County (hereinafter called the district). It shall be the purpose and function of the district to acquire, construct and operate a water works system, utilizing therefor water from available sources, by purchase or otherwise, at such convenient points as the district shall select to provide a flow of water through pipes to the areas described in Section 2 of this act, and to such other domestic, commercial or industrial users who can be conveniently and economically served within or without the service area as herein provided. To this end the district shall perform the functions prescribed by this act and shall be vested with the powers herein granted and all other powers that may be necessary or incidental in carrying out the functions herein prescribed and exercising the powers herein granted. The water mains, distribution facilities, tanks, their several component parts, and all apparatus, equipment and property incidental thereto or used or useful in the operation thereof and all additions, improvements, extensions and enlargements to any of them shall be referred to in this act as the system.

SECTION 3. Area.—The district shall include and be comprised of the following territory:

Beginning at a point where Cherokee-Spartanburg County line intersects the North Carolina line and running East with the North Carolina-South Carolina line to a point where said line intersects the center of Suck Creek; thence southerly (upstream) with the center of Suck Creek approximately three miles to a fork in said stream and following the western branch to its head approximately 1,000 feet north of the intersection of Highway No. 11-36 and Highway No. 11-484; thence running East to intersect the center-line of Highway No. 11-36; thence running southerly 1,000 feet East of and parallel to Highway No. 11-484 to a point 1,000 feet south of Highway No. 11-37; thence running westward 1,000 feet South of and parallel to Highway No. 11-37 to a point where said road intersects the Cherokee-Spartanburg County line; thence running northwest with county line approximately 8½ miles to the state line, being the point of beginning.

SECTION 4. District to be managed by board.—The district shall be operated and managed by a board of directors known as the Daniel Morgan Rural Community Water District Board of Cherokee County which shall constitute the governing body and district. The board shall initially consist of the following named individuals, who have already received their commissions under Act 1022 of 1964, with the terms as set forth in the commission: Elliott T. Sprinkle, Chairman; A. Z. Jolly, Secretary-Treasurer; Dr. H. P. Hines; J. D. Henderson; and Mrs. Ruth Hatchett, Directors. Thereafter, their successors in office shall be appointed by the Governor, upon the recommendation of the majority of the county legislative delegation for a term of six years. Any vacancy shall be filled in like manner as the original appointment for the unexpired portion of the term. The board shall meet and organize by electing one of its members as chairman, one as vice-chairman, one as secretary and one as treasurer. The offices of the secretary and treasurer may be combined in the discretion of the board.

Notwithstanding contrary provisions in the code, the district may:

(K) The principal and interest of bonds issued pursuant to this act shall have the tax exempt status prescribed by Section 65-4.1, Code of Laws of South Carolina, 1962.

(L) The proceeds derived from the sale of any bonds issued pursuant to this act shall be paid to the Treasurer of Cherokee County, to be deposited in a bond account fund, and shall be expended and made use of as follows:

(a) Any accrued interest shall be applied to the payment of the first installment of interest to become due on such bonds.

(2) Repayment to the county general surplus of amounts advanced therefrom for the purposes enumerated in subsection (B) of this section; and

(3) To pay costs incurred in constructing and equipping a new courthouse for Cherokee County.

(M) The powers and authorizations hereby conferred upon the county board shall be in addition to all other powers and authorizations previously vested in the county board and may be availed of pursuant to action taken at any regular or special meeting of the county board.

(N) No action other than that prescribed in this act need be taken to effect the issuance of the bonds herein authorized, nor shall the county board be required to obtain the approval of any public agency to any action taken pursuant to the authorizations of this act.

(O) The county treasurer is authorized to advance available funds from the general surplus funds of the county, not to exceed the amount of the bond issue authorized herein. The amount so advanced shall be repaid from the proceeds of such bond issue.

SECTION 1. Findings of General Assembly.—As an incident to the enactment of this act, the General Assembly finds that in addition to the public hospital facilities now maintained in Chester County, there is a need for a nursing or convalescing home to be operated in conjunction therewith. The hospital facilities are operated by the Chester County Hospital Board (hospital board), created by Act No. 365 of 1947, as amended. A survey of the costs of a suitable nursing or convalescing home indicates that an expenditure of not exceeding four hundred thousand dollars is required. On that basis the General Assembly has determined to empower the County Board of Commissioners of Chester County (county board) to issue not exceeding four hundred thousand dollars of general obligation bonds of Chester County.

SECTION 2. Bonds may be issued.—In order to provide funds for the construction of the nursing or convalescing home for Chester County herein authorized, which shall be constructed and maintained by the hospital board created by the Act of 1947, the county board is hereby authorized and empowered to issue general obligation bonds of Chester County to the extent of not exceeding four hundred thousand dollars.

SECTION 3. Issue.—Bonds issued pursuant to this act may be issued as a single issue or from time to time as several separate issues.

SECTION 4. Maturity.—Bonds issued pursuant to this act shall mature in such annual series or installments as the county board shall provide, except that the first maturing bonds shall mature not later than three years from the date of issue; not less than three per cent of the bonds shall mature in each year; and no bond shall mature later than twenty-five years from the date of issue.

SECTION 5. Redemption.—Any bond issued pursuant to this act may be issued with a provision permitting its redemption prior to its stated maturity, at par and accrued interest, plus such redemption premium as may be prescribed by the county board, but no bond shall be redeemable prior to its stated maturity unless it contains a statement to that effect. In the proceedings authorizing the issuance of such bonds, provisions shall be made specifying the manner of call and the notice thereof that must be given as to bonds made redeemable prior to their stated maturities.

SECTION 6. Form.—Bonds issued pursuant to this act shall be in the form of negotiable coupon bonds, payable to bearer, but may be issued with the privilege to any holder of having them registered as to principal on the books of the Treasurer of Chester County, upon such conditions as the county board may prescribe. Except when so registered, all bonds issued pursuant to this act shall have all attributes of negotiable instruments under the law merchant and the negotiable instrument law.

SECTION 7. Where payable.—Bonds issued pursuant to this act shall be made payable at such place, within or without the State, as the county board shall provide.

SECTION 8. Interest.—Bonds issued pursuant to this act shall bear interest at the rate approved by the county board.

SECTION 10. Sale.—Bonds issued pursuant to this act shall be sold at a price of not less than par and accrued interest to the date of their respective deliveries. They shall be sold after public advertisement of their sale in a newspaper of general circulation in South Carolina. Such published notice shall appear not less than ten days prior to the occasion set for opening bids.

SECTION 11. Payment.—For the payment of the principal and interest of all bonds issued pursuant to this act, as they respectively mature, and for the creation of such sinking fund as may be necessary therefor, the full faith, credit and taxing power of Chester County shall be irrevocably pledged, and there shall be levied annually by the Auditor of Chester County, and collected by the Treasurer of Chester County, in the same manner as other county taxes are levied and collected, on all taxable property in Chester County, a tax sufficient to pay the principal and interest of the bonds as they respectively mature and to create such sinking fund as may be necessary therefor.

SECTION 12. Exempt from taxes.—The principal and interest of bonds issued pursuant to this act shall have the tax-exempt status prescribed by Section 65-4.1, Code of Laws of South Carolina, 1962.

SECTION 13. Proceeds.—The proceeds derived from the sale of any bonds issued pursuant to this act shall be paid to the Treasurer of Chester County and shall be expended as follows:

(a) Any accrued interest received shall be applied by the county treasurer to the payment of the first installment of interest to become due on such bonds.

(b) Any premium shall be applied by the county treasurer to the payment of the first installment of principal of such bonds.

(c) The remaining proceeds shall be expended upon the warrant of the hospital board for the following purposes:

(1) To defray the cost of issuing the bonds authorized by this act; and

(2) To provide for the construction of the nursing or convalescing home herein authorized and to pay for any land acquisitions necessary therefor.

(d) If, after the final completion of the hospital board's program, the hospital board shall certify to the Treasurer of Chester County that any remaining balance in the bond account is no longer needed for its program, then such balance shall be held by or delivered to the county treasurer and used to effect the retirement of bonds then outstanding, which shall have been issued pursuant to this act.

(e) Pending any use of funds, it shall be lawful for the hospital board to cause the principal proceeds resulting from any sale of bonds to be invested in obligations of the United States, or any agency thereof, having a maturity of not more than two years from the date when such investments shall be made. In order to effect such investment the hospital board shall be empowered to withdraw from the treasurer the entire principal proceeds of any bonds that may be issued and to cause them to be deposited with any corporate trustee who shall hold them as trust funds to be invested in the manner that the hospital board shall direct within the limitations imposed by this paragraph.

Any income resulting from such investment shall be returned to the Treasurer of Chester County and used by him to meet the debt service of any bonds so issued.

SECTION 14.—No further action necessary.—No election is prescribed as a condition precedent to the issuance of bonds pursuant to this act, and no action other than that prescribed herein need be taken to effect the issuance of the bonds herein authorized, nor shall the county board be required to obtain the approval of any public agency to any action taken pursuant to the authorizations of this act.

Approved the 22nd day of April, 1966.

SECTION 1. Finding of General Assembly.—The General Assembly finds that there is a need for public vocational education in Chester County and that it is a proper function of the School District of Chester County (the School District). It has further found that if the School District will provide funds to the extent of not exceeding two hundred fifty thousand dollars, Federal grants may become available which would provide the additional funds required to provide facilities for a vocational school. On such basis, it has determined to vest in the Board of Trustees of the School District of Chester County (the Board) the function of operating and maintaining vocational school facilities in Chester County and to authorize the Board, if it shall find that a Federal grant will become available to Chester County, to issue not exceeding two hundred fifty thousand dollars of general obligation bonds of the School District in order to provide the share of the School District of the cost of establishing vocational school facilities.

SECTION 2. The condition precedent, imposed by this act, that there be made available to the School District a grant shall be deemed discharged if the Board shall find that such a grant has been made and that pursuant thereto there will become available to the School District that sum which, together with the proceeds of the bonds, will be sufficient to provide suitable vocational educational facilities within the School District. It is not intended that the School District must receive the proceeds of the grant prior to the issuance of the bonds hereby authorized.

SECTION 4. Maturity.—All bonds issued pursuant to this act shall mature in such annual series or installments as the Board shall provide for, except that the first maturing bonds of any issue shall mature within two years from the date as of which they shall be issued; not less than three per cent of any issue shall mature in each year; and no bond shall mature later than twenty-five years from the date as of which it shall be issued.

Form.—The bonds issued pursuant to this act shall be in the form of negotiable coupon bonds, payable to bearer, but may be issued with the privilege to any holder of having them registered as to principal on the books of the Treasurer of Chester County, upon such conditions as the Board may prescribe. Except when so registered, all bonds issued pursuant to this act shall have all attributes of negotiable instruments under the law merchant and the negotiable instruments law.

They shall be sold after public advertisement of their sale in a newspaper of general circulation in South Carolina. Such published notice shall appear not less than ten days prior to the occasion set for opening bids..

SECTION 11. Payment.—For the payment of the principal and interest of all bonds issued pursuant to this act, as they respectively mature, and for the creation of such sinking fund as may be necessary therefor, the full faith, credit and taxing power of the School District of Chester County shall be irrevocably pledged, and there shall be levied annually by the Auditor of Chester County and collected by the Treasurer of Chester County, in the same manner as county taxes are levied and collected, a tax without limit on all taxable property in the School District of Chester County, sufficient to pay the principal and interest of such bonds as they respectively mature and to create such sinking fund as may be necessary therefor.

SECTION 12. Exempt from taxes.—The principal and interest of bonds issued pursuant to this act shall have the tax exempt status prescribed by Section 65-4.1 of the 1962 Code.

No. 1234

An Act To Authorize And Empower Chester Sewer District In Chester County To Issue Not Exceeding Four Hundred Thousand Dollars Of General Obligation Bonds Of The District; To Prescribe The Terms And Conditions Under Which The Bonds May Be Issued And The Purposes For Which Their Proceeds May Be Expended; And To Make Provisions For The Payment Of Such Bonds.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of South Carolina:

SECTION 1. Findings of General Assembly.—Chester Sewer District in Chester County is a special purpose district created by Act No. 480 of 1963, as amended by Act No. 1186 of 1964. Committed to the district is the function of providing sewage disposal facilities for the district. The legislation above referred to permits the district to raise moneys to enable it to discharge its functions through the means of bonds payable from the revenues of its facilities, but does not extend to it the power to issue general obligation bonds. Market conditions and other circumstances indicate that it is not presently feasible to finance the facilities which are required for the district through the sale of bonds payable solely from the revenues of the system. Due consideration has been given to the problem, and it has been determined that the district should be empowered to issue general obligation bonds to the extent of four hundred thousand dollars, the proceeds of which shall be applied to meeting the cost of constructing suitable sewage disposal and treatment facilities, in order to enable the district to fulfill its functions.

SECTION 2. Bonds may be issued.—Chester Sewer District Commission is hereby authorized and empowered to issue not exceeding four hundred thousand dollars of general obligation bonds of Chester Sewer District and to apply the proceeds thereof to costs and expenses incurred in the construction of suitable sewage collection, treatment and disposal facilities. Costs so incurred may, in the discretion of the commission, include the amount required to capitalize interest on any issue of bonds for a period not exceeding two years and such further sum as shall be required to provide a reasonable sum for working capital.

SECTION 3. Maturity.—All bonds issued pursuant to this act shall mature in such annual series or installments as the commission shall provide for, except that the first maturing bonds of any issue shall mature not later than two years from the date as of which they shall be issued; not less than three per cent of any issue shall mature in each year; and no bond shall mature later than thirty years from the date as of which it shall be issued.

SECTION 4. Redemption.—Any bond issued pursuant to this act may be issued with a provision permitting its redemption prior to its stated maturity at par and accrued interest, plus such redemption premium as may be prescribed by the commission, but no bond shall be redeemable prior to its stated maturity unless it contains a statement to that effect. In the proceedings authorizing the issuance of the bonds, provision shall be made specifying the manner of call and the notice thereof that must be given as to bonds made redeemable prior to their stated maturities.

SECTION 5. Form.—The bonds issued pursuant to this act shall be in the form of negotiable coupon bonds, payable to bearer, but may be issued with the privilege to any holder of having them registered as to principal on the books of the Treasurer of Chester County, upon such conditions as the commission may prescribe. Except when so registered, all bonds issued pursuant to this act shall have all attributes of negotiable instruments under the law merchant and the negotiable instruments law.

SECTION 6. Denomination.—The bonds issued pursuant to this act shall be of such denomination and shall be made payable at such places, within or without the State, as the commission shall provide.

SECTION 7. Interest.—Bonds issued pursuant to this act shall bear interest at rates determined by the commission.

SECTION 8. Execution.—The bonds and the coupons to be thereunto attached shall be executed in such manner as the commission shall by resolution prescribe.

SECTION 9. Sale.—Bonds issued pursuant to this act shall be sold at a price not less than par and accrued interest to the date of their respective deliveries. They shall be sold after public advertisement of their sale in a newspaper of general circulation in South Carolina. Such published notice shall appear not less than ten days prior to the occasion set for opening bids.

SECTION 10. Payment.—For the payment of the principal and interest of all bonds issued pursuant to this act, as they respectively mature, and for the creation of such sinking fund as may be necessary therefor, the full faith, credit and taxing power of the district shall be irrevocably pledged, and there shall be levied annually by the Auditor of Chester County and collected by the Treasurer of Chester County in the same manner as county taxes are levied and collected, a tax without limit on all taxable property in the district, sufficient to pay the principal and interest of such bonds as they respectively mature and to create such sinking fund as may be necessary therefor. In addition, the bonds authorized by this act may, in the discretion of the commission, be additionally secured by a pledge of the net revenues to be derived from the operation of the facilities of the district.

SECTION 11. Exempt from taxes.—The principal and interest of bonds issued pursuant to this act shall have the tax-exempt status prescribed by Section 65-4.1, Code of Laws of South Carolina, 1962.

SECTION 12. Proceeds.—The proceeds derived from the sale of any bonds issued pursuant to this act shall be paid to the Treasurer of Chester County, to be deposited in a Bond Account Fund for the Chester Sewer District, and shall be expended and made use of as follows:

(a) Any accrued interest shall be applied by the county treasurer to the payment of the first installment of interest to become due on such bonds.

(b) Any premium shall be applied to the payment of the first installment of principal of such bonds.

(c) The remaining proceeds shall be expended, upon the warrant or order of the commission, for the following purposes:

(i) To defray the costs of issuing the bonds authorized by this act; and

(ii) To defray the costs of constructing the facilities herein authorized as such costs of construction have been previously defined in Section 2.

(d) If, after the final completion of the commission's program, the commission shall certify to the Treasurer of Chester County that any remaining balance in the bond account is no longer needed for its program, then such balance shall be held by the treasurer and used to effect the retirement of bonds then outstanding, which shall have been issued pursuant to this act.

(e) Pending any use of funds, it shall be lawful for the commission to cause the principal proceeds resulting from any sale of bonds to be invested in obligations of the United States, or any agency thereof, having a maturity of not more than one year from the date when such investments shall be made. In order to effect such investment the commission shall be empowered to withdraw from the treasurer the entire principal proceeds of any bonds that may be issued and to cause the same to be deposited with any corporate trustee who shall hold the same as trust funds to be invested in the manner that the commission shall direct within the limitations imposed by this paragraph.

Any income resulting from such investment shall be returned to the Treasurer of Chester County and used by him to meet the debt service of any bonds so issued.

SECTION 13. No other action necessary.—No action other than that prescribed in this act need be taken to effect the issuance of the bonds herein authorized, nor shall the commission be required to obtain the approval of any public agency to any action taken pursuant to the authorizations of this act.

SECTION 14. Time effective.—This act shall take effect upon approval by the Governor.

Approved the 4th day of May, 1966.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of South Carolina:

SECTION 1. Definitions.—Whenever used or referred to in this act, unless a different meaning clearly appears from the context:

(1) "Watershed conservation district" means a governmental subdivision of this State, and a public body corporate and politic, organized in accordance with the provisions of this act, for the purposes, with the powers, and subject to the restrictions hereinafter set forth.

(2) "Director" means one of the members of the governing body of a watershed conservation district, elected in accordance with the provisions of this act.

(3) "Supervisor" means one of the members of the Governing Body of the Darlington Soil Conservation District in which any part of a watershed conservation district is situated.

(4) "Petition" means a petition filed under the provisions of Section 4 of this act for the creation of a watershed conservation district.

(5) "County" means Darlington County of South Carolina.

(6) "Landowner" or "owner of land" includes any person, firm or corporation who shall hold legal or equitable title to any lands lying within a watershed conservation district organized under the provisions of this act.

(7) "Due notice" means notice published at least twice, with an interval of at least one week between the two publication dates, in a publication of general circulation within the appropriate area, or, if no such publication of general circulation be available, notice posted at a reasonable number of conspicuous places within the appropriate area, such posting to include, where possible, posting at public places where it is customary to post notices concerning county or municipal affairs generally.

SECTION 2. Watershed conservation districts may be formed in Darlington County.—Authority is hereby granted to form watershed conservation districts within Darlington County for the purpose of developing and executing plans and programs relating to any phase of the control and prevention of soil erosion, flood prevention, or the conservation, development, utilization and disposal of water.

SECTION 3. Area.—The area embraced in a watershed conservation district must be contiguous and must lie within a well-defined watershed; and such area shall not include lands located within the boundary of any incorporated city or town, or lands embraced in another watershed conservation district.

SECTION 4. Petition for formation.—When twenty-five or more landowners within a proposed watershed conservation district, or, if less than fifty landowners are involved, a majority of such landowners, desire to form a watershed conservation district, they shall file a petition with the supervisors of the soil conservation district asking that a watershed conservation district be organized to function in the area described in the petition. The petition shall set forth the proposed name of the watershed conservation district; that there is need, in the interest of the public health, safety and welfare, for a watershed conservation district to function in the territory described in the petition; a description of the territory proposed to be organized as a watershed conservation district, which description need not be given by metes and bounds or by legal subdivisions, but shall be deemed sufficient if generally accurate; and the approximate number of acres of land included in the proposed watershed conservation district.

SECTION 5. Hearing on petition.—(1) Within thirty days after the petition has been filed with the supervisors of the soil conservation district, they shall cause due notice to be given of a hearing upon the question of the desirability and necessity, in the interest of the public health, safety and welfare, of the creation of a watershed conservation district. All interested parties shall have the right to attend such hearing and to be heard. If it shall appear at the hearing that other lands should be included in the petition or that lands included in the petition should be excluded, the supervisors shall permit the inclusion or exclusion, provided the land area involved still meets the requirements of Section 3 of this act.

(2) If it appears upon the hearing that it may be desirable to include within the proposed watershed conservation district territory outside of the area within which due notice of the hearing has been given, the hearing shall be adjourned and due notice of a further hearing shall be given throughout the entire area considered for inclusion in the proposed watershed conservation district, and a further hearing shall be held. After final hearing, if the supervisors of the soil conservation district determine, upon the facts presented at the hearing and upon other available information, that there is need, in the interest of the public health, safety and welfare, for a watershed conservation district to function in the territory considered at the hearing, they shall make and record such determination, and shall define the area, but the description need not be given by metes and bounds. The description shall be deemed sufficient if generally accurate and the approximate number of acres of land included in the proposed watershed conservation district is shown.

(3) If the supervisors of the soil conservation district determine after a hearing that there is no need for a watershed conservation district to function in the territory considered at the hearing, they shall make and record the determination and shall deny the petition.

SECTION 6. Referendum.—After the supervisors of the soil conservation district have made and recorded a determination that there is a need, in the interest of public health, safety and welfare, for a watershed conservation district to function in the territory considered at the hearing, and have defined the boundaries thereof, they shall consider the question whether the operation of a watershed conservation district within the proposed boundaries with the powers conferred upon it by this act is administratively practicable and feasible. To assist the supervisors in making this determination, they shall, within a reasonable time after the entry of a finding that there is need for the organization of a watershed conservation district and determination of the boundaries thereof, hold a referendum within the proposed watershed conservation district upon the proposition of the creation of the watershed conservation district. Due notice of the referendum shall be given by the supervisors. The notice shall state the date of holding the referendum, the hours of opening and closing the polls, and shall designate one or more places within the proposed watershed conservation district as polling places and shall give notice that the directors shall have the power of eminent domain. The supervisors shall have full charge of the referendum and shall have suitable ballots printed and furnished to each polling place; appoint necessary box managers and other referendum officials, and shall canvass the referendum and announce the results. The cost of holding the referendum shall be paid from the General Fund of Darlington County.

SECTION 7. Question.—The question to be voted on shall be submitted by ballots upon which appear the words:

“For creation of _____ Watershed Conservation District”

“Against creation of _____ Watershed Conservation District”

A square shall follow each proposition. The ballot shall contain a direction to insert an “X” mark in the square following one or the other of the propositions as the voter may favor or oppose creation of the watershed conservation district. The ballot shall set forth the boundaries of the proposed watershed conservation district as determined by the supervisors of the soil conservation district. No one except owners of lands lying within the boundaries of the proposed watershed conservation district, as determined by the supervisors of the soil conservation district, shall be eligible to vote in the referendum. Qualified voters may vote by absentee ballot in the referendum under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the supervisors. No informalities in the conduct of the referendum or in any matters relating thereto shall invalidate the referendum or the result thereof if notice of the referendum shall have been given substantially as herein provided and the referendum shall have been fairly conducted.

SECTION 8. Results—district to be created if results and determination favorable.—The votes shall be counted by the referendum officials at the close of the polls and a report of the results, along with the ballots, shall be delivered and certified to the supervisors of the soil conservation district; and thereafter the supervisors shall determine whether the operation of the watershed conservation district within the defined boundaries is administratively practicable and feasible. If the supervisors determine that the operation of the district is not administratively practicable and feasible, they shall record such determination and deny the petition. If the supervisors determine that the operation of the district is administratively practicable and feasible, they shall record the determination and shall proceed with the organization of the district in the manner hereinafter set forth; provided, however, that the supervisors shall not have authority to determine that the operation of the district is administratively practicable and feasible unless at least a majority of the votes cast in the referendum upon the proposition of the creation of the district shall have been cast in favor of the creation of the district. If the supervisors shall determine that the operation of the district is administratively practicable and feasible, they shall certify the determination to the Clerk of Court of Darlington County and to the Secretary of State. Upon proper recordation of the determination, the watershed conservation district shall constitute a governmental subdivision of this State and a public body corporate and politic. After being recorded, the certification shall be filed with the State Soil Conservation Committee.

SECTION 9. Board of directors to govern district—nominating petitions—election—ballots—terms—officers—bond of treasurer.

—(1) The governing body of the watershed conservation district shall consist of five directors, elected as provided herein.

(2) Within thirty days after a watershed conservation district has been created, nominating petitions may be filed with the supervisors of the soil conservation district to nominate candidates for directors of the watershed conservation district. No nominating petition shall be accepted by the supervisors unless it is signed by twenty-five or more landowners within the watershed conservation district, or, if less than fifty landowners are involved, by a majority of the landowners. If the candidates nominated do not exceed the number of directors to be chosen, the supervisors shall declare them to be elected. No person shall be eligible to be a director of a watershed conservation district who is not a landowner in the watershed conservation district in which he seeks election.

(3) If the candidates nominated for directors of the watershed conservation district exceed the number of directors to be chosen, the supervisors of the soil conservation district shall, after having given due notice thereof, cause an election to be held within the watershed conservation district within a reasonable time after the expiration of the nominating period. The provisions of Sections 5, 6, and 7 of this act as to notice, qualifications of voters, absentee voting, and the manner of holding the referendum in organizing a watershed conservation district, shall apply insofar as practicable to the election of the directors. The names of all qualified nominees shall be printed in alphabetical order upon ballots with a square before each name and a direction to insert an "X" mark in the square before any five names to indicate the voter's preference. Only landowners within the watershed conservation district shall be eligible to vote in the election. The five candidates who shall receive the largest number respectively of the votes cast in the election shall be the directors of the watershed conservation district, and shall, upon the supervision of the supervisors of the soil conservation district, be the governing body of the watershed conservation district.

(4) Of the directors first elected, the two receiving the largest number of votes shall serve for terms of four years, the two receiving the next largest number of votes shall serve for terms of three years, and the one receiving the next largest number of votes shall serve for a term of two years. The term of office of each of their successors shall be for four years.

(5) The directors shall annually designate from among their number a chairman, secretary and treasurer. The treasurer shall execute an official bond for the faithful performance of the duties of his office, to be approved by the directors. The bond shall be executed by a surety company authorized to do business in this State and shall be in an amount determined by the directors. The premium on each bond shall be paid by the watershed conservation district.

SECTION 10. District to be corporate body—powers and duties.

—A watershed conservation district organized under the provisions of this act shall constitute a governmental subdivision of this State, and a public body corporate and politic, exercising public powers, and the district and the directors thereof shall, subject to the approval of the supervisors of the soil conservation district, have the following powers, in addition to the others granted in other sections of this act:

(1) To acquire, by purchase, exchange, lease, gift, grant, bequest, devise, or otherwise, or through condemnation proceedings in the manner provided in Sections 25-101 through 25-140 and Sections 33-121 through 33-148 of the 1962 Code, such lands, easements, or

rights-of-way as are needed to carry out any authorized purpose of the watershed conservation district; and to sell, lease, or otherwise dispose of any of its property or interests therein in furtherance of the purposes and provisions of this act;

(2) To construct, reconstruct, repair, enlarge, improve, operate, and maintain such works of improvement as may be necessary or convenient for the performance of any of the operations authorized by this act;

(3) To borrow money and to execute promissory notes and other evidences of debt in connection therewith for payment of the costs and expenses of organizing the watershed conservation district or for carrying out any authorized purpose of the district, and if promissory notes are issued, to execute mortgages on any property owned by the district, or assign or pledge the revenues or assessments of the district as may be required by the lender as security for the repayment of the loan; and to issue, negotiate, and sell its bonds as provided in Section 11 of this act;

(4) To levy an annual tax on the real property within the district subject to the limitations provided in Section 13 of this act for payment of the costs and expenses of organizing the watershed conservation district or for carrying out any authorized purpose of the district. The levy shall be made only after approval by the supervisors of the soil conservation district and upon notifying the county auditor.

SECTION 11. Bonds not to be issued unless referendum held.—

(1) Bonds authorized by Section 10 of this act shall not be issued until proposed by order or resolution of the directors of the watershed conservation district, specifying the purpose for which the funds are to be used and the proposed undertaking, the amount of any bonds to be issued, the rate of interest they are to bear, and the amount of any necessary tax levy in excess of the maximum authorized in Section 13 of this act. A copy of the order or resolution shall be certified to the supervisors of the soil conservation district.

(2) The supervisors shall hold a hearing on the proposal after having given due notice. If it appears that the proposal is within the scope and purpose of this act and meets all other requirements of the law, the proposal shall be submitted to the landowners of the district by a referendum held by the supervisors.

(3) The provisions of Sections 5, 6 and 7 of this act as to notice, qualifications of voters, absentee voting, and manner of holding the referendum in organizing a watershed conservation district shall apply to the referendum held under this section.

(4) If two-thirds of the votes cast in the referendum favor the proposal, the directors shall, with the approval of the supervisors, be authorized to issue the bonds.

SECTION 12. Compensation.—The directors of the watershed conservation district shall receive no compensation for their services, but they may be reimbursed for expenses, including traveling expenses, necessarily incurred in the performance of the duties as approved by the supervisors of the soil conservation district.

SECTION 13. Budget—tax levy.—Within the first quarter of each calendar year, the directors of the watershed conservation district shall prepare an itemized budget of the funds needed for administration of the watershed conservation district and for construction, operation and maintenance of works of improvement. After approval of the budget by the supervisors of the soil conservation district, the county auditor shall levy a tax sufficient to meet such budget on all real property within the watershed conservation district of not to exceed five mills on each dollar of assessed valuation, except that this limitation shall not apply to any levy necessary to provide a sinking fund for the retirement of bonds authorized by Section 11 of this act. A copy of the budget shall be certified to the Auditor of Darlington County.

SECTION 14. List of landowners and acres subject to assessment.—(1) The directors of the watershed conservation district, with the assistance of the county auditor, shall prepare a list of the landowners involved, showing the number of acres subject to assessment.

(2) When the property tax rolls are delivered to the county treasurer by the county auditor, as required by law, the county treasurer shall compute the tax due the watershed conservation district from each landowner in accordance with the rate fixed by the directors and the value of the real property indicated on the tax roll. The computation shall be made on the regular tax bills.

SECTION 15. Collection of taxes.—(1) The county treasurer shall collect the taxes due the watershed conservation district at the same time and in the same manner as he collects other taxes of the county.

(2) The taxes shall be subject to the same due and delinquency dates, discounts, penalties and interests as are applied to the collection of county taxes.

SECTION 16. Expenditures.—Tax funds collected shall be transferred to and held by the treasurer of the watershed conservation district for the specific purpose for which they have been collected. All expenditures of the funds shall be made by the directors of the watershed conservation district with the approval of the supervisors of the soil conservation district.

SECTION 17. Petition to have lands detached.—The owners of lands which have not been, are not and cannot be benefited by their inclusion in the watershed conservation district may petition the supervisors of the soil conservation district to have such lands detached. The petition shall describe the lands and state the reasons why they should be detached. A hearing shall be held by the supervisors within thirty days after the petition is filed and due notice of such hearing shall be given by the supervisors. If it is determined by the supervisors that the lands shall be detached, the determination shall be certified to the Auditor of Darlington County for recording. After being recorded, the certification shall be filed with the State Soil Conservation Committee.

SECTION 18. Petition for discontinuance of district—hearing—referendum—discontinuance if election and determination favorable.—(1) At any time after five years after the organization of a watershed conservation district, twenty-five or more landowners within the district, or, if less than fifty landowners are involved, a majority of the landowners, may file a petition with the supervisors of the soil conservation district asking that the existence of the watershed conservation district be discontinued. The petition shall state the reasons for discontinuance, and that all obligations of the watershed conservation district have been met. The supervisors may conduct the hearings upon the petition as may be necessary to assist them in the consideration.

(2) Within sixty days after the petition has been filed with the supervisors they shall give due notice of the holding of a referendum. The supervisors shall hold the referendum substantially as provided for in Section 11 of this act. The question shall be submitted by ballots upon which the words "For terminating the existence of the _____ Watershed Conservation District," and "Against terminating the existence of the _____ Watershed Conservation District" shall be printed, with a square before each proposition and a direction to insert an "X" mark in the square before one or the other of the propositions as the voter may favor or oppose the discontinuance of the watershed conservation district. Only landowners within the watershed conservation district shall be eligible to vote in such referendum. No informality in the conduct of the referendum or in any matters relating thereto shall invalidate the referendum or the results thereof if notice of the referendum shall have been given substantially as herein provided and the referendum shall have been fairly conducted.

(3) The supervisors shall publish the results of the referendum and shall thereafter determine whether the continued operation of the watershed conservation district is administratively practicable and feasible. If the supervisors determine that the continued operation of the watershed conservation district is administratively practicable and feasible, they shall record the determination and deny the petition. If the supervisors determine that the continued operation of the watershed conservation district is not administratively practicable and feasible, they shall record the determination and shall certify the determination to the directors of the watershed conservation district; provided, however, that the supervisors shall not be authorized to determine that the continued operation of the watershed conservation district is administratively practicable and feasible unless at least a majority of the votes cast in the referendum shall have been cast in favor of the continuance of the watershed conservation district.

(4) Upon receipt from the supervisors of a certification that they have determined that the continued operation of the watershed conservation district is not administratively practicable and feasible, the directors shall proceed to terminate the affairs of the watershed conservation district. A copy of the determination shall be certified to the Auditor of Darlington County for recording. After being recorded, the certification shall be filed with the State Soil Conservation Committee.

No. 1270

A Joint Resolution Proposing An Amendment To Section 7 Of Article VIII And Section 5 Of Article X Of The Constitution Of South Carolina, 1895, Relating To Bonded Indebtedness Of Certain Political Subdivisions, So As To Exclude From The Provisions And Limitations Thereof The Obligations Of The City Of Florence To Florence County, Or Any Agency Thereof, Under A Long-Term Lease Obligating The City Of Florence To Pay Rent For Its Share Of Constructing, Maintaining, Improving And Enlarging A Multistoried Building To Be Constructed By Florence County For The Purpose Of Providing Courthouse, Jail, City Hall, Office And Related Facilities For Florence County And For The City Of Florence And For Other Governmental Agencies.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of South Carolina:

SECTION 1. Findings of General Assembly.—The General Assembly takes note of the fact that, by legislation, in pari materia, provision has been made for the construction by Florence County of a multipurpose, high-rise building intended to provide courthouse, jail, city hall, office and related facilities for Florence County and the City of Florence.

In connection with this project the City of Florence will be required to enter into a long-term lease, under which it must obligate itself and pledge its full faith and credit therefor, to pay over a period of time of long duration as rent its share of the cost incurred by Florence County in constructing, enlarging, improving, maintaining and operating the building.

The General Assembly finds that if the City of Florence is to be permitted to undertake this project, Section 7 of Article VIII and Section 5 of Article X of the State Constitution must be amended so as to exclude from the provisions and limitations thereof the indebtedness incurred by the City of Florence for such purpose. On this basis the General Assembly proposes to submit to the qualified electors of the State at the next general election the question of whether Section 7 of Article VIII and Section 5 of Article X of the State Constitution should be so amended.

SECTION 2. Amendment to Section 7, Article VIII, State Constitution, proposed—bonded indebtedness of City of Florence to Florence County or agency thereof.—It is proposed that Section 7 of Article VIII and Section 5 of Article X of the Constitution of this State be amended by adding at the end thereof the following: "Provided, that the provisions of Section 7 of Article VIII requiring an election and the provisions of Section 7 of Article VIII and Section 5 of Article X of the Constitution of this State relating to the extent to which indebtedness may be incurred shall not apply to any obligation of the City of Florence to Florence County or to any agency of Florence County resulting from a long-term lease of a portion of a multi-storied office building to be erected by Florence County for the purpose of providing courthouse, jail, city hall, office and related facilities for Florence County and for the City of Florence and for other governmental agencies, pursuant to which the full faith and credit of the City of Florence is pledged to the payment of rent and other obligations under such lease, and the indebtedness and obligations so incurred shall not be considered in determining the power of the City of Florence to incur other bonded indebtedness, nor shall they affect or limit the power of Florence County or any political subdivision of the County or State covering or extending over any portion of the territory of the City of Florence to incur bonded indebtedness.”

SECTION 3. Submission to electors.—The proposed amendment shall be submitted to the qualified electors at the next general election for representatives. Ballots shall be provided at the various voting precincts with the following words printed or written thereon: “Shall Section 7 of Article VIII and Section 5 of Article X of the Constitution of this State be amended so as to exclude therefrom obligations of the City of Florence to Florence County or any agency thereof under a long-term lease obligating the City of Florence to pay rent for its share of the cost of constructing, maintaining, improving and enlarging a multistoried building to be constructed by Florence County for the purpose of providing courthouse, jail, city hall, office and related facilities for Florence County and for the City of Florence and for other governmental agencies?”

No. 1271

A Joint Resolution Proposing An Amendment To Section 13 Of Article II Of The Constitution Of South Carolina, 1895, Relating To Special Elections For Bonding Municipalities, So As To Permit The City Of Florence To Incur Obligations To Florence County, Or To Any Agency Thereof, Under A Lease Of A Portion Of A Multi-Storeid Office Building To Be Constructed By Florence County For The Purpose Of Providing Courthouse, Jail, City Hall, Office And Related Facilities For Florence County And For The City Of Florence And For Other Governmental Agencies, Without Observing The Requirements For The Petition And Election Required By Section 13 Of Article II.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of South Carolina:

SECTION 1. Findings of General Assembly.—The General Assembly takes note of the fact that, by legislation, in pari materia, provision has been made for the construction by Florence County of a multipurpose, high-rise building intended to provide courthouse, jail, city hall, office and related facilities for Florence County and the City of Florence.

In connection with this project the City of Florence will be required to enter into a long-term lease, under which it must obligate itself and pledge its full faith and credit therefor, to pay over a period of time of long duration as rent its share of the cost incurred by Florence County in constructing, enlarging, improving, maintaining and operating the building.

The General Assembly finds that such an obligation would partake of the nature of bonded indebtedness and that it is desirable that the provisions of Section 13 of Article II of the State Constitution be amended so as to permit such action by the City of Florence without the petition and election otherwise required by Section 13 of Article II. On this basis the General Assembly proposes to submit to the qualified electors of the State at the next general election the question of whether Section 13 of Article II of the State Constitution should be so amended.

SECTION 2. Amendment to Section 13, Article II, State Constitution, proposed—City of Florence may incur obligation to Florence County or agency thereof.—It is proposed that Section 13 of Article II of the Constitution of this State be amended by adding at the end thereof the following: "Provided, that the provisions of this section requiring a petition of the freeholders and the holding of an election shall not apply to any obligation incurred by the City of Florence to Florence County or to any agency of Florence County resulting from a long-term lease of a portion of a multistoried office building to be erected by Florence County for the purpose of providing courthouse, jail, city hall, office and related facilities for Florence County and for the City of Florence and for other governmental agencies, pursuant to which the full faith and credit of the City of Florence is pledged to the payment of rent and other obligations under such lease.

SECTION 3. Submission to electors.—The proposed amendment shall be submitted to the qualified electors at the next general election for representatives. Ballots shall be provided at the various voting precincts with the following words printed or written thereon: "Shall Section 13 of Article II of the Constitution of this State be amended so as to permit the City of Florence to incur obligations to Florence County or to any agency of Florence County under a long-term lease of a portion of a multistoried building to be erected by Florence County for the purpose of providing courthouse, jail, city hall, office and related facilities for Florence County and for the City of Florence and for other governmental agencies, pursuant to which the full faith and credit of the City of Florence is pledged to the payment of rents and other obligations under such lease, without the petition of the freeholders and the election required by Section 13 of Article II?"

No. 1284

An Act To Authorize The Greenville County Board Of Commissioners To Issue Not Exceeding One Million Dollars Of General Obligation Bonds Of The County; To Provide Additional

Facilities For The County Commission For Technical Education; To Prescribe The Purposes For Which The Bonds Shall Be Issued; And To Make Provisions For The Payment Of The Bonds.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of South Carolina:

SECTION 1. Findings of General Assembly.—The General Assembly finds that by legislation enacted in 1962 the Greenville County Commission for Technical Education (hereafter called the Commission) was established in order that Greenville County could cooperate with the program instituted by Section 21-701 of the 1962 Code to promote a program of vocational and technical education in the State. Thereafter there was made available to the Commission the proceeds of two issues of bonds in the aggregate amount of nine hundred thousand dollars with which a site was acquired and appropriate facilities constructed thereon and thereafter enlarged. The demand for the technical education program so provided has increased resulting in the need for further land, buildings and other facilities for use in connection with the existing facilities. The cost of the foregoing has been estimated at one million dollars. The General Assembly determined to authorize the Greenville County Board (hereafter called the Board) to issue general obligation bonds of the county to the extend of one million dollars in order to provide the Commission with the funds now required. The General Assembly finds that the purpose of the expenditure is educational and is therefore one which counties are authorized to undertake pursuant to Section 6 of Article X of the Constitution of South Carolina, 1895.

SECTION 2. Bonds may be issued.—In order to provide funds to be expended by the Commission for the enlargement of its existing facilities, equipment therefor, the construction of additional buildings, and further land if the Commission determines that additional land is required, the Board is hereby authorized to issue and sell general obligation bonds of Greenville County in an aggregate principal amount not exceeding one million dollars.

SECTION 3. Issue.—The bonds authorized by this act may be issued as a single issue, or from time to time as several separate issues.

SECTION 4. Form—dates—maturity.—The bonds shall be of such denomination and shall mature in such annual series or installments as the Board shall provide for, except that the last maturing bonds shall mature not later than twenty years from the date the bonds shall be issued.

SECTION 5. Redemption.—Any bonds issued pursuant to this act may be issued with a provision for their redemption prior to their stated maturity at par and accrued interest, plus such redemption premium as may be prescribed by the Board, but no bonds shall be redeemable before maturity unless it contains a statement to that effect. If bonds are made subject to redemption, provision shall be made in the proceedings authorizing the issuance of the bonds, specifying the manner of call and the notice thereof that must be given.

SECTION 6. Form.—The bonds shall be in the form of negotiable coupon bonds, payable to bearer, but may be issued with the privilege to any holder of having them registered as to principal on the books of the Treasurer of Greenville County, upon such conditions as the Board may prescribe. Except when so registered, all bonds issued pursuant to this act shall have all attributes of negotiable instruments under the law merchant and the negotiable instruments law.

SECTION 7. Where payable.—The bonds issued pursuant to this act shall be made payable at such places, within or without the State, as the Board shall provide.

SECTION 8. Interest.—Bonds issued pursuant to this act shall bear interest at rates determined by the Board.

SECTION 9. Execution.—The bonds, and the coupons to be attached, shall be executed in such manner as the Board shall by resolution prescribe.

SECTION 10. Sale.—Bonds issued pursuant to this act shall be sold at a price of not less than par and accrued interest to the date of their respective deliveries. They shall be sold after public advertisement of their sale in a newspaper of general circulation in South Carolina. The published notice shall appear not less than ten days prior to the occasion set for opening bids.

SECTION 11. Payment.—For the payment of the principal and interest of all bonds issued pursuant to this act, as they respectively mature, and for the creation of such sinking fund as may be necessary therefor, the full faith, credit and taxing power of Greenville County shall be irrevocably pledged, and there shall be levied annually by the auditor and collected by the treasurer of the county, in the same manner as other county taxes are levied and collected, a tax without limit, on all taxable property in the county sufficient to pay the principal and interest of such bonds as they respectively mature and to create such sinking fund as may be necessary therefor.

SECTION 12. Exempt from taxes.—The principal and interest of bonds issued pursuant to this act shall have the tax exempt status prescribed by Section 65-4.1 of the 1962 Code.

SECTION 13. Proceeds.—The proceeds derived from the sale of the bonds issued pursuant to this act shall be paid to the Treasurer of Greenville County, shall be deposited in a bond account fund and shall be expended and made use of as follows:

(a) Any accrued interest shall be applied to the payment of the first installment of interest to become due on such bonds.

(b) Any premium shall be applied to the payment of the first installment of principal of such bonds.

No. 1286

An Act To Empower The County Board Of Commissioners Of Greenville County To Issue Not Exceeding Three Million Dollars Of General Obligation Bonds Of Greenville County To Provide Additional Hospital Facilities In Greenville County; To Prescribe The Terms And Conditions Under Which The Bonds May Be Issued And The Manner In Which Their Proceeds May Be Expended And To Make Provision For The Payment Thereof; And To Repeal Act No. 626 Of 1965 Creating The Greenville Hospital District.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of South Carolina :

SECTION 1. Findings of General Assembly.—As an incident to the enactment of this act, the General Assembly has made the following findings of fact:

(1) By Act No. 432 of 1947 (Act of 1947) Greenville County assumed the function of providing public hospital facilities in Greenville County for the benefit of the residents thereof. Such facilities are operated by a public agency known as the Greenville General Hospital System Board of Trustees (the Hospital Board).

(2) Acting pursuant to the Act of 1947 the Hospital Board acquired from the City of Greenville certain hospital properties.

(3) The scheme of the Act of 1947 and the method of acquiring from the City of Greenville the hospital properties above referred to were upheld as valid in a decision of the Supreme Court of South Carolina in a cause entitled Bradley v. City Council of the City of Greenville, 212 S. C. 389; 46 S. E. 2d 291.

(4) The hospital facilities so acquired have been expanded through gifts and grants and with the proceeds of general obligation bonds issued by Greenville County.

(5) In 1965 the General Assembly found that the growth of Greenville County required a tremendous expansion of facilities then existing and, after considering the problem, it undertook by Act No. 626 of 1965 (Act of 1965) to create a hospital district coextensive with Greenville County and to commit to such district the function of providing public hospital facilities for the residents of Greenville County.

(6) The plan contemplated, among other things, the acquisition from the Hospital Board of all existing public hospital facilities in the county and the expansion thereof. The district was empowered to issue bonds to the extent of eight per cent of the assessed value of all taxable property therein. Following the enactment of Act No. 626 of 1965, litigation was instituted challenging the validity thereof and contending, among other things, that in exercising the power to issue bonds, due regard must be given to the fifteen per cent debt limitation set forth in Section 5 of Article X of the Constitution of this State.

(7) The litigation has proceeded through the Court of Common Pleas. While handing down a decision validating the creation of the district and the plan whereby it would acquire from the Hospital Board existing public hospital facilities in Greenville County, the court held that in exercising the right given to the district to issue bonds, it must observe the fifteen per cent debt limitation set forth in Section 5 of Article X. Following the rendition of the decision by the Court of Common Pleas, notice of intention to appeal to the Supreme Court has been filed, but the appeal has not been perfected.

(8) The General Assembly has given further consideration to the problem and finds that if the district is to be permitted to issue bonds, a constitutional amendment similar to that referred to in the case of McLure vs. McElroy, 211 S. C. 106, 44 S. E. 2d 101, (relating to the Hospital Board of Union County) must be proposed and adopted. It has noted that the provisions of Section 5 of Article X, as judicially construed, permit Greenville County to issue bonds up to the eight per cent limitation prescribed by Section 5 of Article X and that, under applicable decisions, the county is not required to take into consideration the fifteen per cent debt limitation set forth in Section 5 of Article X, which the district must observe. It takes further note of the fact that the district was not authorized to function until "the effective date of the conveyance by the Hospital Board to the district of the hospital properties of the Hospital Board" (Section 4). No such conveyance has been made and, as a consequence, the Hospital Board is still performing the functions committed to it by the Act of 1947. On the basis of the foregoing, the General Assembly has determined to repeal the Act of 1965 in order that public hospital facilities in Greenville County may continue to function under the Hospital Board and in accordance with the authorizations of the Act of 1947.

(9) It has further reviewed the need for further public hospital facilities in Greenville County and has determined that such need continues to exist. It has found that such need can be provided in part if there shall be made available to the Hospital Board the sum of three million dollars.

(10) It has considered the ability of Greenville County to issue bonds within the eight per cent debt limitation applicable to Greenville County and has found that, on the basis of existing debt and the assessed value of all taxable property in Greenville County, bonds to the extent of three million dollars might be issued.

(11) On that basis, it has determined:

(a) to repeal the Act of 1965;

(b) to continue to provide public hospital facilities for Greenville County through the means of the Hospital Board; and

(c) to authorize and empower the County Board of Commissioners of Greenville County (the County Board) to issue three million dollars of general obligation bonds of Greenville County to provide additional public hospital facilities for Greenville County.

SECTION 2. Bonds may be issued.—In order to provide further hospital facilities for Greenville County, which shall be constructed and maintained by the Hospital Board created by the Act of 1947, as amended, the County Board is hereby authorized and empowered to issue general obligation bonds of Greenville County to the extent of not exceeding three million dollars, or such lesser amount as shall, on the occasion of the issuance of such bonds, be within the applicable constitutional debt limitation of Greenville County.

SECTION 3. Issue.—Bonds issued pursuant to this act may be issued as a single issue or from time to time as several separate issues.

SECTION 4. Maturity.—Bonds issued pursuant to this act shall mature in such annual series or installments as the County Board shall provide, except that the first maturing bonds shall mature not later than three years from the date of issue; not less than three per cent of the bonds shall mature in each year; and no bond shall mature later than twenty-five years from the date of issue.

SECTION 5. Redemption.—Any bond issued pursuant to this act may be issued with a provision permitting its redemption prior to its stated maturity, at par and accrued interest, plus such redemption premium as may be prescribed by the County Board, but no bond shall be redeemable prior to its stated maturity unless it contains a statement to that effect. In the proceedings authorizing the issuance of such bonds, provision shall be made specifying the manner of call and the notice thereof that must be given as to bonds made redeemable prior to their stated maturities.

SECTION 6. Form.—Bonds issued pursuant to this act shall be in the form of negotiable coupon bonds, payable to bearer, but may be issued with the privilege to any holder of having them registered as to principal on the books of the Treasurer of Greenville County, upon such conditions as the County Board may prescribe. Except when so registered, all bonds issued pursuant to this act shall have all attributes of negotiable instruments under the law merchant and the negotiable instrument law.

SECTION 7. Where payable.—Bonds issued pursuant to this act shall be made payable at such place or places, within or without the State, as the County Board shall provide.

SECTION 8. Interest.—Bonds issued pursuant to this act shall bear interest at the rate approved by the County Board.

SECTION 9. Denomination.—The bonds and the coupons to be thereunto attached shall be in such denomination and shall be executed in such manner as the County Board shall by resolution prescribe.

SECTION 10. Sale.—Bonds issued pursuant to this act shall be sold at a price of not less than par and accrued interest to the date of their respective deliveries. They shall be sold after public advertisement of their sale in a newspaper of general circulation in South Carolina. Such published notice shall appear not less than ten days prior to the occasion set for opening bids.

SECTION 11. Payment.—For the payment of the principal and interest of all bonds issued pursuant to this act, as they respectively mature, and for the creation of such sinking fund as may be necessary therefor, the full faith, credit and taxing power of Greenville County shall be irrevocably pledged, and there shall be levied annually by the Auditor of Greenville County, and collected by the Treasurer of Greenville County, in the same manner as other county taxes are levied and collected, on all taxable property in Greenville County, a tax sufficient to pay the principal and interest of the bonds as they respectively mature and to create such sinking fund as may be necessary therefor.

SECTION 12. Exempt from taxes.—The principal and interest of bonds issued pursuant to this act shall have the tax-exempt status prescribed by Section 65-4.1 of the 1962 Code.

SECTION 13 Proceeds.—The proceeds derived from the sale of any bonds issued pursuant to this act shall be paid to the Treasurer of Greenville County and shall be expended as follows:

(a) Any accrued interest received shall be applied by the County Treasurer to the payment of the first installment of interest to become due on such bonds.

(b) Any premium shall be applied by the County Treasurer to the payment of the first installment of principal of such bonds.

(c) The remaining proceeds shall be expended upon the warrant of the Hospital Board for the following purposes:

(i) To defray the cost of issuing the bonds authorized by this act; and

(ii) To provide for additional hospital facilities for the county and to pay for any land acquisitions necessary therefor.

(d) If, after the final completion of the Hospital Board's program, the Hospital Board shall certify to the Treasurer of Greenville County that any remaining balance in the bond account is no longer needed for its program, then such balance shall be held by or delivered to the County Treasurer and used to effect the retirement of bonds then outstanding, which shall have been issued pursuant to this act.

(e) Pending any use of funds, it shall be lawful for the Hospital Board to cause the principal proceeds resulting from any sale of bonds to be invested in obligations of the United States, or any agency thereof, having a maturity of not more than two years from the date when such investments shall be made. In order to effect such investment the Hospital Board shall be empowered to withdraw from the treasurer the entire principal proceeds of any bonds that may be issued and to cause the same to be deposited with any corporate trustee who shall hold the same as trust funds to be invested in the manner that the Hospital Board shall direct within the limitations imposed by this paragraph.

Any income resulting from such investment shall be returned to the Treasurer of Greenville County and used by him to meet the debt service of any bonds so issued.

SECTION 14. No other action necessary.—No election is prescribed as a condition precedent to the issuance of bonds pursuant to this act, and no action other than that prescribed herein need be taken to effect the issuance of the bonds herein authorized, nor shall the County Board be required to obtain the approval of any public agency to any action taken pursuant to the authorizations of this act.

SECTION 15. Act 626 of 1965 repealed.—Act No. 626 of 1965 is hereby repealed, and the right of the Hospital Board to continue to function pursuant to the authorizations of the Act of 1947, as amended, is confirmed.

SECTION 16. Time effective.—This act shall take effect upon approval by the Governor.

Approved the 29th day of April, 1966.

Whereas, the qualified electors of School District No. 52 in Greenwood County and the State generally heretofore approved an increase in the bond or debt limit of the district up to eighteen per cent of the assessed value of the taxable property in the district, which increase was confirmed by Act No. 5 of 1965, pursuant to which the district can now incur debt for district purposes to an amount, based on the assessed valuation of 1965, of one million eighty thousand dollars; and

Neither the members of the board, nor any person signing the obligations, shall be personally liable thereon. To the end that a convenient procedure for borrowing money may be

In exercising the power conferred upon the district by such code provisions, the district may make or omit all pledges and covenants authorized by any provision thereof, and may confer upon the holders of its securities all rights and liens authorized by law. Notwithstanding contrary provisions in the Code, the district may:

(a) Disregard any provision requiring that bonds have serial maturities, and issue bonds in such form and with such maturities as the district shall determine.

(b) Provide that its bonds, notes or other evidence of indebtedness be payable, both as to principal and interest, from the net revenues derived from the operation of its system, as such net revenues may be defined by the district.

(c) Covenant and agree that upon it being adjudged in default as to the payment of any installment of principal or interest upon any obligation issued by it, or in default as to the performance of any covenant or undertaking made by it, in such event the principal of all obligations of such issue may be declared forthwith due and payable, notwithstanding that any of them may not have then matured.

(h) Covenant and agree that no free service will be furnished to any person, municipal corporation or any subdivision or division of the State.

(i) Prescribe the procedure, if any, by which the terms of the contract with the holders of its obligations may be amended, the number of obligations whose holders must consent thereto, and the manner in which such consent shall be given.

(j) Prescribe the events of default and the terms and conditions upon which all or any obligations shall become or may be declared due before maturity and the terms and conditions upon which such declarations and their consequences may be waived.

(23) To extend its system or systems within the county, beyond the defined limits of the district to provide services to those living outside the district and outside any incorporated municipality when, in the discretion of the commission, it is feasible and practicable so to do, in which case any person or agency receiving such service shall be subject to the same rules, regulations and requirements concerning services being received from the district as persons residing within the district. The commission may, in its discretion, establish rates and charges higher than those within the district for the extension of its system and the provision of services beyond the limits of the district.

(24) To extend the limits of such district as hereinafter set forth:

(a) To effect any such extension, a petition shall first be submitted to the commissioners by a majority of the freeholders of the territory which it is proposed to annex, accompanied by adequate description thereof, praying that an election be ordered to see if such territory shall be included in the district.

(b) If the commission shall find that the petition filed pursuant to subparagraph (a) has been signed by a majority of the freeholders within the territory proposed to be annexed, and upon the written advice of engineers satisfactory to it that adequate service at reasonable cost may be rendered to the area proposed to be annexed, it shall certify that the petition has been properly filed to the county commissioners of elections of Greenwood County. Thereupon, the county commissioners of elections shall order an election to be held within the limits of the district and within the territory proposed to be annexed to the district, on the same date, on the question of extension of the limits of the district by annexation of the territory proposed to be annexed.

(c) In the event the commission's engineers advised the commission that adequate service at reasonable cost may not be rendered to the area proposed to be annexed, the commission shall not further process the petition.

(d) The conduct, publication, certification, contest, effectiveness and other like matters of the election shall be similar in all respects to the provisions governing the extension of municipal corporate limits as provided in Sections 47-16, et seq., of the 1962 Code, as amended from time to time.

(e) In the event a portion of the area proposed to be annexed is located in Abbeville County, the Abbeville County commissioners of elections shall conduct a separate election for the Abbeville area at the same time and on the same terms and conditions as for the Greenwood County area.

(f) The procedure of annexation herein provided shall be cumulative and in addition to the procedure provided by Act No. 1120 of 1962.

(25) To exercise all powers given to public service districts by any general law.

SECTION 7. Rates.—The rates charged for services furnished by the district, as constructed, improved, enlarged and extended, shall not be subject to supervision or regulation by any state bureau, board, commission, or like instrumentality or agency thereof.

SECTION 8. Exemption from taxes.—All property of the district shall be exempt from all ad valorem taxes levied by the State, county or any municipality, division, subdivision or agency thereof, direct or indirect.

SECTION 9. Fiscal year—audit.—The district shall conduct its affairs on the fiscal year basis employed by the State. As shortly after the close of its fiscal year as may be practicable, an audit of its affairs shall be made by certified public accountants of good standing, to be designated by the district. Copies of such audits incorporated into an annual report of the district shall be filed with the auditor and treasurer of the county, and with the clerk of the finance board of the county.

SECTION 10. May issue bonds.—In order to provide funds for the construction of improvements to existing water lines and for sewage disposal and treatment facilities, the commission is authorized and empowered to issue not exceeding six hundred thousand dollars of general obligation bonds of the district.

If it is proposed that the bond issue be supported and paid by a tax levy, rather than by revenues of the district, then as a condition precedent to the issuance of the bonds, the bond issue as proposed must be approved by a majority vote in favor thereof in a referendum conducted by the county commissioners of elections among the electors of the district, which referendum shall be conducted in the usual manner after due legal advertisement thereof and in which the question submitted shall be substantially in the following form:

“Shall the Ware Shoals Water and Sewer District issue general obligation bonds in the sum of dollars, whose proceeds shall be used for and the repayment of which will require the levy of an ad valorem tax upon all taxable property in the district of approximately mills for a period of approximately years?”

SECTION 11. Issue.—Bonds issued pursuant to this act may be issued as a single issue or from time to time as several separate issues.

SECTION 12. Maturity.—Bonds issued pursuant to this act shall mature in such annual series or installments as the commission shall provide, except that the first maturing bonds shall mature not later than three years from the date of issue; not less than three per cent of the bonds shall mature in each year; and no bond shall mature later than thirty years from the date of issue.

SECTION 13. Redemption.—Any bond issued pursuant to this act may be issued with a provision permitting its redemption prior to its stated maturity, at par and accrued interest, plus such redemption premium as may be prescribed by the commission, but no bond shall be redeemable prior to its stated maturity unless it contains a statement to that effect. In the proceedings authorizing the issuance of such bonds, provision shall be made specifying the manner of call and the notice thereof that must be given as to bonds made redeemable prior to their stated maturities.

SECTION 14. Form.—Bonds issued pursuant to this act shall be in the form of negotiable coupon bonds, payable to bearer, but may be issued with the privilege to any holder of having them registered as to principal on the books of the Treasurer of Greenwood County, upon such conditions as the commission may prescribe. Except when so registered, all bonds issued pursuant to this act shall have all attributes of negotiable instruments under the law merchant and the negotiable instruments law.

SECTION 15. Where payable.—Bonds issued pursuant to this act shall be made payable at such place or places, within or without the State, as the commission shall provide.

SECTION 16. Interest.—Bonds issued pursuant to this act shall bear interest at the rate or rates approved by the commission.

SECTION 17. Denomination.—The bonds and the coupons to be thereunto attached shall be in such denomination and shall be executed in such manner as the commission shall by resolution prescribe.

SECTION 18. Sale.—Bonds issued pursuant to this act shall be sold at a price of not less than par and accrued interest to the date of their respective deliveries. They shall be sold after public advertisement of their sale in a newspaper of general circulation in South Carolina. Such published notice shall appear not less than ten days prior to the occasion set for opening bids.

SECTION 19. Payment.—For the payment of the principal and interest of all bonds issued pursuant to this act, as they respectively mature, and for the creation of such sinking fund as may be necessary therefor, the full faith, credit and taxing power of the district shall be irrevocably pledged, and there shall be levied annually by the Auditor of Greenwood County, and collected by the Treasurer of Greenwood County, on all taxable property within the district, a tax sufficient to pay the principal and interest of the bonds as they respectively mature and to create such sinking fund as may be necessary therefor.

SECTION 20. Exempt from taxes.—The principal and interest of bonds issued pursuant to this act shall have the tax-exempt status prescribed by Section 65-4.1, Code of Laws of South Carolina, 1962.

SECTION 21. Proceeds.—The proceeds derived from the sale of any bonds issued pursuant to this act shall be paid to the Treasurer of Greenwood County and shall be expended as follows:

(a) Any accrued interest received shall be applied by the county treasurer to the payment of the first installment of interest to become due on such bonds.

(b) Any premium shall be applied by the county treasurer to the payment of the first installment of principal of such bonds.

(c) The remaining proceeds shall be expended upon the warrant of the commission for the following purposes:

(i) To defray the cost of issuing the bonds authorized by this act; and

(ii) To construct water and sewer facilities.

(d) If, after the final completion of the commission's program, the commission shall certify to the Treasurer of Greenwood County that any remaining balance in the bond account is no longer needed for its program, then such balance shall be held by or delivered to the county treasurer and used to effect the retirement of bonds then outstanding, which shall have been issued pursuant to this act.

(e) Pending any use of funds, it shall be lawful for the commission to cause the principal proceeds resulting from any sale of bonds to be invested in obligations of the United States, or any agency thereof, having a maturity of not more than two years from the date when such investments shall be made. In order to effect such investment, the commission shall be empowered to withdraw from the treasurer the entire principal proceeds of any bonds that may be issued and to cause the same to be deposited with any corporate trustee who shall hold the same as trust funds to be invested in the manner that the commission shall direct within the limitations imposed by this paragraph.

Any income resulting from such investment shall be returned to the Treasurer of Greenwood County and used by him to meet the debt service of any bonds so issued.

SECTION 22. No other action necessary.—No election is prescribed as a condition precedent to the issuance of bonds pursuant to this act, and no action other than that prescribed herein need be taken to effect the issuance of the bonds herein authorized, nor shall the commission be required to obtain the approval of any public agency to any action taken pursuant to the authorizations of this act.

SECTION 23. Acts of Ware Shoals Water and Sewer District ratified—properties.—All actions, contracts and undertakings heretofore taken by Ware Shoals Water and Sewer District are hereby ratified, validated and approved, and all properties of the district as heretofore constituted shall vest in the district hereby recreated.

SECTION 24. Time effective.—This act shall take effect upon approval by the Governor.

No. 1300

An Act To Amend Act 441 Of 1959, As Amended, Relating To The Greenwood Metropolitan Sewer District In Greenwood County, So As To Make Further Provision For The Collection Of Sewer Service Charges; And To Amend Sections 16 And 17 Of Act 441 Of The Acts Of 1959, Relating To The Bonds And Appointment Of Committee For Subdivision Organization Of The Sewer System, So As To Provide Further Therefor.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of South Carolina:

SECTION 1. Section 7B of Act 441 of 1959 amended—collection of service charge.—Section 7B of Act 441 of 1959, as created by Section 2 of Act 571 of 1961, is amended on line twelve between the words “sewer” and “charges” by inserting “service” and on line fifteen by striking the period after the word “commission” and inserting “or its agent who may use all powers of the commission in collecting and enforcing collection.” The section when amended shall read as follows:

“Section 7B. The commission may promulgate and impose sewer service charges for the use of the facilities of the district in such amounts as they deem proper. The charges or rates may be established and altered from time to time by giving notice of thirty days in a newspaper published in Greenwood County. Such service charges promulgated and imposed as herein provided shall be the joint liability of both the tenant and the owner of the property connected to lines that discharge ultimately into the district’s system, during and for five years after the period for which the service charge is applicable. The primary liability shall be that of the tenant, if any, with the owner of the property served being secondarily liable for such payment. There is hereby created a lien for such sewer service charges upon such property, which lien shall be on a parity of lien with State, county, school and district taxes. The service charge shall be collected by the commission or its agent who may use all powers of the commission in collecting and enforcing collection. Delinquent service charges shall bear penalties of twenty-five percent per month for periods in arrears, and all service shall be due and payable in advance. Reasonable deposits to insure payment may be required by the commission, and upon delinquency, the commission may enter upon any property and take such steps as are reasonably required to discontinue such service. The service charge imposed hereunder may be collected in the event it becomes delinquent in the same manner and by the same procedure, including execution and sale thereunder, and with the addition of the same costs as provided by law in the case of State, county and school taxes.

The commission shall maintain record books at a designated location available to the public showing delinquent sewer service charges constituting liens hereunder. Such charges shall be indexed in the name of the tenant and the respective property owner, designating the location of the property served."

SECTION 2. Section 24 of Act 441 of 1959 amended—power to contract with Commissioners of Public Works.—Section 24 of Act 441 of 1959 is amended by adding the following paragraph at the end thereof:

"The authority herein granted shall include the power to contract with commissioners of public works to collect and enforce collection of sewer service charges as an agent of the Metropolitan Commission." The section when amended shall read as follows:

"Section 24. The commission and the commissioners of public works of the City of Greenwood are authorized and empowered to arrange, by equitable contract, for making available to the commission the engineering and clerical services of its engineering department and office force, upon a basis whereby such services will be available to the commission upon its paying an agreed proportion of the salaries which the engineering forces are paid. The making of similar arrangements for office quarters between the commissioners of public works of the City of Greenwood and the commission is likewise authorized.

The authority herein granted shall include the power to contract with commissioners of public works to collect and enforce collection of sewer service charges as an agent of the Metropolitan Commission."

SECTION 3. Section 26 of Act 441 of 1959 amended—construction of sewers by individuals or private corporations.—Section 26 of Act 441 of 1959 is amended on line eleven by changing the semicolon to a period and striking the rest of the section. The section when amended shall read as follows:

"Section 26. Where it is desired by individual or private corporations to provide sewers for any development or proposed development within the district, they may, after submitting preliminary plans to the commission, and receiving its approval, at their own cost, under the supervision of the engineering department of the commission, and in accordance with its directions, construct such sewers and connect the same with the main system of sewers. Provided, that the commission's jurisdiction to make and enforce rules and regulations, and to supervise and control extensions and enlargements and maintenance and operation, shall extend to such sewers with the same force as to any other sewers provided for in this act."

SECTION 4. Section 16 of Act 441 of 1959 amended—maturity of bonds—further provide for.—Section 16 of Act 441 of 1959 is amended by striking the second sentence of the second paragraph thereof in its entirety and inserting the following, so as to further provide for the maturity date of the bonds: "Their maturity date shall not extend beyond a date thirty years from the date of issuance of such bonds or certificates of indebtedness, and the bonds or certificates of indebtedness shall constitute a lien upon the property of the subdistrict." When so amended, the section shall read as follows:

"Section 16. Communities in the district which have no existing lateral lines or sewer system, but which may now or hereafter desire to have constructed and installed such lines or systems, may become incorporated as a subdistrict and issue bonds or certificates of indebtedness for an amount necessary to install and construct such lateral lines or systems and necessary water lines in the following manner:

A petition signed by one-third of the freeholders in such proposed subdistrict shall be filed with the commission, praying that it order an election in the subdistrict for the purpose of (a) incorporating the subdistrict; (b) allowing the subdistrict to issue bonds or certificates of indebtedness for an amount necessary to install the desired laterals and necessary water lines and connect the same with the main trunk line, and (c) to provide for the levy of a tax in the proposed subdistrict sufficient to pay the interest on the bonds or certificates of indebtedness to be issued, and create a sinking fund for their payment at maturity. Their maturity date shall not extend beyond a date thirty years from the date of issuance of such bonds or certificates of indebtedness, and the bonds or certificates of indebtedness shall constitute a lien upon the property of the subdistrict. Upon receipt of the petition, the commission shall carefully consider the boundaries, topography, and other features bearing upon the practicability, economy and desirability of creating the proposed subdistrict, and estimate the cost of constructing the proposed system. If, in the opinion of the commission, the creating of the proposed subdistrict is advisable, the commission shall order an election in the proposed subdistrict upon the questions stated in the petition, and shall specify an amount sufficient, according to their estimate of costs, in excess of which no bonds shall be issued. It shall appoint from the residents of the proposed subdistrict managers for the election, fix the time and place for the holding of same, provide a box and ballots therefor, and shall give notice of the time and place of holding such an election by publication thereof in a newspaper published in the district once a week for at least three successive weeks prior to the date for holding the election. Only qualified electors presenting proof of their qualifications and of the payment of taxes then due and payable shall be permitted to vote at the election, the costs and expenses of which shall be paid by the subdistrict in which it is held. The managers shall count the ballots and make their return to the commission, delivering to it the original ballots and tally sheets, and the commission shall, within two days after the managers have made their returns, meet and, by resolution, declare the result of the election. Should the result of the election be in favor of the proposed creation of the subdistrict and of the issuance of bonds and the levy of the tax, the commission shall thereupon certify that the proposed subdistrict has been created and has become a body politic under the name of "Greenwood Metropolitan Subdistrict," using the letters of the alphabet for the official designation, assigning to each subdistrict as it may be so created the letter alphabetically following the one assigned to the next preceding subdistrict, and such subdistrict shall thereupon be and become a body politic and corporate and have the powers and privileges, and be subject to the rules and regulations herein imposed."

SECTION 5. Section 17 of Act 441 of 1959 amended—members of committee for subdistrict.—Section 17 of Act 441 of 1959 is amended by striking the first sentence thereof and inserting in lieu thereof the following, so as to further provide for members of the committee: "The commission shall transmit a copy of its certificate of the creation of such subdivision to the Governor who shall, upon the recommendation of the Greenwood County Legislative Delegation, appoint three citizens resident in the subdistrict to a committee to be known as 'The Committee for Greenwood Metropolitan Subdistrict'. All appointments heretofore made to committees for Greenwood Metropolitan Subdistricts B, C, D and E are hereby ratified and confirmed." When so amended, the section shall read as follows:

"Section 17. The commission shall transmit a copy of its certificate of the creation of such subdivision to the Governor who shall, upon the recommendation of the Greenwood County Legislative Delegation, appoint three citizens resident in the subdistrict to a committee to be known as "The Committee for Greenwood Metropolitan Subdistrict". All appointments heretofore made to committees for Greenwood Metropolitan Subdistricts B, C, D and E are hereby ratified and confirmed. The committee shall meet immediately after appointment and organize by naming one of their number as chairman, and another as secretary, which committee shall have power to negotiate and execute all lawful contracts necessary for the construction and installation of the proposed laterals or subdistrict sewer systems, subject, however, to the previous approval of the Greenwood Metropolitan Commission, and to execute all bonds or certificates of indebtedness issued by the subdistrict under the provisions of this act."

SECTION 6. Time effective.—This act shall take effect upon approval by the Governor.

An Act Authorizing The Greenwood Metropolitan Commission To Sell Bonds To Extend Sewer Trunk Lines In Certain Areas Of The Greenwood Metropolitan District; To Authorize The Bond Proceeds To Be Used For The Purchase Of Equipment And Facilities To Maintain The System; To Authorize The Greenwood Metropolitan Commission To Conduct Studies To Determine The Feasibility Of Expansion Outside The District And To Provide For Payment Of The Cost Thereof; And To Repeal Act 634 Of 1965, Relating To The Sale Of Bonds By The Greenwood Metropolitan Commission To Extend Sewer Trunk Lines.

Whereas, in order for the Greenwood Metropolitan Commission to accomplish the purpose for its creation of establishing and operating a coordinated and unified system of sewage disposal in the Greenwood Metropolitan District, it will be necessary for the commission to extend sewer trunk lines into and through additional watershed areas of the district; and

Whereas, it will be necessary to borrow funds for the purpose of extending the trunk line system of the commission and to acquire equipment and facilities to operate and maintain the system and service; and

Whereas, the financial system of the commission and the income received from an intended sewer service charge should be adequate to provide for the current operation of the system; and

Whereas, the income received from the tax levy of six mills established for the payment of the initial bonds of the commission in 1959 indicates that such will not be sufficient to repay the necessary additional bonds also, but that the application of the present three mill tax levy for operations to the bond interest and principal payments, along with such present six mill levy, for a total of nine mills, equalling the present tax levy for the commission will be adequate without the requirement of any aggregate tax levy increase for commission purposes. Now, therefore,

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of South Carolina :

SECTION 1. Greenwood Metropolitan Commission may issue bonds.—The Greenwood Metropolitan Commission is authorized to issue and sell bonds of the Greenwood Metropolitan District in such amounts as it may determine necessary and feasible for the purpose of constructing sewer trunk lines as an extension and enlargement of the existing trunk line disposal system of the commission, and to provide equipment and facilities incident to the maintenance and operation of such project. The bonds shall be of the denomination of one thousand dollars or the multiple thereof, and shall bear interest not to exceed five per cent per annum, payable annually or semiannually, as the commission shall determine. They shall mature all at one time, or in series or installments, as the commission shall determine, but all shall mature within forty years from date. SECTION 2. Tax to be levied.—Until the principal and interest of all bonds issued by the commission shall be fully paid, there shall be levied annually on all taxable property in Greenwood Metropolitan District a tax sufficient to pay such interest as it becomes due and to provide a sinking fund sufficient to pay the principal at the date or dates of its maturity.

SECTION 3. Proceeds.—The proceeds of the sale of the bonds shall be kept by the county treasurer as a separate fund and shall be paid out only upon orders or warrants of the Greenwood Metropolitan Commission for the purposes specified in this act.

SECTION 4. Studies.—The Greenwood Metropolitan Commission is hereby authorized to conduct studies to determine the necessity and feasibility of expansion of the sewer facilities outside of the area of the district, and is further authorized to expend the funds necessary to defray the cost of such studies.

SECTION 5. Act 634 of 1965 repealed.—Act 634 of 1965 is repealed.

SECTION 6. Time effective.—This act shall take effect upon approval by the Governor.

Approved the 13th day of June, 1966.

An Act Providing For The Creation Of Watershed Conservation Districts In Kershaw County, And The Election Of Directors Of Watershed Conservation Districts And Their Powers And Duties; And Providing For A Levy Of Taxes For The Organization And Administration Of Such Districts, And For The Construction, Operation And Maintenance Of Works Of Improvement Within Such Districts.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of South Carolina:

SECTION 1. Definitions.—Whenever used or referred to in this act, unless a different meaning clearly appears from the context:

(1) "Watershed conservation district" means a governmental subdivision of this State, and a public body corporate and politic, organized in accordance with the provisions of this act, for the purposes, with the powers, and subject to the restrictions hereinafter set forth.

(2) "Director" means one of the members of the governing body of a watershed conservation district, elected in accordance with the provisions of this act.

(3) "Supervisor" means one of the members of the governing body of the Kershaw Soil Conservation District in which any part of a watershed conservation district is situated.

(4) "Petition" means a petition filed under the provisions of Section 4 of this act for the creation of a watershed conservation district.

(5) "County" means Kershaw County of South Carolina.

(6) "Landowner" or "owner of land" includes any person, firm or corporation who shall hold legal or equitable title to any lands lying within a watershed conservation district organized under the provisions of this act.

(7) "Due notice" means notice published at least twice, with an interval of at least one week between the two publication dates, in a publication of general circulation within the appropriate area, or, if no such publication of general circulation be available, notice posted at a reasonable number of conspicuous places within the appropriate area, such posting to include, where possible, posting at public places where it is customary to post notices concerning county or municipal affairs generally.

SECTION 2. Watershed conservation districts may be formed in Kershaw County.—Authority is hereby granted to form watershed conservation districts within Kershaw County for the purpose of developing and executing plans and programs relating to any phase of the control and prevention of soil erosion, flood prevention, or the conservation, development, utilization, and disposal of water.

SECTION 3. Area.—The area embraced in a watershed conservation district must be contiguous and must lie within a well-defined watershed; and such area shall not include lands located within the boundary of any incorporated city or town, or lands embraced in another watershed conservation district.

SECTION 4. Petition for formation.—When twenty-five or more landowners within a proposed watershed conservation district, or, if less than fifty landowners are involved, a majority of such landowners, desire to form a watershed conservation district, they shall file a petition with the supervisors of the soil conservation district asking that a watershed conservation district be organized to function in the area described in the petition. Such petition shall set forth the proposed name of the watershed conservation district; that there is need, in the interest of the public health, safety, and welfare, for a watershed conservation district to function in the territory described in the petition; a description of the territory proposed to be organized as a watershed conservation district, which description need not be given by metes and bounds or by legal subdivisions, but shall be deemed sufficient if generally accurate; and the approximate number of acres of land included in the proposed watershed conservation district.

SECTION 5. Hearing on petition.—(1) Within thirty days after such petition has been filed with the supervisors of the soil conservation district, they shall cause due notice to be given of a hearing upon the question of the desirability and necessity, in the interest of the public health, safety, and welfare, of the creation of such watershed conservation district. All interested parties shall have the right to attend such hearing and to be heard. If it shall appear at the hearing that other lands should be included in the petition or that lands included in the petition should be excluded, the supervisors shall permit such inclusion or exclusion, provided the land area involved still meets the requirements of Section 3 of this act.

(2) If it appears upon the hearing that it may be desirable to include within the proposed watershed conservation district territory outside of the area within which due notice of the hearing has been given, the hearing shall be adjourned and due notice of a further hearing shall be given throughout the entire area considered for inclusion in the proposed watershed conservation district, and such further hearing shall be held. After final hearing, if the supervisors of the soil conservation district determine, upon the facts presented at the hearing and upon other available information, that there is need, in the interest of the public health, safety, and welfare, for a watershed conservation district to function in the territory considered at the hearing, they shall make and record such determination, and shall define the area, but the description need not be given by metes and bounds. The description shall be deemed sufficient if generally accurate and the approximate number of acres of land included in the proposed watershed conservation district is shown.

(3) If the supervisors of the soil conservation district determine after such hearing that there is no need for a watershed conservation district to function in the territory considered at the hearing, they shall make and record such determination and shall deny the petition.

SECTION 6. Referendum.—After the supervisors of the soil conservation district have made and recorded a determination that there is need, in the interest of the public health, safety, and welfare, for a watershed conservation district to function in the territory considered at the hearing, and have defined the boundaries thereof, they shall consider the question whether the operation of a watershed conservation district within the proposed boundaries with the powers conferred upon it by this act is administratively practicable and feasible. To assist the supervisors in making this determination, they shall, within a reasonable time after the entry of a finding that there is need for the organization of a watershed conservation district and the determination of the boundaries thereof, hold a referendum within the proposed watershed conservation district upon the proposition of the creation of the watershed conservation district. Due notice of the referendum shall be given by the supervisors. Such notice shall state the date of holding the referendum, the hours of opening and closing the polls, and shall designate one or more places within the proposed watershed conservation district as polling places and shall give notice that the directors shall have the power of eminent domain. The supervisors shall have full charge of the referendum and shall have suitable ballots printed and furnished to each polling place; appoint necessary box managers and other referendum officials, and shall canvass the ballots and announce the results. The cost of holding the referendum shall be paid from the general fund of Kershaw County. Provided, that notwithstanding any provision of law to the contrary the power of eminent domain shall not be exercised over the protest of any landowner until it is conclusively established that the land proposed to be condemned is absolutely essential to the creation and operation of the soil conservation district.

SECTION 7. Question.—The question to be voted on shall be submitted by ballots upon which appear the words:

“For creation of Watershed Conservation District”

“Against creation of Watershed Conservation District”

A square shall follow each proposition. The ballot shall contain a direction to insert an “X” mark in the square following one or the other of the propositions as the voter may favor or oppose creation of the watershed conservation district. The ballot shall set forth the boundaries of the proposed watershed conservation district as determined by the supervisors of the soil conservation district. No one except owners of lands lying within the boundaries of the proposed watershed conservation district, as determined by the supervisors of the soil conservation district, shall be eligible to vote in the referendum. Qualified voters may vote by absentee ballot in the referendum under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the supervisors. No informalities in the conduct of the referendum or in any matters relating thereto shall invalidate the referendum or the result thereof if notice of the referendum shall have been given substantially as herein provided and the referendum shall have been fairly conducted.

SECTION 8. Results—district to be created if results and determination favorable.—The votes shall be counted by the referendum officials at the close of the polls and a report of the results along with the ballots shall be delivered and certified to the supervisors of the soil conservation district; and thereafter the supervisors shall determine whether the operation of the watershed conservation district within the defined boundaries is administratively practicable and feasible. If the supervisors determine that the operation of such district is not administratively practicable and feasible, they shall record such determination and deny the petition. If the supervisors determine that the operation of such district is administratively practicable and feasible, they shall record such determination and shall proceed with the organization of such district in the manner hereinafter set forth; provided, however, that the supervisors shall not have authority to determine that the operation of such district is administratively practicable and feasible unless at least a majority of the votes cast in the referendum upon the proposition of the creation of such district shall have been cast in favor of the creation of such district. If the supervisors shall determine that the operation of such district is administratively practicable and feasible, they shall certify such determination to the Clerk of Court of Kershaw County, the Code Commissioner and to the Secretary of State. Upon proper recordation of such determination, such watershed conservation district shall constitute a governmental subdivision of this State and a public body corporate and politic. After being recorded, such certification shall be filed with the State Soil Conservation Committee.

SECTION 9. Board of directors to govern district—nominating petitions—election—ballots—terms—officers—bond of treasurer.

—(1) The governing body of the watershed conservation district shall consist of five directors, elected as provided herein.

(2) Within thirty days after a watershed conservation district has been created, nominating petitions may be filed with the supervisors of the soil conservation district to nominate candidates for directors of the watershed conservation district. No such nominating petition shall be accepted by supervisors unless it is signed by twenty-five or more landowners within the watershed conservation district, or, if less than fifty landowners are involved, by a majority of such landowners. If the candidates nominated do not exceed the number of directors to be chosen, the supervisors shall declare them to be elected. No person shall be eligible to be a director of a watershed conservation district who is not a landowner in the watershed conservation district in which he seeks election.

(3) If the candidates nominated for directors of the watershed conservation district exceed the number of directors to be chosen, the supervisors of the soil conservation district shall, after having given due notice thereof, cause an election to be held within the watershed conservation district within a reasonable time after the expiration of the nominating period. The provisions of Sections 5, 6 and 7 of this act as to notice, qualifications of voters, absentee voting, and the manner of holding the referendum in organizing a watershed conservation district, shall apply insofar as practicable to the election of the directors. The names of all qualified nominees shall be printed in alphabetical order upon ballots with a square before each name and a direction to insert an "X" mark in the square before any five names to indicate the voter's preference. Only landowners within the watershed conservation district shall be eligible to vote in the election. The five candidates who shall receive the largest number respectively of the votes cast in the election shall be the directors of the watershed conservation district, and shall, upon the supervision of the supervisors of the soil conservation district, be the governing body of the watershed conservation district.

(4) Of the directors first elected, the two receiving the largest number of votes shall serve for terms of four years, the two receiving the next largest number of votes shall serve for terms of three years, and the one receiving the next largest number of votes shall serve for a term of two years. The term of office of each of their successors shall be for four years. Any vacancy shall be filled for the unexpired term as provided to original directors.

(5) The directors shall annually designate from among their number a chairman, secretary, and treasurer. The treasurer shall execute an official bond for the faithful performance of the duties of his office, to be approved by the directors. Such bond shall be executed by a surety company authorized to do business in this State and shall be in an amount determined by the directors. The premium on each bond shall be paid by the watershed conservation district.

SECTION 10. District to be corporate body—powers and duties.

—A watershed conservation district organized under the provisions of this act shall constitute a governmental subdivision of this State, and a public body corporate and politic, exercising public powers, and such district and the directors thereof shall, subject to the approval of the supervisors of the soil conservation district, have the following powers, in addition to others granted in other sections of this act:

(1) To acquire, by purchase, exchange, lease, gift, grant, bequest, devise, or otherwise, or through condemnation proceedings in the manner provided in Sections 25-101 through 25-140 and Sections 33-121 through 33-148, Code of Laws of South Carolina, 1962, such lands, easements, or rights-of-way as are needed to carry out any authorized purpose of the watershed conservation district; and to sell, lease, or otherwise dispose of any of its property or interests therein in furtherance of the purposes and provisions of this act;

(2) To construct, reconstruct, repair, enlarge, improve, operate, and maintain such works of improvement as may be necessary or convenient for the performance of any of the operations authorized by this act;

(3) To borrow money and to execute promissory notes and other evidences of debt in connection therewith for payment of the costs and expenses of organizing the watershed conservation district for carrying out any authorized purpose of such district, and if promissory notes are issued, to execute such mortgages on any property owned by such district, or assign or pledge such revenues or assessments of such district as may be required by the lender as security for the repayment of the loan; and to issue, negotiate, and sell its bonds as provided in Section 11 of this act;

(4) To levy an annual tax on the real property within the district subject to the limitations provided in Section 13 of this act for payment of the costs and expenses of organizing the watershed conservation district or for carrying out any authorized purpose of such district. Such levy shall be made only after approval by the supervisors of the soil conservation district and upon notifying the county auditor.

SECTION 11. Bonds not to be issued unless referendum held.—

(1) Bonds authorized by Section 10 of this act shall not be issued until proposed by order or resolution of the directors of the watershed conservation district, specifying the purpose for which the funds are to be used and the proposed undertaking, the amount of bonds to be issued, the rate of interest they are to bear, and the amount of any necessary tax levy in excess of the maximum authorized in Section 13 of this act. A copy of the order or resolution shall be certified to the supervisors of the soil conservation district.

(2) The supervisors shall hold a hearing on such proposal after having given due notice. If it appears that the proposal is within the scope and purpose of this act and meets all other requirements of the law, the proposal shall be submitted to the landowners of the district by a referendum held by the supervisors.

(3) The provisions of Sections 5, 6 and 7 of this act as to notice, qualifications of voters, absentee voting, and manner of holding the referendum in organizing a watershed conservation district shall apply to the referendum held under this section.

(4) If two-thirds of the votes cast in such referendum favor the proposal, the directors shall, with the approval of the supervisors, be authorized to issue such bonds.

SECTION 12. Compensation.—The directors of the watershed conservation district shall receive no compensation for their services, but they may be reimbursed for expenses, including traveling expenses, necessarily incurred in the performance of their duties as approved by the supervisors of the soil conservation district.

SECTION 13. Budget—tax levy.—Within the first quarter of each calendar year, the directors of the watershed conservation district shall prepare an itemized budget of the funds needed for administration of the watershed conservation district and for construction, operation and maintenance of works of improvement. After approval of such budget by the supervisors of the soil conservation district, the county auditor shall levy a tax sufficient to meet such budget on all real property within the watershed conservation district of not to exceed five mills on each dollar of assessed valuation, except that this limitation shall not apply to any levy necessary to provide a sinking fund for the retirement of bonds authorized by Section 11 of this act. A copy of such budget shall be certified to the Auditor of Kershaw County.

SECTION 14. List of landowners and acres subject to assessment.—(1) The directors of the watershed conservation district with the assistance of the county auditor shall prepare a list of the landowners involved showing the number of acres subject to assessment.

(2) When the property tax rolls are delivered to the county treasurer by the county auditor, as required by law, the county treasurer shall compute the tax due the watershed conservation district from each landowner in accordance with the rate fixed by the directors and the value of the real property indicated on the tax roll. The computation shall be made on the regular tax bills.

SECTION 15. Collection of taxes.—(1) The county treasurer shall collect the taxes due the watershed conservation district at the same time and in the same manner as he collects other taxes of the county.

(2) The taxes shall be subject to the same due and delinquency dates, discounts, penalties and interest as are applied to the collection of county taxes.

SECTION 16. Expenditures.—Tax funds collected shall be transferred to and held by the treasurer of the watershed conservation district for the specific purpose for which they have been collected. All expenditures of such funds shall be made by the directors of the watershed conservation district with the approval of the supervisors of the soil conservation district.

SECTION 17. Petition to have lands detached.—The owners of lands which have not been, are not and cannot be benefited by their inclusion in the watershed conservation district may petition the supervisors of the soil conservation district to have such lands detached. The petition shall describe such lands and state the reasons why they should be detached. A hearing shall be held by the supervisors within thirty days after the petition is filed and due notice of such hearing shall be given by the supervisors. If it is determined by the supervisors that such lands shall be detached, such determination shall be certified to the Auditor of Kershaw County for recording. After being recorded, the certification shall be filed with the State Soil Conservation Committee.

SECTION 18. Petition for discontinuance of district—hearing—referendum—discontinuance if election and determination favorable.—(1) At any time after five years after the organization of a watershed conservation district, twenty-five or more landowners within such district, or if less than fifty landowners are involved, a majority of such landowners, may file a petition with the supervisors of the soil conservation district asking that the existence of the watershed conservation district be discontinued. The petition shall state the reasons for discontinuance, and that all obligations of the watershed conservation district have been met. The supervisors may conduct such hearings upon the petition as may be necessary to assist them in the consideration thereof.

(2) Within sixty days after petition has been filed with the supervisors they shall give due notice of the holding of a referendum. The supervisors shall hold such referendum substantially as provided for in Section 11 of this act. The question shall be submitted by ballots upon which the words "For terminating the existence of the Watershed Conservation District" and "Against terminating the existence of the Watershed Conservation District" shall be printed, with a square before each proposition and a direction to insert an "X" mark in the square before one or the other of the propositions as the voter may favor or oppose the discontinuance of such watershed conservation district. Only landowners within the watershed district shall be eligible to vote in such referendum. No informality in the conduct of the referendum or in any matters relating thereto shall invalidate the referendum or the results thereof if notice of the referendum shall have been given substantially as herein provided and the referendum shall have been fairly conducted.

(3) The supervisors shall publish the results of the referendum and shall thereafter determine whether the continued operation of the watershed conservation district is administratively practicable and feasible. If the supervisors determine that the continued operation of the watershed conservation district is administratively practicable and feasible, they shall record such determination and deny the petition. If the supervisors determine that the continued operation of the watershed conservation district is not administratively practicable and feasible, they shall record such determination and shall certify such determination to the directors of the watershed conservation district; provided, however, that the supervisors shall not be authorized to determine that the continued operation of the watershed conservation district is administratively practicable and feasible unless at least a majority of the votes cast in the referendum shall have been cast in favor of the continuance of the watershed conservation district.

(4) Upon receipt from the supervisors of a certification that they have determined that the continued operation of the watershed conservation district is not administratively practicable and feasible, the directors shall forthwith proceed to terminate the affairs of the watershed conservation district. A copy of the determination shall be certified to the Auditor of Kershaw County for recording. After being recorded, the certification shall be filed with the State Soil Conservation Committee.

SECTION 19. Supervisory authority if district discontinued.—

If the Kershaw Soil Conservation District is discontinued, all supervisory authority over the affairs of the watershed conservation district which was previously exercised by the supervisors shall thereafter be exercised by the governing body of Kershaw County.

SECTION 3. The funds appropriated for roads, bridges and chain gang shall be spent and used in such a way as to cover the entire period of this act, and as near equally per month as possible, and the county board of commissioners is hereby forbidden to contract for or spend in excess of the appropriation in any way or make indebtedness therefor which cannot and is not paid for on the tenth of the next month after the purchase or expenditure is made. Any violation of this section shall subject the member or members of the commission to immediate removal by the Governor upon the written recommendation of the entire Lee County Legislative Delegation and any such purchase or expenditure in excess of the sums so appropriated shall not be an obligation of Lee County and be null and void.

No. 1335

An Act Providing For The Creation Of Watershed Conservation Districts In Lexington County; The Election Of Directors, Their Powers And Duties; A Levy Of Taxes For The Organization And Administration Of The Districts And The Construction, Operation And Maintenance Of Works Of Improvement Within The Districts.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of South Carolina :

SECTION 1. Definitions.—Whenever used or referred to in this act, unless a different meaning clearly appears from the context:

(1) "Watershed conservation district" means a governmental subdivision of this State and a public body corporate and politic, organized in accordance with the provisions of this act, for the purposes, with the powers and subject to the restrictions hereinafter set forth.

(2) "Director" means one of the members of the governing body of a watershed conservation district, elected in accordance with the provisions of this act.

(3) "Supervisor" means one of the members of the governing body of the Lexington Soil Conservation District in which any part of a watershed conservation district is situated.

(4) "Petition" means a petition filed under the provisions of Section 4 of this act for the creation of a watershed conservation district.

(5) "County" means Lexington County of South Carolina.

(6) "Landowner" or "owner of land" includes any person, firm or corporation who shall hold legal or equitable title to any lands lying within a watershed conservation district organized under the provisions of this act.

(7) "Due notice" means notice published at least twice, with an interval of at least one week between the two publication dates, in a publication of general circulation within the appropriate area, or, if no such publication of general circulation is available, notice posted at a reasonable number of conspicuous places within the appropriate area, such posting to include, where possible, posting at public places where it is customary to post notices concerning county or municipal affairs generally.

SECTION 2. Watershed conservation districts may be formed in Lexington County.—Authority is hereby granted to form watershed conservation districts within Lexington County for the purpose of developing and executing plans and programs relating to any phase of the control and prevention of soil erosion, flood prevention or the conservation, development, utilization and disposal of water.

SECTION 3. Area.—The area embraced in a watershed conservation district must be contiguous and must lie within a well-defined watershed and such area shall not include lands located within the boundary of any incorporated city or town, or lands embraced in another watershed conservation district.

SECTION 4. Petition for formation.—When twenty-five or more landowners within a proposed watershed conservation district, or, if less than fifty landowners are involved, a majority of such landowners, desire to form a watershed conservation district, they shall file a petition with the supervisors of the soil conservation district asking that a watershed conservation district be organized to function in the area described in the petition. Such petition shall set forth the proposed name of the watershed conservation district; that there is need, in the interest of the public health, safety and welfare, for a watershed conservation district to function in the territory described in the petition; a description of the territory proposed to be organized as a watershed conservation district, which description need not be given by metes and bounds or by legal subdivisions, but shall be deemed sufficient if generally accurate; and the approximate number of acres of land included in the proposed watershed conservation district.

SECTION 5. Hearing on petition.—(1) Within thirty days after such petition has been filed with the supervisors of the soil conservation district, they shall cause due notice to be given of a hearing upon the question of the desirability and necessity, in the interest of the public health, safety and welfare, of the creation of such watershed conservation district. All interested parties shall have the right to attend such hearing and to be heard. If it shall appear at the hearing that other lands should be included in the petition or that lands included in the petition should be excluded, the supervisors shall permit such inclusion or exclusion, provided the land area involved still meets the requirements of Section 3 of this act.

(2) If it appears upon the hearing that it may be desirable to include within the proposed watershed conservation district territory outside of the area within which due notice of the hearing has been given, the hearing shall be adjourned and due notice of a further hearing shall be given throughout the entire area considered for inclusion in the proposed watershed conservation district, and such further hearing shall be held. After final hearing, if the supervisors of the soil conservation district determine, upon the facts presented at the hearing and upon other available information, that there is need, in the interest of the public health, safety and welfare, for a watershed conservation district to function in the territory considered at the hearing, they shall make and record such determination and shall define the area, but the description need not be given by metes and bounds. The description shall be deemed sufficient if generally accurate and the approximate number of acres of land included in the proposed watershed conservation district is shown.

(3) If the supervisors of the soil conservation district determine after such hearing that there is no need for a watershed conservation district to function in the territory considered at the hearing, they shall make and record such determination and shall deny the petition.

SECTION 6. Referendum.—After the supervisors of the soil conservation district have made and recorded a determination that there is need, in the interest of the public health, safety and welfare, for a watershed conservation district to function in the territory considered at the hearing and have defined the boundaries thereof, they shall consider the question whether the operation of a watershed conservation district within the proposed boundaries with the powers conferred upon it by this act is administratively practicable and feasible. To assist the supervisors in making this determination, they shall, within a reasonable time after the entry of a finding that there is need for the organization of a watershed conservation district and the determination of the boundaries thereof, hold a referendum within the proposed watershed conservation district upon the proposition of the creation of the watershed conservation district. Due notice of the referendum shall be given by the supervisors. Such notice shall state the date of holding the referendum, the hours of opening and closing the polls and shall designate one or more places within the proposed watershed conservation district as polling places and shall give notice that the directors shall have the power of eminent domain. The supervisors shall have full charge of the referendum and shall have suitable ballots printed and furnished to each polling place; appoint necessary box managers and other referendum officials, and shall canvass the ballots and announce the results. The cost of holding the referendum shall be paid from the general fund of Lexington County. Provided, that notwithstanding any provision of law to the contrary the power of eminent domain shall not be exercised over the protest of any landowner until it is conclusively established that the land proposed to be condemned is absolutely essential to the creation and operation of the watershed conservation district.

SECTION 7. Question.—The question to be voted on shall be submitted by ballots upon which appear the words:

“For creation of Watershed Conservation District”

“Against creation of Watershed Conservation District”

A square shall follow each proposition. The ballot shall contain a direction to insert an “X” mark in the square following one or the other of the propositions as the voter may favor or oppose creation of the watershed conservation district. The ballot shall set forth the boundaries of the proposed watershed conservation district as determined by the supervisors of the soil conservation district. The qualified electors of the district shall be eligible to vote in the referendum. Qualified voters may vote by absentee ballot in the referendum under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the supervisors. No informalities in the conduct of the referendum or in any matters relating thereto shall invalidate the referendum or the result thereof if notice of the referendum shall have been given substantially as herein provided and the referendum shall have been fairly conducted.

SECTION 8. Results—district to be created if results and determination favorable.—The votes shall be counted by the referendum officials at the close of the polls and a report of the results along with the ballots shall be delivered and certified to the supervisors of the soil conservation district; and thereafter the supervisors shall determine whether the operation of the watershed conservation district within the defined boundaries is administratively practicable and feasible. If the supervisors determine that the operation of such district is not administratively practicable and feasible, they shall record such determination and deny the petition. If the supervisors determine that the operation of such district is administratively practicable and feasible, they shall record such determination and shall proceed with the organization of such district in the manner hereinafter set forth; provided, however, that the supervisors shall not have authority to determine that the operation of such district is administratively practicable and feasible unless at least a majority of the votes cast in the referendum upon the proposition of the creation of such district shall have been cast in favor of the creation of such district. If the supervisors shall determine that the operation of such district is administratively practicable and feasible, they shall certify such determination to the Clerk of Court of Lexington County, the Code Commissioner and the Secretary of State. Upon proper recordation of such determination, such watershed conservation district shall constitute a governmental subdivision of this State and a public body corporate and politic. After being recorded, such certification shall be filed with the State Soil Conservation Committee.

SECTION 9. Board of directors to govern district—nominating petitions — election — ballots — terms — officers — bond of treasurer.—(1) The governing body of the watershed conservation district shall consist of five directors, elected as provided herein.

(2) Within thirty days after a watershed conservation district has been created, nominating petitions may be filed with the supervisors of the soil conservation district to nominate candidates for directors of the watershed conservation district. No such nominating petition shall be accepted by the supervisors unless it is signed by twenty-five or more landowners within the watershed conservation district, or, if less than fifty landowners are involved, by a majority of such landowners. If the candidates nominated do not exceed the number of directors to be chosen, the supervisors shall declare them to be elected. No person shall be eligible to be a director of a watershed conservation district who is not a landowner in the watershed conservation district in which he seeks election.

(3) If the candidates nominated for directors of the watershed conservation district exceed the number of directors to be chosen, the supervisors of the soil conservation district shall, after having given due notice thereof, cause an election to be held within the watershed conservation district within a reasonable time after the expiration of the nominating period. The provisions of Sections 5, 6 and 7 of this act as to notice, qualifications of voters, absentee voting, and the manner of holding the referendum in organizing a watershed conservation district shall apply, insofar as practicable, to the election of the directors. The names of all qualified nominees shall be printed in alphabetical order upon ballots with a square before each name and a direction to insert an "X" mark in the square before any five names to indicate the voter's preference. The qualified electors of the district shall be eligible to vote in the election. The five candidates who shall receive the largest number respectively of the votes cast in the election shall be the directors of the watershed conservation district and shall, upon the supervision of the supervisors of the soil conservation district, be the governing body of the watershed conservation district.

(4) Of the directors first elected, the two receiving the largest number of votes shall serve for terms of four years, the two receiving the next largest number of votes shall serve for terms of three years, and the one receiving the next largest number of votes shall serve for a term of two years. The term of office of each of their successors shall be for four years. Any vacancy shall be filled for the unexpired term as provided to original directors.

(5) The directors shall annually designate from among their number a chairman, secretary and treasurer. The treasurer shall execute an official bond for the faithful performance of the duties of his office, to be approved by the directors. Such bond shall be executed by a surety company authorized to do business in this State and shall be in an amount determined by the directors. The premium on each bond shall be paid by the watershed conservation district.

SECTION 10. District to be corporate body—powers and duties.—A watershed conservation district organized under the provisions of this act shall constitute a governmental subdivision of this State, and a public body corporate and politic, exercising public powers, and such district and the directors thereof shall, subject to the approval of the supervisors of the soil conservation district, have the following powers, in addition to others granted in other sections of this act:

An Act To Authorize The Governing Body Of McCormick County To Borrow Not Exceeding One Hundred Fifty Thousand Dollars For The Construction Of County Roads; To Provide That The Roads Shall Be Constructed By The State Highway Department Pursuant To A Contract Of Reimbursement To Be Made Between The Governing Body And The State Highway Department; And To Provide For The Payment Of The Loan.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of South Carolina :

SECTION 1. Findings of General Assembly.—The General Assembly finds that by Section 65-1075 of the 1962 Code provision was made for the continuance of the so-called Farm-to-Market or State Secondary Highway program for the period to end June 30, 1972, and that it was therein provided the method by which funds available for such purpose should be apportioned among the counties of the State.

In McCormick County it has been determined that an immediate need exists for further Farm-to-Market roads, and that the Governing Body of McCormick County (the board) should be empowered to borrow not exceeding one hundred fifty thousand dollars and to make such sum available to the State Highway Department which, in turn, should apply it to the construction of the most-needed county roads in McCormick County, which have been transferred to and become a part of the State's Secondary Highway System (Farm-to-Market roads).

SECTION 2. McCormick County may borrow money—conditions.—If a suitable agreement can be reached between the board and the State Highway Department providing that the State Highway Department shall construct Farm-to-Market roads in McCormick County to an extent mutually agreed upon and divert moneys which would otherwise be expended in future years for Farm-to-Market roads in McCormick County, to the extent estimated to be necessary to meet the payment of the principle of the obligation herein authorized, the board is authorized to borrow one hundred fifty thousand dollars which shall be repaid in six equal, successive, annual instalments, with interest at a rate to be agreed upon by the board and the lender, the first annual instalment to become due and payable not later than October 1, 1967.

SECTION 3. Issuance of notes.—Notes issued pursuant to this act shall be in such denominations and form as the board shall approve, shall be executed as the board shall prescribe, and may be subject to redemption as the board shall determine. The notes and the interest thereon shall have the tax-exempt status prescribed by Section 65-4.1 of the 1962 Code.

SECTION 4. Payment.—For the payment of the principal and interest of the note issued pursuant to this act, the full faith, credit and taxing power of McCormick County, shall be irrevocably pledged, and there shall be levied annually by the Auditor of McCormick County, and collected by the Treasurer of McCormick County, in the same manner as county taxes are levied and collected, a tax without limit, on all taxable property in McCormick County, sufficient to pay the principal and interest on the note as it becomes due and to create such sinking fund as may be necessary therefor; provided, that the ad valorem tax levy shall be reduced to the extent that there has been paid to the county treasurer by the State Highway Department moneys pursuant to the reimbursement agreement herein authorized, on the occasion in each year when the ad valorem tax levy is to be made, and in all instances where an annual tax levy is so reduced, the moneys received from the reimbursement agreement shall be applied to the payment of such principal and to no other purpose.

SECTION 5. Proceeds.—The proceeds derived from any note issued pursuant to this act shall be paid to the McCormick County Treasurer, and shall be deposited in a special account and shall be first applied to the expenses incident to issuance of the note and so much as remains thereafter shall be turned over to the State Highway Department and applied by it on Farm-to-Market roads in McCormick County.

SECTION 6. Highway Department may reimburse McCormick County.—The State Highway Department is hereby authorized to reimburse McCormick County for all moneys turned over to it by McCormick County pursuant to this act. This reimbursement shall be made in annual instalments (in amounts not exceeding the annual debt service on the obligation) out of the apportionment of funds accruing to McCormick County under the State Highway Department's Farm-to-Market Construction Program and by reason of the statute, if so much thereof shall accrue to McCormick County. The State Highway Department shall not be obligated to the repayment to McCormick County for any instalment due under its reimbursement agreement unless sufficient amounts for the instalments shall accrue to McCormick County under the state Farm-to-Market Construction Program. The State Highway Department shall not be required to pay any interest to McCormick County for funds turned over to the department pursuant to the provisions of this act. If, during any year, the apportionment to which McCormick County is entitled exceeds the sum required to meet the annual instalment of principal or interest of the note in that year, then the excess shall be applied by the State Highway Department as if no reimbursement agreement had been entered into.

SECTION 7. Powers to be additional.—The powers and authorizations conferred upon the board and the State Highway Department shall be in addition to all other powers and authorizations previously vested in them.

In emergency cases, the county board of public welfare is directed to make an investigation of the applicant even though he or she may have already been admitted to the hospital or discharged therefrom, and if it is finally determined that such emergency case is entitled to assistance hereunder, the county board of public welfare is hereby directed to approve same.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of South Carolina :

SECTION 1. Definitions.—Whenever used or referred to in this act, unless a different meaning clearly appears from the context :

(1) "Watershed conservation district" means a governmental subdivision of this State and a public body corporate and politic, organized in accordance with the provisions of this act, for the purposes, with the powers and subject to the restrictions hereinafter set forth.

(2) "Director" means one of the members of the governing body of a watershed conservation district elected in accordance with the provisions of this act.

(3) "Supervisor" means one of the members of the governing body of the Marlboro Soil Conservation District in which any part of a watershed conservation district is situated.

(4) "Petition" means a petition filed under the provisions of Section 4 of this act for the creation of a watershed conservation district.

(5) "County" means Marlboro County of South Carolina.

(6) "Landowner" or "owner of land" includes any person, firm or corporation who shall hold legal or equitable title to any lands lying within a watershed conservation district organized under the provisions of this act.

(7) "Due notice" means notice published at least twice, with an interval of at least one week between the two publication dates, in a publication of general circulation within the appropriate area, or, if no such publication of general circulation be available, notice posted at a reasonable number of conspicuous places within the appropriate area, such posting to include, where possible, posting at public places where it is customary to post notices concerning county or municipal affairs generally.

SECTION 2. Watershed conservation districts may be formed in Marlboro County.—Authority is hereby granted to form watershed conservation districts within Marlboro County for the purpose of developing and executing plans and programs relating to any phase of the control and prevention of soil erosion, flood prevention or the conservation, development, utilization and disposal of water.

SECTION 3. Area.—The area embraced in a watershed conservation district must be contiguous and must lie within a well-defined watershed; and such area shall not include lands located within the boundary of any incorporated city or town, or lands embraced in another watershed conservation district.

SECTION 4. Petition for formation.—When twenty-five or more landowners within a proposed watershed conservation district, or, if less than fifty landowners are involved, a majority of such landowners, desire to form a watershed conservation district, they shall file a petition with the supervisors of the soil conservation district asking that a watershed conservation district be organized to function in the area described in the petition. Such petition shall set forth the proposed name of the watershed conservation district; that there is need, in the interest of the public health, safety and welfare, for a watershed conservation district to function in the territory described in the petition; a description of the territory proposed to be organized as a watershed conservation district, which description need not be given by metes and bounds or by legal subdivisions, but shall be deemed sufficient if generally accurate; and the approximate number of acres of land included in the proposed watershed conservation district.

SECTION 5. Hearing upon petition.—(1) Within thirty days after such petition has been filed with the supervisors of the soil conservation district, they shall cause due notice to be given of a hearing upon the question of the desirability and necessity, in the interest of the public health, safety and welfare, of the creation of such watershed conservation district. All interested parties shall have the right to attend such hearing and to be heard. If it shall appear at the hearing that other lands should be included in the petition or that lands included in the petition should be excluded, the supervisors shall permit such inclusion or exclusion, provided the land area involved still meets the requirements of Section 3 of this act.

(2) If it appears upon the hearing that it may be desirable to include within the proposed watershed conservation district territory outside of the area within which due notice of the hearing has been given, the hearing shall be adjourned and due notice of a further hearing shall be given throughout the entire area considered for inclusion in the proposed watershed conservation district, and such further hearing shall be held. After final hearing, if the supervisors of the soil conservation district determine, upon the facts presented at the hearing and upon other available information, that there is need, in the interest of the public health, safety and welfare, for a watershed conservation district to function in the territory considered at the hearing, they shall make and record such determination, and shall define the area, but the description need not be given by metes and bounds. The description shall be deemed sufficient if generally accurate and the approximate number of acres of land included in the proposed watershed conservation district is shown.

(3) If the supervisors of the soil conservation district determine after such hearing that there is no need for a watershed conservation district to function in the territory considered at the hearing, they shall make and record such determination and shall deny the petition.

SECTION 6. Referendum.—After the supervisors of the soil conservation district have made and recorded a determination that there is need, in the interest of the public health, safety and welfare, for a watershed conservation district to function in the territory considered at the hearing, and have defined the boundaries thereof, they shall consider the question whether the operation of a watershed conservation district within the proposed boundaries with the powers conferred upon it by this act is administratively practicable and feasible. To assist the supervisors in making this determination, they shall, within a reasonable time after the entry of a finding that there is need for the organization of a watershed conservation district and the determination of the boundaries thereof, hold a referendum within the proposed watershed conservation district upon the proposition of the creation of the watershed conservation district. Due notice of the referendum shall be given by the supervisors. Such notice shall state the date of holding the referendum, the hours of opening and closing the polls, and shall designate one or more places within the proposed watershed conservation district as polling places and shall give notice that the directors shall have the power of eminent domain. The supervisors shall have full charge of the referendum and shall have suitable ballots printed and furnished to each polling place; appoint necessary box managers and other referendum officials, and shall canvass the ballots and announce the results. The cost of holding the referendum shall be paid from the general fund of Marlboro County. Provided, that notwithstanding any provision of law to the contrary the power of eminent domain shall not be exercised over the protest of any landowner until it is conclusively established that the land proposed to be condemned is absolutely essential to the creation and operation of the watershed conservation district.

SECTION 7. Question.—The question to be voted on shall be submitted by ballots upon which appear the words:

“For creation of _____ Watershed Conservation District”

“Against creation of _____ Watershed Conservation District”

A square shall follow each proposition. The ballot shall contain a direction to insert an “X” mark in the square following one or the other of the propositions as the voter may favor or oppose creation of the watershed conservation district. The ballot shall set forth the boundaries of the proposed watershed conservation district as determined by the supervisors of the soil conservation district. The qualified electors of the district shall be eligible to vote in the referendum. Qualified voters may vote by absentee ballot in the referendum under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the supervisors. No informalities in the conduct of the referendum or in any matters relating thereto shall invalidate the referendum or the result thereof if notice of the referendum shall have been given substantially as herein provided and the referendum shall have been fairly conducted.

SECTION 8. Results—district to be created if results and determination favorable.—The votes shall be counted by the referendum officials at the close of the polls and a report of the results along with the ballots shall be delivered and certified to the supervisors of the soil conservation district; and thereafter the supervisors shall determine whether the operation of the watershed conservation district within the defined boundaries is administratively practicable and feasible. If the supervisors determine that the operation of such district is not administratively practicable and feasible, they shall record such determination and deny the petition. If the supervisors determine that the operation of such district is administratively practicable and feasible, they shall record such determination and shall proceed with the organization of such district in the manner hereinafter set forth; provided, however, that the supervisors shall not have authority to determine that the operation of such district is administratively practicable and feasible unless at least a majority of the votes cast in the referendum upon the proposition of the creation of such district shall have been cast in favor of the creation of such district. If the supervisors shall determine that the operation of such district is administratively practicable and feasible, they shall certify such determination to the Clerk of Court of Marlboro County, the Code Commissioner and the Secretary of State. Upon proper recordation of such determination, such watershed conservation district shall constitute a governmental subdivision of this State and a public body corporate and politic. After being recorded, such certification shall be filed with the State Soil Conservation Committee.

SECTION 9. Board of directors to govern district—nominating petitions—election—ballots—terms—officers—bond of treasurer.

—(1) The governing body of the watershed conservation district shall consist of five directors, elected as provided herein.

(2) Within thirty days after a watershed conservation district has been created, nominating petitions may be filed with the supervisors of the soil conservation district to nominate candidates of the watershed conservation district for directors. No such nominating petition shall be accepted by the supervisors unless it is signed by twenty-five or more landowners within the watershed conservation district, or, if less than fifty landowners are involved, by a majority of such landowners. If the candidates nominated do not exceed the number of directors to be chosen, the supervisors shall declare them to be elected. No person shall be eligible to be a director of a watershed conservation district who is not a landowner in the watershed conservation district in which he seeks election.

(3) If the candidates nominated for directors of the watershed conservation district exceed the number of directors to be chosen, the supervisors of the soil conservation district shall, after having given due notice thereof, cause an election to be held within the watershed conservation district within a reasonable time after the expiration of the nominating period. The provisions of Sections 5, 6 and 7 of this act as to notice, qualifications of voters, absentee voting and the manner of holding the referendum in organizing a watershed conservation district, shall apply insofar as practicable to the election of the directors. The names of all qualified nominees shall be printed in alphabetical order upon ballots with a square before each name and a direction to insert an "X" mark in the square before any five names to indicate the voter's preference. The qualified electors of the district shall be eligible to vote in the election. The five candidates who shall receive the largest number respectively of the votes cast in the election shall be the directors of the watershed conservation district, and shall, upon the supervision of the supervisors of the soil conservation district, be the governing body of the watershed conservation district.

(4) Of the directors first elected, the two receiving the largest number of votes shall serve for terms of four years, the two receiving the next largest number of votes shall serve for terms of three years, and the one receiving the next largest number of votes shall serve for a term of two years. The term of office of each of their successors shall be for four years. Any vacancy shall be filled for the unexpired term as provided for the original directors.

(5) The directors shall annually designate from among their number a chairman, secretary and treasurer. The treasurer shall execute an official bond for the faithful performance of the duties of his office, to be approved by the directors. Such bond shall be executed by a surety company authorized to do business in this State and shall be in an amount determined by the directors. The premium on each bond shall be paid by the watershed conservation district.

SECTION 10. District to be corporate body—powers and duties.

—A watershed conservation district organized under the provisions of this act shall constitute a governmental subdivision of this State, and a public body corporate and politic, exercising public powers, and such district and the directors thereof shall, subject to the approval of the supervisors of the soil conservation district, have the following powers, in addition to others granted in other sections of this act:

(1) To acquire, by purchase, exchange, lease, gift, grant, bequest, devise, or otherwise, or through condemnation proceedings in the manner provided in Sections 25-101 through 25-140 and Sections 33-121 through 33-148, Code of Laws of South Carolina, 1962, such lands, easements, or rights-of-way as are needed to carry out any authorized purpose of the watershed conservation district; and to sell, lease, or otherwise dispose of any of its property or interests therein in furtherance of the purposes and provisions of this act;

(2) To construct, reconstruct, repair, enlarge, improve, operate, and maintain such works of improvement as may be necessary or convenient for the performance of any of the operations authorized by this act;

(3) To borrow money and to execute promissory notes and other evidences of debt in connection therewith for payment of the costs and expenses of organizing the watershed conservation district for carrying out any authorized purpose of such district, and if promissory notes are issued, to execute such mortgages on any property owned by such district, or assign or pledge such revenues or assessments of such district as may be required by the lender as security for the repayment of the loan; and to issue, negotiate and sell its bonds as provided in Section 11 of this act;

(4) To levy an annual tax on the real property within the district subject to the limitations provided in Section 13 of this act for payment of the costs and expenses of organizing the watershed conservation district or for carrying out any authorized purpose of such district. Such levy shall be made only after approval by the supervisors of the soil conservation district and the county legislative delegation and upon notifying the county auditor.

SECTION 11. Bonds not to be issued unless referendum held.—

(1) Bonds authorized by Section 10 of this act shall not be issued until proposed by order or resolution of the directors of the watershed conservation district, specifying the purpose for which the funds are to be used and the proposed undertaking, the amount of bonds to be issued, the rate of interest they are to bear, and the amount of any necessary tax levy in excess of the maximum authorized in Section 13 of this act. A copy of the order or resolution shall be certified to the supervisors of the soil conservation district.

(2) The supervisors shall hold a hearing on such proposal after having given due notice. If it appears that the proposal is within the scope and purpose of this act and meets all other requirements of the law, the proposal shall be submitted to the qualified electors of the district by a referendum held by the supervisors.

(3) The provisions of Sections 5, 6 and 7 of this act as to notice, qualifications of voters, absentee voting, and manner of holding the referendum in organizing a watershed conservation district shall apply to the referendum held under this section.

(4) If two-thirds of the votes cast in such referendum favor the proposal, the directors shall, with the approval of the supervisors, be authorized to issue such bonds.

SECTION 12. Compensation.—The directors of the watershed conservation district shall receive no compensation for their services but they may be reimbursed for expenses, including traveling expenses, necessarily incurred in the performance of their duties as approved by the supervisors of the soil conservation district.

SECTION 13. Budget—tax levy.—Within the first quarter of each calendar year, the directors of the watershed conservation district shall prepare an itemized budget of the funds needed for administration of the watershed conservation district and for construction, operation and maintenance of works of improvements. After approval of such budget by the supervisors of the soil conservation district, the county auditor shall levy a tax sufficient to meet such budget on all real property within the watershed conservation district at a sufficient rate to cover the annual cost of maintenance of watershed as stated in the official work plan on each dollar of assessed valuation, except that this limitation shall not apply to any levy necessary to provide a sinking fund for the retirement of bonds authorized by Section 11 of this act. A copy of such budget shall be certified to the Auditor of Marlboro County.

SECTION 14. List of landowners and acres subject to assessment.—(1) The directors of the watershed conservation district with the assistance of the county auditor shall prepare a list of the landowners involved showing the number of acres subject to assessment.

(2) When the property tax rolls are delivered to the county treasurer by the county auditor, as required by law, the county treasurer shall compute the tax due the watershed conservation district from each landowner in accordance with the rate fixed by the directors and the value of the real property indicated on the tax roll. The computation shall be made on the regular tax bills.

SECTION 15. Collection of taxes.—(1) The county treasurer shall collect the taxes due the watershed conservation district at the same time and in the same manner as he collects other taxes of the county.

(2) The taxes shall be subject to the same due and delinquency dates, discounts, penalties and interest as are applied to the collection of county taxes.

SECTION 16. Expenditures.—Tax funds collected shall be transferred to and held by the treasurer of the watershed conservation district for the specific purpose for which they have been collected. All expenditures of such funds shall be made by the directors of the watershed conservation district with the approval of the supervisors of the soil conservation district.

SECTION 17. Petition to have lands detached.—The owners of lands which have not been, are not and cannot be benefited by their inclusion in the watershed conservation district may petition the supervisors of the soil conservation district to have such lands detached. The petition shall describe such lands and state the reasons why they should be detached. A hearing shall be held by the supervisors within thirty days after the petition is filed and due notice of such hearing shall be given by the supervisors. If it is determined by the supervisors that such lands shall be detached, such determination shall be certified to the Auditor of Marlboro County for recording. After being recorded, the certification shall be filed with the State Soil Conservation Committee.

SECTION 18. The petition shall state the reasons for discontinuance, and that all obligations of the watershed conservation district have been met. The supervisors may conduct such hearings upon the petition as may be necessary to assist them in the consideration thereof.

(2) Within sixty days after petition has been filed with the supervisors they shall give due notice of the holding of a referendum. SECTION 2. The Board of County Highway Commissioners and all other officers of Marlboro County are requested and directed to be economical in the expenditure of all public funds, and to keep the expense below the appropriations when practicable and consistent with public requirements, and no unused appropriated fund shall be carried forward for the particular use in the succeeding year, but shall be transferred to the contingent fund provided for in this section. In no case shall the expenditure exceed the appropriation for any purpose; provided, that out of the surplus contingent fund are to be paid all necessary expenses for which no specific appropriation was made herein, and for unavoidable expenses in excess of the appropriations for any purpose. No officer, agent or employee of Marlboro County shall contract any debt for any purpose, or expend any sums in excess of the appropriations in this act provided for such specific purpose, and for any and all violations thereof they, and their bondsmen, shall be jointly and severally liable. Any officer, agent or employee shall be personally liable for any such debt contracted.

SECTION 3. All funds herein appropriated for Marlboro County Agricultural and Development Board shall be expended pursuant to the direction and authorization of the board.

SECTION 4. The sheriff of the county shall have the right, whenever he considers such necessary, to call in the county attorney to prosecute before any magistrate in any and all cases; the fee of the county attorney is to be approved and paid by the county commissioners. Provided, however, that no more than three hundred dollars shall be expended pursuant to this section.

SECTION 5. The sheriff of the county is hereby directed to so regulate the movement and activities of the rural policemen that all sections of the county shall enjoy the protection of the law without favor and without neglect.

The protection of all school property is hereby made a special mission of the sheriff and his force. He is particularly directed to so regulate the enforcement of the law as to protect school property from injury, theft and destruction; and to enforce the law against plowing in the roads. The contingent fund and uniform appropriation of one thousand five hundred dollars hereinabove made shall be expended by the Sheriff of Marlboro County for the enforcement of law and purchase of uniforms for county officers.

SECTION 6. The County Board of Highway Commissioners of Marlboro County is hereby declared to be the sole financial and purchasing agent of Marlboro County, and when any officer or board of the county desires new equipment or supplies, or replacement, or extraordinary service in connection with his or their office, or desires that any expenditure be made, or expense be incurred in regard to his or their office, whether specifically appropriated in this act or not, or desires to make any purchase or incur any expense, he shall file his request for same, in writing, with the County Board of Highway Commissioners, who shall make such purchase in accordance with provisions herein made. The Duke Foundation payment for charity work of one dollar per day is to be deducted from the amount of twenty-two dollars and forty-six cents, leaving twenty-one dollars and forty-six cents per charity patient to be paid by the county. These conditions and provisions are to be interpreted and enforced as meaning that when the Duke Endowment gives one dollar for charity work, the county will give twenty-one dollars and forty-six cents, not to exceed in total amount the sum of fourteen thousand five hundred dollars for the year 1966-1967. County funds shall be available only to match in this way funds coming from the Duke Foundation for charity beds, and shall be paid only in cases approved as charity cases by the Duke Foundation. The board of county commissioners is authorized and directed to prepare and have printed for use by the patient and hospital management forms and blanks for making the above-mentioned certified statements. Provided, further, that the charity patients referred to must be citizens of Marlboro County.

SECTION 14. The county supervisor shall be the executive head of the county board of highway commissioners; but each member of the board of county highway commissioners shall have equal authority and the board shall at each monthly meeting provide for and set out generally the work to be done the following month on the county road system.

SECTION 15. The county commissioners are hereby authorized and empowered to borrow money for county purposes in anticipation of collection of taxes and to pledge such taxes when collected, as well as the full faith and credit of Marlboro County, for its repayment, upon the written approval of the legislative delegation. No amount shall be borrowed in excess of anticipated taxes.

SECTION 16. The funds appropriated and set aside in this act shall be used only for the purposes set forth herein. In the event funds are used for items for which they were not appropriated, all officers, agents or employees who take part in or have anything whatsoever to do with the transfer or use of such funds shall be deemed guilty of malfeasance in office and subject to removal at once by the Governor of the State of South Carolina, or by the proper officials of Marlboro County. ceeds May Be Expended; And To Make Provision For Repayment.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of South Carolina:

SECTION 1. Findings of General Assembly.—The General Assembly finds that the continued growth of the population in the School District No. 2 of Richland County makes it mandatory that additional public school facilities be provided for the district, and that the cost, to be borne by the district, should be raised by an issue of general obligation bonds. The General Assembly has, therefore, determined to empower the board of trustees of such district (hereinafter called the “trustees”) to provide additional public school facilities for the district and raise therefor the sum of eight hundred thousand dollars through the sale of the bonds authorized by this act.

SECTION 2. Bond issue authorized.—The trustees are hereby empowered to issue general obligation bonds of the district in the aggregate principal amount of not exceeding eight hundred thousand dollars and to apply the proceeds of such bonds to the purposes prescribed by this act.

SECTION 3. Maturity.—All bonds issued pursuant to this act shall mature in such annual series or instalments as the trustees shall provide, except that the first maturing bonds of any issue shall mature not later than three years from the date as of which they shall be issued; not less than two per cent of any issue shall mature in any year; and no bond shall mature later than twenty-five years from the date as of which it shall be issued.

SECTION 4. Redemption.—Any bond issued pursuant to this act may be issued with a provision for its redemption prior to its stated maturity at par and accrued interest, plus such redemption premium as may be prescribed by the trustees, but no bond shall be redeemable before maturity unless it contains a statement to that effect. In the proceedings authorizing the issuance of such bonds, provision shall be made specifying the manner of call and the notice that must be given.

SECTION 5. Form.—The bonds shall be in the form of negotiable coupon bonds, payable to bearer, but may be issued with the privilege to any holder of having them registered as to principal on the books of the Treasurer of Richland County, upon such condition as the trustees may prescribe. Except when so registered, all bonds shall have all attributes of negotiable instruments under the law merchant and the negotiable instruments law.

SECTION 6. Where payable.—The bonds shall be made payable at such places, within or without the State, as the trustees shall prescribe, and shall bear such interest as may be determined by the trustees.

SECTION 8. Sale.—The bonds shall be sold at a price of not less than par and accrued interest to the date of their respective deliveries. In such event the published notice shall appear not less than ten days prior to the occasion set for opening bids.

SECTION 9. Payment.—For the payment of the principal and interest of all bonds issued pursuant to this act, as they respectively mature, and for the creation of such sinking fund as may be necessary therefor, the full faith, credit and taxing power of the district shall be irrevocably pledged, and there shall be levied annually by the Auditor, and collected by the Treasurer of Richland County, in the same manner as county taxes, a tax without limit, on all taxable property in the district, sufficient to pay the principal and interest of such bonds as they respectively mature and to create such sinking fund as may be necessary therefor.

SECTION 10. Exempt from taxes.—The principal and interest of bonds issued pursuant to this act shall have the tax exempt status prescribed by Section 65-4.1 of the 1962 Code.

SECTION 12. Powers to be additional.—The powers hereby conferred upon the trustees are in addition to all others previously vested in them.

The amount borrowed shall be evidenced by notes to be executed by each member of the Board of Trustees of School District No. 2 of Richland County and by the Treasurer of Richland County. The notes shall bear interest at not exceeding four per cent per annum from the date thereof, interest to be paid annually, and shall be payable in three equal, annual installments with the right to anticipate payment thereof at any annual interest paying period.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of South Carolina:

SECTION 1. Findings of General Assembly.—The General Assembly finds that if the City of Columbia is to be permitted to undertake urban renewal programs, it is necessary that Section 17 of Article I of the Constitution be amended in such fashion as to authorize the City of Columbia to acquire private property for such purposes, inasmuch as without such specific authorization the provisions of Section 17 of Article I relating to taking of private property, as construed by the Supreme Court of South Carolina in the case of Edens vs. City of Columbia, decided January 30, 1956 and reported in 228 S.C., page 563, 91 S.E. 2d 280, do not now authorize such action. Accordingly, the General Assembly proposes to submit to the qualified electors of the State at the next general election the question of whether Section 17 of Article I of the State Constitution should be amended in such fashion as to permit the City of Columbia to acquire private property in order to undertake a program of urban renewal within the corporate limits of such city as now or hereafter constituted.

SECTION 2. Amendment to Article I, Section 17, State Constitution, proposed—City of Columbia may undertake slum clearance and redevelopment—eminent domain.—It is proposed that Section 17 of Article I of the Constitution of South Carolina, 1895, be amended by adding at the end thereof the following: "Provided, that the City of Columbia may, pursuant to statutory law, now existing or hereafter enacted, and acting through its city council or through any housing or redevelopment authority, now or hereafter established, subject to the approval of city council, undertake and carry out slum clearance and redevelopment work in areas which are predominantly slum or blighted, the preparation of such areas for re-use, and the sale or other disposition of such areas to private enterprise for private uses or to public bodies for public uses, and to that end may exercise the power of eminent domain as to any property essential to the plan of slum clearance and redevelopment. Provided, further, that just compensation be paid for all property and property rights so taken. In cases of condemnation of land, where reuse is for private purposes, on which is located main underground subway systems, interstate toll lines, transmission lines, tranformer vaults or railroad main line trackage, the total compensation to the public utility or railroad shall be the reasonable expense incurred in relocation of the systems, lines, vaults or trackage."

SECTION 3. Submission to electors.—The proposed amendment shall be submitted to the qualified electors at the next general election for representatives. Ballots shall be provided at the various voting precincts with the following words printed or written thereon:

"Shall Section 17 of Article I of the Constitution of South Carolina, 1895, be amended so as to permit the use of the power of eminent domain by the City of Columbia or housing or redevelopment authorities functioning in the City of Columbia, subject to the approval of city council, for the purpose of slum clearance and redevelopment work in areas within the corporate limits of the City of Columbia which are predominantly slum or blighted, in order to acquire and clear such areas, to prepare them for re-use and for sale or other disposition to private enterprise for private purposes or to public bodies for public purposes and to require that just compensation be paid for property and property rights taken pursuant to such use of the power of eminent domain?

No. 1381

An Act To Further Define The Powers Of The Jackson-Gills Creek Public Service Commission And To Authorize And Empower The Commission To Issue Not Exceeding Three Million Dollars Of General Obligation Bonds Of The District; To Prescribe The Terms And Conditions Under Which The Bonds May Be Issued And The Purposes For Which Their Proceeds May Be Expended, And To Make Provision For The Payment Of The Bonds.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of South Carolina:

SECTION 1. Findings of General Assembly.—Jackson-Gills Creek Public Service District (the district) is a special purpose district in Richland County, with boundaries as set forth in Act No. 1203 of 1962. The district was created by Act No. 1114 of 1960, as amended by Acts 634 of 1961 and 1203 of 1962. Its functions are performed by the Jackson-Gills Creek Public Service Commission (the commission). The district was formed following a finding that its population was such that public sewage disposal facilities were necessary, and there was committed to the district the function of preserving the public health of the district through the means of providing sewage disposal facilities. The commission, as the governing agency of the district, has all of the powers prescribed by the acts above recited and has, in addition thereto, powers generally conferred upon special districts by the general law of South Carolina.

Pursuant to the powers vested in it, the commission has undertaken the construction and operation of sewage disposal and treatment facilities for the district and has utilized powers granted to it to issue and sell three million dollars of general obligation bonds of the district.

Further growth of the population within the district indicates that additional moneys are required in order to provide all of the sewage disposal and treatment service that has now become necessary. It is found that an additional three million dollars is required for that purpose. In addition, the General Assembly has taken note of the existence of sewage problems in the vicinity of the district and has found that it might be feasible to permit the district to enter into contracts to provide sewage collection service under contractual arrangements designed to provide the district with sufficient revenues to compensate for such undertakings.

SECTION 2. Bonds may be issued.—In order to raise the moneys required for additional sewage disposal and treatment facilities for the district, the commission is hereby authorized and empowered to issue, as a single issue, or from time to time as several separate issues, not exceeding three million dollars of general obligation bonds of the district, in addition to the general obligation bonds authorized by Act No. 1114 of 1960, as amended.

SECTION 3. Maturity.—All bonds issued pursuant to this act shall mature in such annual series or installments as the commission shall provide for, except that the first maturing bonds of any issue shall mature not later than two years from the date they shall be issued; not less than three per cent of any issue shall mature in each year; and no bond shall mature later than thirty years from the date it shall be issued.

SECTION 4. Redemption.—Any bond issued pursuant to this act may be issued with a provision permitting its redemption prior to its stated maturity at par and accrued interest, plus such redemption premium as may be prescribed by the commission, but no bond shall be redeemable prior to its stated maturity unless it contains a statement to that effect. In the proceedings authorizing the issuance of the bonds, provisions shall be made specifying the manner of call and the notice thereof that must be given as to bonds made redeemable prior to their stated maturities.

SECTION 5. Form.—The bonds issued pursuant to this act shall be in the form of negotiable coupon bonds, payable to bearer, but may be issued with the privilege to any holder of having them registered as to principal on the books of the Treasurer of Richland County, upon such conditions as the commission may prescribe. Except when so registered, all bonds issued pursuant to this act shall have all attributes of negotiable instruments under the law merchant and the negotiable instruments law.

SECTION 6. Denominations.—The bonds issued pursuant to this act shall be of such denominations and shall be made payable at such places, within or without the State, as the commission shall provide.

SECTION 7. Interest.—Bonds issued pursuant to this act shall bear interest at rates determined by the commission.

SECTION 8. Execution.—The bonds and the coupons to be thereunto attached shall be executed in such manner as the commission shall by resolution prescribe.

SECTION 9. Sale.—Bonds issued pursuant to this act shall be sold at a price of not less than par and accrued interest to the date of their respective deliveries. They shall be sold after public advertisement of their sale in a newspaper of general circulation in South Carolina. Such published notice shall appear not less than ten days prior to the occasion set for opening bids.

SECTION 10. Payment.—For the payment of the principal and interest of all bonds issued pursuant to this act, as they respectively mature, and for the creation of such sinking fund as may be necessary therefor, the full faith, credit and taxing power of the district shall be irrevocably pledged, and there shall be levied annually by the Auditor of Richland County and collected by the Treasurer of Richland County, in the same manner as county taxes are levied and collected, a tax without limit on all taxable property in the district, sufficient to pay the principal and interest of such bonds as they respectively mature and to create such sinking fund as may be necessary therefor.

SECTION 11. Exempt from taxes.—The principal and interest of bonds issued pursuant to this act shall have the tax-exempt status prescribed by Section 65-4.1, Code of Laws of South Carolina, 1962.

SECTION 12. Proceeds.—The proceeds derived from the sale of any bonds issued pursuant to this act shall be paid to the Treasurer of Richland County, to be deposited in a Bond Account Fund for the Jackson-Gills Creek Public Service District, and shall be expended and made use of as follows:

(a) Any accrued interest shall be applied by the county treasurer to the payment of the first installment of interest to become due on such bonds.

(b) Any premium shall be applied to the payment of the first installment of principal of such bonds.

(c) The remaining proceeds shall be expended, upon the warrant or order of the commission, for the following purposes:

(i) To defray the costs of issuing the bonds authorized by this act; and

(ii) To construct additional sewage disposal and treatment facilities.

(d) If, after the final completion of the commission's program, the commission shall certify to the Treasurer of Richland County that any remaining balance in the Bond Account Fund is no longer needed for its program, then such balance shall be held by the treasurer and used to effect the retirement of bonds then outstanding, which shall have been issued pursuant to this act.

(e) Pending any use of funds, it shall be lawful for the commission to cause the principal proceeds resulting from any sale of bonds to be invested in obligations of the United States, or any agency thereof, having a maturity of not more than one year from the date when such investments shall be made. In order to effect such investment the commission shall be empowered to withdraw from the treasurer the entire principal proceeds of any bonds that may be issued and to cause them to be deposited with any corporate trustee who shall hold them as trust funds to be invested in the manner that the commission shall direct within the limitations imposed by this paragraph.

Any income resulting from such investment shall be returned to the Treasurer of Richland County and used by him to meet the debt service of any bonds so issued.

SECTION 13. Sewage disposal service beyond limits of district.

—In addition to the powers now vested in the commission, it shall be empowered to provide sewage disposal service to persons and corporations situate beyond the territorial limits of the district, upon such terms and conditions as it shall approve, but only when the contractual arrangements are designed to provide sufficient revenue to the district to compensate for such undertaking.

SECTION 14. No other action necessary.—No action other than that prescribed in this act need be taken to effect the issuance of the bonds herein authorized, nor shall the commission be required to obtain the approval of any public agency to any action taken pursuant to the authorizations of this act.

An Act To Authorize The Woodruff-Roebuck Water District Commission To Issue General Obligation Bonds Of Woodruff-Roebuck Water District In An Amount Not Exceeding Six Hundred Thousand Dollars, To Prescribe The Conditions Under Which The Bonds May Be Issued And The Proceeds Expended,

And To Make Provision For Payment, And To Repeal Act 1359 Of The Acts Of 1964 Relating To A Referendum In Spartanburg County To Determine Whether The Stone Station Area Shall Be Annexed To The Woodruff-Roeback Water District.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of South Carolina :

SECTION 1. Findings of General Assembly.—(1) Heretofore, by Act No. 1101 of 1956, the General Assembly created the Woodruff-Roeback Water District in Spartanburg County (the District) and committed to it the function of providing water service in the District. Thereafter, pursuant to such act, Woodruff-Roeback Water District Commission (the Commission) was duly organized and, following the election required by Act No. 1101 of 1956, issued general obligation bonds to the extent of one million five hundred thousand dollars and applied their proceeds to the cost of constructing and establishing a water system in the District, which is now functioning. The boundaries of the District have not been changed, notwithstanding the provisions of Act No. 1359 of 1964, whereby the General Assembly provided conditionally for the annexation of a contiguous area known as Stone Station Area. It is not now contemplated that the territorial limits of the District be changed.

(2) It has now been found that the water system of the District requires extensions and improvements in the form of additional lines and additional water storage facilities. It has been estimated that the same can be obtained at a cost not exceeding six hundred thousand dollars.

(3) On the basis of this finding the General Assembly proposes to authorize the commission to issue general obligation bonds of the District, without the holding of any election, in order to provide means by which the required moneys may be raised.

SECTION 2. Bond issue authorized.—The Commission is authorized to enlarge, extend and improve its water system; and to raise moneys for such purpose is authorized and empowered to issue not exceeding six hundred thousand dollars of general obligation bonds of the District, without the necessity of holding any election.

SECTION 3. Maturity.—All bonds issued pursuant to this act shall mature in such annual series or installments as the Commission shall provide, except that the first maturing bonds shall mature within three years from the date of issue; and no bond shall mature later than thirty years from the date of issue.

SECTION 4. Redemption.—Any bond issued pursuant to this act may be issued with a provision permitting its redemption prior to its stated maturity, at par and accrued interest, plus such redemption premium as may be prescribed by the Commission, but no bond shall be redeemable prior to its stated maturity unless it contains a statement to that effect. In the proceedings authorizing the issuance of such bonds, provision shall be made specifying the manner of call and the notice thereof that must be given as to bonds made redeemable prior to their stated maturities.

SECTION 5. Form.—The bonds issued pursuant to this act shall be in the form of negotiable coupon bonds, payable to bearer, but may be issued with the privilege to any holder of having them registered as to principal on the books of the Treasurer of Spartanburg County, upon such conditions as the Commission may prescribe. Except when so registered, all bonds issued pursuant to this act shall have all attributes of negotiable instruments under the law merchant and the negotiable instrument law.

SECTION 6. Where payable.—The bonds issued pursuant to this act shall be made payable at such place, within or without the State, as the Commission shall provide.

SECTION 7. Interest.—Bonds issued pursuant to this act shall bear interest at rates determined by the Commission.

SECTION 8. Denominations.—The bonds and the coupons to be thereunto attached, shall be in such denomination and shall be executed in such manner as the Commission shall by resolution prescribe.

SECTION 9. Sale.—Bonds issued pursuant to this act shall be sold at a price of not less than par and accrued interest to the date of their respective maturities. They shall be sold after public advertisement of their sale in a newspaper of general circulation in South Carolina. Such published notice shall appear not less than ten days prior to the occasion set for opening bids.

SECTION 10. Payment.—For the payment of the principal and interest of all bonds issued pursuant to this act, as they respectively mature, and for the creation of such sinking fund as may be necessary therefor, the full faith, credit and taxing power of the District shall be irrevocably pledged, and there shall be levied annually by the Auditor of Spartanburg County, and collected by the Treasurer of Spartanburg County, in the same manner as county taxes are levied and collected, on all taxable property in the District, a tax sufficient to pay the principal and interest of the bonds as they respectively mature and to create such sinking fund as may be necessary therefor.

SECTION 11. Exempt from taxes.—The principal and interest of bonds issued pursuant to this act shall have the tax exempt status prescribed by Section 65-4.1, Code of Laws of South Carolina, 1962.

SECTION 12. Proceeds.—The proceeds derived from the sale of any bonds issued pursuant to this act shall be paid to the Treasurer of Spartanburg County, to be deposited in a bond account fund for the District and shall be expended and made use of as follows:

(a) Any accrued interest shall be applied to the payment of the first installment of interest to become due on such bonds.

(b) Any premium shall be applied to the payment of the first installment of principal of such bonds.

(c) The remaining proceeds shall be expended, upon the warrant or order of the Commission, for the following purposes:

(i) To defray the costs of issuing the bonds authorized by this act;

(ii) To provide for extensions and improvements to the water system of the District; and

(iii) If, after the final completion of the Commission's program, the Commission shall certify to the Treasurer of Spartanburg County that any remaining balance in the bond account is no longer needed for its program, then such balance shall be held by the Treasurer and used to effect the retirement of bonds then outstanding, which shall have been issued pursuant to this act.

SECTION 13. Powers to be additional.—The powers and authorizations hereby conferred upon the Commission shall be in addition to all other powers and authorizations previously vested in the Commission and may be availed of pursuant to action taken at any regular or special meeting of the Commission.

SECTION 14. No further action required.—No action other than that prescribed in this act need be taken to effect the issuance of the bonds herein authorized, nor shall the Commission be required to obtain the approval of any public agency to any action taken pursuant to the authorizations of this act.

SECTION 15. Act 1359 of 1964 repealed.—Act 1359 of 1964 is repealed.

SECTION 16. Time effective.—This act shall take effect upon approval by the Governor.

Approved the 16th day of February, 1966.

Findings of the General Assembly.—The General Assembly finds that if the City of Spartanburg and other municipalities in Spartanburg County are to be permitted to undertake urban renewal programs, to maintain economic progress and fiscal stability of the municipalities in Spartanburg County, to provide for the rehabilitation and/or redevelopment of predominantly blighted and depressed sections of the central city and similarly depressed and predominantly slum residential areas for the general welfare of the citizens of Spartanburg County, it is necessary that Section 17 of Article I of the Constitution of South Carolina, 1895, be amended in such fashion so as to authorize the City of Spartanburg and other municipalities in Spartanburg County to acquire private property in connection with urban renewal programs. It further appears that there is a manifest public interest and responsibility to safeguard the economic and fiscal stability and general welfare of the respective municipalities, and it further appears that the municipalities' abilities to finance appropriate redevelopment programs is inadequate and that, further, the Federal government has available to these municipalities participating funding programs through urban renewal to accomplish these purposes, the General Assembly proposes to submit to the qualified electors of the State at the next general election the question of whether Section 17 of Article I of the Constitution of South Carolina, 1895, should be amended in such a fashion so as to permit municipalities in Spartanburg County, as now existing or as may hereafter exist, to undertake a program of urban renewal within the corporate limits of such city or towns.

SECTION 2. Amendment to Article I, Section 17, State Constitution, proposed—County of Spartanburg—slum clearance and redevelopment work—eminent domain.—It is proposed that Section 17 of Article I of the Constitution of South Carolina, 1895, be amended by adding at the end thereof the following: "Provided, the General Assembly may provide by law that any incorporated municipality in Spartanburg County, or any housing or redevelopment authority now existing or hereafter established to function in Spartanburg County, may undertake and carry out slum clearance and redevelopment work in areas which are predominantly slum or blighted, the preparation of such areas for re-use, and the sale or other disposition of such areas to private enterprise for private uses or to public bodies for public uses and to that end the General Assembly may delegate to such incorporated municipalities in Spartanburg County or to such authorities, the right to exercise the power of eminent domain as to any property essential to the plan of slum clearance and redevelopment."

SECTION 3. Submission to electors.—The proposed amendment shall be submitted to the qualified electors at the next general election for representatives. Ballots shall be provided at the various voting precincts with the following words printed or written thereon: "Shall Section 17, of Article I of the Constitution of South Carolina, 1895, be amended so as to permit the use of the power of eminent domain by incorporated municipalities or housing or redevelopment authorities in Spartanburg County for the purpose of slum clearance and redevelopment work in areas in Spartanburg County which are predominantly slum or blighted, in order to acquire and clear such areas, to prepare the same for re-use and for sale or other disposition to private enterprise for private purposes or to public bodies for public purposes?

In favor of the amendment ☐

Opposed to the amendment ☐

Those voting in favor of the amendment shall deposit a ballot with a check or cross mark in the square after the words 'In favor of the amendment', and those voting against the amendment shall deposit a ballot with a check or cross mark in the square after the words 'Opposed to the amendment'."

No. 1413

An Act To Authorize The County Board Of Commissioners Of Sumter County To Issue General Obligation Bonds Of Sumter County In The Amount Of Not Exceeding Eight Hundred Thousand Dollars, In Order To Provide Funds For The Construction Of Buildings For A Branch Of Clemson University To Be Located In Sumter County, To Prescribe The Conditions Under Which The Bonds May Be Issued, And To Make Provision For The Payment Of The Bonds.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of South Carolina:

SECTION 1. Findings of General Assembly.—The General Assembly finds that the Board of Trustees of Clemson University proposes to construct a branch of Clemson University in Sumter County, to be known as Clemson University at Sumter, if Sumter County will make available to the Sumter County Commission for higher Education the sum of eight hundred thousand dollars, to be used for the construction and equipping of appropriate buildings. The General Assembly finds that the applicable provisions of the Constitution of South Carolina, as judicially construed by the Supreme Court of South Carolina (Smith v. Robertson et al., 210 S. C. 99, 41 S. E. 2d 631, 1947), permit the issuance of bonds for this purpose and that the cooperation of Sumter County with the Trustees of Clemson University is lawful and proper and will serve a justifiable and worthy purpose. It has therefore determined to authorize the County Board of Commissioners of Sumter County to raise the sum of eight hundred thousand dollars through a sale of general obligation bonds of Sumter County and to pay over the principal proceeds thereof (less any expenses incurred in the issuance of the bonds) to or on behalf of the Sumter County Commission for Higher Education.

SECTION 2. Sumter County may issue bonds.—The County Board of Commissioners of Sumter County is authorized to issue not exceeding eight hundred thousand dollars of general obligation bonds of Sumter County for the purpose of assisting in the establishment of a branch of Clemson University in Sumter County. The bonds shall be issued either as a single issue or, from time to time, as several separate issues not to exceed eight hundred thousand dollars.

SECTION 3. Maturity.—All bonds issued pursuant to this act shall mature in such annual series or installments as the county board shall provide for, except that the first maturing bonds of any issue shall mature not later than two years from the dates as of which they shall be issued; and no bond shall mature later than twenty years from the date as of which it shall be issued.

SECTION 4. Redemption.—Any bond issued pursuant to this act may be issued with a provision permitting its redemption prior to its stated maturity at par and accrued interest, plus such redemption premium as may be prescribed by the county board, but no bond shall be redeemable prior to its stated maturity unless it contains a statement to that effect. In the proceedings authorizing the issuance of such bonds, provision shall be made specifying the manner of call and the notice thereof that must be given as to bonds made redeemable prior to their stated maturities.

SECTION 5. Form.—The bonds issued pursuant to this act shall be in the form of negotiable coupon bonds, payable to bearer, but may be issued with the privilege to any holder of having them registered as to principal on the books of the Treasurer of Sumter County, upon such conditions as the county board may prescribe. Except when so registered, all bonds issued pursuant to this act shall have all attributes of negotiable instruments under the law merchant and the negotiable instruments law.

SECTION 6. Denominations—where payable.—The bonds issued pursuant to this act shall be of such denomination and shall be made payable at such places, within or without the State, as the county board shall provide.

SECTION 7. Interest.—Bonds issued pursuant to this act shall bear interest at rates determined by the county board.

SECTION 8. Execution.—The bonds and the coupons to be thereunto attached shall be executed in such manner as the county board shall by resolution prescribe.

SECTION 9. Sale.—Bonds issued pursuant to this act shall be sold at a price of not less than par and accrued interest to the date of their respective maturities. They shall be sold after public advertisement of their sale in a newspaper of general circulation in South Carolina. Such published notice shall appear not less than ten days prior to the occasion set for opening bids.

SECTION 10. Payment.—For the payment of the principal and interest of all bonds issued pursuant to this act, as the same respectively mature, and for the creation of such sinking fund as may be necessary therefor, the full faith, credit and taxing power of Sumter County shall be irrevocably pledged, and there shall be levied annually by the Auditor of Sumter County and collected by the Treasurer of Sumter County, in the same manner as other county taxes are levied and collected, a tax without limit on all taxable property in Sumter County, sufficient to pay the principal and interest of such bonds as they respectively mature and to create such sinking fund as may be necessary therefor.

SECTION 11. Exempt from taxes.—The principal and interest of bonds issued pursuant to this act shall have the tax-exempt status prescribed by Section 65-4.1, Code of Laws of South Carolina, 1962.

SECTION 12. Proceeds.—The proceeds derived from the sale of any bonds issued pursuant to this act shall be paid to the Treasurer of Sumter County, to be deposited in a bond account fund, and shall be expended and made use of as follows:

- (a) Any accrued interest shall be applied to the payment of the first installment of interest to become due on the bonds.
- (b) Any premium shall be applied to the payment of the first installment of principal of the bonds.
- (c) The remaining proceeds shall be expended for the following purposes:
 - (1) To defray the costs of issuing the bonds authorized by this act, and
 - (2) To pay costs to be incurred by or on behalf of the Sumter County Commission for Higher Education in establishing a branch of Clemson University in Sumter County, and the portion of the proceeds from the sale of the bonds as are hereby made available for this purpose shall be utilized for the construction and equipping of buildings for the branch of Clemson University to be located in Sumter County; but prior to withdrawing money for this purpose, the Treasurer of Sumter County shall be furnished with a requisition, warrant or order from the Sumter County Commission for Higher Education specifying the purpose for which funds are to be used.

SECTION 13. Investments.—Pending the expenditure of the principal proceeds of the bonds authorized by this act, the County Treasurer may invest and reinvest the same or any unexpended portion thereof in obligations of the United States or any agency of the United States, with maturities not exceeding six months from the occasion of any such investment.

SECTION 14. Powers to be additional.—The powers and authorizations hereby conferred upon the county board shall be in addition to all other powers and authorizations previously vested in the county board and may be availed of pursuant to action taken at any regular or special meeting of the county board.

SECTION 15. No further action required.—No action other than that prescribed in this act need be taken to effect the issuance of the bonds herein authorized, nor shall the county board be required to obtain the approval of any public agency to any action taken pursuant to the authorizations of this act.

SECTION 16. Repeal.—All acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith are repealed.

SECTION 17. Time effective.—This act shall take effect upon approval by the Governor.

Approved the 7th day of January, 1966.

Otherwise, the captain of the chain gang shall make all job and work assignments at the Union County chain gang, including both employees and prisoners, and, except as otherwise herein provided, shall be in direct and immediate control at all times. All instructions from the Union County Supervisor and the Governing Body of Union County concerning surface-treated roads, bridges thereon, driveways, church yards and cemeteries, and all other surface-treated work and projects of Union County, or the equipment, materials or personnel used or to be used in the construction or maintenance or repair of same shall be transmitted directly to the superintendent of surface-treated roads and all other instructions from the Union County Supervisor or the Governing Body of Union County concerning matters other than matters and affairs related to surface-treated roads as aforesaid shall be transmitted directly to the Captain of the Union County Chain Gang.

Such suspended or dismissed employee shall have the right to appeal to the county governing board and the county supervisor, who shall jointly hold such hearings as may be deemed necessary to determine the facts and pass on the merits of such dismissal or suspension, and in their discretion may either sustain or reverse such dismissal or suspension; however, to override the action taken by the captain of the chain gang, it shall be necessary for no less than five board members and the county supervisor to so vote. The superintendent of surface-treated roads shall be subject to suspension or dismissal by unanimous action in writing to be signed by all members of the Union County Legislative Delegation.

SECTION 14. The County Governing Board, by a majority vote of those present at a regular or special meeting thereof, shall have authority and is hereby required to order and direct the supervisor to provide for and cause to be done all proper and necessary repairs and maintenance work on roads and bridges, and may designate the roads or bridges to be repaired or maintained. It shall be the duty of the supervisor to carry out such orders and directions of the board as fully and completely as may be possible, and in the absence of any orders or directions from the governing board, whether this be caused by completion of all work ordered by the board, or by failure of the board to direct a schedule of such work or for any other cause, then it shall be the duty of the supervisor to direct and cause to be performed the proper and necessary repairs and maintenance work on roads and bridges. In cases of emergency, arising from any cause where a county road or bridge has become or is about to become hazardous, dangerous or impassable to traffic, the supervisor shall take immediate action on his own initiative, even if it be necessary temporarily to stop work that has been ordered or directed by the governing board, to meet and overcome such emergency, and he shall cause such work to be done so as to afford traffic reasonable and safe passage over such road or bridge. In order to carry out the orders and directions of the governing board, or to meet emergencies which may arise, the supervisor shall convey instructions and orders for such repair and maintenance work to the captain of the chain gang and should the captain fail or refuse to carry out orders and directions submitted to him by the supervisor, then and in such event the supervisor may suspend or dismiss the captain of the chain gang. Provided, further, that any county officer or employee who shall be suspended, removed or discharged as herein provided shall not be paid for any period during such time of suspension and, in case of removal or discharge, shall not receive pay from any after the date thereof.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of South Carolina :

SECTION 1. Findings of General Assembly.—The General Assembly finds that if the Municipalities of York County are to be permitted to undertake urban renewal programs, it is necessary that Section 17 of Article I of the Constitution be amended in such fashion as to authorize the Municipalities of York County to acquire private property for such purposes, inasmuch as without such specific authorization the provisions of Section 17 of Article I relating to taking of private property, as construed by the Supreme Court of South Carolina in the case of Edens vs. City of Columbia, decided January 30, 1956, and reported in 228 S. C., page 563, 91 S. E. (2d) 280, do not now authorize such action. Accordingly, the General Assembly proposes to submit to the qualified electors of the State at the next general election the question of whether Section 17 of Article I of the State Constitution should be amended in such fashion as to permit the Municipalities of York County to acquire private property in order to undertake a program of urban renewal within the corporate limits of such municipalities or within the jurisdictional area of the housing authorities of the Municipalities of York County as now or hereafter constituted.

SECTION 2. Amendment to Article I, Section 17, State Constitution, proposed—York County—slum clearance and redevelopment work—eminent domain.—It is proposed that Section 17 of Article I of the Constitution of South Carolina, 1895, be amended by adding at the end thereof the following: "Provided, that the Municipalities of York County may, pursuant to statutory law, now existing or hereafter enacted, and acting through their municipal councils or through any housing or redevelopment authority, now or hereafter established, undertake and carry out slum clearance and redevelopment work in areas which are predominantly slum or blighted, the preparation of such areas for re-use, and the sale or other disposition of such areas to private enterprise for private uses or to public bodies for public uses, and to that end may exercise the power of eminent domain as to any property essential to the plan of slum clearance and redevelopment. Provided, further, that just compensation be paid for all property and property rights so taken. In cases of condemnation of land, where reuse is for private purposes, on which is located main underground subway systems, interstate toll lines, transmission lines, transformer vaults, or railroad main line trackage, the total compensation to the public utility or railroad shall be the reasonable expense incurred in relocation of the systems, lines, vaults or trackage. Providea, further, that in cases of condemnation of land, where reuse is for private purposes, the condemnee shall be given the first opportunity to purchase the land when it is sold by the condemnor for such reuse."

SECTION 3. Submission to electors.—The proposed amendment shall be submitted to the qualified electors at the next general election for representatives. Ballots shall be provided at the various voting precincts with the following words printed or written thereon: "Shall Section 17 of Article I of the Constitution of South Carolina, 1895, be amended so as to permit the use of the power of eminent domain by the Municipalities of York County or housing or redevelopment authorities functioning in the Municipalities of York County for the purpose of slum clearance and redevelopment work in areas within the corporate limits of the Municipalities of York County or within the jurisdictional area of the housing authorities of the Municipalities of York County which are predominantly slum or blighted, in order to acquire and clear such areas, to prepare them for re-use and for sale or other disposition to private enterprise for private purposes or to public bodies for public purposes, to require that just compensation be paid for property and property rights taken pursuant to such use of the power of eminent domain, and to provide that in cases of condemnation of land, where reuse is for private purposes, the condemnee shall be given the first opportunity to purchase the land when it is sold by the condemnor for such reuse?"

In favor of the amendment ☐
 Opposed to the amendment ☐

Those voting in favor of the amendment shall deposit a ballot with a check or cross mark in the square after the words 'In favor of the amendment', and those voting against the amendment shall deposit a ballot with a check or cross mark in the square after the words 'Opposed to the amendment'."

RULES AND REGULATIONS

BOARD OF CERTIFIED PUBLIC ACCOUNTANT EXAMINERS

Promulgated under authority of Section 56-8 of the 1962 Code

(Filed in the office of the Secretary of State January 3, 1966)

Regulations

- 1.56-12 (a) An applicant for examination must submit satisfactory evidence that he is a citizen of the United States or has declared his intention of becoming a citizen and that he is a bona fide resident of South Carolina at least twenty-one years old.
- (b) To meet the requirement for satisfactory completion of two years of study at one or more colleges or universities, or graduation from a junior college recognized by the Board, the applicant must have earned the equivalent of sixty or more semester hours of college credits. For the purpose of the foregoing, the Board will recognize any business college or other college or university which is recognized by a regional educational accrediting association.
- (c) After July 1, 1968 the Board will recognize any college or university accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools or any other regional educational association having the equivalent standards. Special permission will be granted to a senior in good standing in a recognized college or university to sit for the examination; however, a certificate will not be issued until such time as the candidate has obtained his baccalaureate degree.
- (d) In order for the educational requirements of § 56-12 to be waived in the case of a candidate who was practicing or employed in public accounting on July 1, 1965, the candidate must submit evidence satisfactory to the Board that on such date (a) public accounting constituted his principal trade, business or employment; (b) that he or his employer offered accounting services of a general type normally offered by public accountants, and (c) that such services were performed on a full-time basis.
- (e) The Board will waive the educational requirement of § 56-12 (1) for any candidate who achieves a satisfactory score on a special examination to be selected by the Board.
- (f) The Board will waive the educational requirement of § 56-12 (2) for any candidate who achieves a score of at least 500 on Advanced Test in Business of the Graduate Record Examination and 480 on the Verbal and Quantitative Sections of the Aptitude Graduate Record Examination.
- (g) The special examinations required will be administered by the University of South Carolina but special permission may be granted to a candidate to be examined at another college or university outside South Carolina.

The Board shall charge an application fee of $10.00 for the special written examination. The candidate shall also pay any charges for such examination assessed by the administering college or university.

- 1.56-13 (a) In order to prevent undue hardship, the educational requirements which must be met by a candidate shall be those requirements which were in effect when he first sat for the examination, provided he has been re-examined at least annually subsequent to the date of any change in the educational requirements.
- (b) Where a candidate has obtained all or any portion of his public accounting experience on a part-time basis, the Board will consider 2,000 hours of such part-time experience as being the equivalent of one year of the required experience.
- (c) Examinations shall be given in the following subjects: Theory of Accounts, Accounting Practice, Auditing, Commercial Law and such other related subjects as the Board may prescribe. The Board uses the uniform certified public accountant examination prepared by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants. This permits applicants who possess the required qualifications to be eligible for membership in the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants without further examination. Eligibility for Institute membership, however, is not a requisite for the issuance of a certificate by this Board.
- (d) If any applicant shall receive a passing grade in any two or more of the above subjects, or a passing grade in both sections of Accounting Practice alone, he shall be entitled to receive credits for the subjects passed and to be re-examined in the subjects failed, during the next three examinations given by the Board. Furthermore, if at the completion of the three re-examinations described above, the applicant shall have successfully passed any three subjects he will be granted an additional extended period of two more examinations to pass the remaining subject in which he has failed. If he fails to have passed at least three subjects during the initial three re-examinations or if he should fail to pass the remaining subject during the additional extended period, all prior credits shall become null and void. Credit for passing any subject cannot extend beyond five consecutive re-examinations in any event.
- (e) Applicants who are qualified to take the examination in this State, and who have previously received partial credits for passing subjects under the jurisdiction of another State Examining Board, may arrange to have their credits transferred to the South Carolina Board, provided the passing grades are those awarded by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants Advisory Grading Service, and that the Board of the State of jurisdiction will so certify. Any credits transferred under the foregoing provision shall be subject to the same conditions and have the same status as credits awarded to South Carolina candidates.

Applications for examination and re-examination shall be submitted at least three weeks prior to the date of the examination on forms furnished by the Board and shall be accompanied by a remittance of the proper fee determined as follows:

Application Fee	$10.00
Accounting Practice	10.00
Theory of Accounts	5.00
Commercial Law	5.00
Auditing	5.00

The $10.00 application fee portion of the total fee shall be paid with each application for examination or re-examination and will not be refunded for any cause.

- 1.56-14 (a) The fee for the issuance of a certificate by the Board shall be $10.00. No further license fee shall be charged until the next renewal date.
- 1.56-18 (a) In order for a certificate to be issued by reciprocity, the applicant must submit evidence satisfactory to the Board that the standards in the state or foreign country issuing his original certificate are fully equivalent to the standards in this State. For this purpose, the standards required are those standards which were in effect in this State on the date of issue of the applicant's original certificate by another state or foreign country. In addition, the applicant must demonstrate a professional need for a South Carolina certificate.
- 1.56-19 (a) A non-resident certified public accountant will not be considered to be holding himself out as a certified public accountant in this State when the services performed within this State are incident to his regular practice outside this State and such services do not exceed a total of ten days in one calendar year. If a non-resident principal or partnership is not qualified to register with the Board, then the supervisory partner or employee performing services in this State must register as an individual. It is not necessary to register every staff certified public accountant engaged in this State, provided the engagement is under the immediate supervision of a registered certified public accountant. Annual fees for registration are $5.00 for an individual and $10.00 for a partnership.
- 1.56-20 (a) The Board will, upon application, waive payment of the annual license fee upon certification that the applicant is retired from all active business and is not engaged in any form of public accounting. Applications for waiver due to illness will be considered on an individual basis considering all relative factors.
- 1.56-26 (a) As provided in this section, each office established or maintained in this State by a certified public accountant or firm of certified public accountants for the practice of public accounting must be under the direct supervision of a resident manager who is a certified public accountant. For this purpose, a "resident manager" is one who maintains his personal residence within a reasonable commuting distance of such office and is present at such office or servicing clients from such office during the principal portion of the time that such office is open.

Code of Professional Ethics

ARTICLE 1. RELATIONS WITH CLIENTS AND PUBLIC

- 1.01 Neither a CPA, nor a firm of which he is a partner, shall express an opinion on financial statements of any enterprise unless he and his firm are in fact independent with respect to such enterprise. Independence is not susceptible of precise definition, but is an expression of the professional integrity of the individual. A CPA, before expressing his opinion on financial statements, has the responsibility of assessing his relationships with an enterprise to determine whether, in the circumstances, he might expect his opinion to be considered independent, objective and unbiased by one who had knowledge of all the facts.

A CPA will be considered not independent, for example, with respect to any enterprise if he, or one of his partners, (a) during the period of his professional engagement or at the time of expressing his opinion, had, or was committed to acquire, any direct financial interest or material indirect financial interest in the enterprise, or (b) during the period of his professional engagement, at the time of expressing his opinion or during the period covered by the financial statements, was connected with the enterprise as a promoter, underwriter, voting trustee, director, officer or key employee. In cases where a CPA ceases to be the independent accountant for an enterprise and is subsequently called upon to re-express a previously expressed opinion on financial statements, the phrase "at the time of expressing his opinion" refers only to the time at which the CPA first expressed his opinion on the financial statements in question. The word "director" is not intended to apply to a connection in such a capacity with a charitable, religious, civic or other similar type of nonprofit organization when the duties performed in such a capacity are such as to make it clear that the CPA can express an independent opinion on the financial statements. The example cited in this paragraph, of circumstances under which a CPA will be considered not independent, is not intended to be all-inclusive.

- 1.02 A CPA shall not commit an act discreditable to the profession.
- 1.03 A CPA shall not violate the confidential relationship between himself and his client.
- 1.04 Professional service shall not be rendered or offered for a fee which shall be contingent upon the findings or results of such service. This rule does not apply to cases involving federal, state, or other taxes, in which the findings are those of the tax authorities and not those of the accountant. Fees to be fixed by courts or other public authorities, which are therefore of an indeterminate amount at the time when an engagement is undertaken, are not regarded as contingent fees within the meaning of this rule.

ARTICLE 2. TECHNICAL STANDARDS

- 2.01 A CPA shall not express his opinion on financial statements unless they have been examined by him, or by a member or employee of his firm, on a basis consistent with the requirements of Rule 2.02.

In obtaining sufficient information to warrant expression of an opinion he may utilize, in part, to the extent appropriate in the circumstances, the reports or other evidence of auditing work performed by another certified public accountant, or firm of public accountants, at least one of whom is a certified public accountant, who is authorized to practice in a state or territory of the United States or the District of Columbia, and whose independence and professional reputation he has ascertained to his satisfaction.

A CPA may also utilize, in part, to the extent appropriate in the circumstances, the work of public accountants in other countries, but the member or associate so doing must satisfy himself that the person or firm is qualified and independent, that such work is performed in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, as prevailing in the United States, and that financial statements are prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles, as prevailing in the United States, or are accompanied by the information necessary to bring the statements into accord with such principles.

- 2.02 In expressing an opinion on representations in financial statements which he has examined, a CPA may be held guilty of an act discreditable to the profession if:

- (a) he fails to disclose a material fact known to him which is not disclosed in the financial statements but disclosure of which is necessary to make the financial statements not misleading; or
- (b) he fails to report any material misstatement known to him to appear in the financial statement; or
- (c) he is materially negligent in the conduct of his examination or in making his report thereon; or
- (d) he fails to acquire sufficient information to warrant expression of an opinion, or his exceptions are sufficiently material to negative the expression of an opinion; or
- (e) he fails to direct attention to any material departure from generally accepted accounting principles or to disclose any material omission of generally accepted auditing procedure applicable in the circumstances.

- 2.03 A CPA shall not permit his name to be associated with statements purporting to show financial position or results of operations in such a manner as to imply that he is acting as an independent public accountant unless he shall:

- (a) express an unqualified opinion; or
- (b) express a qualified opinion; or
- (c) express an adverse opinion; or
- (d) disclaim an opinion on the statements taken as a whole and indicate clearly his reasons therefor; or
- (e) when unaudited financial statements are presented on his stationery without his comments, disclose prominently on each page of the financial statements that they were not audited.

- 2.04 A CPA shall not permit his name to be used in conjunction with any forecast of the results of future transactions in a manner which may lead to the belief that the CPA vouches for the accuracy of the forecast.

ARTICLE 3. PROMOTIONAL PRACTICES

- 3.01 A CPA shall not advertise his professional attainments or services. Publication in a newspaper, magazine or similar medium of an announcement or what is technically known as a card is prohibited.

A listing in a directory is restricted to the name, title, address and telephone number of the person or firm, and it shall not appear in a box, or other form of display or in a type or style which differentiates it from other listings in the same directory. Listing of the same name in more than one place in a classified directory is prohibited.

- 3.02 A CPA shall not endeavor, directly, or indirectly to obtain clients by solicitation.

- 3.03 A CPA shall not make a competitive bid for a professional engagement. Competitive bidding for public accounting services is not in the public interest, is a form of solicitation, and is unprofessional.

- 3.04 Commissions, brokerage, or other participation in the fees or profits of professional work shall not be allowed or paid directly or indirectly by a CPA to any individual or firm not regularly engaged or employed in the practice of public accounting as a principal occupation.

Commissions, brokerage, or other participation in the fees, charges or profits of work recommended or turned over to any individual or firm not regularly engaged or employed in the practice of public accounting as a principal occupation, as incident to services for clients, shall not be accepted directly or indirectly by a CPA.

ARTICLE 4. OPERATING PRACTICES

- 4.01 A firm or partnership, all the individual members of which are certified public accountants, may describe itself as "Certified Public Accountants", but a firm or partnership, not all the individual members of which are certified public accountants, or an individual practicing under a style denoting a partnership when in fact there be no partner or partners, or a corporation, or an individual or individuals practicing under a style denoting a corporate organization shall not use the designation "Certified Public Accountants".

The Commission shall take at least four official samples each six months of processed milk and milk products shipped into South Carolina by each exporter for the purpose of determining, by laboratory examination of such samples, whether such products meet the minimum standards as to sanitation, quality and identification established by South Carolina for grade A milk and grade A milk products.
 - a. The methods of taking and examining official samples of processed milk and milk products and the procedure for degrading such products on the basis of official samples examined shall be the same as those established by the South Carolina State Board of Health pursuant to Section 32-8, 1962 Code of South Carolina.
- C. The Commission may issue a "Temporary Emergency Permit" to an exporter to ship and to a distributor to receive bulk milk into South Carolina, in seasons when bulk milk is in short supply and when bulk milk cannot be obtained from an exporter whose milk shed has been inspected and approved by the Commission, provided, the distributor makes a request in writing or by telephone to the Commission office and the Commission determines before issuing such permits that the only grade of raw milk received or handled by the exporter is grade A, or that any bulk milk to be shipped into the State meets the minimum standards established by South Carolina for grade A raw milk for pasteurization.

- D. The standards for determining the sanitary compliance rating of an exporter's milk shed, and all other minimum standards relating to sanitation, quality, or identification of bulk milk or processed milk and milk products which the Commission may approve for shipment into South Carolina shall be at all times the same as those established by the South Carolina State Board of Health pursuant to Section 32-8, 1962 Code of South Carolina. The procedure to be used by the Commission for determining the sanitary compliance rating of an exporter's milk shed shall be the same as set forth in the latest edition of Methods of Making Sanitation Ratings of Milk Sheds as published by the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Public Health Service.
- E. Each tank of bulk milk shipped into South Carolina shall be sealed at both the intake and outlet openings by the exporter and one seal shall bear a tag on which shall be clearly shown: the name and address of the exporter, the grade and amount of bulk milk in the tank, the number and date of the permit issued by the Commission covering the shipment and the date and hour on which the shipment was dispatched by the exporter for delivery into South Carolina. A distributor shall insure upon arrival and before receiving into his plant that each tank of bulk milk obtained from an exporter is sealed as herein required and such distributor shall retain the tag as herein required until an audit of the distributor's records for the month in which such milk was received has been conducted by the Commission.
- F. An Application for Permit to Ship Milk into South Carolina approved by the Commission shall be conditioned upon, in addition to any other requirements of South Carolina law, the applicant submitting to audit by the Commission all of his records relating to the receipts, sales and utilization of bulk milk.
- G. The Commission shall suspend any permits issued to an exporter who fails to comply with all the provisions of this regulation or the laws of South Carolina, and shall decline to issue a permit to an exporter who continues in a course of business which indicates to the Commission such exporter's unwillingness to comply with the same.
- H. A penalty of Two Hundred Dollars shall be assessed by the Commission against a licensee for any violation of any provision of this regulation and each day on which any violation occurs shall constitute a separate violation, or shall suspend or revoke such licensee's license.

Promulgated under authority of Section 32-1630(1)(a) of the 1962 Code
(Filed in the office of the Secretary of State July 23, 1965)

Effective August 1, 1965, Regulation No. 2, as amended, is amended to read as follows:

Regulation No. 2

Classification of Milk, Computation of Milk in Each Class and Method of Settlement:

A. Classes of Milk—On or before the fourth day after the end of each delivery period all milk received at each plant from producers during the preceding delivery period shall be classified as Class I unless the distributor receiving such milk can prove that it should be otherwise classified, subject to any administrative relief which may be granted by the Commission resulting from extenuating circumstances and the following conditions:

1. Class I shall include all sales and inventory holdings at the close of business on the last day of the delivery period of processed fluid milk and fluid milk products containing one percent (1%) or more of milk fat (excluding sour cream), and bulk milk sold or transferred to any plant located within the State which has been certified to the Commission to be for use in a federal military contract, except that portion of milk which may be approved by the Commission to be classified in Class II or Class III pursuant to paragraph B, sub-paragraph 3. Fluid cream, milk-cream mixtures and concentrated milk in excess of six percent (6%) butterfat shall be included in Class I on a milk equivalent basis.
2. Class II shall include all sales and inventory holdings at the close of business on the last day of the delivery period of processed fluid milk products containing less than one percent (1%) of milk fat which has not been accounted for in the milk equivalent of Class I cream and milk-cream mixtures, and that portion of any milk designated as Class I utilization which may be approved by the Commission to be transferred to Class II pursuant to paragraph B, sub-paragraph 3.
3. Class III shall include, subject to the provisions of paragraph B, all milk and milk products received and used in the processing or manufacture of any product for human consumption except those products designated as Class I or Class II utilization and any plant loss not in excess of two and one-half percent (2½%) of the total milk and fluid milk products received and reconstituted during the delivery period.
4. The product pounds of all fluid milk and fluid milk products in each Class shall be computed by multiplying the total quarts of such products by the weight factors set forth below:

Product	Weight Per Quart	Product	Weight Per Quart
Milk	2.15	Cream (10-17%)	2.13
Creamed Buttermilk..	2.15	Cream (18-21%)	2.11
Skim (Above 1% B. F.)	2.15	Cream (22-28%)	2.10
Flavored Milk or Drink (Net)	2.00	Cream (29-32%)	2.09
Skim (Plain)	2.16	Cream (33-39%)	2.08
Buttermilk (Plain) ..	2.16	Cream (40-42%)	2.06

B. Basis for Classification—On or before the fourth day after the end of each delivery period, all milk received during the preceding period by a distributor shall be classified on the basis of the accountable sales and utilization of milk by such distributor and in accordance with the provisions of paragraph A. Raw milk disposed of in bulk and processed milk sold to federal military installations shall be classified subject to the following provisions:

1. Milk disposed of in bulk shall be classified as Class III by the shipping distributor except as provided for in sub-paragraph 2. The shipping distributor shall be paid for such Class III milk by the receiving distributor on the basis of its use by the receiving distributor in Class I, II or III as determined by the monthly audits of the Commission at not less than the price established by the Commission for the class or classes in which such milk is properly classified based on its final utilization by the receiving distributor. The shipping distributor shall return to his producers the price received for any bulk milk sold or transferred to another distributor less reasonable handling and hauling charges, if any are incurred.
 2. Bulk milk sold or transferred by a distributor located within South Carolina to another distributor within the State for sale to the United States Government and for delivery to a federal military installation under a bona fide written contract may be prorated by the shipping distributor between Class I, Class II or Class III pursuant to sub-paragraph 3; provided, that on or before the tenth day after the end of the settlement period involved, certificates are received by the Commission from the shipping distributor certifying that such bulk milk was sold or transferred for use in military contracts, and from the receiving distributor certifying that such bulk milk was used for military contracts.
 3. Processed milk containing one percent (1%) or more of butterfat sold to the United States Government and delivered to federal military installations under a bona fide written contract, and bulk milk sold or transferred by a distributor located in South Carolina to another distributor within the State, certified for use in a contract as referred to above, may be transferred from Class I to Class II or Class III during such delivery periods and in the proportion as may be approved by the Commission. The proportion of the products herein referred to, which may be approved for transfer from Class I to Class II or Class III, is subject to change by the Commission, however, the proration approved on the first day of delivery under any contract shall prevail until the expiration date of such contract.
- C. Computation of Milk in Each Class—For each delivery period the classification of milk at each plant shall be computed in the following manner:
1. Determine the tentative Class I utilization by:
 - a. Computing the volume of total sales of processed fluid milk and bulk milk certified for use in federal military contracts at the average butterfat test of all milk received at a plant from producers and in bulk from other sources or at the specific test of each product sold when such records are maintained.

- b. Add the volume of all sales of flavored milk or drink, creamed buttermilk and any other fluid milk products containing one percent (1%) or more, but less than six percent (6%), of butterfat at the specific test of such products.
 - c. Add the milk equivalent of all sales of fluid milk products containing six percent (6%) or more of butterfat. (The weighted average test of all bulk milk received from producers and distributors during the delivery period shall be used in converting cream and milk-cream mixtures containing six percent (6%) or more of butterfat to a milk equivalent basis. In the absence of a weighted average butterfat test, distributors shall convert such cream and milk-cream mixtures on the basis of a four percent (4%) milk equivalent.)
 2. Determine the tentative Class II utilization by:
 - a. Computing the difference between the volume of fluid milk products containing butterfat in excess of six percent (6%) from its milk equivalent included in Class I and entering such amount in Class II as a preliminary credit.
 - b. Compute the volume of all sales of fluid milk products containing less than one percent (1%) butterfat not accounted for in the milk equivalent of Class I cream and milk-cream mixtures and apply the butterfat tests applicable to such products.
 3. Determine the tentative Class III utilization by:
 - a. Computing the volume of all milk and milk products not specifically classified in Classes I and II at the applicable tests.
 4. Transfer from Class I to Class II or Class III, at the rate approved by the Commission, that portion of fluid milk containing one percent (1%) or more of butterfat sold to federal military installations and bulk transfers between plants certified to the Commission for use in such contracts.
 5. Add the closing inventories to and subtract the opening inventories from the appropriate classes as determined in the preceding paragraphs.
 6. Determine the amount of plant losses by subtracting the total milk and milk products accounted for in each Class from the total milk and milk products received.
 - a. Add to the Class III utilization the amount of plant loss which is not in excess of two and one-half percent (2½%) of the total milk and milk products received.
 - b. Add to the Class I utilization the amount of plant loss which is in excess of two and one-half percent (2½%) of the total milk and milk products received.
- D. Classification of Milk Received from Producers—The net classification of milk received from producers at each plant shall be determined in the order and manner set forth below and the total milk in each class shall be allocated to producers in accordance with the example set forth in Table I of this Regulation.

1. The butterfat and milk equivalent of powered and condensed products which are reconstituted shall be deducted from the gross Class III utilization.
 2. The butterfat and product pounds of any processed milk and milk products received from another distributor shall be deducted from the remaining Class III utilization.
 3. The butterfat and product pounds of bulk milk received from a distributor located within South Carolina, which has been certified to the Commission for use in military contracts, shall be deducted from Class III, Class II and Class I in the proportions approved by the Commission. Any amount in excess of the available Class II shall be deducted from any remaining Class III.
 4. The butterfat and product pounds of bulk milk received, other than that received and certified for use in military contracts, shall be deducted from any remaining Class III utilization.
 5. In the event that any or all of the above items are greater than the amount remaining in Class III, they shall be deducted first from any remaining Class II and finally from Class I.
 6. For the purpose of classification, milk from a distributor's own herd will be considered to be producer milk.
- E. Minimum Prices—The minimum class prices and butterfat differential paid to producers by distributors, at the end of each delivery period, for the classes of milk established by Paragraph A of this Regulation shall be as follows:
1. Class I Milk—The price of Class I milk containing four percent (4%) butterfat f. o. b. the receiving distributor's plant shall be $6.60 per hundred weight.
 2. Class II Milk—The price of Class II milk containing four percent (4%) butterfat f. o. b. the receiving distributor's plant shall be $5.00 per hundred weight.
 3. Class III Milk—The price of Class III milk containing four percent (4%) butterfat f. o. b. the receiving distributor's plant shall be $3.00 per hundred weight.
 4. Butterfat Differentials—The price paid to each producer for each class of milk shall be increased by a minimum of seven cents (7¢) per hundred weight for each one-tenth of one percent (1%) that the producer's milk is above four percent (4%) butterfat, and shall be decreased not more than seven cents (7¢) per hundred weight for each one-tenth of one percent (1%) that the producer's milk is below four percent (4%) butterfat.
- F. Hauling Rates—The maximum hauling rate to be charged to a producer or deducted from a producer's settlement by a distributor for transporting milk from a producer farm to the distributor's plant shall not be in excess of the rates in effect or charged to the producer for milk received during the month of June 1965 without prior approval by the Commission.

G. Payment to Producers—Each licensed milk distributor located within South Carolina shall make full payment to producers on or before the fifteenth (15th) day following the end of each delivery period for all milk received, at not less than the minimum class price(s) established by the Commission and set forth in Paragraph E of this Regulation.

1. Any premium to be paid for special milk sales during any delivery period shall be applied uniformly to all Class I credit allocated to producers of special milk as determined by the following formula:

Divide the total pounds of special milk sold by the total Class I credit allocated to special milk producers. Multiply the result obtained by the premium rate per hundred weight and add the result to the Class I price payable to special milk producers.

2. The Class III price to be paid producers shall be a weighted average blend price of bulk milk sold or transferred and properly allocated into Class III at the net price received for such milk, and any other milk included in Class III at the Class III price as established by the Commission. When the total bulk milk sold or transferred and included in Class III exceeds the net amount allocated to producers in Class III, the weighted average Class III blend price shall be computed from the highest net priced quantity or quantities used or transferred.

3. Each distributor shall, whenever making payment for milk purchased from producers during any delivery period, furnish each producer with a statement of purchases and payment which contains the information as follows:

- a. Name of the distributor
- b. The delivery period covered
- c. Producer's base for the period
- d. Butterfat test of producer's milk
- e. Pounds of milk in each class
- f. Price per hundred weight paid for each class
- g. Gross amount due by class and in total
- h. Each deduction made by distributor
- i. Net amount paid.

4. Whenever an audit by the Commission discloses a distributor has not made full payments to producers during any delivery period in accordance with the Regulations of the Commission, the distributor shall upon written notice from the Commission make the necessary adjustments to correct any underpayment to producers in such manner and within such time as may be specified by the Commission.

1. The "Regular" wholesale unit prices established by this Regulation for the designated products shall be the minimum prices to be charged and received by a distributor or sub-distributor for such products sold, delivered or consigned to any wholesale consumer as defined by the Act; except as provided by sub-paragraph 2 of paragraph A of this Regulation.

2. The "Institutional" wholesale unit prices established by this Regulation for the designated products shall be the minimum prices to be charged and received by a distributor or sub-distributor for the specified units of such products sold, delivered or consigned to: (a) private, public, or parochial schools and state or church supported colleges or universities which provide non-profit lunch room facilities for students; (b) eleemosynary institutions or agencies; and (c) non-profit hospitals entirely supported by a church or by the federal, state, county or municipal governments; provided, however, such "Institutional" prices established by the Commission shall not be made available to independently operated dairy bars, soda shops, canteens, student centers, etc. or food service facilities operated by any person other than the specific types of customers designated above whether or not the facilities are located on the premises and are under the control of the exempted institutions.
 3. The minimum prices established by the Commission shall not be deemed to apply to products sold to the United States Government and delivered to a federal installation; provided, however, each distributor entering into a contract with the United States Government to supply any product covered by the Act to such installations shall notify the Commission in writing prior to the first day of delivery under such contract of: (a) the name of the installation to be supplied; (b) the approximate quantity of each unit of each product to be supplied; (c) the unit price made available on each unit of each product; and (d) the beginning and terminating dates of the contract.
 4. The minimum wholesale price on any unit of fluid milk or fluid milk product covered by the Act for which a price is not included in this Regulation will be established by the Commission upon application by a distributor. The application must be made to the Commission in writing at least thirty (30) days before the introduction of a unit of fluid milk or fluid milk product for which a minimum price had not been established by the Commission.
- B. Prices to be Filed by Distributors with the Commission—Pursuant to Section 32-1640.4, 1962 Code, each distributor, as a prerequisite to obtaining a license, shall establish and file with the Commission a schedule of retail unit prices on fluid milk and fluid milk products and a schedule of wholesale and retail unit prices on ice cream and frozen desserts for each market served directly by the distributor; or indirectly through a sub-distributor principally supplied with processed products by such distributor. The required schedules shall be filed on forms prepared and furnished by the Commission and such schedules shall be signed by a responsible official who by virtue of his position and duties can appropriately sign the Affidavit on Form No. SDC-1, and such person shall be designated in the distributor's application for license or application for renewal of license to be held legally responsible for compliance with the conditions of the license to be issued.

1. A copy of the distributor's current schedule of prices on file at any time with the Commission for any market served by a sub-distributor shall be furnished by the distributor to and kept on file in the office of the sub-distributor serving such market.
2. A distributor shall not be required to establish and file prices with the Commission for any product offered for sale except those products covered by the Act (milk, milk products, ice cream and frozen desserts). However, the sale by a distributor of any product which is NOT covered by the Act to ANY wholesale or retail consumer at a price less than the price made available to ALL wholesale and retail customers respectively, or any other discriminatory pricing practice with respect to such products by a licensee, shall be deemed a decrease in the minimum prices fixed by the Commission or the prices filed with the Commission for the products covered by the Act and a violation of the provisions of this Regulation.
3. The prices required to be established and filed with the Commission by a distributor for any market may be changed (including any addition to the distributor's product line of a new product or a new unit of an existing product on which prices are required to be filed) ONLY on the first day of any calendar month; PROVIDED, a complete new schedule of prices applicable in such market is sent by certified mail to the Commission, on forms furnished by the Commission, and such schedule is received in the Commission office at least ten (10) days (exclusive of Sundays and legal holidays) prior to sale or OFFER to sell at the prices established by the new schedule.
4. The Commission, upon receipt of a new schedule of prices duly filed for any market, shall mail within three (3) days thereof (exclusive of Sundays and legal holidays) a copy of the new schedule to each licensed distributor operating in the market in which the new prices are to be applicable.
5. A distributor, upon receipt from the Commission of a new schedule of prices established by a competitor for any market, may place into effect in such market on the effective date designated on such schedule similar price changes (but not below those which have been duly filed with the Commission by a competitor); PROVIDED, the distributor sends to the Commission by certified mail a complete new schedule of prices to be applicable in the affected market and such schedule is received in the Commission office at least one (1) day (exclusive of Sundays and legal holidays) prior to sale or OFFER to sell at the new prices filed as provided by this paragraph.
6. No distributor shall directly, or indirectly through a sub-distributor, sell or OFFER for sale any product covered by the Act in any market at a price less than the price offered in the market in which such distributor's processing plant is located, or less than the price offered in the principal sales area of such distributor (measured by volume of sales), except when such lower price is offered in good faith to meet a competitive price which has been duly filed with the Commission, and after due notice has been given as provided in sub-paragraph 3 above. No sub-distributor shall sell or OFFER for sale any product covered by the Act at a price forbidden the distributor by whom such sub-distributor is principally supplied with processed products.

The "Regular" wholesale unit prices established by this Regulation for the designated products shall be the minimum net prices to be charged and received by a distributor or sub-distributor for such products sold, delivered or consigned to any wholesale consumer as defined by the Act; except as provided by sub-paragraph 2 of Paragraph A of this Regulation.
2. The "Institutional" wholesale unit prices established by this Regulation for the designated products shall be the minimum net prices to be charged and received by a distributor or sub-distributor for the specified units of such products sold, delivered or consigned to: (a)

3. Public Law 85-864

(Filed in the Office of the Secretary of State January 7, 1966)

The following amendment was approved December 17, 1965.

In accordance with the authorization in Section 467 of the Higher Education Act of 1965, the South Carolina State Plan for strengthening instruction in the public elementary and secondary schools is amended to apply to economics in addition to the other critical subjects under Title III of the National Defense Education Act of 1958.

1. All listings of critical subjects and references to the critical subjects are to be read as including economics.
2. Subparagraph 3.12 is amended by the addition of the following:
Supervisory services in the subject of economics during the school year 1964-65 were limited to the extent that such services could be given by the general supervisors and one additional supervisor of social studies. The general supervisors made no attempt to render the type of service that would be expected of a specialist whose main interests would be directed in the field of economics. Although the services rendered the local schools in the area of economics by these supervisors were quite valuable, its effectiveness was limited because of insufficient time and lack of specialized training by general supervisors in this area. Supervisory services at the local level are equally as critical. Such services are limited to the general supervisory activities of the school principals and curriculum coordinators. Few schools, if any, have personnel qualified to render effective supervisory leadership in this area.
3. Subparagraph 3.2 is amended by the addition of the following:
The objectives of the State's Title III program to improve instruction in economics are generally the same as the thirteen statements listed with reference to the other critical subjects included in the present State plan as approved by the State Board of Education on March 12, 1965, except that these objectives are amended so as to include the subject of economics in all instances to which reference is made to science, mathematics, modern foreign languages and other critical subjects.

The State will endeavor to improve the effectiveness of its supervisory and related services to the local districts and to promote programs designed to improve the quality of economics instruction within the schools of the State.

4. Subparagraph 3.32 is amended by the addition of the following:

The State supervisory services for the critical subjects as outlined in this section shall be extended to include the subject of economics.

The present staff consists of a supervisor and an assistant supervisor of history, civics, and geography who devote full time to the Title III program. These two supervisors will increase the scope of their services to include economics.

As the program expands and the budget permits, other supervisory personnel will be employed and/or assigned the specific field of economics both for elementary and secondary schools.

5. Subparagraph 3.4 is amended by the addition of the following:

The State's program of related services, including the audio-visual services and library services, will be expanded to include economics in addition to the other critical subjects. The present staff includes a supervisor of audio-visual aids, an assistant supervisor of audio-visual aids, and an assistant supervisor of library services devoting full time to the Title III program. A fourth person, the supervisor of library services, devotes part time to the Title III program. As the program expands, and the budget permits, other personnel may be added if needed.

The Board recommends that medical expense insurance be obtained for drivers and passengers in an amount to be determined by the school district or county.

Schools meeting the above requirements shall receive upon application an amount equal to the actual cost, but in no case to exceed $15 per pupil, for each pupil successfully completing the course in driver education; provided that if the amount budgeted during the fiscal year shall be less than the sum necessary to meet the maximum of $15 per pupil, funds shall be prorated on the basis of the total number of students successfully completing the approved driver education course in the state. At the end of such period, the health authority shall reinspect such mobile home park and, if such conditions or practices have not been corrected, he shall suspend the permit and give notice in writing of such suspension to the owner or agent. Upon receipt of notice of suspension, such person shall cease operation of such mobile home park.

Upon receipt of such petition, the health authority shall set a time and place for such hearing, and shall give the petitioner written notice thereof. At such hearing, the petitioner shall be given an opportunity to be heard, and to show why such notice should be modified or withdrawn. The hearing shall be commenced not later than ten days after the day on which the petition was filed: Provided: That upon application of the petitioner, the health authority may postpone the date of the hearing for a reasonable time beyond such ten-day period when in his judgment the petitioner has submitted good and sufficient reasons for such postponement.

4.4 The proceedings at such a hearing, including the findings and decision of the health authority, and together with a copy of every notice and order related thereto shall be entered as a matter of public record in the office of the health authority.

4.5 Whenever the health authority finds that an emergency exists which requires immediate action to protect the public health, he may, without notice or hearing, issue an order citing the existence of such an emergency and requiring that such action be taken as he may deem necessary to meet the emergency including the suspension of the permit. Notwithstanding any other provisions of these regulations, such order shall be effective immediately. Any person to whom such an order is directed shall comply therewith immediately, but upon petition to the health authority, shall be afforded a hearing as provided in Section 4.2. The provisions of Section 4.3 and 4.4 shall be applicable to such hearing and the order issued thereafter.

SECTION 5. LOCATION, SPACE, AND GENERAL LAYOUT

5.1 The mobile home park shall be located on a well-drained site, and shall be so located that its drainage will not endanger any water supply. All such mobile home parks shall be free from marshes, swamps, or other potential breeding places for insects or rodents.

5.2 The area of the mobile home park shall be large enough to accommodate:

- (a) The designated number of mobile home spaces;
- (b) Necessary streets and roadways.

5.3 Each independent mobile home space shall contain a minimum of 3,000 square feet, and shall be at least forty (40) feet wide. Such spaces shall be defined. Mobile homes shall be parked in such spaces so that there will be a minimum of fifteen (15) feet between a mobile home and another mobile home or building, and so that no mobile home will be less than ten (10) feet from the exterior boundary of the mobile home park.

Independent mobile home spaces in existence on the effective date of these regulations may continue to operate under their existing permit.

5.4 It shall be unlawful to allow:

- (a) Any mobile home to be occupied in a mobile home park unless the mobile home is situated on a mobile home space, or

SECTION 6. WATER SUPPLY

6.1 An adequate (according to current engineering practices) safe, and potable supply of water shall be provided in each mobile home park, easily accessible for maintenance, if a private supply. The development of a community water supply to serve the mobile home park shall be made only after written approval has been granted by the health authority. Any community supply is to be considered a public supply and must meet the requirements thereof. 6.5 Individual water-service connections which are provided for direct use by mobile homes shall be so constructed that they will not be damaged by the parking of such mobile homes. The mobile home park water system shall be adequate to provide a minimum of 20 pounds per square inch of pressure at all mobile home connections.

6.6 Where an independent or non-public water system is used to serve the mobile home park with water obtained from wells, the wells shall have been approved by the health authority, and shall have been drilled or driven. A well log is to be submitted with other data. Springs or other sources of supply shall not be used unless approved by the health authority.

6.7 Every well shall be located and constructed in such a manner that neither underground nor surface contamination will reach the water supply from any source. All drainage shall be away from the well. A minimum distance of fifty (50) feet shall be maintained between the water supply and any part of a septic tank system or privy. Sewers or pipes through which sewage may back up shall be located at least fifty (50) feet from any well or water-suction pipeline. Where such sewers or pipes are specially constructed to provide adequate safeguards, and when specifically authorized by the health authority, such sewers or pipes through which sewage may back up may be closer than fifty (50) feet, but not less than thirty (30) feet from a well.

6.8 No well-casings, pumps, pumping machinery, or suction pipes shall be located in any pit, room or space extending below ground level, nor in any room or space above ground which is walled in or otherwise enclosed, unless such rooms, whether above or below ground, have free drainage by gravity to the surface of the ground. The floor of rooms above ground shall be at least six inches above the ground's surface. All floors shall be water-tight, and sloped from the pump pedestal to the drain.

6.9 All water storage reservoirs shall be water-tight, and constructed of impervious material; all overflows and vents of such reservoirs shall be effectively screened. Open reservoirs are prohibited. Manholes shall be constructed with overlapping covers, so as to prevent the entrance of contaminated material. Overflow pipes from a reservoir shall not be cross-connected to any drain pipe in which sewage or polluted water may back up.

6.10 Underground stop-and waste-cocks shall not be installed on any connection.

6.11 Individual service connections shall be so constructed as to protect the line from infiltration by ground water.

6.12 All water systems shall be disinfected and analyzed in accordance with South Carolina State Board of Health requirements before use for domestic purposes.

SECTION 7: SEWAGE DISPOSAL

7.2 Each independent mobile home space shall be provided with at least a 4-inch sewer connection. The sewer connection shall be provided with suitable fittings, so that a watertight and gas-tight connection can be made between the mobile home drain and the sewer connection. Such individual mobile home connections shall be self-draining and shall be so constructed that they can be closed when not linked to a mobile home and be capped so as to prevent any escape of odors. The cap shall be fastened to the area of the opening by a keeper chain.

7.3 Sewer lines shall be constructed in accordance with plans formally approved by the health authority and in accordance with the recommendations of such health authority. All sewer lines shall be properly vented, and shall be laid with sufficient earth cover to prevent breakage from traffic.

7.4 Where the sewer lines of the mobile home park are not connected to a public sewer, a method of sewage disposal approved by the health authority shall be provided. The design of such sewage treatment facilities shall be based on the maximum population of the mobile home park. Effluents from sewage treatment facilities shall not be discharged into any waters of the State except with prior approval of the South Carolina Pollution Control Authority and the local health authority. The disposal facilities shall be located where they will not create a nuisance or health hazard to the mobile home park or to the owner or occupants of any adjacent property, or existing downstream user. The approval of the health authority shall be obtained on the type of treatment proposed and on the design of the disposal plant prior to any construction at site.

7.5 In all instances where the composite sewage flow exceeds 2,000 gallons per day, or where a total of ten (10) or more mobile homes are to use the sewage facility, and where public sewers are not available for connection thereto, plans and specifications for water and sewage systems shall be prepared by an engineer registered to practice in South Carolina, and submitted to the Division of Sanitary Engineering for review and approval.

SECTION 8: REFUSE DISPOSAL

8.1 The storage, collection, and disposal of refuse in the mobile home park shall be so managed as to create no health hazards, rodent harborage, insect-breeding areas, accident or fire hazards or air pollution.

8.2 All refuse shall be stored in flytight, watertight, rodent-proof containers, which shall be located not more than 150 feet from any mobile home space. Containers shall be provided in sufficient number and capacity to properly store all refuse.

8.3 Racks or holders shall be provided for all refuse containers. Such container racks or holders shall be so designed as to prevent containers from being tipped, to minimize spillage and container deterioration, and to facilitate cleaning around them.

8.4 All refuse shall be collected at least twice weekly. Where suitable collection service is not available from municipal or private agencies, the mobile home park operator shall provide this service. All refuse shall be collected and transported in covered vehicles or covered containers.

8.5 Where municipal or private disposal service is not available, the mobile home park operator shall dispose of the refuse by incineration, burial, or transporting to an approved disposal site.

8.6 Refuse shall be buried only at locations and by methods approved by the health authority.

8.7 Refuse incinerators shall be constructed only with the approval of the local health authority. Such approval shall be based on a review of the plans and specifications for such incinerators and approval of the site where they will be located. Such approval shall specify the type of material which may be placed in the incinerator.

8.8 Incinerators shall be operated only when attended by some person specifically authorized by the owner or operator of the mobile home park.

8.9 Garbage shall be burned on the premises only in an approved incinerator.

SECTION 9: INSECT AND RODENT CONTROL

9.1 Insect and rodent control measures to safeguard public health as required by the health authority shall be applied in the mobile home park.

9.2 The health authority may require the mobile home park operator to take suitable measures to control other insects and obnoxious weeds.

9.3 Accumulations of debris which may provide harborage for rodents shall not be permitted in the mobile home park.

9.4 When rats or other objectionable rodents are known to be in the mobile home park, the park operator shall take definite action, as directed by the health authority to exterminate them.

SECTION 10: ELECTRICITY

10.1 An electrical outlet supplying at least 115 volts shall be provided for each mobile home space. The installation shall comply with all applicable state and local electrical codes and ordinances. Such electrical outlets shall be grounded and weatherproof. No main power supply line shall be permitted to lie on the ground, or to be suspended less than 18 feet above the ground. This shall not preclude underground lines.

SECTION 11: FUEL

11.1 All piping from outside fuel storage tanks or cylinders to mobile homes shall be copper or other acceptable metallic tubing and shall be permanently installed and securely fastened in place. All fuel storage tanks or cylinders shall be securely fastened in place and shall not be located inside or beneath the mobile home or not less than ten (10) feet from any mobile home exit.

SECTION 12: FIRE PROTECTION

12.1 The mobile home park area shall be subject to the rules and regulations of the state and local fire prevention authority.

12.2 Mobile home park areas shall be kept free of litter, rubbish and other flammable materials.

SECTION 13: ALTERATIONS AND ADDITIONS—RESTRICTIONS OF ANIMALS AND PETS

13.1 All plumbing and electrical alterations or repairs in the mobile home park shall be made in accordance with applicable local regulations.

13.2 Skirting of mobile homes is permissible but areas enclosed by such skirting shall be maintained so as not to provide a harborage for rodents, or create a fire hazard.

13.3 No permanent additions shall be built onto or become a part of any mobile home unless they are in accordance with requirements established by the health authority, including the provisions of Section 5.3.

13.4 Pet animals must be inoculated against rabies in accordance with State Board of Health Rules and Regulations.

SECTION 14: REGISTRATION OF OCCUPANTS

14.1 Every mobile home park owner or operator shall maintain a register containing a record of all mobile homes and occupants using the mobile home park. Such register shall be available to any authorized person inspecting the park, and shall be preserved for the period required by the health authority. Under Section A—Design and Construction, second paragraph under Submission of Plans has been amended to read:

Natural bathing places are under the jurisdiction of the County or City Health Department and do not require submission of plans to the Division of Sanitary Engineering of the State Board of Health. However, owners of artesian-fed impoundments will have to prove to their local Health Department a "turnover" factor of 500 gallons per person per day. The Health Department will then post and enforce the maximum swimmers that can utilize the impoundment.

Under Section A—Design and Construction, Paragraph (a) under Shape and Slope has been amended to read:

(a) The pool shall be designed and constructed of such contour, shape, etc., that efficient and safe control of the bathers can be accomplished. The pool floor shall have a uniform slope from shallow end to transition point and shall not exceed one foot (1') vertical to ten feet (10') horizontal. The depth in the shallow portion shall begin at three feet (3') at the furthestmost end and slope uniformly toward the transition point. It shall be at least two inches (2") in diameter and be located at least one foot (1') below the lowest overflow level of the skimmer. It shall be provided with a valve or equivalent device that will remain tightly closed during normal operating conditions but will automatically open when the water level drops as much as two inches (2") below lowest weir level.

(5) The overflow weir shall operate at all flow variations expected and be of such buoyancy and design as to develop an effective velocity over the weir lip.

Under Section A—Design and Construction, third paragraph under Pools Inlets and Outlets, has been amended to read:

In pools with surface area greater than 1,500 square feet or length in excess of 60 feet, inlets shall be placed around the entire perimeter on 15-foot intervals. In any case, an adequate number of inlets shall be provided, properly spaced and located to accomplish complete recirculation and maintenance of a uniform and adequate disinfecting medium at all times. Approved inlets may be installed uniformly in the pool floor so long as the requirement of one per 15 feet of pool perimeter is met.

around the pool 6 inches or smaller shall have a minimum slope of $\frac{1}{8}$ " per foot. Lines larger than 6 inches and all outfall waste mains shall be designed with a size of pipe and slope to freely carry the maximum flows required with no surcharge or back-pressure in the lines. All piping and equipment shall be provided as much as possible with positive means of completely draining all water to prevent damage from freezing.

Under Section A—Design and Construction, Paragraph 17. Diving Area, has been amended to read:

An unobstructed water surface area of ten feet (10') clear radius from the center end of each diving board set higher than 2 feet above water level shall be provided. From the center end of the boards not exceeding 2 feet in height, an 8-foot clear radius may be used. A 16-foot pool width minimum shall be provided also on those pools when no diving board is installed. A depth of 8 feet minimum from water level to pool bottom shall be provided in the deep portion regardless of whether or not a diving board is proposed. The 6-foot depth in this area may be no farther out than a maximum of 15 inches from the pool wall. The wall slope shall be uniform with no ledges or walkways allowed below the normal water surface. Vertical straight wall construction is permissible so long as corners are rounded sufficiently. For each meter or fraction thereof in diving board height above one meter, the minimum depths shall be increased one foot. The length of the diving bowl to slope break shall be a minimum of 24 feet regardless of whether or not a diving board is proposed.

24. Water Treatment.

Disinfecting Agent: Some means of disinfecting the pool water shall be used which provides a residual of disinfecting agent in the pool water. Adequate feeding equipment and equipment for testing residuals must be employed. Inasmuch as the chlorine is almost universally used, minimum standards for the use of chlorine are given below. Disinfecting agents other than chlorine will be allowed if they bear the nSf seal of approval and proposed injection is in manner and amounts prescribed by nSf Advisory Committee for Swimming Pool Water Treatment, and Processes. No disinfecting agent shall be dispensed "by hand" but on a 24-hour basis by equipment as described below.

Equipment for supplying chlorine or compounds of chlorine shall be of capacity to feed one pound of available chlorine per 5,000 gallons of pool volume per 24-hour period in outdoor pools. This requirement may be reduced by 50% for indoor pools.

In all public pools a capacity greater than 75,000 gallons, elemental chlorine shall be supplied by means of gas chlorinator which controls and regulates the flow of the gas and mixes it in a water solution which, in turn, is injected into the pool water circulating system ahead of the filters. Gas chlorination is the only type of disinfectant which will be considered on pools of this size or greater.

A solution-feed machine shall be used (unless a gas chlorinator is proposed) when the pool contains less than 75,000-gallon capacity. It shall conform to the following requirements and shall be sold by the manufacturer explicitly to meet these conditions and be so warranted.

a. Capacity shall be adequate to supply one pound of free chlorine per 5,000 gallons (10,000 gallons, if indoor pool) of water in the pool per 24-hour period.

(Paragraphs b, c, d, e, and f will remain "as is" in Rules and Regulations Relating to Public Swimming Pools, State of South Carolina, September 1, 1962.)

Under Section B—Operation, Paragraph 2. Bacterial Quality—Interpretation of Results, has been amended to read:

The local health authority shall submit to an approved laboratory a minimum of one sample per week for bacterial analysis from each pool. These samples should be taken from each corner of the pool on successive samplings.

a. Coliform Tests:

Not more than two (2) consecutive samples out of those taken in accordance with the schedule described above shall have a Most Probable Number Coliform Group Organisms of more than 5 per 100 ml of sample.

Under Section B—Operation, second paragraph under 5. Disinfection, has been amended to read:

Chlorine is the usual disinfectant used with a normal free chlorine residual requirement of between 0.4 and 1.0 ppm.

Under Section B—Operation, Paragraph 6. pH Level, has been amended to read:

pH levels of the pool water must be maintained between 7.0 and 8.4 unless superchlorination is employed—at which time the maximum pH may be increased to 8.9 at chlorine residual of 1 ppm; however, the optimum level appears to be between 7.5 and 8.0.

Uninsured Motorist Fund Distribution

Promulgated under authority of Sections 37-56 and 46-138.6 of the 1962 Code

(Filed in the office of the Secretary of State December 21, 1965)

It appears that all companies authorized to write automobile liability insurance contracts in this State are requested from time to time to provide the Insurance Department with appropriate premium and loss statistics for the particular year involved and that such companies are advised that any such company not making a timely report of such statistics will not be entitled to participate in the distribution of the South Carolina Uninsured Motorist Fund for the particular year involved.

It further appears that the appropriate formulae for distribution consistent with the provisions and intent of Section 46-135, et seq., of the Code, is as follows:

Section 1. The fund distributable shall comprise an amount equal to the total amount of uninsured motorist fees provided for in Section 46-136 of the Code, less the amount provided for in Section 46-138.4(1) of the Code regarding costs and expenses for administration in the registration and licensing of uninsured motor vehicles, plus the balance remaining in the fund for prior years.

Section 2. The fund distributable shall be separated on the basis of total written premiums for private passenger writings and total written premiums for all other automobile liability writings.

Section 3. Distribution shall be made from the total "private passenger" distributable fund, pro-rata to participating companies on the basis of company insured car years to the total of all companies insured car years.

Section 4. Distribution shall be made from the total "all other" distributable fund, pro-rata to the participating companies on the basis of company "all other" written premiums to the total of all companies "all other" written premiums.

Therefore, distribution shall be made from the Uninsured Motorist Fund, in accordance with the above formulae.

REAL ESTATE BOARD

Promulgated under authority of Section 56-1545.4 of the 1962 Code
Adopted September 18, 1965; superseding those adopted June 5, 1962,
September 28, 1961 and September 22, 1960

(Filed in the office of the Secretary of State October 21, 1965)

It is the purpose of this Board, acting under the Provisions of the Act creating it, to safeguard the public interest in real estate transactions and to regulate the licensing of real estate brokers, salesmen, counsellors, appraisers, and property managers; and to encourage the maintenance of high ethical practices by all such real estate licensees doing business in the State of South Carolina.

I. The South Carolina Real Estate Board will deem any person acting as a real estate broker, salesman, counsellor, appraiser, or property manager in violation of the Real Estate Licensing Act should he commit any one of the following acts:

- A. Making any substantial and willful misinterpretation.
- B. Making any false promises of a character likely to influence, persuade, or induce.
- C. Pursuing a course of misrepresentation or making of false promises through agents or salesmen.
- D. Intentionally advertising, whether printed or by radio, display, or other nature, which is misleading or inaccurate in any material particular or in any way misrepresents any property, terms, values, or policies or services of the business conducted.
- E. Acting for more than one party in a transaction without the knowledge of all parties for whom he acts.
- F. Acting in the dual capacity of broker and undisclosed principal in any transaction.
- G. Accepting a commission or valuable consideration as a real estate salesman for the performance of the acts specified in this Act, from any person except the licensed broker by whom he is employed.

- H. Representing or attempting to represent a real estate broker other than the broker by whom he is engaged or associated without the express knowledge and consent of the broker with whom he is associated.
 - I. Guaranteeing or authorizing or permitting any person to guarantee future profits which may result from the resale of real property.
 - J. Failing, within a reasonable time, to account for and to remit any monies coming into his possession which belong to others.
 - K. Paying a commission or compensation to any person for performing the services of a real estate broker or real estate salesman who has not first secured his License under this Act.
 - L. Being unworthy or incompetent to act as a real estate broker or salesman in such a manner as to endanger the interests of the public.
 - M. For making of dual sets of Sales Contracts, written or otherwise, which would falsify the transaction in an effort to obtain a larger loan from any lender or lending institution, or for the purpose of misinforming any Governmental Agency.
 - N. Any other conduct, whether of the same or a different character from that hereinbefore specified, which constitutes improper, fraudulent, or dishonest dealing.
 - O. Any person (licensed) advertising real property for sale must identify himself in such advertising as being a broker or other agent as the case may be, rather than attempting to make the public believe that he is the owner of the property so advertised.
- II.
- A. For the proper and orderly control of the real estate business in South Carolina, every person licensed by the State must be affiliated with a licensed firm, even though that firm be wholly or in part owned by the licensee.
 - B. After June 5, 1962, no broker's license applied for shall be issued unless the applicant is 21 years of age; no salesman's license applied for shall be issued unless the applicant is 19 years of age. If a request for waiver of this provision is made to the Commissioner, action on that application must be postponed until the next regular meeting of the Board, at which time the Board will judge the merits of each application.
- III.
- A. There shall be established a real estate examination fee for brokers, salesmen, counsellors, appraisers and property managers of $25.00 per examinee and there shall be no return of this examination fee upon failure of examination by applicant provided, however, that should the examinee pass the examination, such examination fee shall be treated as a personal license fee for that year.
 - B. Any person failing to pass a real estate examination under the provisions for temporary licensing will be allowed an opportunity to take a second examination within thirty (30) days at no additional cost. If he fails to stand the examination within that thirty days or fails the second examination, his license is to be automatically cancelled. Notice to the Commissioner of intent to retake the examination must be given within five (5) days after notice from the Commissioner that the licensee has failed in his first attempt. Any other person applying for a permanent license who fails the examination will be required to wait six (6) months before being allowed an opportunity to take a second examination.

IV.

A Licensee must report to the Commissioner any change of address or any change in employment within ten days after such change and the employing broker must report the termination of said licensee's affiliation with his firm in like manner .

V.

To better determine the qualifications of all applicants for temporary license, it is hereby made a part of these Regulations that all applicants for temporary license, submitting application after June 5, 1962, shall be required to come to the Office of the Commissioner in Columbia, without expense to the Commissioner, for the purpose of a personal interview with the Commissioner. The Commissioner shall notify applicant when to come for such interview (normally within fourteen days of date application is received). Applicant is again cautioned that he is not licensed until so advised by the Commissioner.

VI.

All complaints against real estate brokers, salesmen, counsellors, appraisers, or property managers, must be in writing and given to the Commissioner.

VII.

All applications for renewal of licenses must be filed on or before June 30th of each year. In event of failure on the part of the applicant to file his renewal by June 30th of each year, he shall be required to pay a five dollar penalty fee if application is filed on or before July 31st. If the applicant does not file for renewal by July 31st and does file for renewal during the month of August, he will be required to pay a penalty fee of $25.00. If he fails to file for renewal by August 31st and continues to engage in the real estate business, he shall be deemed in violation of the Statute and will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

VIII.

Any real estate broker, salesman, counsellor, appraiser or property manager who withdraws from the business and then returns to the business within three (3) years from the date of withdrawal, can return by submitting application for license and paying the current license fee.

IX.

No member of the South Carolina Real Estate Board shall sign any application for a Temporary License as an endorser thereof.

WATER POLLUTION CONTROL AUTHORITY

Promulgated under authority of Sections 70-101 through 70-139 of the 1962 Code

(Filed in the office of the Secretary of State March 8, 1966)

Stream Classification

(The public hearing as required by law prior to the classification and/or reclassification of streams was held in Gaffney, South Carolina, January 20, 1966.)

This action is based on the following finding of fact made by the Authority after consideration of the transcript of public hearing held by the South Carolina Pollution Control Authority in Gaffney, South Carolina, January 20, 1966:

1. THAT the public hearing was requested by the Daniel Morgan Water District so that the stream might be used as a raw water source for a public water supply, and further that engineering studies indicate the feasibility of this plan.
2. THAT Zekial Creek and tributaries in Cherokee County from their headwaters to its intersection with S. C. Highway No. 110 are presently unclassified.
3. THAT testimony at the hearing indicated that interested local residents desire that these waters be placed in Class B.
4. THAT analyses performed by the technical staff of the South Carolina Pollution Control Authority show that these streams meet the quality standards for Class B waters.
5. THAT no opposition to this proposal was expressed at the hearing.
6. THAT based on these facts, we therefore find the proper classification of Zekial Creek and tributaries in Cherokee County from their headwaters to its intersection with S. C. Highway No. 110 to be Class B.

No. 1065

An Act To Be Known As The Uniform Commercial Code, Relating To Certain Commercial Transactions In Or Regarding Personal Property And Contracts And Other Documents Concerning Them, Including Sales, Commercial Paper, Bank Deposits And Collections, Letters Of Credit, Bulk Transfers, Warehouse Receipts, Bills Of Lading, Other Documents Of Title, Investment Securities, And Secured Transactions, Including Certain Sales Of Accounts, Chattel Paper, And Contract Rights; Providing For Public Notice To Third Parties In Certain Circumstances; Regulating Procedure, Evidence and Damages In Certain Court Actions Involving Such Transactions, Contracts or Documents; To Make Uniform The Law With Respect Thereto; And Repealing Inconsistent Legislation.

Whereas, the General Assembly appreciates the fact that the Uniform Commercial Code represents the work of the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws and the American Law Institute covering a period of fifteen years; and

Whereas, the General Assembly realizes the tremendous challenge with which the legislators, the Judiciary, and the lawyers of the State will be confronted in their effort to thoroughly understand the Code; and

Whereas, the General Assembly believes that a careful examination of the background and introduction to the Code prepared by Professor Robert W. Foster, who served as reporter in the consideration of the Code for introduction, will greatly facilitate an understanding of the various articles before a detailed study is undertaken; and

Whereas, the General Assembly has decided to include in the preamble the remarks of Professor Foster as a background and introduction;

BACKGROUND AND INTRODUCTION

The movement toward uniform commercial laws began in the latter part of the last century with the principal impetus coming from the increased volume of interstate commerce as a product of the industrial revolution. The early manifestation of the need for uniformity of law in the several states was the creation of the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, whose first major project was the promulgation of the Negotiable Instruments Law in 1896. Thereafter the Conference commissioned the drafting of the Uniform Sales Act (1906), Uniform Warehouse Receipts Act (1906), Uniform Stock Transfer Act (1909), Uniform Conditional Sales Act (1918), and the Uniform Trust Receipts Act (1933).

In 1940, when the Conference met to consider amendments to the Uniform Sales Act in order to avoid conflict with a proposed Federal Sales Act, a proposal was made to abandon the piecemeal approach to codification of commercial law in favor of a single comprehensive statute. The suggestion was accepted and the Uniform Commercial Code was conceived.

In 1942 the American Law Institute and the Conference joined in this undertaking and appointed an editorial board and numerous drafting committees composed of many nationally prominent judges, lawyers, and law teachers. The Section of Corporation, Banking and Business Law of the American Bar Association worked with the editorial board and made numerous suggestions which were incorporated into the Code. In 1951 the official text was approved by the two sponsoring organizations and by the House of Delegates of the American Bar Association.

This text, with the drafter's official comments as finally approved, was available in 1952 and the next year the Code was enacted in Pennsylvania. The New York Legislature, however, referred it to the New York Law Revision Commission for a comprehensive study and public hearings. After three years of work and the expenditure of $300,000, the New York Commission reported that the Uniform Commercial Code was not satisfactory in its present form. In order to meet a number of the objections raised in this critical analysis the editorial board revised a number of sections. This became the 1957, 1958 and finally the 1962 official draft, which has been enacted in twenty-nine states and the District of Columbia as of the date of this writing.

In an attempt to head off the tendency to amend parts of the Code as it comes up for enactment in each state and to iron out defects as they appear in application, a permanent editorial board was established to consider "uniform" amendments. This board has published its 1962 official recommendations which will be considered as the most current edition of the proposed Code.

The basic premise on which the Uniform Commercial Code is based is that a "commercial transaction" is a single subject of the law, notwithstanding its many facets, involving the sale of and payment for goods. There may be a contract for sale, the giving of a check for part of the purchase price which may be negotiated through the banking system for collection, and the acceptance of some form of security for the balance. The goods may be shipped or stored requiring some form of document of title.

The basic objective of the Code is to bring all of these phases under one statute and to simplify, clarify, modernize and make uniform this law. The physical arrangement is to treat these various phases under eight separate articles. These consist of an article on sales, an article on "commercial paper," which would repeal the Negotiable Instruments Law, an article on bank deposits and collections which would repeal the Bank Collection Code, an article on letters of credit, an article on bulk sales which would repeal the Bulk Sales Act, an article on documents of title which would repeal the Uniform Warehouse Receipts Act and the Uniform Bill of Lading Act, an article on investment securities which would repeal the Uniform Stock Transfer Act, and finally, an article on all types of personal property security transactions which would repeal a number of South Carolina statutes dealing with chattel mortgages and related matters. Article 1 is a general introductory article and Article 10 states the effective date of the Code and lists the existing statutes to be repealed. Other uniform commercial acts which the Code replaces but which have not been enacted in South Carolina are the Uniform Sales Act, the Uniform Conditional Sales Act and the Uniform Trust Receipts Act.

The several predecessor statutes promulgated by the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws were all drafted at different times by different hands. For the first time the Code affords the opportunity of integrated coverage whereby the rules are written with regard to the interrelation between the many aspects of commercial transactions.

ARTICLE 1

GENERAL PROVISIONS

Article 1 contains several general policy pronouncements as a guide to the construction of sections throughout the Code. Consistent with a major objective of flexibility to permit adaptability to change and expansion of commercial practice through custom, usage and agreement of the parties. Section 1-101 expresses a non-controversial preference for freedom of contract. This general language is at once compromised by policy considerations which preclude enforcement of such contract terms which would relieve a party of the obligation of good faith, due care and such other specific exceptions which will come as no surprise to the lawyer. For example, the invalidity of a clause in a security contract depriving the debtor of certain rights in the collateral upon default is continued under Code Section 9-501(3).

Another broad policy statement is the preference for liberal administration of remedies (1-106). This is, no doubt, a reaction against the tendency of restricting damage for breach found in some of the case decisions and is more specifically illustrated in the Code by Section 2-708, which permits a seller to include lost profits as part of his damages against a breaching party.

While the Code is in effect in some states and not in others, difficult conflict of laws problem may arise in interstate commercial transactions. This problem may be partially relieved by the provision of Section 1-105 which authorizes the parties to the transaction to designate in their contract the application of law of a state having some reasonable relation to the contract. A subsection provides an index to other sections of the Code which specify the applicable law governing a specific type of commercial transaction.

Section 1-201 contains a definition of forty-six terms which are used throughout the Code. Some of these are in familiar usage in the commercial field; others are new or are defined in a revised or modified way.

SALES

Article 2 is designed to replace the Uniform Sales Act modifying many of the provisions to meet modern commercial needs and to fill gaps of coverage which could not have been anticipated when that Uniform Act was drafted in 1906. While South Carolina is one of about a dozen states which has never enacted the Uniform Sales Act, it was essentially a codification of the common law and thus most of the provisions have been established or have been followed in South Carolina by the case decisions.

A novelty of the sales article of the Code is the attempt to stratify sales law by stating different rules where the parties to a sale are merchants. This is more apparent than real, however, since the term "merchant" is defined in section 2-104 as "a person who deals in goods of the kind" which would include the great bulk of all sales transactions. (Early drafts of this article contained re-sale, industrial purchasers who buy for use, and sales to individual consumers. These distinctions have been deleted by subsequent drafts of the Code.)

Title Passing Concept

A much more significant novelty of Article 2 is the attempt to state the law without reference to what has been considered the central point in Anglo-American Sales Law for at least a century and a half—the location of title. Many of the controversies between buyer and seller have been answered by early common law decisions, and subsequently as codified in many states by the Uniform Sales Act, by a determination of the location of title to the goods which formed the subject matter of the sales transaction. It has been fictitiously supposed that the parties intended title to pass at some particular time. To compound the fiction, presumptions as to when the parties intended the title to pass were invented which now seem to approach the status of substantive rules of law. Having thus located title in either buyer or seller, it appears to be a simple and certain matter to proceed from that point to the result of such important questions as risk of loss, the right of the seller to maintain an action for the price (as distinguished from an action for damages), the buyer's right to have the goods, as well as matters not directly involved with sales law such as the tax burden upon the goods and the right of creditors and a trustee in bankruptcy of the buyer or seller to reach the goods.

The drafters of Article 2 took the position that this "lump concept thinking" has created many uncertain and unfair results since it is frequently difficult to predict when title passes, and even when established, it may have no logical relationship to the rights in question. The basic approach of "narrow-issue" thinking under the Code is generally stated in Section 2-401:

"Each provision of this Article with regard to the rights, obligations and remedies of the seller, the buyer, purchasers or other third parties applies irrespective of title to the goods except where the provisions refer to such title."

Having thus de-emphasized title, specific rules are stated to provide solutions to specific problems. Thus, on the recurring risk of loss problem, possession of the goods is the controlling factor which replaces the title passing test, except where either party is in breach in which case the loss falls on the breaching party (2-509, 2-510). Where the goods are to be shipped from seller to buyer, possession and thus risk of loss passes to the buyer when the goods are delivered to the carrier, except on a destination contract (e. g., "F.O.B., Columbia, South Carolina," where goods are to be shipped to the buyer in Columbia) possession and risk of loss passes to the buyer when the goods are tendered at their destination.

Furthermore, the seller's rights upon breach by the buyer to recover the contract price (and hold the goods for the buyer—the seller's equivalent of the buyer's action for specific performance) would not turn on the passage of title under the Code but on the more functional basis of whether the seller may be able to re-sell the goods (2-709).

Where there are no specific provisions dealing with an issue, and title passing remains relevant, such as in determining the tax incident, or application of other public regulation, Section 2-401 prescribes the point in time when title passes. Generally, this is when the seller completes his performance by delivery, or shipment of documents of title or of the goods, when so required; otherwise at the time of contracting. But, in no event, will title pass until the goods are identified to the contract, i. e., with respect to future goods, when they are designated by the seller as goods to which the contract refers.

Performance

While the Code would seem to continue the standard for a seller's performance of "perfect tender," as distinguished from "substantial performance" where delivery is to be made in single lot (2-601 says "if the goods fail in any respect to conform . . .") some of the sting has been removed by the rule of 2-508 which introduces the concept of "cure." A seller is permitted to remedy a defective tender if he can do so within the time set for performance. Furthermore, the seller may cure, after the time for performance has passed, if the "buyer rejects a non-conforming tender which the seller had reasonable grounds to believe would be accepted." This latter provision is designed to relieve the seller from the "forced breach" advantage enjoyed by the buyer who could wait until the 11th hour and reject the goods (usually for the real reason that due to a change in market conditions the contract is no longer attractive to him) because of some minor defect.

Section 2-605 points up another advantage enjoyed by the buyer by requiring him to state the grounds for rejection where a defect in the tender could have been ascertained by reasonable inspection and could have been cured by the seller if stated seasonably. Failure on the part of the buyer to so particularize will preclude him from relying on the unstated defect to justify his rejection. With respect to other grounds of rejection (those not readily apparent or not so minor as to be cured) the merchant buyer, upon request from a merchant seller, must make a written final statement of all the defects on which he proposes to rely. Thereafter, the buyer is limited to the objections so stated.

Remedies for Breach

Most of the remedy rules upon breach are continued but with some modifications. The Code introduces the concept of "cover" where the seller fails to perform by giving the buyer an alternative right to purchase substitute goods and recover from the seller the difference between the contract price and the cost of cover as an absolute measure of damages, provided he purchases in a reasonable manner (2-712). In order to be consistent with the right to cover, the buyer's alternative right to sue for damages is measured by the difference between the contract price and the market price at the time he learned of the breach (the time when he could have made a cover purchase), and not the market price at the time when the goods should have been delivered (2-713). The buyer's right to specific performance is liberalized by section 2-716, when the goods are "unique (the usual rule) or in other proper circumstances." This last phrase is apparently to permit the buyer to have the specific goods when, for example, in an "output" or "requirements" contract, he is unable to cover, even though the goods are not necessarily unique.

As in the case of the buyer's remedies, the seller's rights under the Code upon breach are also similar to existing law but with some liberalizing modifications. The seller has the absolute right to re-sell the goods wrongfully refused by the buyer and recover the difference in re-sale price and the contract price, provided the re-sale is "com-mercially reasonable" (2-706). Code Section 2-709 expressly permits the seller to recover any lost profits which he would have received had the buyer performed, which the case law has been reluctant to allow, where the market price and contract price are the same.

Public policy restrictions are imposed on freedom of contract under Section 2-718 where a liquidated damage clause upon breach is enforceable only where reasonable (not excessive) and in no event will the buyer be made to forfeit an amount in excess of twenty per cent of the price or $500.00 whichever is smaller. An interesting balance between freedom of contract and policy limitations thereto is found in section 2-725 which prescribes a 4-year statute of limitations for actions on a sales contract which by agreement may be reduced to not less than one year, but may not be extended.

Formation of the Sales Contract

One area of sales law, which is not touched by the Uniform Sales Act nor treated separately from the general common law of contracts, is the formation of a sales contract. The application of the usual rules of offer, acceptance and consideration has resulted in some uncommercial and unexpected results—at least results which are not expected by the non-lawyer businessman. The drafters of the Code took this opportunity to make sales contract law conform to commercial practice and understanding as to when merchants are bound by their agreements. For example, by section 2-205, a written firm offer to buy or to sell goods may not be revoked for a limited time, even though no consideration has passed. Under section 2-207, an offer to buy goods may be accepted and a contract formed, even though the acceptance contains some additional or minor different terms, and such additional terms will become part of the contract unless objected to within a reasonable time. Section 2-209 permits a good faith modification of an existing sales contract without additional consideration, as between merchants. In authorizing the commercially expedient open-price agreements and output and requirement contracts, sections 2-305 and 2-306 deliver the final death blow to the common law objections of uncertainty and lack of mutuality.

Section 2-201 continues the application of the Statute of Frauds to sales contracts with some apparent reluctance, as evidenced by some liberalizing modifications. The amount of the purchase price, which creates the requirements of a writing, is increased to $500.00. The language "some writing sufficient to indicate that a contract of sale has been made . . ." rejects the strict early case law requirement of stating all material terms of the contract in a written memorandum. Where merchants make an oral telephone contract and a confirmation of the conversation is sent by letter, the other party must object to the contents of the writing within ten days. Thereafter, the contract may be proved by oral evidence and is not subject to the Statute of Frauds defense. Partial performance of an oral contract satisfies the Statute of Frauds only to the extent that goods or payment have been actually received.

Warranties

In dealing with the frequently litigated problem of sales warranties, the Code makes surprisingly little change. One minor conflict is resolved by the provision of section 2-314 that the "serving for value of food or drink to be consumed either on the premises or elsewhere is a sale." Disclaimer of warranties is still permitted as a matter of freedom of contract, but with the condition that if in a written contract, it must be conspicuous and to disclaim the implied warranty of merchantability, the writing must mention the word "merchantability." The Code is silent on the question of privity between the seller and buyer as a prerequisite of a breach of warranty claim. This highly controversial issue is therefore left to the developing case law when a buyer seeks to hold the manufacturer of the goods liable for defects which constitute a breach of the "contractual" warranty obligation.

Rights of Third Parties

An important change with respect to the rights of third parties is the rule of section 2-403 which gives to a buyer from a merchant who deals in goods of that kind a claim to the goods which is superior to that of an owner who had entrusted them with the merchant. This is a substantial change from the law as it is said to be, that a transferor can pass no better title than he, himself, had. The change may be more modest when compared with recent case decisions which are inclined to estop the entrusting owner from asserting his title against a bona fide purchaser—the law as it actually is—based on the modern tendency toward greater negotiability of goods.

When goods are sold and the seller remains in possession, case decisions have held under varying circumstances that the seller's creditors may treat the sale as fraudulent and thus void as to them.

Section 2-402 modifies this rule by stating that "retention of possession in good faith and current course of trade by a merchant-seller for a commercially reasonable time after a sale or identification is not fraudulent."

ARTICLE 3

COMMERCIAL PAPER

The Uniform Negotiable Instrument Law (NIL) was the first of the uniform laws promulgated by the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws and the only one enacted by all of the states. In repealing the NIL, Article 3 of the Code represents the first real re-examination and revision of the law of commercial paper in over sixty years. The Code drafters apparently found most of the NIL rules as it applied to commercial paper (the Code term for bills and notes) adequate, since they confined themselves principally to the tidying up of loose ends by resolving a number of conflicts which have developed over the years.

An important change in the scope of coverage is to divorce commercial paper from long-term investment securities by dealing with the latter in a separate Article 8. This would solve the problem of fitting corporate bonds, which necessarily carried collateral provisions, into the rigid mold of the NIL, which conceived of all negotiable paper as a "courier without baggage."

Also, the check collection process by banks which has been partially dealt with under the Bank Collection Code and the NIL, is split off and placed under a separate Article 4.

Form and Negotiation

The Code continues the basic policy that commercial paper, in order to serve its function as a substitute for money, must be a certain promise to pay a definite amount of money at a definite time. A number of conflicting and uncertain rules of case law which has attempted to balance this policy with contemporary commercial needs are resolved and settled. For example, negotiability is not affected by any acceleration clause in a time instrument (3-109) but such acceleration may be called only upon the good faith belief that the prospect of payment is impaired (1-208). Furthermore, a promise to pay is unconditional, and thus negotiability is not impaired, where a note is executed by a partnership and the promise to pay is only out of partnership assets, or by a governmental agency where the promise is limited to payment out of a particular fund.

Most of the basic rules concerning negotiation are continued under the Code. An illustration of a minor change is the complete rejection of the "once bearer, always bearer" common law cliché as partially enacted by section 40 of the NIL, which treats a bearer instrument as remaining bearer even though specially indorsed. Section 3-204 of the Code permits any holder, as the owner of commercial paper, to convert bearer paper to order by special indorsement and thus control the method of future negotiation until it is re-converted to bearer paper by a subsequent holder's blank indorsement.

Section 3-205 includes a conditional indorsement within the definition of restrictive indorsements. A restrictive indorsement (such as the familiar indorsement for collection) does not affect an intermediary bank taking a check in the collection process and a restrictive indorsee may be a holder in due course, to the extent that value is applied by him consistent with the indorsement.

Liability of Parties

The construction of several NIL sections by the courts has led to the imposition of liability on parties which the drafters of the Code found to be undesirable. This will be illustrated by the following examples of changes which the Code would make.

The test of whether a check is bearer or order under NIL, section 9, turns on whether the drawer intends for the named payee to receive payment; if he does it is order paper and thus may be transferred and properly paid only by a valid indorsement of the payee. This conceptual rationale sometimes leads to the result that where a drawer draws a check with the name of a payee supplied by a dishonest employee, who then indorses in that name and receives payment, the paying drawee bank may not debit the account of the drawer, since it paid an order instrument under a forged indorsement. The same result may be reached where an impostor induces the drawer to make a check payable to the person impersonated, in which case the check may be an order instrument, since the drawer intends for the named payee to receive payment. Code section 3-405 is aimed at this result, not on the bearer-order theory, but on the basis of allocation of loss, by the provision that the indorsement under the illustrated circumstances is effective. Thus, the loss is borne by the drawer and not the paying drawee.

Code section 3-417 contains some elaborate warranty provisions in favor of a drawee by a holder on presentment for acceptance or payment while under the existing NIL sections 65 and 66 warranties run only to the holder upon transfer. Implied warranties include a warranty of all necessary indorsements and that the instrument has not been altered. These warranties are also made by prior indorsers so that the drawee or acceptor, who is entitled to recover after payment because of a forgery or alteration, is not restricted to proceeding only against the party receiving payment. Any existing doubt as to the application of the doctrine of Price v. Neal, which places the loss on the drawee bank who pays or accepts a forged check in favor of a holder in due course, is clearly removed by the absence of a warranty of genuineness of the drawer's signature. Section 3-418 confirms this result by making payment or acceptance final as to a holder in due course.

NIL section 15 provides that nondelivery of an incompleting instrument is a real defense available against even a holder in due course, although neither nondelivery or unauthorized completion of a delivered instrument may be asserted against a holder in due course. This is the case of the careless drawer who signs checks but does not fill in all blanks and they are stolen, filled in, and sold to a holder in due course. Code section 3-115 reverses this result by treating this as only a personal defense "when a paper whose contents at the time of signing show that it is intended to become an instrument. . ."

The requirement of timely presentment to parties who are primarily liable (drawees, makers and acceptors) and notice of dishonor in order to hold parties who are secondarily liable (indorsers and drawers) is continued under the Code. The requirement of formal protest, however, is practically eliminated as a condition to holding secondary parties liable, by limiting this requirement to a draft drawn in a foreign country upon a drawee located in the United States (3-501). The time within which a check must be presented for payment is lengthened to thirty days with respect to the liability of a drawer and, seven days after indorsement, with respect to the liability of an indorser, as a matter of presumed reasonable time (3-503). The NIL rule of complete discharge of an indorser by a delay in presentment or notice of dishonor is preserved under the Code, but the limit of discharge to a drawer only to the extent of prejudice by such delay (usually by insolvency of the drawee during the period of delay) applies to all drawers. (3-501, 3-502). This pro tanto discharge of drawers does not apply under NIL section 70 to the drawer of a bill of exchange, other than a check, who is fully discharged. Nor does it apply to makers of a note payable "at a bank," or acceptors of a bill where the acceptance is payable "at a bank" who are not discharged at all.

Discharge

The grounds for discharge under the Code are similar to the NIL, except that section 3-601 of the Code makes it clear that discharge applies only to the parties to the instrument (and not to the instrument itself) in order to remove the implication that an act which constitutes a discharge may create a defense to a holder in due course. One substantial change relates to discharge by payment which, under NIL section 119, requires payment "in due course." NIL section 88 defines this as payment "without notice that his title was defective" even though the payor had no way of knowing whether the assertion of an adverse claim is valid. Code section 3-603 changes this by permitting this discharge by payment to the holder, despite knowledge of an adverse claim (thus preserving the payor's credit standing) unless the adverse claimant supplies indemnity. This is further qualified by not including payment to a thief or in a manner inconsistent with a restrictive indorsement.

ARTICLE 4

BANK DEPOSITS AND COLLECTIONS

Attempts at codification of the law governing the bank collection process have had a turbulent past. The National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws made an effort to draft a uniform act, but it met with such opposition from bankers that it was never enacted into law in any jurisdiction. A Bank Collection Code was drafted under the auspices of the American Bankers' Association, and therefore cannot be called a "Uniform Act" in the usual sense. This "ABA Code" was passed in a number of states shortly after it was drafted, including South Carolina, which enacted it in 1930. The enthusiasm for this legislation was slowed down by criticism that it was unfairly weighed in favor of banks and against their depositors, that it was poorly drafted (see e.g., a series of articles in 8 Tulane Law Review 21, 236, 376), and finally by the 1935 decision of the United States Supreme Court in Jennings v. United States Fidelity and Guaranty Co. (294 U. S. 216), that one section was invalid as it applied to National banks.

After considerable vacillation, including an initial plan to include the bank collection material under Article 3, and a decision after the traditional cross-fire of controversy surrounding this subject to drop the subject from the Code altogether, the drafters of the Code finally decided to include a separate Article 4. This decision was based on the need for uniform rules to govern the great volume of checks which continuously flow across state lines in the bank collection process. The scope of this article encompasses practically every item, broadly defined as any instrument for the payment of money, which passes through banks for the purpose of presentment, payment or collection.

Final Payment of Checks

One of the most important problems in the bank collection process is the establishment of a precise time when a check is deemed to have been finally paid by the drawee bank. It is at that point that it is no longer possible for the drawer to stop payment, the drawer's account is charged with the amount of the check (so that his creditors may not thereafter attach these funds on deposit) the provisional credit to the account of the depositor of the check becomes irrevocable so that he may draw against that credit, drawers and indorsers of the check are discharged and the point of no return is reached so that the payor bank is accountable for the amount of the check. Code section 4-213 continues the obvious rule that the final payment occurs when the payor bank pays cash to the holder over the counter. This section further fixes definite rules for time of payment in the more usual case when a check comes to the payor from a depository bank—either directly or through an intermediary bank or through a clearing house in the collection process. The usual practice in such case is for the payor bank to give provisional credit for the item at the time of receipt reserving the right to subsequently revoke that credit if it decides that the check should not be paid. Since time is of the essence, the payor bank will be deemed to have finally paid if it takes no action to revoke the provisional credit within the period prescribed by clearing house rules (in some instances a matter of hours after receipt). When a check is sent through the mails to the payor bank, the Code requires a revocation of the provisional credit within the "midnight deadline." This is a new term which in most cases will extend the time within which a bank must act to avoid final payment and is defined in section 4-104 as "midnight on the next banking day following the banking day on which it receives the item. . ." "Midnight deadline" is also the presumed period of time within which a collecting or intermediary bank receiving a check in the collection process must act in presenting for payment, sending notice of dishonor, etc. For the purpose of computing the commencement of the period, existing banking practice of fixing an afternoon hour no earlier than 2 p. m., as a cut-off time after which items will be considered as received on the next banking day, is recognized by Code section 4-107.

An alternative point of final payment, after which a check may not be returned, is the "posting" of the check by the payor, i. e., the mechanical act of debiting the drawer's account. The point of time, after which a stop-payment order from the drawer or attachment of the account by the drawer's creditors is not effective, is established as the time of "sight posting" (4-303). In the collection process, this occurs when a clerk has placed the check in a stack to be sent to another office for final posting, and is based on the practical difficulty of preventing the payment by final posting after this time.

Relationship Between Payor Bank and Its Customer

Article 4 contains a number of rules governing the relationship between a payor bank and its customers, some of which would modify or directly change existing law or settle areas of present uncertainty. Section 4-402 recognizes the generally understood rule that a drawee bank has a duty to pay a check which is a proper order to pay, but modifies the damage rule for breach of this duty by limiting recovery to actual damages proved. When two or more checks are presented for payment at the same time and the account is insufficient to pay them all, the bank may pay in any order with impunity until the deposit is no longer sufficient to pay any one. (4-303). Present uncertainty as to the effective stop-payment orders is removed by section 4-403, which makes an oral order binding upon the bank for fourteen days and a written order effective for six months. A bank's duty to its depositor with respect to a stale check presented for payment is clarified by section 4-404, which provides that the bank may, but need not, pay a check which is presented more than six months after its date. When the drawer of a check dies or is incompetent before it is paid, the order to pay is still effective until the banks learn of the death or incompetence and may pay for ten days after such knowledge (4-405).

Code section 4-406 continues the common law duty of a depositor to examine his bank statements and paid items and notify the bank with reasonable promptness of a forgery of his signature on a check that has been paid or any alteration, at pain of being precluded from asserting such irregularities. This section gives the drawer 14 days after the return of an item and statement to discover and notify the bank of a forgery or alteration and is estopped thereafter to assert any subsequent forgery or alteration by the same wrongdoer. In all other cases, without regard to negligence, the customer has one year from the time the statement and items are made available to him to discover and report to the bank a forgery of his signature or an alteration, and three years from such time to report a forged indorsement.

ARTICLE 5

LETTERS OF CREDIT

The commercial letter of credit has been employed principally in international trade where the foreign seller is willing to ship goods only on the credit of a known bank which promises to pay the purchase price upon the receipt of the Bill of Lading and other necessary documents. Prior to the Code, the law concerning letters of credit came from common law decisions, principally of New York, Massachusetts and California, where the bulk of foreign commerce is financed. Thus, Article 5 of the Code breaks new ground in codifying the legal rules concerning this device. The greater certainty and clarification afforded by statutory treatment may increase its use in domestic trade, where a distant seller may have the added protection of substituting the credit of a bank for that of a buyer, who may have already arranged for financing of the purchase price by the bank. The customary documentary sale, whereby the seller sends the bill of lading with a draft drawn on the buyer to a bank in the buyer's town for collection, unlike the letter of credit, does not shift the risk of non-payment from the seller to the bank.

In order to serve this essential risk shifting function, the bank is legally divorced from matters relating to the underlying contract of sale, such as the quantity and quality of the goods. Thus, under the Code, the issuing bank's liability to pay and its entitlement to reimbursement from its customer becomes absolute upon the receipt of the documents called for (5-109). If the bank is notified prior to payment that the documents are forged or there is fraud in the transaction between the buyer and seller, the bank is given an option to honor the draft or demand for payment unless the customer has obtained a court injunction against the issuer's exercise of its option.

Normally, a bank will issue a straight letter of credit where the language "we engage with you" is used. In such form, the promise does not run to a purchaser of the draft as a holder in due course on the theory that he sees on the face that the promise runs only to the issuee. A letter of credit may, however, be made negotiable and negotiated to a holder in due course who may enforce it against the issuer regardless of any fraud in the transaction or forgery of the document (5-114).

In order to properly examine the documents and make sure that they comply with the letter of credit, the bank is given until the close of the third banking day following receipt of the documents to honor the draft. Failure to act within this time constitutes dishonor (5-112).

Upon wrongful dishonor under an irrevocable credit, the presenter may recover from the issuer the face amount of the draft, plus incidental damages recoverable by a seller under Article 2, less any amount realized from re-sale or other use of the subject matter of the transaction (5-115).

ARTICLE 6

BULK TRANSFERS

Article 6 is similar to the South Carolina Bulk Sales Act having the same purpose of protecting creditors of a merchant by voiding a bulk transfer of his merchandise out of the ordinary course of trade, unless the transferee gives notice to all known creditors of the contemplated transfer, at least ten days before he takes possession.

Coverage is extended under Code section 6-102 to include business equipment, if it is made in connection with a bulk transfer of inventory. Also, a bulk sale at auction under section 6-108 would expand existing coverage in which case the auctioneer is charged with the responsibility similar to that of a transferee of other bulk sales, where he knows the auction constitutes a bulk transfer. Failure to comply does not affect the rights of the purchasers, but the auctioneer is personally liable to the creditors of the transferor for uncollected debts, but not exceeding the net proceeds of the auction.

ARTICLE 7

DOCUMENTS OF TITLE

Article 7 would repeal and modernize the half-century old Uniform Warehouse Receipts Act (UWRA) and the Uniform Bills of Lading Act (UBLA) integrating the statutory treatment of these documents. Some new coverage is included to cover modern shipping and storage practices, which were not contemplated by the original uniform acts, such as bonded storage required by federal or state statute, air bills and problems which arise under modern high-speed air or truck transportation. Of course, this state legislation would not affect such federal legislation dealing with interstate shipments, such as the Federal Bills of Lading Act or the Federal Carriage of Goods by Sea Act.

As under the UWRA, a warehouse receipt, by definition, must be issued by a warehouseman which does not include a person who stores his own goods (7-201). An important exception to this is found in section 7-201 which treats a receipt as a warehouse receipt when issued by a non-warehouseman under a statute requiring a bond against withdrawal.

The essential terms of the warehouse receipt are similar to those under existing law (7-202) but the Code preserves obligations of the issuer even though the document does not comply with the formal requirements. Essential terms of a Bill of Lading provided by the UBLA are omitted from the Code, but federal regulation of the forms used in interstate commerce will continue to control.

An illustration of the Code's modernization of documents of title is the newly authorized "destination bill" designed to meet the problem of high speed air transportation where the goods may arrive at the destination before the documents. This could be inconvenient where the carrier does not have storage facilities, and even more serious where the goods are perishable. To meet this problem, section 7-305 authorizes the carrier, upon receipt of the goods for shipment, wire or cable at the destination point to issue the bill. (Of course, the carrier may not issue the bill until the goods are received.) Assuming the usual documentary sale, the bill would be issued to the buyer's bank, the seller would wire the bank a draft on the buyer, and the bank would indorse the bill to the buyer when he honors the draft.

Many of the familiar negotiable instruments rules apply where a document of title is negotiable and is taken by "due negotiation." A new requirement is that negotiation must be in the "regular course of business or financing" in order for the transferee to take free of defenses and claims of ownership to which his transferor is subject (7-501). To so qualify the person making the transfer must be a person in the trade and the nature of the transaction must be a usual and ordinary transaction in which documents are transferred.

A bona fide purchaser of an altered document of title may enforce it according to its original tenor. The same rule applies to the filling in of blanks in a bill of lading (7-306) but a bona fide purchaser may treat as authorized the filling of a blank in a negotiable warehouse receipt (7-208). This absolute liability imposed on a warehouseman for the unauthorized filling of blanks is in recognition of the unnecessary danger of executing warehouse receipts in blank. It is often necessary for carriers to execute bills of lading in blank to be filled out by various employees, and thus the consequence of improper completion of bills carries no sanction.

ARTICLE 8

INVESTMENT SECURITIES

The principal statutory law in South Carolina today governing the transfer of certificates of stock as an investment security is the Uniform Stock Transfer Act. As a type of negotiable instrument the present Uniform Negotiable Instruments Law is also applicable to bearer bonds. The Code would repeal the Uniform Stock Transfer Act and replace it with Article 8 which also separates the law of investment securities from the short-term negotiable paper of Article 3. Article 8 extends new statutory coverage to registered bonds and other types of investment paper not presently covered by any uniform act. The matter of regulation of securities under the federal and state "blue sky laws" is not dealt with by this article.

As the negotiable instruments law of securities, the basic policies of free transferability and protection to a holder are similar to those of Article 3, but without the formal prerequisites of negotiability required by the Negotiable Instruments Law and Article 3 of the Code. Thus a bona fide purchaser of securities is similar to a holder in due course in negotiable instrument law, in that he takes free of defenses and adverse claims of ownership. Similar to the rule of forged commercial paper, no holder has a right against an issuer of a counterfeit security or one on which the validating signature is unauthorized. Under Code Section 8-205, however, an unauthorized signature is valid in favor of a good faith purchaser for value when it is of a person entrusted by the issuer with signing the security or an employee entrusted with handling the security. Code Section 8-206 follows the change in the law of commercial paper under Article 3, by protecting a purchaser for value without notice from the defense of improper completion where blanks are left upon the issue of a security.

The purchaser of commercial paper after maturity is automatically subject to all defenses under Article 3. His counterpart as a purchaser of security under Section 8-203 will be deprived of the bona fide purchaser status only where he purchases more than two years after a call for redemption or exchange, or one year after such call, if the funds or securities are available for delivery when due.

Code Section 8-104 prescribes a new formula for adjusting the rights of a holder against the issuer of an over-issue of securities, as where a stock transfer agent issues the new certificate without the surrender of a certificate for a corresponding number of shares, creating an excess of the issuer's chartered allowance. The Code rule resolves this problem by compelling the issuer to purchase shares on the market to replace the over-issue. If shares are not available from the market, the holder may obtain reimbursement at the price paid or if not purchased, at the last purchase price.

SECURED TRANSACTIONS

Article 9 is probably the most important article of the Code since its scope reaches transactions whose intended effect is to create a security interest in personal property. Furthermore, in order to accomplish its fundamental objective of providing uniform and simplified rules governing chattel security which meet modern commercial needs, it has been necessary to introduce a number of new concepts which would more substantially change existing practice than any other article of the Code.

In limiting the area of coverage to chattel financing, Article 9 divorces itself from its ancestor, the real property mortgage. Existing state statutory expressions of local public policy regulating credit (e. g., usury and small loan acts) and creating liens in favor of preferred creditors (e. g., landlords and materialmen) are unaffected by this article. Also, existing federal legislation dealing with the recording of a security interest in certain types of collateral, such as airplanes, and ships and state automobile title laws, are made to fit into the scheme of Article 9 without change. The remaining aspects of secured financing law including the creation, attachment and perfection of a security interest are treated for the first time in an integrated, comprehensive and uniform way by this article.

In treating a security transaction as a single unity in which there is a conveyance of a security interest in personal property to secure the payment of a debt, Article 9 rejects any distinction based on the form or designation of the device employed, such as chattel mortgage, conditional sales agreement, trust receipt, etc. Different results are reached in some instances on functional grounds depending upon the nature of the collateral and its use. For this purpose, Section 9-109 divides all collateral into four classifications: consumer goods, used for personal purposes; equipment, used principally in business; farm products in possession of a person engaged in farming operations; and inventory held by a business enterprise for sale or materials used, consumed, or manufactured.

Consistent with this general functional rather than formal and conceptual approach, Article 9 states substantive rules without regard to the ancient controversy over whether the secured party acquires "title" to collateral or a "mere lien."

Creation of the Security Interest

In order to create or convey a security interest which is valid between the parties, a minimum of formalities are prescribed by the Code. The pledge type is recognized and requires nothing more than delivery of the collateral or documents of title which represent the goods pledged. For the creation of the more usual type of non-possessory security interest, all that is necessary is a simple security agreement signed by the debtor containing a general description of the collateral (9-203). When there is such an agreement, value is given, and the debtor has rights in the collateral, the security interest attaches in favor of the secured party (9-204).

In a modern industrial economy there is frequently an urgent need for even the most successful and solvent business enterprise to acquire working capital in order to finance the acquisition of inventory and meet current operational expenses. A financier may be willing to supply these funds only when he can acquire a valid security interest in the commercial debtor's inventory or equipment which will stand up against claims of third parties. Since inventory is frequently in a state of motion in the resale or manufacturing cycle, what is needed is an effective "floating lien" which automatically feeds the security agreement as it is acquired by the debtor. Where the collateral is business equipment which may be replaced before the loan is repaid, it is also commercially desirable for the replacements to automatically attach to the security interest.

One of the most significant accomplishments of Article 9 is that it meets these needs by expressly validating the "after-acquired-property" clause in a security agreement whereby a lien on inventory or replacement equipment attaches as it is acquired by the debtor (9-204). To complete the commercial objective of a continuing extension of credit secured by new inventory or equipment as acquired, Section 9-204 expressly validates the extension of the security interest to future advances.

The effectiveness of this inventory financing arrangement to withstand the attack of unsecured creditors directly, or through their representatives, the trustee in bankruptcy, has been in doubt ever since the 1925 United States Supreme Court decision of Benedict v. Ratner (268 U. S. 353) held the transaction void where the debtor was given unfettered dominion or control over the inventory collateral. Code Section 9-205 removes that doubt by rejecting the principle of Benedict v. Ratner as a matter of state law which should be controlling in federal bankruptcy litigation.

The validation of the "after-acquired-property" clause, as the key to effective commercial financing, does not apply to consumer goods acquired by the debtor more than ten days after the secured party gives value. This is in recognition of the social and economic objection of tying up all of the future acquisitions of an individual by such a continuing blanket lien. A similar policy decision is the basis of the limitation on crop financing to crops which become such within seven years after the security agreement is executed.

Perfection

The Code continues to recognize that for most types of collateral, perfection of the security interest against third parties—the real test of its effectiveness—may be accomplished alternatively by pledge or by record notice. The Code adopts what may be generally described as a “lien creditor race” approach. Only creditors who have obtained a lien without knowledge of the security interest and before it is perfected may defeat the security interest (9-301). As between conflicting security interests in the same collateral, priority is accorded to the first to perfect, regardless of notice, and regardless of the order of attachment. Furthermore, a bona fide purchaser of the collateral for value and without knowledge of the security interest has the right to rely on possession in the debtor and will usually take free of the unfiled security interest.

These generalizations are subject to some important exceptions and modifications which need to be outlined in order to present a clearer and more accurate picture of the Code’s approach to perfection. It should be noted that perfection is a relative term since the security interest may be perfected as to one class of third parties but not as to another.

In the context of inventory financing, it is the usual understanding of the parties that the debtor will sell his inventory in the ordinary course of business and is usually so authorized. Code Section 9-307 recognizes this commercial understanding by providing that the buyer out of inventory in the ordinary course of business takes free of the inventory financier’s security interest, even though he has knowledge of it. The proceeds received from such sale of inventory are subject to a continuing security interest in favor of the inventory financier, if perfected by express coverage in the instrument filed for record. In the event of insolvency proceedings against the debtor, the perfected security interest in proceeds which are commingled with other funds of the debtor is limited to an amount received within ten days of the institution of such insolvency proceedings (9-306). Thus, the inventory financier, who properly perfects his security interest, will be protected against the honest insolvency of the debtor, to the extent of the value of the collateral. Despite the Code’s rejection of the Benedict Rule, which compelled the security financier to exercise some control over the inventory collateral, some element of the policing and accounting doctrine of that case remains, in order to avoid the loss of proceeds received by the debtor more than ten days prior to insolvency proceedings.

Where the secured party does not authorize the sale of the collateral, as where the collateral is business equipment, or in the case of crop financing, a purchaser of the collateral will take subject to the perfected security interest.

No filing is necessary in order to perfect a purchase money security interest in consumer goods and farm equipment having purchase price not in excess of $2500. Purchases from the debtor, however, will take free of the unfilled security interest in such goods (9-302), (9-307). This treatment of consumer goods does not apply to the financing of automobiles for private use where the state's certificate of title law, eliminating the requirement of perfection by filing, would govern (9-302).

For the mechanics of perfecting a non-possessory security interest in chattel by filing, the Code borrows the concept of "notice filing" from the Uniform Trust Receipts Act (enacted in 33 states but not South Carolina) as an alternative to filing the security agreement itself. This is record or constructive notice by the filing of an abbreviated statement which need only contain the signature and address of the debtor and secured party and a general description of the types or items of the collateral. This "financing statement" device is designed principally to facilitate the perfection of a security interest in inventory where there is a continuing change in the collateral and in the amount of indebtedness. The record notice is effective for a period of five years from the time the statement is presented to the filing clerk with the fee, subject to renewal for a like term by filing a "continuation statement" (9-403).

Since this non-informative notice filing does not reveal the amount of the secured debt at any given time, Section 9-208 makes provision for the debtor to obtain a statement from the secured party of record setting out this information which may be then relied on by third parties who deal with the debtor. Whenever there is no longer an outstanding obligation, Section 9-405 places the burden on a secured party of record to send a "termination statement" to the filing officer to remove the financing statement from the record. If the secured party fails to send such a termination statement within ten days after demand by the debtor, he is liable for $100. damages plus any loss caused to the debtor by such failure.

Where the collateral remains at rest in the possession of the debtor, the secured party may continue the present practice of filing the security agreement as a "financing statement" rather than execute the separate abbreviated statement which will usually be limited to inventory financing. In that event, the Code eliminates most of the formal and technical prerequisites to filing such as acknowledgment or witnessing. A new requirement is that the secured party must also sign the agreement as a prerequisite to effective filing in order to establish his responsibility for issuing the termination statement.

Priorities

It has been stated that priority among conflicting security interests in the same collateral is determined by the order of perfection. This is true regardless of the order in which the consideration passes—that is, the time when the secured loan is made—and regardless of actual knowledge. A most important application of this rule and the notice filing concept is the protection it affords to the inventory financier in granting maximum protection against the honest insolvency of his debtor. The financier, having determined that the debtor's property is not subject to a recorded security interest or creditor's lien, may execute and file the abbreviated financing statement containing a general description of the collateral to be covered, an after-acquired property clause and claim of proceeds, if appropriate. Thereafter, the security agreement may be executed and the money advanced, at which time the security interest in the collateral attaches, but with the effective date of perfection as of the prior time when the financing statement was filed. Even if a creditor of the debtor should acquire a lien or advance money and take a security interest in the same collateral, his interest would be subordinate to the security interest which was filed first, but which attached later. Assuming that the collateral is inventory and the secured party has authorized its sale, he may now look to the proceeds which were expressly claimed in the filed financing statement and any replacement of inventory which was covered by the after-acquired property clause, all of which were perfected as of the time of initial filing. It is apparent that the drafters of Article 9 focused their attention on this chattel financing situation and set out to accomplish this result by giving maximum protection to the diligent secured party against losses resulting from the honest insolvency of the debtor. It is also apparent that the policy objective designed to lead to this result was to encourage the supplying of working capital, which is a vital ingredient of the expanding industrial economy.

The "first-to-perfect" rule, as the basic formula for determining the order of priorities, is subject to an important qualification where one of the competing claimants holds a purchase money security interest to secure the purchase price of newly acquired goods and the other claims the purchased collateral under an after-acquired property clause. In the context of equipment financing, if the purchase money financier perfects his security interest within ten days after the debtor receives protection in the collateral, he will have a priority claim in this collateral over the financier claiming under an after-acquired property clause (9-312(4)). This preferred treatment of the purchase money security interest constitutes an exception to the usual rule that after-acquired property feeds a security interest when acquired and is deemed perfected as of the time of the filing of the financing statement containing an after-acquired property clause. Where the collateral is inventory, the purchase money security claimant has priority over a conflicting security interest, only when he perfects before the debtor receives possession of the collateral (without benefit of the ten day grace period for filing), and only if he gives notice of his claim to the inventory financier who has previously filed a financing statement claiming the same inventory under an after-acquired property clause (9-312(3)). The reason for the additional requirement of notice in order for the purchase money financier of inventory to enjoy a priority position is to save the initial general inventory financier from the risk of continuing to make advances to the debtor under the belief that the subsequently acquired inventory continues to feed his security interest.

Several other special modifications of the first to perfect priority rule are provided for by the Code. Section 9-312(2) accords priority to a perfected security interest in crops to secure a loan given not more than three months before the crops are planted. Section 9-310 gives priority to statutory liens for services or materials, unless the statute creating the lien provides otherwise.

A security interest in personal property, which thereafter becomes a fixture by attachment to real property, takes priority over all prior security claims in the realty (9-313). Similarly, a security interest in goods which are affixed to other goods (typically a security interest in tires, subsequently installed on cars), takes priority over prior claims to the whole (9-314).

Under Section 9-315, a perfected security interest in goods, which through processing become so commingled as to lose their identity in the product or mass (e. g., raw materials), continues in the product or mass. This section also covers the case where the collateral consists of components assembled into a machine and which do not lose their identity. In that case, the security interest may be continued in the product if expressly claimed in the filed financing statement; if not so claimed, the identifiable part will be treated as an accession under Section 9-314. When more than one security interest attaches to the product or mass, the secured parties share in proportion to their contribution.

Default

Part 5 of Article 9 is designed to afford greater flexibility and simplicity in the prescribed manner of liquidating the collateral on default in payment of the secured debt. This policy is balanced against the protection of the debtor's interest that the collateral will realize its fair value. This objective is expressed in Section 9-504 by the key standard for the liquidation sale that it be "commercially reasonable." Without an attempt at a specific definition of this term, certain guidelines and minimum standards are prescribed for the property disposition of the collateral by the secured party. It may be by public or private sale; with or without processing; in bulk or in parcels. Reasonable notice of the time and place of the disposition must be given to the debtor and other secured parties of record, unless the collateral is perishable, or threatens to decline speedily in value, or is of a type customarily sold on a recognized market.

Code Section 9-505 authorizes the secured party in the possession of the collateral after default to retain the collateral in satisfaction of the debt if the debtor, or any secured party of record, does not object to such written proposal within 30 days after receipt. Where the collateral is consumer goods and the debtor has paid 60% of the obligation, however, the collateral must be disposed of within 90 days after the secured party takes possession. If the secured party fails to comply with this requirement where the collateral is consumer goods, section 9-507 gives the debtor the right to recover damages in an amount no less than the total credit charge plus 10% of the debt.

GENERAL DEFINITIONS AND PRINCIPLES OF INTERPRETATION

SECTION 1—201. General Definitions.

Subject to additional definitions contained in the subsequent Articles of this Act which are applicable to specific Articles or Parts thereof, and unless the context otherwise requires, in this Act:

(1) “Action” in the sense of a judicial proceeding includes recoupment, counterclaim, set-off, suit in equity and any other proceedings in which rights are determined.

(2) “Aggrieved party” means a party entitled to resort to a remedy.

(3) “Agreement” means the bargain of the parties in fact as found in their language or by implication from other circumstances including course of dealing or usage of trade or course of performance as provided in this Act (Sections 1—205 and 2—208). Whether an agreement has legal consequences is determined by the provisions of this Act, if applicable; otherwise by the law of contracts (Section 1—103). (Compare “Contract”.)

(4) “Bank” means any person engaged in the business of banking.

(5) “Bearer” means the person in possession of an instrument, document of title, or security payable to bearer or indorsed in blank.

(6) “Bill of lading” means a document evidencing the receipt of goods for shipment issued by a person engaged in the business of transporting or forwarding goods, and includes an airbill. “Airbill” means a document serving for air transportation as a bill of lading does for marine or rail transportation, and includes an air consignment note or air waybill.

(7) “Branch” includes a separately incorporated foreign branch of a bank.

(8) “Burden of establishing” a fact means the burden of persuading the triers of fact that the existence of the fact is more probable than its non-existence.

(9) “Buyer in ordinary course of business” means a person who in good faith and without knowledge that the sale to him is in violation of the ownership rights or security interest of a third party in the goods buys in ordinary course from a person in the business of selling goods of that kind but does not include a pawnbroker. “Buying” may be for cash or by exchange of other property or on secured or unsecured credit and includes receiving goods or documents of title under a pre-existing contract for sale but does not include a transfer in bulk or as security for or in total or partial satisfaction of a money debt.

(10) “Conspicuous”: A term or clause is conspicuous when it is so written that a reasonable person against whom it is to operate ought to have noticed it. A printed heading in capitals (as: NON-NEGOTIABLE BILL OF LADING) is conspicuous. Language in the body of a form is “conspicuous” if it is in larger or other contrasting type or color. But in a telegram any stated term is “conspicuous”. Whether a term or clause is “conspicuous” or not is for decision by the court.

(11) “Contract” means the total legal obligation which results from the parties’ agreement as affected by this Act and any other applicable rules of law. (Compare “Agreement”).

(12) “Creditor” includes a general creditor, a secured creditor, a lien creditor and any representative of creditors, including an assignee for the benefit of creditors, a trustee in bankruptcy, a receiver in equity and an executor or administrator of an insolvent debtor's or assignor's estate.

(13) "Defendant" includes a person in the position of defendant in a cross-action or counterclaim.

(14) "Delivery" with respect to instruments, documents of title, chattel paper or securities means voluntary transfer of possession.

(15) "Document of title" includes bill of lading, dock warrant, dock receipt, warehouse receipt or order for the delivery of goods, and also any other document which in the regular course of business or financing is treated as adequately evidencing that the person in possession of it is entitled to receive, hold and dispose of the document and the goods it covers. To be a document of title a document must purport to be issued by or addressed to a bailee and purport to cover goods in the bailee's possession which are either identified or are fungible portions of an identified mass.

(16) "Fault" means wrongful act, omission or breach.

(17) "Fungible" with respect to goods or securities means goods or securities of which any unit is, by nature or usage of trade, the equivalent of any other like unit. Goods which are not fungible shall be deemed fungible for the purposes of this Act to the extent that under a particular agreement or document unlike units are treated as equivalents.

(18) "Genuine" means free of forgery or counterfeiting.

(19) "Good faith" means honesty in fact in the conduct or transaction concerned.

(20) "Holder" means a person who is in possession of a document of title or an instrument or an investment security drawn, issued or indorsed to him or to his order or to bearer or in blank.

(21) To "honor" is to pay or to accept and pay, or where a credit so engages to purchase or discount a draft complying with the terms of the credit.

(22) "Insolvency proceedings" includes any assignment for the benefit of creditors or other proceedings intended to liquidate or rehabilitate the estate of the person involved.

(23) A person is "insolvent" who either ceased to pay his debts in the ordinary course of business or cannot pay his debts as they become due or is insolvent within the meaning of the federal bankruptcy law.

(24) "Money" means a medium of exchange authorized or adopted by a domestic or foreign government as a part of its currency.

(25) A person has "notice" of a fact when

(a) he has actual knowledge of it; or

(b) he has received a notice or notification of it; or

(c) from all the facts and circumstances known to him at the time in question he has reason to know that it exists.

A person "knows" or has "knowledge" of a fact when he has actual knowledge of it. "Discover" or "learn" or a word or phrase of similar import refers to knowledge rather than to reason to know. The time and circumstances under which a notice or notification may cease to be effective are not determined by this Act.

(26) A person "notifies" or "gives" a notice or notification to another by taking such steps as may be reasonably required to inform the other in ordinary course whether or not such other actually comes to know of it. A person "receives" a notice or notification when

(a) it comes to his attention; or

(b) it is duly delivered at the place of business through which the contract was made or at any other place held out by him as the place for receipt of such communications.

(27) Notice, knowledge or a notice or notification received by an organization is effective for a particular transaction from the time when it is brought to the attention of the individual conducting that transaction, and in any event from the time when it would have been brought to his attention if the organization had exercised due diligence. An organization exercises due diligence if it maintains reasonable routines for communicating significant information to the person conducting the transaction and there is reasonable compliance with the routines. Due diligence does not require an individual acting for the organization to communicate information unless such communication is part of his regular duties or unless he has reason to know of the transaction and that the transaction would be materially affected by the information.

(28) "Organization" includes a corporation, government or governmental subdivision or agency, business trust, estate, trust, partnership or association, two or more persons having a joint or common interest, or any other legal or commercial entity.

(29) "Party", as distinct from "third party", means a person who has engaged in a transaction or made an agreement within this Act.

(30) "Person" includes an individual or an organization (See Section 1—102).

(31) "Presumption" or "presumed" means that the trier of fact must find the existence of the fact presumed unless and until evidence is introduced which would support a finding of its non-existence.

(32) "Purchase" includes taking by sale, discount, negotiation, mortgage, pledge, lien, issue or re-issue, gift or any other voluntary transaction creating an interest in property.

(33) "Purchaser" means a person who takes by purchase.

(34) "Remedy" means any remedial right to which an aggrieved party is entitled with or without resort to a tribunal.

(35) "Representative" includes an agent, an officer of a corporation or association, and a trustee, executor or administrator of an estate, or any other person empowered to act for another.

(36) "Rights" includes remedies.

(37) "Security interest" means an interest in personal property or fixtures which secures payment or performance of an obligation. The retention or reservation of title by a seller of goods notwithstanding shipment or delivery to the buyer (Section 2—401) is limited in effect to a reservation of a "security interest". The term also includes any interest of a buyer of accounts, chattel paper, or contract rights which is subject to Article 9. The special property interest of a buyer of goods on identification of such goods to a contract for sale under Section 2—401 is not a "security interest", but a buyer may also acquire a "security interest" by complying with Article 9. Unless a lease or consignment is intended as security, reservation of title thereunder is not a "security interest" but a consignment is in any event subject to the provisions on consignment sales (Section 2—326). Whether a lease is intended as security is to be determined by the facts of each case; however, (a) the inclusion of an option to purchase does not of itself make the lease one intended for security, and (b) an agreement that upon compliance with the terms of the lease the lessee shall become or has the option to become the owner of the property for no additional consideration or for a nominal consideration does make the lease one intended for security.

(38) "Send" in connection with any writing or notice means to deposit in the mail or deliver for transmission by any other usual means of communication with postage or cost of transmission provided for and properly addressed and in the case of an instrument to an address specified thereon or otherwise agreed, or if there be none to any address reasonable under the circumstances. The receipt of any writing or notice within the time at which it would have arrived if properly sent has the effect of a proper sending.

(39) "Signed" includes any symbol executed or adopted by a party with present intention to authenticate a writing.

(40) "Surety" includes guarantor.

(41) "Telegram" includes a message transmitted by radio, teletype, cable, any mechanical method of transmission, or the like.

(42) "Term" means that portion of an agreement which relates to a particular matter.

(43) "Unauthorized" signature or indorsement means one made without actual, implied or apparent authority and includes a forgery.

(44) "Value". Except as otherwise provided with respect to negotiable instruments and bank collections (Sections 3—303, 4—208 and 4—209) a person gives "value" for rights if he acquires them

- (a) in return for a binding commitment to extend credit or for the extension of immediately available credit whether or not drawn upon and whether or not a charge-back is provided for in the event of difficulties in collection; or
- (b) as security for or in total or partial satisfaction of a pre-existing claim; or
- (c) by accepting delivery pursuant to a pre-existing contract for purchase; or
- (d) generally, in return for any consideration sufficient to support a simple contract.

(45) "Warehouse receipt" means a receipt issued by a person engaged in the business of storing goods for hire.

(46) "Written" or "writing" includes printing, typewriting or any other intentional reduction to tangible form.

SECTION 1—202. Prima Facie Evidence by Third Party Documents.

A document in due form purporting to be a bill of lading, policy or certificate of insurance, official weigher's or inspector's certificate, consular invoice, or any other document authorized or required by the contract to be issued by a third party shall be prima facie evidence of its own authenticity and genuineness and of the facts stated in the document by the third party.

SECTION 1—203. Obligation of Good Faith.

Every contract or duty within this Act imposes an obligation of good faith in its performance or enforcement.

SECTION 1—204. Time; Reasonable Time; "Seasonably".

(1) Whenever this Act requires any action to be taken within a reasonable time, any time which is not manifestly unreasonable may be fixed by agreement.

(2) What is a reasonable time for taking any action depends on the nature, purpose and circumstances of such action.

(3) An action is taken "seasonably" when it is taken at or within the time agreed or if no time is agreed at or within a reasonable time.

SECTION 1—205. Course of Dealing and Usage of Trade.

(1) A course of dealing is a sequence of previous conduct between the parties to a particular transaction which is fairly to be regarded as establishing a common basis of understanding for interpreting their expressions and other conduct.

(2) A usage of trade is any practice or method of dealing having such regularity of observance in a place, vocation or trade as to justify an expectation that it will be observed with respect to the transaction in question. The existence and scope of such a usage are to be proved as facts. If it is established that such a usage is embodied in a written trade code or similar writing the interpretation of the writing is for the court.

(3) A course of dealing between parties and any usage of trade in the vocation or trade in which they are engaged or of which they are or should be aware give particular meaning to and supplement or qualify terms of an agreement.

(4) The express terms of an agreement and an applicable course of dealing or usage of trade shall be construed wherever reasonable as consistent with each other; but when such construction is unreasonable express terms control both course of dealing and usage of trade and course of dealing controls usage of trade.

(5) An applicable usage of trade in the place where any part of performance is to occur shall be used in interpreting the agreement as to that part of the performance.

(6) Evidence of a relevant usage of trade offered by one party is not admissible unless and until he has given the other party such notice as the court finds sufficient to prevent unfair surprise to the latter.

SECTION 1—206. Statute of Frauds for Kinds of Personal Property Not Otherwise Covered.

(1) Except in the cases described in subsection (2) of this section a contract for the sale of personal property is not enforceable by way of action or defense beyond five thousand dollars in amount or value of remedy unless there is some writing which indicates that a contract for sale been made between the parties at a defined or stated price, reasonably identifies the subject matter, and is signed by the party against whom enforcement is sought or by his authorized agent.

(2) Subsection (1) of this section does not apply to contracts for the sale of goods (Section 2—201) nor of securities (Section 8—319) nor to security agreements (Section 9—203).

SECTION 1—207. Performance or Acceptance Under Reservation of Rights.

A party who with explicit reservation of rights performs or promises performance or assents to performance in a manner demanded or offered by the other party does not thereby prejudice the rights reserved. Such words as “without prejudice”, “under protest” or the like are sufficient.

SECTION 1—208. Option to Accelerate at Will.

A term providing that one party or his successor in interest may accelerate payment or performance or require collateral or additional collateral “at will” or “when he deems himself insecure” or in words of similar import shall be construed to mean that he shall have power to do so only if he in good faith believes that the prospect of payment or performance is impaired. The burden of establishing lack of good faith is on the party against whom the power has been exercised.

SALES

Introduction

For the majority of American jurisdictions which had enacted the Sales Act, Article 2 would be a modernized revision of that half-century old Act. Indeed, this Article began as a proposed replacement of the Uniform Sales Act until the decision was made to draft a comprehensive codification of commercial law. For South Carolina, Article 2 would break new ground by providing general statutory coverage of sales law for the first time.

When compared with most of the other articles of the Code, Article 2 would result in a proportionately greater change of existing law. This is due in part to the fact that sales practices have experienced more changes in the past few decades. Consistent with the basic approach of the Code to bring legal rules in closer harmony with commercial practice, this changing environment requires changing legal rules if this objective is to be accomplished. Other changes are based on an abandonment of a conceptual approach in favor of a more functional one in the formation of the rules of this Article. An outstanding example is the elimination of "title passing" as a solution to a number of important questions. Also several changes in the rules dealing with remedies for breach of a sales contract in favor of more liberal relief may be explained by the Code's approach of imposing a greater degree of responsibility for performance on the parties. These generalities should become more meaningful with an examination of the sections in Article 2.

Since the approach of this study is to analyze each section of the Code and compare it with South Carolina law, only incidental reference will be made to the Uniform Sales Act when it appears to reflex the probable South Carolina common law. The main emphasis for comparative purposes continues to be on the South Carolina cases where available.

“Consumer goods”. Section 9—109.

“Dishonor”. Section 3—507.

“Draft”. Section 3—104.

(4) In addition Article 1 contains general definitions and principles of construction and interpretation applicable throughout this Article.

SECTION 2—104. Definitions: “Merchant”; “Between Merchants”; “Financing Agency”.

(1) “Merchant” means a person who deals in goods of the kind or otherwise by his occupation holds himself out as having knowledge or skill peculiar to the practices or goods involved in the transaction or to whom such knowledge or skill may be attributed by his employment of an agent or broker or other intermediary who by his occupation holds himself out as having such knowledge or skill.

(2) “Financing agency” means a bank, finance company or other person who in the ordinary course of business makes advances against goods or documents of title or who by arrangement with either the seller or the buyer intervenes in ordinary course to make or collect payment due or claimed under the contract for sale, as by purchasing or paying the seller’s draft or making advances against it or by merely taking it for collection whether or not documents of title accompany the draft. “Financing agency” includes also a bank or other person who similarly intervenes between persons who are in the position of seller and buyer in respect to the goods (Section 2—707).

(3) “Between merchants” means in any transaction with respect to which both parties are chargeable with the knowledge or skill of merchants.

SECTION 2—105. Definitions: Transferability; "Goods"; "Future" Goods; "Lot"; "Commercial Unit".

(1) "Goods" means all things (including specially manufactured goods) which are movable at the time of identification to the contract for sale other than the money in which the price is to be paid, investment securities (Article 8) and things in action, "Goods" also includes the unborn young of animals and growing crops and other identified things attached to realty as described in the section on goods to be severed from realty (Section 2—107).

(2) Goods must be both existing and identified before any interest in them can pass. Goods which are not both existing and identified are "future" goods. A purported present sale of future goods or of any interest therein operates as a contract to sell.

(3) There may be a sale of a part interest in existing identified goods.

(4) An undivided share in an identified bulk of fungible goods is sufficiently identified to be sold although the quantity of the bulk is not determined. Any agreed proportion of such a bulk or any quantity thereof agreed upon by number, weight or other measure may to the extent of the seller's interest in the bulk be sold to the buyer who then becomes an owner in common.

(5) "Lot" means a parcel or a single article which is the subject matter of a separate sale or delivery, whether or not it is sufficient to perform the contract.

(6) "Commercial unit" means such a unit of goods as by commercial usage is a single whole for purposes of sale and division of which materially impairs its character or value on the market or in use. A commercial unit may be a single article (as a machine) or a set of articles (as a suite of furniture or an assortment of sizes) or a quantity (as a bale, gross, or carload) or any other unit treated in use or in the relevant market as a single whole.

SECTION 2—106. Definitions: "Contract"; "Agreement"; "Contract for Sale"; "Sale"; "Present Sale"; "Conforming to Contract"; "Termination"; "Cancellation".

(1) In this Article unless the context otherwise requires "contract" and "agreement" are limited to those relating to the present or future sale of goods. "Contract for sale" includes both a present sale of goods and a contract to sell goods at a future time. A "sale" consists in the passing of title from the seller to the buyer for a price (Section 2—401). A "present sale" means a sale which is accomplished by the making of the contract.

(2) Goods or conduct including any part of a performance are "conforming" or conform to the contract when they are in accordance with the obligations under the contract.

(3) "Termination" occurs when either party pursuant to a power created by agreement or law puts an end to the contract otherwise than for its breach. On "termination" all obligations which are still executory on both sides are discharged but any right based on prior breach or performance survives.

(4) "Cancellation" occurs when either party puts an end to the contract for breach by the other and its effect is the same as that of "termination" except that the cancelling party also retains any remedy for breach of the whole contract or any unperformed balance.

SECTION 2—107. Goods to Be Severed From Realty: Recording.

(1) A contract for the sale of timber, minerals or the like or a structure or its materials to be removed from realty is a contract for the sale of goods within this Article if they are to be severed by the seller but until severance a purported present sale thereof which is not effective as a transfer of an interest in land is effective only as a contract to sell.

(2) A contract for the sale apart from the land of growing crops or other things attached to realty and capable of severance without material harm thereto but not described in subsection (1) is a contract for the sale of goods within this Article whether the subject matter is to be severed by the buyer or by the seller even though it forms part of the realty at the time of contracting, and the parties can by identification effect a present sale before severance.

(3) The provisions of this section are subject to any third party rights provided by the law relating to realty records, and the contract for sale may be executed and recorded as a document transferring an interest in land and shall then constitute notice to third parties of the buyer's rights under the contract for sale.

PART 2

FORM, FORMATION AND READJUSTMENT
OF CONTRACTSECTION 2—201. Formal Requirements; Statute of Frauds.

(1) Except as otherwise provided in this section a contract for the sale of goods for the price of $500 or more is not enforceable by way of action or defense unless there is some writing sufficient to indicate that a contract for sale has been made between the parties and signed by the party against whom enforcement is sought or by his authorized agent or broker. A writing is not insufficient because it omits or incorrectly states a term agreed upon but the contract is not enforceable under this paragraph beyond the quantity of goods shown in such writing.

(2) Between merchants if within a reasonable time a writing in confirmation of the contract and sufficient against the sender is received and the party receiving it has reason to know its contents, it satisfies the requirements of subsection (1) against such party unless written notice of objection to its contents is given within ten days after it is received.

(3) A contract which does not satisfy the requirements of subsection (1) but which is valid in other respects is enforceable

- (a) if the goods are to be specially manufactured for the buyer and are not suitable for sale to others in the ordinary course of the seller's business and the seller, before notice of repudiation is received and under circumstances which reasonably indicate that the goods are for the buyer, has made either a substantial beginning of their manufacture or commitments for their procurement; or
- (b) if the party against whom enforcement is sought admits in his pleading, testimony or otherwise in court that a contract for sale was made, but the contract is not enforceable under this provision beyond the quantity of goods admitted; or
- (c) with respect to goods for which payment has been made and accepted or which have been received and accepted (Sec. 2—606).

SECTION 2—202. Final Written Expression: Parol or Extrinsic Evidence.

Terms with respect to which the confirmatory memoranda of the parties agree or which are otherwise set forth in a writing intended by the parties as a final expression of their agreement with respect to such terms as are included therein may not be contradicted by evidence of any prior agreement or of a contemporaneous oral agreement but may be explained or supplemented

- (a) by course of dealing or usage of trade (Section 1—205) or by course of performance (Section 2—208); and
- (b) by evidence of consistent additional terms unless the court finds the writing to have been intended also as a complete and exclusive statement of the terms of the agreement.

SECTION 2—203. Seals Inoperative.

The affixing of a seal to a writing evidencing a contract for sale or an offer to buy or sell goods does not constitute the writing a sealed instrument and the law with respect to sealed instruments does not apply to such a contract or offer.

SECTION 2—204. Formation in General.

(1) A contract for sale of goods may be made in any manner sufficient to show agreement, including conduct by both parties which recognizes the existence of such a contract.

(2) An agreement sufficient to constitute a contract for sale may be found even though the moment of its making is undetermined.

(3) Even though one or more terms are left open a contract for sale does not fail for indefiniteness if the parties have intended to make a contract and there is a reasonably certain basis for giving an appropriate remedy.

SECTION 2—205. Firm Offers.

An offer by a merchant to buy or sell goods in a signed writing which by its terms gives assurance that it will be held open is not revocable, for lack of consideration, during the time stated or if no time is stated for a reasonable time, but in no event may such period of irrevocability exceed three months; but any such term of assurance on a form supplied by the offeree must be separately signed by the offeror.

SECTION 2—206. Offer and Acceptance in Formation of Contract.

(1) Unless otherwise unambiguously indicated by the language or circumstances

- (a) an offer to make a contract shall be construed as inviting acceptance in any manner and by any medium reasonable in the circumstances;

- (b) an order or other offer to buy goods for prompt or current shipment shall be construed as inviting acceptance either by a prompt promise to ship or by the prompt or current shipment of conforming or non-conforming goods, but such a shipment of non-conforming goods does not constitute an acceptance if the seller seasonably notifies the buyer that the shipment is offered only as an accommodation to the buyer.

(2) Where the beginning of a requested performance is a reasonable mode of acceptance an offeror who is not notified of acceptance within a reasonable time may treat the offer as having lapsed before acceptance.

SECTION 2—207. Additional Terms in Acceptance or Confirmation.

(1) A definite and seasonable expression of acceptance or a written confirmation which is sent within a reasonable time operates as an acceptance even though it states terms additional to or different from those offered or agreed upon, unless acceptance is expressly made conditional on assent to the additional or different terms.

(2) The additional terms are to be construed as proposals for addition to the contract. Between merchants such terms become part of the contract unless:

- (a) the offer expressly limits acceptance to the terms of the offer;
- (b) they materially alter it; or
- (c) notification of objection to them has already been given or is given within a reasonable time after notice of them is received.

(3) Conduct by both parties which recognizes the existence of a contract is sufficient to establish a contract for sale although the writings of the parties do not otherwise establish a contract. In such case the terms of the particular contract consist of those terms on which the writings of the parties agree, together with any supplementary terms incorporated under any other provisions of this Act.

SECTION 2—208. Course of Performance or Practical Construction.

(1) Where the contract for sale involves repeated occasions for performance by either party with knowledge of the nature of the performance and opportunity for objection to it by the other, any course of performance accepted or acquiesced in without objection shall be relevant to determine the meaning of the agreement.

(2) The express terms of the agreement and any such course of performance, as well as any course of dealing and usage of trade, shall be construed whenever reasonable as consistent with each other; but when such construction is unreasonable, express terms shall control course of performance and course of performance shall control both course of dealing and usage of trade (Section 1—205).

(3) Subject to the provisions of the next section on modification and waiver, such course of performance shall be relevant to show a waiver or modification of any term inconsistent with such course of performance.

SECTION 2—209. Modification, Rescission and Waiver.

(1) An agreement modifying a contract within this Article needs no consideration to be binding.

(2) A signed agreement which excludes modification or rescission except by a signed writing cannot be otherwise modified or rescinded, but except as between merchants such a requirement on a form supplied by the merchant must be separately signed by the other party.

(3) The requirements of the statute of frauds section of this Article (Section 2—201) must be satisfied if the contract as modified is within its provisions.

(4) Although an attempt at modification or rescission does not satisfy the requirements of subsection (2) or (3) it can operate as a waiver.

(5) A party who has made a waiver affecting an executory portion of the contract may retract the waiver by reasonable notification received by the other party that strict performance will be required of any term waived, unless the retraction would be unjust in view of a material change of position in reliance on the waiver.

SECTION 2—210. Delegation of Performance; Assignment of Rights.

(1) A party may perform his duty through a delegate unless otherwise agreed or unless the other party has a substantial interest in having his original promisor perform or control the acts required by the contract. No delegation of performance relieves the party delegating of any duty to perform or any liability for breach.

(2) Unless otherwise agreed all rights of either seller or buyer can be assigned except where the assignment would materially change the duty of the other party, or increase materially the burden or risk imposed on him by his contract, or impair materially his chance of obtaining return performance. A right to damages for breach of the whole contract or a right arising out of the assignor's due performance of his entire obligation can be assigned despite agreement otherwise.

(3) Unless the circumstances indicate the contrary a prohibition of assignment of "the contract" is to be construed as barring only the delegation to the assignee of the assignor's performance.

(4) An assignment of "the contract" or of "all my rights under the contract" or an assignment in similar general terms is an assignment of rights and unless the language or the circumstances (as in an assignment for security) indicate the contrary, it is a delegation of performance of the duties of the assignor and its acceptance by the assignee constitutes a promise by him to perform those duties. This promise is enforceable by either the assignor or the other party to the original contract.

(5) The other party may treat any assignment which delegates performance as creating reasonable grounds for insecurity and may without prejudice to his rights against the assignor demand assurances from the assignee (Section 2—609).

PART 3

GENERAL OBLIGATION AND CONSTRUCTION OF CONTRACT

SECTION 2—301. General Obligations of Parties.

The obligation of the seller is to transfer and deliver and that of the buyer is to accept and pay in accordance with the contract.

SECTION 2—302. Unconscionable Contract or Clause.

(1) If the court as a matter of law finds the contract or any clause of the contract to have been unconscionable at the time it was made the court may refuse to enforce the contract, or it may enforce the remainder of the contract without the unconscionable clause, or it may so limit the application of any unconscionable clause as to avoid any unconscionable result.

(2) When it is claimed or appears to the court that the contract or any clause thereof may be unconscionable the parties shall be afforded a reasonable opportunity to present evidence as to its commercial setting, purpose and effect to aid the court in making the determination.

SECTION 2—303. Allocation or Division of Risks.

Where this Article allocates a risk or a burden as between the parties “unless otherwise agreed”, the agreement may not only shift the allocation but may also divide the risk or burden.

SECTION 2—304. Price Payable in Money, Goods, Realty, or Otherwise.

(1) The price can be made payable in money or otherwise. If it is payable in whole or in part in goods each party is a seller of the goods which he is to transfer.

(2) Even though all or part of the price is payable in an interest in realty the transfer of the goods and the seller’s obligations with reference to them are subject to this Article, but not the transfer of the interest in realty or the transferor’s obligations in connection therewith.

SECTION 2—305. Open Price Term.

(1) The parties if they so intend can conclude a contract for sale even though the price is not settled. In such a case the price is a reasonable price at the time for delivery if

- (a) nothing is said as to price; or
- (b) the price is left to be agreed by the parties and they fail to agree; or
- (c) the price is to be fixed in terms of some agreed market or other standard as set or recorded by a third person or agency and it is not so set or recorded.

(2) A price to be fixed by the seller or by the buyer means a price for him to fix in good faith.

(3) When a price left to be fixed otherwise than by agreement of the parties fails to be fixed through fault of one party the other may at his option treat the contract as cancelled or himself fix a reasonable price.

(4) Where, however, the parties intend not to be bound unless the price be fixed or agreed and it is not fixed or agreed there is no contract. In such a case the buyer must return any goods already received or if unable so to do must pay their reasonable value at the time of delivery and the seller must return any portion of the price paid on account.

SECTION 2—306. Output, Requirements and Exclusive Dealings.

(1) A term which measures the quantity by the output of the seller or the requirements of the buyer means such actual output or requirements as may occur in good faith, except that no quantity unreasonably disproportionate to any stated estimate or in the absence of a stated estimate to any normal or otherwise comparable prior output or requirements may be tendered or demanded.

(2) A lawful agreement by either the seller or the buyer for exclusive dealing in the kind of goods concerned imposes unless otherwise agreed an obligation by the seller to use best efforts to supply the goods and by the buyer to use best efforts to promote their sale.

SECTION 2—307. Delivery in Single Lot or Several Lots.

Unless otherwise agreed all goods called for by a contract for sale must be tendered in a single delivery and payment is due only on such tender but where the circumstances give either party the right to make or demand delivery in lots the price if it can be apportioned may be demanded for each lot.

SECTION 2—308. Absence of Specified Place for Delivery.

Unless otherwise agreed

- (a) the place for delivery of goods is the seller's place of business or if he has none his residence; but
- (b) in a contract for sale of identified goods which to the knowledge of the parties at the time of contracting are in some other place, that place is the place for their delivery; and
- (c) documents of title may be delivered through customary banking channels.

SECTION 2—309. Absence of Specific Time Provisions; Notice of Termination.

(1) The time for shipment or delivery or any other action under a contract if not provided in this Article or agreed upon shall be a reasonable time.

(2) Where the contract provides for successive performances but is indefinite in duration it is valid for a reasonable time but unless otherwise agreed may be terminated at any time by either party.

(3) Termination of a contract by one party except on the happening of an agreed event requires that reasonable notification be received by the other party and an agreement dispensing with notification is invalid if its operation would be unconscionable.

SECTION 2—310. Open Time for Payment or Running of Credit; Authority to Ship Under Reservation.

Unless otherwise agreed

- (a) payment is due at the time and place at which the buyer is to receive the goods even though the place of shipment is the place of delivery; and
- (b) if the seller is authorized to send the goods he may ship them under reservation, and may tender the documents of title, but the buyer may inspect the goods after their arrival before payment is due unless such inspection is inconsistent with the terms of the contract (Section 2—513); and
- (c) if delivery is authorized and made by way of documents of title otherwise than by subsection (b) then payment is due at the time and place at which the buyer is to receive the documents regardless of where the goods are to be received; and
- (d) where the seller is required or authorized to ship the goods on credit the credit period runs from the time of shipment but post-dating the invoice or delaying its dispatch will correspondingly delay the starting of the credit period.

SECTION 2—311. Options and Cooperation Respecting Performance.

(1) An agreement for sale which is otherwise sufficiently definite (subsection (3) of Section 2—204) to be a contract is not made invalid by the fact that it leaves particulars of performance to be specified by one of the parties. Any such specification must be made in good faith and within limits set by commercial reasonableness.

(2) Unless otherwise agreed specifications relating to assortment of the goods are at the buyer's option and except as otherwise provided in subsections (1) (c) and (3) of Section 2—319 specifications or arrangements relating to shipment are at the seller's option.

(3) Where such specification would materially affect the other party's performance but is not seasonably made or where one party's cooperation is necessary to the agreed performance of the other but is not seasonably forthcoming, the other party in addition to all other remedies

- (a) is excused for any resulting delay in his own performance; and
- (b) may also either proceed to perform in any reasonable manner or after the time for a material part of his own performance treat the failure to specify or to cooperate as a breach by failure to deliver or accept the goods.

WARRANTY SECTIONS

SECTION 2—312. Warranty of Title and Against Infringement; Buyer's Obligation Against Infringement.

(1) Subject to subsection (2) there is in a contract for sale a warranty by the seller that

- (a) the title conveyed shall be good, and its transfer rightful; and
- (b) the goods shall be delivered free from any security interest or other lien or encumbrance of which the buyer at the time of contracting has no knowledge.

(2) A warranty under subsection (1) will be excluded or modified only by specific language or by circumstances which give the buyer reason to know that the person selling does not claim title in himself or that he is purporting to sell only such right or title as he or a third person may have.

(3) Unless otherwise agreed a seller who is a merchant regularly dealing in goods of the kind warrants that the goods shall be delivered free of the rightful claim of any third person by way of infringement or the like but a buyer who furnishes specifications to the seller must hold the seller harmless against any such claim which arises out of compliance with the specifications.

SECTION 2—313. Express Warranties by Affirmation, Promise, Description, Sample.

(1) Express warranties by the seller are created as follows:

- (a) Any affirmation of fact or promise, including those on containers or labels, made by the seller to the buyer, whether directly or indirectly, which relates to the goods and becomes part of the basis of the bargain creates an express warranty that the goods shall conform to the affirmation or promise.

- (b) Any description of the goods which is made part of the basis of the bargain creates an express warranty that the goods shall conform to the description.
- (c) Any sample or model which is made part of the basis of the bargain creates an express warranty that the whole of the goods shall conform to the sample or model.

(2) It is not necessary to the creation of an express warranty that the seller use formal words such as "warrant" or "guarantee" or that he have a specific intention to make a warranty, but an affirmation merely of the value of the goods or a statement purporting to be merely the seller's opinion or commendation of the goods does not create a warranty.

SECTION 2—314. Implied Warranty: Merchantability; Usage of Trade.

(1) Unless excluded or modified (Section 2—316), a warranty that the goods shall be merchantable is implied in a contract for their sale if the seller is a merchant with respect to goods of that kind. Under this section the serving for value of food or drink to be consumed either on the premises or elsewhere is a sale.

(2) Goods to be merchantable must be at least such as

- (a) pass without objection in the trade under the contract description; and
- (b) in the case of fungible goods, are of fair average quality within the description; and
- (c) are fit for the ordinary purposes for which such goods are used; and
- (d) run, within the variations permitted by the agreement, of even kind, quality and quantity within each unit and among all units involved; and
- (e) are adequately contained, packaged, and labeled as the agreement may require; and

(3) Unless excluded or modified (Section 2—316) other implied warranties may arise from course of dealing or usage of trade.

SECTION 2—315. Implied Warranty: Fitness for Particular Purpose.

Where the seller at the time of contracting has reason to know any particular purpose for which the goods are required and that the buyer is relying on the seller's skill or judgment to select or furnish suitable goods, there is unless excluded or modified under the next section an implied warranty that the goods shall be fit for such purpose.

SECTION 2—316. Exclusion or Modification of Warranties.

(1) If the agreement creates an express warranty words disclaiming it are inoperative.

(2) Subject to subsection (3), to exclude or modify the implied warranty or merchantability or any part of it the language must mention merchantability and in case of a writing must be conspicuous, and to exclude or modify any implied warranty of fitness the exclusion must be by a writing and conspicuous. Language to exclude the implied warranty of merchantability or of fitness for a particular purpose must be specific, and if the inclusion of such language creates an ambiguity in the contract as a whole it shall be resolved against the seller.

(3) Notwithstanding subsection (2)

(a) Unless the circumstances indicate otherwise, all implied warranties are excluded by specific language which in common understanding calls the buyer's attention to the exclusion of warranties and makes plain that there is no implied warranty; and

(b) when the buyer before entering into the contract has examined the goods or the sample or model as fully as he desired or has refused to examine the goods there is no implied warranty with regard to defects which an examination ought in the circumstances to have revealed to him; and

(c) an implied warranty can also be excluded or modified by course of dealing or course of performance or, between merchants, by usage of trade.

(4) Remedies for breach of warranty can be limited in accordance with the provisions of this Article on liquidation or limitation of damages and on contractual modification of remedy (Sections 2—718 and 2—719).

SECTION 2—317. Cumulation and Conflict of Warranties Express or Implied.

Warranties whether express or implied shall be construed as consistent with each other and as cumulative, but if such construction is unreasonable the intention of the parties shall determine which warranty is dominant. In ascertaining that intention the following rules apply:

- (a) Exact or technical specifications displace an inconsistent sample or model or general language of description.
- (b) A sample from an existing bulk displaces inconsistent general language of description.
- (c) Express warranties displace inconsistent implied warranties other than an implied warranty of fitness for a particular purpose.

SECTION 2—318. Third Party Beneficiaries of Warranties Express or Implied.

A seller's warranty whether express or implied extends to any natural person who may be expected to use, consume or be affected by the goods and whose person or property is damaged by breach of the warranty. A seller may not exclude or limit the operation of this section.

SECTION 2—319. F.O.B. and F.A.S. Terms.

(1) Unless otherwise agreed the term F.O.B. (which means "free on board") at a named place, even though used only in connection with the stated price, is a delivery term under which

- (a) when the term is F.O.B. the place of shipment, the seller must at that place ship the goods in the manner provided in this Article (Section 2—504) and bear the expense and risk of putting them into the possession of the carrier; or
- (b) when the term is F.O.B. the place of destination, the seller must at his own expense and risk transport the goods to that place and there tender delivery of them in the manner provided in this Article (Section 2—503);
- (c) when under either (a) or (b) the term is also F.O.B. vessel, car or other vehicle, the seller must in addition at his own expense and risk load the goods on board. If the term is F.O.B. vessel the buyer must name the vessel and in an appropriate case the seller must comply with the provisions of this Article on the form of bill of lading (Section 2—323).

(2) Unless otherwise agreed the term F.A.S. vessel (which means "free alongside") at a named port, even though used only in connection with the stated price, is a delivery term under which the seller must

- (a) at his own expense and risk deliver the goods alongside the vessel in the manner usual in that port or on a wharf designated and provided by the buyer; and
- (b) obtain and tender a receipt for the goods in exchange for which the carrier is under a duty to issue a bill of lading.

(3) Unless otherwise agreed in any case falling within subsection (1)(a) or (c) or subsection (2) the buyer must seasonably give any needed instructions for making delivery, including when the term is F.A.S. or F.O.B. the loading berth of the vessel and in an appropriate case its name and sailing date. The seller may treat the failure of needed instructions as a failure of cooperation under this Article (Section 2—311). He may also at his option move the goods in any reasonable manner preparatory to delivery or shipment.

(4) Under the term F.O.B. vessel or F.A.S. unless otherwise agreed the buyer must make payment against tender of the required documents and the seller may not tender nor the buyer demand delivery of the goods in substitution for the documents.

SECTION 2—320. C.I.F. and C. & F. Terms.

(1) The term C.I.F. means that the price includes in a lump sum the cost of the goods and the insurance and freight to the named destination. The term C. & F. or C.F. means that the price so includes cost and freight to the named destination.

(2) Unless otherwise agreed and even though used only in connection with the stated price and destination, the term C.I.F. destination or its equivalent requires the seller at his own expense and risk to

- (a) put the goods into the possession of a carrier at the port for shipment and obtain a negotiable bill or bills of lading covering the entire transportation to the named destination; and
- (b) load the goods and obtain a receipt from the carrier (which may be contained in the bill of lading) showing that the freight has been paid or provided for; and
- (c) obtain a policy or certificate of insurance, including any war risk insurance, of a kind and on terms then current at the port of shipment in the usual amount, in the currency of the contract, shown to cover the same goods covered by the bill of lading and providing for payment of loss to the order of the buyer or for the account of whom it may concern; but the seller may add to the price the amount of the premium for any such war risk insurance; and

(d) prepare an invoice of the goods and procure any other documents required to effect shipment or to comply with the contract; and

(e) forward and tender with commercial promptness all the documents in due form and with any indorsement necessary to perfect the buyer's rights.

(3) Unless otherwise agreed the term C.&F. or its equivalent has the same effect and imposes upon the seller the same obligations and risks as a C.I.F. term except the obligation as to insurance.

(4) Under the term C.I.F. or C.&F. unless otherwise agreed the buyer must make payment against tender of the required documents and the seller may not tender nor the buyer demand delivery of the goods in substitution for the documents.

SECTION 2—321. C.I.F. or C. & F.: "Net Landed Weights"; "Payment on Arrival"; Warranty of Condition on Arrival.

Under a contract containing a term C.I.F. or C. & F.

(1) Where the price is based on or is to be adjusted according to "net landed weights", "delivered weights", "out turn" quantity or quality or the like, unless otherwise agreed the seller must reasonably estimate the price. The payment due on tender of the documents called for by the contract is the amount so estimated, but after final adjustment of the price a settlement must be made with commercial promptness.

(2) An agreement described in subsection (1) or any warranty of quality or condition of the goods on arrival places upon the seller the risk of ordinary deterioration, shrinkage and the like in transportation but has no effect on the place or time of identification to the contract for sale or delivery or on the passing of the risk of loss.

(3) Unless otherwise agreed where the contract provides for payment on or after arrival of the goods the seller must before payment allow such preliminary inspection as is feasible; but if the goods are lost delivery of the documents and payment are due when the goods should have arrived.

SECTION 2—322. Delivery "Ex-Ship".

(1) Unless otherwise agreed a term for delivery of goods "ex-ship" (which means from the carrying vessel) or in equivalent language is not restricted to a particular ship and requires delivery from a ship which has reached a place at the named port of destination where goods of the kind are usually discharged.

(2) Under such a term unless otherwise agreed

- (a) the seller must discharge all liens arising out of the carriage and furnish the buyer with a direction which puts the carrier under a duty to deliver the goods; and
- (b) the risk of loss does not pass to the buyer until the goods leave the ship's tackle or are otherwise properly unloaded.

SECTION 2—323. Form of Bill of Lading Required in Overseas Shipment; "Overseas".

(1) Where the contract contemplates overseas shipment and contains a term C.I.F. or C. & F. or F.O.B. vessel, the seller unless otherwise agreed must obtain a negotiable bill of lading stating that the goods have been loaded on board or, in the case of a term C.I.F. or C. & F., received for shipment.

(2) Where in a case within subsection (1) a bill of lading has been issued in a set of parts, unless otherwise agreed if the documents are not to be sent from abroad the buyer may demand tender of the full set; otherwise only one part of the bill of lading need be tendered. Even if the agreement expressly requires a full set

- (a) due tender of a single part is acceptable within the provisions of this Article on cure of improper delivery (subsection (1) of Section 2—508); and
- (b) even though the full set is demanded, if the documents are sent from abroad the person tendering an incomplete set may nevertheless require payment upon furnishing an indemnity which the buyer in good faith deems adequate.

(3) A shipment by water or by air or a contract contemplating such shipment is "overseas" insofar as by usage of trade or agreement it is subject to the commercial, financing or shipping practices characteristic of international deep water commerce.

SECTION 2—324. "No Arrival, No Sale" Term.

Under a term "no arrival, no sale" or terms of like meaning, unless otherwise agreed,

- (a) the seller must properly ship conforming goods and if they arrive by any means he must tender them on arrival but he assumes no obligation that the goods will arrive unless he has caused the non-arrival; and
- (b) where without fault of the seller the goods are in part lost or have so deteriorated as no longer to conform to the contract or arrive after the contract time, the buyer may proceed as if there had been casualty to identified goods (Section 2—613).

SECTION 2—325. “Letter of Credit” Term; “Confirmed Credit”.

(1) Failure of the buyer seasonably to furnish an agreed letter of credit is a breach of the contract for sale.

(2) The delivery to seller of a proper letter of credit suspends the buyer's obligation to pay. If the letter of credit is dishonored, the seller may on seasonable notification to the buyer require payment directly from him.

(3) Unless otherwise agreed the term “letter of credit” or “banker's credit” in a contract for sale means an irrevocable credit issued by a financing agency of good repute and, where the shipment is overseas, of good international repute. The term “confirmed credit” means that the credit must also carry the direct obligation of such an agency which does business in the seller's financial market.

SECTION 2—326. Sale on Approval and Sale or Return; Consignment Sales and Rights of Creditors.

(1) Unless otherwise agreed, if delivered goods may be returned by the buyer even though they conform to the contract, the transaction is

- (a) a “sale on approval” if the goods are delivered primarily for use, and
- (b) a “sale or return” if the goods are delivered primarily for resale.

(2) Except as provided in subsection (3), goods held on approval are not subject to the claims of the buyer's creditors until acceptance; goods held on sale or return are subject to such claims while in the buyer's possession.

(3) Where goods are delivered to a person for sale and such person maintains a place of business at which he deals in goods of the kind involved, under a name other than the name of the person making delivery, then with respect to claims of creditors of the person conducting the business the goods are deemed to be on sale or return. The provisions of this subsection are applicable even though an agreement purports to reserve title to the person making delivery until payment or resale or uses such words as "on consignment" or "on memorandum". However, this subsection is not applicable if the person making delivery

- (a) complies with an applicable law providing for a consignor's interest or the like to be evidenced by a sign, or
- (b) establishes that the person conducting the business is generally known by his creditors to be substantially engaged in selling the goods of others, or
- (c) complies with the filing provisions of the Article on Secured Transactions (Article 9).

(4) Any "or return" term of a contract for sale is to be treated as a separate contract for sale within the statute of frauds section of this Article (Section 2—201) and as contradicting the sale aspect of the contract within the provisions of this Article on parol or extrinsic evidence (Section 2—202).

SECTION 2—327. Special Incidents of Sale on Approval and Sale or Return.

- (1) Under a sale on approval unless otherwise agreed
 - (a) although the goods are identified to the contract the risk of loss and the title do not pass to the buyer until acceptance; and
 - (b) use of the goods consistent with the purpose of trial is not acceptance but failure seasonably to notify the seller of election to return the goods is acceptance, and if the goods conform to the contract acceptance of any part is acceptance of the whole; and
 - (c) after due notification of election to return, the return is at the seller's risk and expense but a merchant buyer must follow any reasonable instructions.
- (2) Under a sale or return unless otherwise agreed
 - (a) the option to return extends to the whole or any commercial unit of the goods while in substantially their original condition, but must be exercised seasonably; and
 - (b) the return is at the buyer's risk and expense.

SECTION 2—328. Sale by Auction.

(1) In a sale by auction if goods are put up in lots each lot is the subject of a separate sale.

(2) A sale by auction is complete when the auctioneer so announces by the fall of the hammer or in other customary manner. Where a bid is made while the hammer is falling in acceptance of a prior bid the auctioneer may in his discretion reopen the bidding or declare the goods sold under the bid on which the hammer was falling.

(3) Such a sale is with reserve unless the goods are in explicit terms put up without reserve. In an auction with reserve the auctioneer may withdraw the goods at any time until he announces completion of the sale. In an auction without reserve, after the auctioneer calls for bids on an article or lot, that article or lot cannot be withdrawn unless no bid is made within a reasonable time. In either case a bidder may retract his bid until the auctioneer's announcement of completion of the sale, but a bidder's retraction does not revive any previous bid.

(4) If the auctioneer knowingly receives a bid on the seller's behalf or the seller makes or procures such a bid, and notice has not been given that liberty for such bidding is reserved, the buyer may at his option avoid the sale or take the goods at the price of the last good faith bid prior to the completion of the sale. This subsection shall not apply to any bid at a forced sale.

PART 4

TITLE, CREDITORS AND GOOD FAITH PURCHASERS

SECTION 2—401. Passing of Title; Reservation for Security; Limited Application of This Section.

Each provision of this Article with regard to the rights, obligations and remedies of the seller, the buyer, purchasers or other third parties applies irrespective of title to the goods except where the provision refers to such title. Insofar as situations are not covered by the other provisions of this Article and matters concerning title become material the following rules apply:

(1) Title to goods cannot pass under a contract for sale prior to their identification to the contract (Section 2-501), and unless otherwise explicitly agreed the buyer acquires by their identification a special property as limited by this Act. Any retention or reservation by the seller of the title (property) in goods shipped or delivered to the buyer is limited in effect to a reservation of a security interest. Subject to these provisions and to the provisions of the Article on Secured Transactions (Article 9), title to goods passes from the seller to the buyer in any manner and on any conditions explicitly agreed on by the parties.

(2) Unless otherwise explicitly agreed title passes to the buyer at the time and place at which the seller completes his performance with reference to the physical delivery of the goods, despite any reservation of a security interest and even though a document of title is to be delivered at a different time or place; and in particular and despite any reservation of a security interest by the bill of lading

(a) if the contract requires or authorizes the seller to send the goods to the buyer but does not require him to deliver them at destination, title passes to the buyer at the time and place of shipment; but

(b) if the contract requires delivery at destination, title passes on tender there.

(3) Unless otherwise explicitly agreed where delivery is to be made without moving the goods,

(a) if the seller is to deliver a document of title, title passes at the time when and the place where he delivers such documents; or

(b) if the goods are at the time of contracting already identified and no documents are to be delivered, title passes at the time and place of contracting.

(4) A rejection or other refusal by the buyer to receive or retain the goods, whether or not justified, or a justified revocation of acceptance reverts title to the goods in the seller. Such reversion occurs by operation of law and is not a "sale".

SECTION 2—402. Rights of Seller's Creditors Against Sold Goods.

(1) Except as provided in subsections (2) and (3), rights of unsecured creditors of the seller with respect to goods which have been identified to a contract for sale are subject to the buyer's rights to recover the goods under this Article (Sections 2-502 and 2-716).

(2) A creditor of the seller may treat a sale or an identification of goods to a contract for sale as void if as against him a retention of possession by the seller is fraudulent under any rule of law of the state where the goods are situated, except that retention of possession in good faith and current course of trade by a merchant-seller for a commercially reasonable time after a sale or identification is not fraudulent.

(3) Nothing in this Article shall be deemed to impair the rights of creditors of the seller

- (a) under the provisions of the Article on Secured Transactions (Article 9); or
- (b) where identification to the contract or delivery is made not in current course of trade but in satisfaction of or as security for a pre-existing claim for money, security or the like and is made under circumstances which under any rule of law of the state where the goods are situated would apart from this Article constitute the transaction a fraudulent transfer or voidable preference.

SECTION 2—403. Power to Transfer; Good Faith Purchase of Goods; "Entrusting".

(1) A purchaser of goods acquires all title which his transferor had or had power to transfer except that a purchaser of a limited interest acquires rights only to the extent of the interest purchased. A person with voidable title has power to transfer a good title to a good faith purchaser for value. When goods have been delivered under a transaction of purchase the purchaser has such power even though

- (a) the transferor was deceived as to the identity of the purchaser, or
- (b) the delivery was in exchange for a check which is later dishonored, or
- (c) it was agreed that the transaction was to be a "cash sale", or
- (d) the delivery was procured through fraud punishable as larcenous under the criminal law.

(2) Any entrusting of possession of goods to a merchant who deals in goods of that kind gives him power to transfer all rights of the entruster to a buyer in ordinary course of business.

(3) "Entrusting" includes any delivery and any acquiescence in retention of possession regardless of any condition expressed between the parties to the delivery or acquiescence and regardless of whether the procurement of the entrusting or the possessor's disposition of the goods have been such as to be larcenous under the criminal law.

(4) The rights of other purchasers of goods and of lien creditors are governed by the Articles on Secured Transactions (Article 9), Bulk Transfers (Article 6) and Documents of Title (Article 7).

PART 5

PERFORMANCE

SECTION 2—501. Insurable Interest in Goods; Manner of Identification of Goods.

(1) The buyer obtains a special property and an insurable interest in goods by identification of existing goods as goods to which the contract refers even though the goods so identified are non-conforming and he has an option to return or reject them. Such identification can be made at any time and in any manner explicitly agreed to by the parties. In the absence of explicit agreement identification occurs

- (a) when the contract is made if it is for the sale of goods already existing and identified;
- (b) if the contract is for the sale of future goods other than those described in paragraph (c), when goods are shipped, marked or otherwise designated by the seller as goods to which the contract refers;
- (c) when the crops are planted or otherwise become growing crops or the young are conceived if the contract is for the sale of unborn young to be born within twelve months after contracting or for the sale of crops to be harvested within twelve months or the next normal harvest season after contracting, whichever is longer.

(2) The seller retains an insurable interest in goods so long as title to or any security interest in the goods remains in him and where the identification is by the seller alone he may until default or insolvency or notification to the buyer that the identification is final substitute other goods for those identified.

(3) Nothing in this section impairs any insurable interest recognized under any other statute or rule of law.

SECTION 2—502. Buyer's Right to Goods on Seller's Insolvency.

(1) Subject to subsection (2) and even though the goods have not been shipped a buyer who has paid a part or all of the price of goods in which he has a special property under the provisions of the immediately preceding section may on making and keeping good a tender of any unpaid portion of their price recover them from the seller if the seller becomes insolvent within ten days after receipt of the first installment on their price.

(2) If the identification creating his special property has been made by the buyer he acquires the right to recover the goods only if they conform to the contract for sale.

SECTION 2—503. Manner of Seller's Tender of Delivery.

(1) Tender of delivery requires that the seller put and hold conforming goods at the buyer's disposition and give the buyer any notification reasonably necessary to enable him to take delivery. The manner, time and place for tender are determined by the agreement and this Article, and in particular

- (a) tender must be at a reasonable hour, and if it is of goods they must be kept available for the period reasonably necessary to enable the buyer to take possession; but
- (b) unless otherwise agreed the buyer must furnish facilities reasonably suited to the receipt of the goods.

(2) Where the case is within the next section respecting shipment tender requires that the seller comply with its provisions.

(3) Where the seller is required to deliver at a particular destination tender requires that he comply with subsection (1) and also in any appropriate case tender documents as described in subsections (4) and (5) of this section.

(4) Where goods are in the possession of a bailee and are to be delivered without being moved

- (a) tender requires that the seller either tender a negotiable document of title covering such goods or procure acknowledgment by the bailee of the buyer's right to possession of the goods; but
- (b) tender to the buyer of a non-negotiable document of title or of a written direction to the bailee to deliver is sufficient tender unless the buyer seasonably objects, and receipt by the bailee of notification of the buyer's rights fixes those rights as against the bailee and all third persons; but risk of loss of the goods and of any failure by the bailee to honor the non-negotiable document of title or to obey the direction remains on the seller until the buyer has had a reasonable time to present the document or direction, and a refusal by the bailee to honor the document or to obey the direction defeats the tender.

- (5) Where the contract requires the seller to deliver documents
- (a) he must tender all such documents in correct form, except as provided in this Article with respect to bills of lading in a set (subsection (2) of Section 2-323); and
 - (b) tender through customary banking channels is sufficient and dishonor of a draft accompanying the documents constitutes non-acceptance or rejection.

SECTION 2—504. Shipment by Seller.

Where the seller is required or authorized to send the goods to the buyer and the contract does not require him to deliver them at a particular destination, then unless otherwise agreed he must

- (a) put the goods in the possession of such a carrier and make such a contract for their transportation as may be reasonable having regard to the nature of the goods and other circumstances of the case; and
- (b) obtain and promptly deliver or tender in due form any document necessary to enable the buyer to obtain possession of the goods or otherwise required by the agreement or by usage of trade; and
- (c) promptly notify the buyer of the shipment.

Failure to notify the buyer under paragraph (c) or to make a proper contract under paragraph (a) is a ground for rejection only if material delay or loss ensues.

SECTION 2—505. Seller's Shipment Under Reservation.

- (1) Where the seller has identified goods to the contract by or before shipment:
- (a) his procurement of a negotiable bill of lading to his own order or otherwise reserves in him a security interest in the goods. His procurement of the bill to the order of a financing agency or of the buyer indicates in addition only the seller's expectation of transferring that interest to the person named.
 - (b) a non-negotiable bill of lading to himself or his nominee reserves possession of the goods as security but except in a case of conditional delivery (subsection (2) of Section 2-507) a non-negotiable bill of lading naming the buyer as consignee reserves no security interest even though the seller retains possession of the bill of lading.

(2) When shipment by the seller with reservation of a security interest is in violation of the contract for sale it constitutes an improper contract for transportation within the preceding section but impairs neither the rights given to the buyer by shipment and identification of the goods to the contract nor the seller's powers as a holder of a negotiable document.

SECTION 2—506. Rights of Financing Agency.

(1) A financing agency by paying or purchasing for value a draft which relates to a shipment of goods acquires to the extent of the payment or purchase and in addition to its own rights under the draft and any document of title securing it any rights of the shipper in the goods including the right to stop delivery and the shipper's right to have the draft honored by the buyer.

(2) The right to reimbursement of a financing agency which has in good faith honored or purchased the draft under commitment to or authority from the buyer is not impaired by subsequent discovery of defects with reference to any relevant document which was apparent which was apparently regular on its face.

SECTION 2—507. Effect of Seller's Tender; Delivery on Condition.

(1) Tender of delivery is a condition to the buyer's duty to accept the goods and, unless otherwise agreed, to his duty to pay for them. Tender entitles the seller to acceptance of the goods and to payment according to the contract.

(2) Where payment is due and demanded on the delivery to the buyer of goods or documents of title, his right as against the seller to retain or dispose of them is conditional upon his making the payment due.

SECTION 2—508. Cure by Seller of Improper Tender or Delivery; Replacement.

(1) Where any tender or delivery by the seller is rejected because non-conforming and the time for performance has not yet expired, the seller may seasonably notify the buyer of his intention to cure and may then within the contract time make a conforming delivery.

(2) Where the buyer rejects a non-conforming tender which the seller had reasonable grounds to believe would be acceptable with or without money allowance the seller may if he seasonably notifies the buyer have a further reasonable time to substitute a conforming tender.

SECTION 2—509. Risk of Loss in the Absence of Breach.

(1) Where the contract requires or authorizes the seller to ship the goods by carrier

- (a) if it does not require him to deliver them at a particular destination, the risk of loss passes to the buyer when the goods are duly delivered to the carrier even though the shipment is under reservation (Section 2-505); but
- (b) if it does require him to deliver them at a particular destination and the goods are there duly tendered while in the possession of the carrier, the risk of loss passes to the buyer when the goods are there duly so tendered as to enable the buyer to take delivery.

(2) Where the goods are held by a bailee to be delivered without being moved, the risk of loss passes to the buyer

- (a) on his receipt of a negotiable document of title covering the goods; or
- (b) on acknowledgment by the bailee of the buyer's right to possession of the goods; or
- (c) after his receipt of a non-negotiable document of title or other written direction to deliver, as provided in subsection (4) (b) of Section 2-503.

(3) In any case not within subsection (1) or (2), the risk of loss passes to the buyer on his receipt of the goods if the seller is a merchant; otherwise the risk passes to the buyer on tender of delivery.

(4) The provisions of this section are subject to contrary agreement of the parties and to the provisions of this Article on sale on approval (Section 2-327) and on effect of breach on risk of loss (Section 2-510).

SECTION 2—510. Effect of Breach on Risk of Loss.

(1) Where a tender or delivery of goods so fails to conform to the contract as to give a right of rejection the risk of their loss remains on the seller until cure or acceptance.

(2) Where the buyer rightfully revokes acceptance he may to the extent of any deficiency in his effective insurance coverage treat the risk of loss as having rested on the seller from the beginning.

(3) Where the buyer as to conforming goods already identified to the contract for sale repudiates or is otherwise in breach before risk of their loss has passed to him, the seller may to the extent of any deficiency in his effective insurance coverage treat the risk of loss as resting on the buyer for a commercially reasonable time.

SECTION 2—511. Tender of Payment by Buyer; Payment by Check.

(1) Unless otherwise agreed tender of payment is a condition to the seller's duty to tender and complete any delivery.

(2) Tender of payment is sufficient when made by any means or in any manner current in the ordinary course of business unless the seller demands payment in legal tender and gives any extension of time reasonably necessary to procure it.

(3) Subject to the provisions of this Act on the effect of an instrument on an obligation (Section 3-802), payment by check is conditional and is defeated as between the parties by dishonor of the check on due presentment.

SECTION 2—512. Payment by Buyer Before Inspection.

(1) Where the contract requires payment before inspection non-conformity of the goods does not excuse the buyer from so making payment unless

- (a) the non-conformity appears without inspection; or
- (b) despite tender of the required documents the circumstances would justify injunction against honor under the provisions of this Act (Section 5-114).

(2) Payment pursuant to subsection (1) does not constitute an acceptance of goods or impair the buyer's right to inspect or any of his remedies.

SECTION 2—513. Buyer's Right to Inspection of Goods.

(1) Unless otherwise agreed and subject to subsection (3), where goods are tendered or delivered or identified to the contract for sale, the buyer has a right before payment or acceptance to inspect them at any reasonable place and time and in any reasonable manner. When the seller is required or authorized to send the goods to the buyer, the inspection may be after their arrival.

(2) Expenses of inspection must be borne by the buyer but may be recovered from the seller if the goods do not conform and are rejected.

(3) Unless otherwise agreed and subject to the provisions of this Article on C.I.F. contracts (subsection (3) of Section 2-321), the buyer is not entitled to inspect the goods before payment of the price when the contract provides

- (a) for delivery "C.O.D." or on other like terms; or
- (b) for payment against documents of title, except where such payment is due only after the goods are to become available for inspection.

(4) A place or method of inspection fixed by the parties is presumed to be exclusive but unless otherwise expressly agreed it does not postpone identification or shift the place for delivery or for passing the risk of loss. If compliance becomes impossible, inspection shall be as provided in this section unless the place or method fixed was clearly intended as an indispensable condition failure of which avoids the contract.

SECTION 2—514. When Documents Deliverable on Acceptance; When on Payment.

Unless otherwise agreed documents against which a draft is drawn are to be delivered to the drawee on acceptance of the draft if it is payable more than three days after presentment; otherwise, only on payment.

SECTION 2—515. Preserving Evidence of Goods in Dispute.

In furtherance of the adjustment of any claim or dispute

- (a) either party on reasonable notification to the other and for the purpose of ascertaining the facts and preserving evidence has the right to inspect, test and sample the goods including such of them as may be in the possession or control of the other; and
- (b) the parties may agree to a third party inspection or survey to determine the conformity or condition of the goods and may agree that the findings shall be binding upon them in any subsequent litigation or adjustment.

PART 6

BREACH, REPUDIATION AND EXCUSE

SECTION 2—601. Buyer's Rights on Improper Delivery.

Subject to the provisions of this Article on breach in installment contracts (Section 2-612) and unless otherwise agreed under the sections on contractual limitations of remedy (Sections 2-718 and 2-719), if the goods or the tender of delivery fail in any respect to conform to the contract, the buyer may

- (a) reject the whole; or
- (b) accept the whole;
- (c) accept any commercial unit or units and reject the rest.

SECTION 2—602. Manner and Effect of Rightful Rejection.

(1) Rejection of goods must be within a reasonable time after their delivery or tender. It is ineffective unless the buyer seasonably notifies the seller.

(2) Subject to the provisions of the two following sections on rejected goods (Sections 2-603 and 2-604),

- (a) after rejection any exercise of ownership by the buyer with respect to any commercial unit is wrongful as against the seller; and
- (b) if the buyer has before rejection taken physical possession of goods in which he does not have a security interest under the provisions of this Article (subsection (3) of Section 2-711), he is under a duty after rejection to hold them with reasonable care at the seller's disposition for a time sufficient to permit the seller to remove them; but
- (c) the buyer has no further obligations with regard to goods rightfully rejected.

(3) The seller's rights with respect to goods wrongfully rejected are governed by the provisions of this Article on Seller's remedies in general (Section 2-703).

SECTION 2—603. Merchant Buyer's Duties as to Rightfully Rejected Goods.

(1) Subject to any security interest in the buyer (subsection (3) of Section 2-711), when the seller has no agent or place of business at the market of rejection a merchant buyer is under a duty after rejection of goods in his possession or control to follow any reasonable instructions received from the seller with respect to the goods and in the absence of such instructions to make reasonable efforts to sell them for the seller's account if they are perishable or threaten to decline in value speedily. Instructions are not reasonable if on demand indemnity for expenses is not forthcoming.

(2) When the buyer sells goods under subsection (1), he is entitled to reimbursement from the seller or out of the proceeds for reasonable expenses of caring for and selling them, and if the expenses include no selling commission then to such commission as is usual in the trade or if there is none to a reasonable sum not exceeding ten per cent on the gross proceeds.

(3) In complying with this section the buyer is held only to good faith and good faith conduct hereunder is neither acceptance nor conversion nor the basis of an action for damages.

SECTION 2—604. Buyer's Options as to Salvage of Rightfully Rejected Goods.

Subject to the provisions of the immediately preceding section on perishables if the seller gives no instructions within a reasonable time after notification of rejection the buyer may store the rejected goods for the seller's account or reship them to him or resell them for the seller's account with reimbursement as provided in the preceding section. Such action is not acceptance or conversion.

SECTION 2—605. Waiver of Buyer's Objections by Failure to Particularize.

(1) The buyer's failure to state in connection with rejection a particular defect which is ascertainable by reasonable inspection precludes him from relying on the unstated defect to justify rejection or to establish breach

- (a) where the seller could have cured it if stated seasonably; or
- (b) between merchants when the seller has after rejection made a request in writing for a full and final written statement of all defects on which the buyer proposes to rely.

(2) Payment against documents made without reservation of rights precludes recovery of the payment for defects apparent on the face of the documents.

SECTION 2—606. What Constitutes Acceptance of Goods.

- (1) Acceptance of goods occurs when the buyer
 - (a) after a reasonable opportunity to inspect the goods signifies in writing to the seller that the goods are conforming or that he will take or retain them in spite of their non-conformity; or
 - (b) fails to make an effective rejection (subsection (1) of Section 2—602), but such acceptance does not occur until the buyer has had a reasonable opportunity to inspect them; or
 - (c) does any act inconsistent with the seller's ownership; but if such act is wrongful as against the seller it is an acceptance only if ratified by him.

(2) Acceptance of a part of any commercial unit shall not be acceptance of the entire unit.

SECTION 2—607. Effect of Acceptance; Notice of Breach; Burden of Establishing Breach After Acceptance; Notice of Claim or Litigation to Person Answerable Over.

(1) The buyer must pay at the contract rate for any goods accepted.

(2) Acceptance of goods by the buyer precludes rejection of the goods accepted and if made with knowledge of a non-conformity cannot be revoked because of it unless the acceptance was on the reasonable assumption that the non-conformity would be seasonably cured but acceptance does not of itself impair any other remedy provided by this Article for non-conformity.

(3) Where a tender has been accepted

- (a) The buyer must within a reasonable time after he discovers or should have discovered any breach notify the seller of breach or be barred from any remedy; however, no notice of injury to the person in the case of consumer goods shall be required; and
- (b) if the claim is one for infringement or the like (subsection (3) of Section 2—312) and the buyer is sued as a result of such a breach he must so notify the seller within a reasonable time after he receives notice of the litigation or be barred from any remedy over for liability established by the litigation.

(4) The burden is on the buyer to establish any breach with respect to the goods accepted.

(5) Where the buyer is sued for breach of a warranty or other obligation for which his seller is answerable over

(a) he may give his seller written notice of the litigation. If the notice states that the seller may come in and defend and that if the seller does not do so he will be bound in any action against him by his buyer by any determination of fact common to the two litigations, then unless the seller after seasonable receipt of the notice does come in and defend he is so bound.

(b) if the claim is one for infringement or the like (subsection (3) of Section 2—312) the original seller may demand in writing that his buyer turn over to him control of the litigation including settlement or else be barred from any remedy over and if he also agrees to bear all expense and to satisfy any adverse judgment, then unless the buyer after seasonable receipt of the demand does turn over control the buyer is so barred.

(6) The provisions of subsections (3), (4) and (5) apply to any obligation of a buyer to hold the seller harmless against infringement or the like (subsection (3) of Section 2—312).

SECTION 2—608. Revocation of Acceptance in Whole or in Part.

(1) The buyer may revoke his acceptance of a lot or commercial unit whose non-conformity substantially impairs its value to him if he has accepted it

(a) on the reasonable assumption that its non-conformity would be cured and it has not been seasonably cured; or

(b) without discovery of such non-conformity if his acceptance was reasonably induced either by the difficulty of discovery before acceptance or by the seller's assurances.

(2) Revocation of acceptance must occur within a reasonable time after the buyer discovers or should have discovered the ground for it and before any substantial change in condition of the goods which is not caused by their own defects. It is not effective until the buyer notifies the seller of it.

(3) A buyer who so revokes has the same rights and duties with regard to the goods involved as if he had rejected them.

SECTION 2—609. Right to Adequate Assurance of Performance.

(1) A contract for sale imposes an obligation on each party that the other's expectation of receiving due performance will not be impaired. When reasonable grounds for insecurity arise with respect to the performance of either party the other may in writing demand adequate assurance of due performance and until he receives such assurance may if commercially reasonable suspend any performance for which he has not already received the agreed return.

(2) Between merchants the reasonableness of grounds for insecurity and the adequacy of any assurance offered shall be determined according to commercial standards.

(3) Acceptance of any improper delivery or payment does not prejudice the aggrieved party's right to demand adequate assurance of future performance.

(4) After receipt of a justified demand failure to provide within a reasonable time not exceeding thirty days such assurance of due performance as is adequate under the circumstances of the particular case is a repudiation of the contract.

SECTION 2—610. Anticipatory Repudiation.

When either party repudiates the contract with respect to a performance not yet due the loss of which will substantially impair the value of the contract to the other, the aggrieved party may

- (a) for a commercially reasonable time await performance by the repudiating party; or
- (b) resort to any remedy for breach (Section 2—703 or Section 2—711), even though he has notified the repudiating party that he would await the latter's performance and has urged retraction; and
- (c) in either case suspend his own performance or proceed in accordance with the provisions of this Article on the seller's right to identify goods to the contract notwithstanding breach or to salvage unfinished goods (Section 2—704).

SECTION 2—611. Retraction of Anticipatory Repudiation.

(1) Until the repudiating party's next performance is due he can retract his repudiation unless the aggrieved party has since the repudiation cancelled or materially changed his position or otherwise indicated that he considers the repudiation final.

(2) Retraction may be by any method which clearly indicates to the aggrieved party that the repudiating party intends to perform, but must include any assurance justifiably demanded under the provisions of this Article (Section 2—609).

(3) Retraction reinstates the repudiating party's rights under the contract with due excuse and allowance to the aggrieved party for any delay occasioned by the repudiation.

SECTION 2—612. "Installment Contract"; Breach.

(1) An "installment contract" is one which requires or authorizes the delivery of goods in separate lots to be separately accepted, even though the contract contains a clause "each delivery is a separate contract" or its equivalent.

(2) The buyer may reject any installment which is non-conforming if the non-conformity substantially impairs the value of that installment and cannot be cured or if the non-conformity is a defect in the required documents; but if the non-conformity does not fall within subsection (3) and the seller gives adequate assurance of its cure the buyer must accept that installment.

(3) Whenever non-conformity or default with respect to one or more installments substantially impairs the value of the whole contract there is a breach of the whole. But the aggrieved party reinstates the contract if he accepts a non-conforming installment without seasonably notifying of cancellation or if he brings an action with respect only to past installments or demands performance as to future installments.

SECTION 2—613. Casualty to Identified Goods.

Where the contract requires for its performance goods identified when the contract is made, and the goods suffer casualty without fault of either party before the risk of loss passes to the buyer, or in a proper case under a "no arrival, no sale" term (Section 2—324) then

- (a) if the loss is total the contract is avoided; and
- (b) if the loss is partial or the goods have so deteriorated as no longer to conform to the contract the buyer may nevertheless demand inspection and at his option either treat the contract as avoided or accept the goods with due allowance from the contract price for the deterioration or the deficiency in quantity but without further right against the seller.

SECTION 2—614. Substituted Performance.

(1) Where without fault of either party the agreed berthing, loading, or unloading facilities fail or an agreed type of carrier becomes unavailable or the agreed manner of delivery otherwise becomes commercially impracticable but a commercially reasonable substitute is available, such substitute performance must be tendered and accepted.

(2) If the agreed means or manner of payment fails because of domestic or foreign governmental regulation, the seller may withhold or stop delivery unless the buyer provides a means or manner of payment which is commercially a substantial equivalent. If delivery has already been taken, payment by the means or in the manner provided by the regulation discharges the buyer's obligation unless the regulation is discriminatory, oppressive or predatory.

SECTION 2—615. Excuse by Failure of Presupposed Conditions.

Except so far as a seller may have assumed a greater obligation and subject to the preceding section on substituted performance:

- (a) Delay in delivery or non-delivery in whole or in part by a seller who complies with paragraphs (b) and (c) is not a breach of his duty under a contract for sale if performance as agreed has been made impracticable by the occurrence of a contingency the non-occurrence of which was a basic assumption on which the contract was made or by compliance in good faith with any applicable foreign or domestic governmental regulation or order whether or not it later proves to be invalid.
- (b) Where the causes mentioned in paragraph (a) affect only a part of the seller's capacity to perform, he must allocate production and deliveries among his customers but may at his option include regular customers not then under contract as well as his own requirements for further manufacture. He may so allocate in any manner which is fair and reasonable.
- (c) The seller must notify the buyer seasonably that there will be delay or non-delivery and, when allocation is required under paragraph (b), of the estimated quota thus made available for the buyer.

SECTION 2—616. Procedure on Notice Claiming Excuse.

(1) Where the buyer receives notification of a material or indefinite delay or an allocation justified under the preceding section he may by written notification to the seller as to any delivery concerned, and where the prospective deficiency substantially impairs the value of the whole contract under the provisions of this Article relating to breach of installment contracts (Section 2—612), then also as to the whole,

- (a) terminate and thereby discharge any unexecuted portion of the contract; or
- (b) modify the contract by agreeing to take his available quota in substitution.

(2) If after receipt of such notification from the seller the buyer fails so to modify the contract within a reasonable time not exceeding thirty days the contract lapses with respect to any deliveries affected.

(3) The provisions of this section may not be negated by agreement except in so far as the seller has assumed a greater obligation under the preceding section.

PART 7

REMEDIES

SECTION 2—701. Remedies for Breach of Collateral Contracts Not Impaired.

Remedies for breach of any obligation or promise collateral or ancillary to a contract for sale are not impaired by the provisions of this Article.

SECTION 2—702. Seller's Remedies on Discovery of Buyer's Insolvency.

(1) Where the seller discovers the buyer to be insolvent he may refuse delivery except for cash including payment for all goods theretofore delivered under the contract, and stop delivery under this Article (Section 2—705).

(2) Where the seller discovers that the buyer has received goods on credit while insolvent he may reclaim the goods upon demand made within ten days after the receipt, but if misrepresentation of solvency has been made to the particular seller in writing within three months before delivery the ten day limitation does not apply. Except as provided in this subsection the seller may not base a right to reclaim goods on the buyer's fraudulent or innocent misrepresentation of solvency or of intent to pay.

(3) The seller's right to reclaim under subsection (2) is subject to the rights of a buyer in ordinary course or other good faith purchaser or lien creditor under this Article (Section 2-403). Successful reclamation of goods excludes all other remedies with respect to them.

SECTION 2—703. Seller's Remedies in General.

Where the buyer wrongfully rejects or revokes acceptance of goods or fails to make a payment due on or before delivery or repudiates with respect to a part or the whole, then with respect to any goods directly affected and, if the breach is of the whole contract (Section 2—612), then also with respect to the whole undelivered balance, the aggrieved seller may

- (a) withhold delivery of such goods;
- (b) stop delivery by any bailee as hereafter provided (Section 2—705);
- (c) proceed under the next section respecting goods still unidentified to the contract;
- (d) resell and recover damages as hereafter provided (Section 2—706);
- (e) recover damages for non-acceptance (Section 2—708) or in a proper case the price (Section 2—709);
- (f) cancel.

SECTION 2—704. Seller's Right to Identify Goods to the Contract Notwithstanding Breach or to Salvage Unfinished Goods.

- (1) An aggrieved seller under the preceding section may
 - (a) identify to the contract conforming goods not already identified if at the time he learned of the breach they are in his possession or control;
 - (b) treat as the subject of resale goods which have demonstrably been intended for the particular contract even though those goods are unfinished.

(2) Where the goods are unfinished an aggrieved seller may in the exercise of reasonable commercial judgment for the purposes of avoiding loss and of effective realization either complete the manufacture and wholly identify the goods to the contract or cease manufacture and resell for scrap or salvage value or proceed in any other reasonable manner.

SECTION 2—705. Seller's Stoppage of Delivery in Transit or Otherwise.

- (1) The seller may stop delivery of goods in the possession of a carrier or other bailee when he discovers the buyer to be insolvent

(Section 2-702) and may stop delivery of carload, truckload, plane-load or larger shipments of express or freight when the buyer repudiates or fails to make a payment due before delivery or if for any other reason the seller has a right to withhold or reclaim the goods.

- (2) As against such buyer the seller may stop delivery until
- (a) receipt of the goods by the buyer; or
 - (b) acknowledgment to the buyer by any bailee of the goods except a carrier that the bailee holds the goods for the buyer; or
 - (c) such acknowledgment to the buyer by a carrier by reshipment or as warehouseman; or
 - (d) negotiation to the buyer of any negotiable document of title covering the goods.

(3) To stop delivery the seller must so notify as to enable the bailee by reasonable diligence to prevent delivery of the goods.

- (b) After such notification the bailee must hold and deliver the goods according to the directions of the seller but the seller is liable to the bailee for any ensuing charges or damages.
- (c) If a negotiable document of title has been issued for goods the bailee is not obliged to obey a notification to stop until surrender of the document.
- (d) A carrier who has issued a non-negotiable bill of lading is not obliged to obey a notification to stop received from a person other than the consignor.

SECTION 2—706. Seller's Resale Including Contract for Resale.

(1) Under the conditions stated in Section 2—703 on seller's remedies, the seller may resell the goods concerned or the undelivered balance thereof. Where the resale is made in good faith and in a commercially reasonable manner the seller may recover the difference between the resale price and the contract price together with any incidental damages allowed under the provisions of this Article (Section 2—710), but less expenses saved in consequence of the buyer's breach.

(2) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (3) or unless otherwise agreed resale may be at public or private sale including sale by way of one or more contracts to sell or of identification to an existing contract of the seller. Sale may be as a unit or in parcels and at any time and place and on any terms but every aspect of the sale including the method, manner, time, place and terms must be commercially reasonable. The resale must be reasonably identified as referring to the broken contract, but it is not necessary that the goods be in existence or that any or all of them have been identified to the contract before the breach.

(3) Where the resale is at private sale the seller must give the buyer reasonable notification of his intention to resell.

(4) Where the resale is at public sale

(a) only identified goods can be sold except where there is a recognized market for a public sale of futures in goods of the kind; and

(b) it must be made at a usual place or market for public sale if one is reasonably available and except in the case of goods which are perishable or threaten to decline in value speedily the seller must give the buyer reasonable notice of the time and place of the resale; and

(c) if the goods are not to be within the view of those attending the sale the notification of sale must state the place where the goods are located and provide for their reasonable inspection by prospective bidders; and

(d) the seller may buy.

(5) A purchaser who buys in good faith at a resale takes the goods free of any rights of the original buyer even though the seller fails to comply with one or more of the requirements of this section.

(6) The seller is not accountable to the buyer for any profit made on any resale. A person in the position of a seller (Section 2—707) or a buyer who has rightfully rejected or justifiably revoked acceptance must account for any excess over the amount of his security interest, as hereinafter defined (subsection (3) of Section 2-711).

SECTION 2—707. “Person in the Position of a Seller”.

(1) A “person in the position of a seller” includes as against a principal an agent who has paid or become responsible for the price of goods on behalf of his principal or anyone who otherwise holds a security interest or other right in goods similar to that of a seller.

(2) A person in the position of a seller may as provided in this Article withhold or stop delivery (Section 2-705) and resell (Section 2—706) and recover incidental damages (Section 2—710).

SECTION 2—708. Seller's Damages for Non-acceptance or Repudiation.

(1) Subject to subsection (2) and to the provisions of this Article with respect to proof of market price (Section 2—723), the measure of damages for non-acceptance or repudiation by the buyer is the difference between the market price at the time and place for tender and the unpaid contract price together with any incidental damages provided in this Article (Section 2-710), but less expenses saved in consequence of the buyer's breach.

(2) If the measure of damages provided in subsection (1) is inadequate to put the seller in as good a position as performance would have done then the measure of damages is the profit (including reasonable overhead) which the seller would have made from full performance by the buyer, together with any incidental damages provided in this Article (Section 2—710), due allowance for costs reasonably incurred and due credit for payments or proceeds of resale.

SECTION 2—709. Action for the Price.

(1) When the buyer fails to pay the price as it becomes due the seller may recover, together with any incidental damages under the next section, the price

- (a) of goods accepted or of conforming goods lost or damaged within a commercially reasonable time after risk of their loss has passed to the buyer; and
- (b) of goods identified to the contract if the seller is unable after reasonable effort to resell them at a reasonable price or the circumstances reasonably indicate that such effort will be unavailing.

(2) Where the seller sues for the price he must hold for the buyer any goods which have been identified to the contract and are still in his control except that if resale becomes possible he may resell them at any time prior to the collection of the judgment. The net proceeds of any such resale must be credited to the buyer and payment of the judgment entitles him to any goods not resold.

(3) After the buyer has wrongfully rejected or revoked acceptance of the goods or has failed to make a payment due or has repudiated (Section 2—610), a seller who is held not entitled to the price under this section shall nevertheless be awarded damages for non-acceptance under the preceding section.

SECTION 2—710. Seller's Incidental Damages.

Incidental damages to an aggrieved seller include any commercially reasonable charges, expenses or commissions incurred in stopping delivery, in the transportation, care and custody of goods after the buyer's breach, in connection with return or resale of the goods or otherwise resulting from the breach.

SECTION 2—711. Buyer's Remedies in General; Buyer's Security Interest in Rejected Goods.

(1) Where the seller fails to make delivery or repudiates or the buyer rightfully rejects or justifiably revokes acceptance then with respect to any goods involved, and with respect to the whole if the breach goes to the whole contract (Section 2—612), the buyer may cancel and whether or not he has done so may in addition to recovering so much of the price as has been paid

(a) "cover" and have damages under the next section as to all the goods affected whether or not they have been identified to the contract; or

(b) recover damages for non-delivery as provided in this Article (Section 2—713).

(2) Where the seller fails to deliver or repudiates the buyer may also

(a) if the goods have been identified recover them as provided in this Article (Section 2—502); or

(b) in a proper case obtain specific performance or replevy the goods as provided in this Article (Section 2—716).

(3) On rightful rejection or justifiable revocation of acceptance a buyer has a security interest in goods in his possession or control for any payments made on their price and any expenses reasonably incurred in their inspection, receipt, transportation, care and custody and may hold such goods and resell them in like manner as an aggrieved seller (Section 2—706).

SECTION 2—712. "Cover"; Buyer's Procurement of Substitute Goods.

(1) After a breach within the preceding section the buyer may "cover" by making in good faith and without unreasonable delay any reasonable purchase of or contract to purchase goods in substitution for those due from the seller.

(2) The buyer may recover from the seller as damages the difference between the cost of cover and the contract price together with any incidental or consequential damages as hereinafter defined (Section 2—715), but less expenses saved in consequence of the seller's breach.

(3) Failure of the buyer to effect cover within this section does not bar him from any other remedy.

SECTION 2—713. Buyer's Damages for Non-Delivery or Repudiation.

(1) Subject to the provisions of this Article with respect to proof of market price (Section 2—723), the measure of damages for non-delivery or repudiation by the seller is the difference between the market price at the time when the buyer learned of the breach and the contract price together with any incidental and consequential damages provided in this Article (Section 2—715), but less expenses saved in consequence of the seller's breach.

(2) Market price is to be determined as of the place for tender or, in cases of rejection after arrival or revocation of acceptance, as of the place of arrival.

SECTION 2—714. Buyer's Damages for Breach in Regard to Accepted Goods.

(1) Where the buyer has accepted goods and given notification (subsection (3) of Section 2—607) he may recover as damages for any non-conformity of tender the loss resulting in the ordinary course of events from the seller's breach as determined in any manner which is reasonable.

(2) The measure of damages for breach of warranty is the difference at the time and place of acceptance between the value of the goods accepted and the value they would have had if they had been as warranted, unless special circumstances show proximate damages of a different amount.

(3) In a proper case any incidental and consequential damages under the next section may also be recovered.

SECTION 2—715. Buyer's Incidental and Consequential Damages.

(1) Incidental damages resulting from the seller's breach include expenses reasonably incurred in inspection, receipt, transportation and care and custody of goods rightfully rejected, any commercially reasonable charges, expenses or commissions in connection with effecting cover and any other reasonable expense incident to the delay or other breach.

(2) Consequential damages resulting from the seller's breach include

- (a) any loss resulting from general or particular requirements and needs of which the seller at the time of contracting had reason to know and which could not reasonably be prevented by cover or otherwise; and
- (b) injury to person or property proximately resulting from any breach of warranty.

SECTION 2—716. Buyer's Right to Specific Performance or Replevin.

(1) Specific performance may be decreed where the goods are unique or in other proper circumstances.

(2) The decree for specific performance may include such terms and conditions as to payment of the price, damages, or other relief as the court may deem just.

(3) The buyer has a right of replevin for goods identified to the contract if after reasonable effort he is unable to effect cover for such goods or the circumstances reasonably indicate that such effort will be unavailing or if the goods have been shipped under reservation and satisfaction of the security interest in them has been made or tendered.

SECTION 2—717. Deduction of Damages From the Price.

The buyer on notifying the seller of his intention to do so may deduct all or any part of the damages resulting from any breach of the contract from any part of the price still due under the same contract.

SECTION 2—718. Liquidation or Limitation of Damages; Deposits.

(1) Damages for breach by either party may be liquidated in the agreement but only at an amount which is reasonable in the light of the anticipated or actual harm caused by the breach, the difficulties of proof of loss, and the inconvenience or non-feasibility of otherwise obtaining an adequate remedy. A term fixing unreasonably large liquidated damages is void as a penalty.

(2) Where the seller justifiably withholds delivery of goods because of the buyer's breach, the buyer is entitled to restitution of any amount by which the sum of his payments exceeds

(a) the amount to which the seller is entitled by virtue of terms liquidating the seller's damages in accordance with subsection (1), or

(b) in the absence of such terms, twenty per cent of the value of the total performance for which the buyer is obligated under the contract or $500, whichever is smaller.

(3) The buyer's right to restitution under subsection (2) is subject to offset to the extent that the seller establishes

(a) a right to recover damages under the provisions of this Article other than subsection (1), and

(b) the amount or value of any benefits received by the buyer directly or indirectly by reason of the contract.

(4) Where a seller has received payment in goods their reasonable value or the proceeds of their resale shall be treated as payments for the purposes of subsection (2); but if the seller has notice of the buyer's breach before reselling goods received in part performance, his resale is subject to the conditions laid down in this Article on resale by an aggrieved seller (Section 2—706).

SECTION 2—719. Contractual Modification or Limitation of Remedy.

(1) Subject to the provisions of subsections (2) and (3) of this section and of the preceding section on liquidation and limitation of damages,

(a) the agreement may provide for remedies in addition to or in substitution for those provided in this Article and may limit or alter the measure of damages recoverable under this Article, as by limiting the buyer's remedies to return of the goods and repayment of the price or to repair and replacement of non-conforming goods or parts; and

(b) resort to a remedy as provided is optional unless the remedy is expressly agreed to be exclusive, in which case it is the sole remedy.

(2) Where circumstances cause an exclusive or limited remedy to fail of its essential purpose, remedy may be had as provided in this Act.

(3) Consequential damages may be limited or excluded unless the limitation or exclusion is unconscionable. Limitation of consequential damages for injury to the person in the case of consumer goods is prima facie unconscionable but limitation of damages where the loss is commercial is not.

SECTION 2—720. Effect of "Cancellation" or "Rescission" on Claims for Antecedent Breach.

Unless the contrary intention clearly appears, expressions of "cancellation" or "rescission" of the contract or the like shall not be construed as a renunciation or discharge of any claim in damages for an antecedent breach.

SECTION 2—721. Remedies for Fraud.

Remedies for material misrepresentation or fraud include all remedies available under this Article for non-fraudulent breach. Neither rescission or a claim for rescission of the contract for sale nor rejection or return of the goods shall bar or be deemed inconsistent with a claim for damages or other remedy.

SECTION 2—722. Who Can Sue Third Parties for Injury to Goods.

Where a third party so deals with goods which have been identified to a contract for sale as to cause actionable injury to a party to that contract

- (a) a right of action against the third party is in either party to the contract for sale who has title to or a security interest or a special property or an insurable interest in the goods; and if the goods have been destroyed or converted a right of action is also in the party who either bore the risk of loss under the contract for sale or has since the injury assumed that risk as against the other;
- (b) if at the time of the injury the party plaintiff did not bear the risk of loss as against the other party to the contract for sale and there is no arrangement between them for disposition of the recovery, his suit or settlement is, subject to his own interest, as a fiduciary for the other party to the contract; but such plaintiff shall promptly notify the other party of the institution of such action, and the other party shall have the right to intervene in such action; provided, however, that neither party shall have the right to settle the claim or right of action without the consent in writing of the other party;

- (c) either party may with the consent of the other sue for the benefit of whom it may concern.

SECTION 2—723. Proof of Market Price: Time and Place.

(1) If an action based on anticipatory repudiation comes to trial before the time for performance with respect to some or all of the goods, any damages based on market price (Section 2—708 or Section 2—713) shall be determined according to the price of such goods prevailing at the time when the aggrieved party learned of the repudiation.

(2) If evidence of a price prevailing at the times or places described in this Article is not readily available the price prevailing within any reasonable time before or after the time described or at any other place which in commercial judgment or under usage of trade would serve as a reasonable substitute for the one described may be used, making any proper allowance for the cost of transporting the goods to or from such other place.

(3) Evidence of a relevant price prevailing at a time or place other than the one described in this Article offered by one party is not admissible unless and until he has given the other party such notice as the court finds sufficient to prevent unfair surprise.

SECTION 2—724. Admissibility of Market Quotations.

Whenever the prevailing price or value of any goods regularly bought and sold in any established commodity market is in issue, reports in official publications or trade journals or in newspapers or periodicals of general circulation published as the reports of such market shall be admissible in evidence. The circumstances of the preparation of such a report may be shown to affect its weight but not its admissibility.

SECTION 2—725. Statute of Limitations in Contracts for Sale.

(1) An action for breach of any contract for sale must be commenced within six years after the cause of action has accrued.

(2) A cause of action accrues for breach of warranty when the breach is or should have been discovered.

(3) Where an action commenced within the time limited by subsection (1) is so terminated as to leave available a remedy by another action for the same breach such other action may be commenced after the expiration of the time limited and within six months after the termination of the first action unless the termination resulted from voluntary discontinuance or from dismissal for failure or neglect to prosecute.

(4) This section does not alter the law on tolling of the statute of limitations nor does it apply to causes of action which have accrued before this Act becomes effective.

This article does not repeal or modify any other law of this state permitting another procedure for service.

ARTICLE 3

COMMERCIAL PAPER

Introduction

This Article represents a revision of the Uniform Negotiable Instruments Law, hereinafter referred to as the "N. I. L.," the oldest of the Uniform Commercial Laws having been promulgated by the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws in 1896 and the only one enacted in all the states. The N. I. L. was enacted in South Sarolina in 1914, and appears in the Code of Laws of South Carolina (1962) as Sections 8-801-8-1076.

The scope of Article 3 is more limited than the N. I. L. in that it deals with only short term commercial paper—drafts, checks, certificates of deposit and promissory notes—leaving the treatment of long-term investment securities to a separate Article 8. The exclusion of investment securities from the scope of this article will solve the difficulty which has been created by requiring such securities to conform to the rigid mold of the N. I. L. Since corporate bonds and indentures usually carry collateral provisions, it has been difficult to draft them in such a way as to meet the formal requisites of negotiability under the N. I. L.

The N. I. L. only indirectly touched some of the problems arising from check collections by banks. The Bank Collection Code drafted by the American Bankers Association and enacted in large part in South Carolina was the first direct statutory attempt to regulate this highly mechanical and technical process. Article 4 of the Code is now assigned this task, expanding the coverage into a number of new detailed problems relating to the rights and duties of banks in dealing with the depositors as well as with other banks in the process of collecting items.

The principal function of Article 3 is to modernize the law governing commercial paper, resolve a number of conflicts which have developed by the courts over the years in interpreting the N. I. L., fill in gaps not previously covered by statutory treatment and thus make the law more uniform and certain in this important area of interstate commercial transactions. This has been accomplished by Article 3 with relatively few major changes in the South Carolina Law of Commercial Paper. There has been little change in the business or banking use of commercial paper during this century and thus the drafters of this article have simply restated in more precise and concise language most of the familiar rules with some tidying up of loose ends.

(1) This Article does not apply to money, documents of title or investment securities.

(2) The provisions of this Article are subject to the provisions of the Article on Bank Deposits and Collections (Article 4) and Secured Transactions (Article 9).

SECTION 3—104. Form of Negotiable Instruments; "Draft"; "Check"; "Certificate of Deposit"; "Note".

(1) Any writing to be a negotiable instrument within this Article must

- (a) be signed by the maker or drawer; and
- (b) contain an unconditional promise or order to pay a sum certain in money and no other promise, order, obligation or power given by the maker or drawer except as authorized by this Article; and
- (c) be payable on demand or at a definite time; and
- (d) be payable to order or to bearer.

(2) A writing which complies with the requirements of this section is

- (a) a "draft" ("bill of exchange") if it is an order;
- (b) a "check" if it is a draft drawn on a bank and payable on demand;
- (c) a "certificate of deposit" if it is an acknowledgment by a bank of receipt of money with an engagement to repay it;
- (d) a "note" if it is a promise other than a certificate of deposit.

(3) As used in other Articles of this Act, and as the context may require, the terms "draft", "check", "certificate of deposit" and "note" may refer to instruments which are not negotiable within this Article as well as to instruments which are so negotiable.

SECTION 3—105. When Promise or Order Unconditional.

(1) A promise or order otherwise unconditional is not made conditional by the fact that the instrument

- (a) is subject to implied or constructive conditions; or
- (b) states its consideration, whether performed or promised, or the transaction which gave rise to the instrument, or that the promise or order is made or the instrument matures in accordance with or "as per" such transaction; or
- (c) refers to or states that it arises out of a separate agreement or refers to a separate agreement for rights as to prepayment or acceleration; or
- (d) states that it is drawn under a letter of credit; or

- (e) states that it is secured, whether by mortgage, reservation of title or otherwise; or
 - (f) indicates a particular account to be debited or any other fund or source from which reimbursement is expected; or
 - (g) is limited to payment out of a particular fund or the proceeds of a particular source, if the instrument is issued by a government or governmental agency or unit; or
 - (h) is limited to payment out of the entire assets of a partnership, unincorporated association, trust or estate by or on behalf of which the instrument is issued.
- (2) A promise or order is not unconditional if the instrument
- (a) states that it is subject to or governed by any other agreement; or
 - (b) states that it is to be paid only out of a particular fund or source except as provided in this section.

SECTION 3—106. Sum Certain.

- (1) The sum payable is a sum certain even though it is to be paid
- (a) with stated interest or by stated installments; or
 - (b) with stated different rates of interest before and after default or a specified date; or
 - (c) with a stated discount or addition if paid before or after the date fixed for payment; or
 - (d) with exchange or less exchange, whether at a fixed rate or at the current rate; or
 - (e) with costs of collection or an attorney's fee or both upon default.
- (2) Nothing in this section shall validate any term which is otherwise illegal.

SECTION 3—107. Money.

- (1) An instrument is payable in money if the medium of exchange in which it is payable is money at the time the instrument is made. An instrument payable in "currency" or "current funds" is payable in money.
- (2) A promise or order to pay a sum stated in a foreign currency is for a sum certain in money and, unless a different medium of payment is specified in the instrument, may be satisfied by payment of that number of dollars which the stated foreign currency will purchase at the buying sight rate for that currency on the day on which the instrument is payable or, if payable on demand, on the day of demand.

If such an instrument specifies a foreign currency as the medium of payment the instrument is payable in that currency.

SECTION 3—108. Payable on Demand.

Instruments payable on demand include those payable at sight or on presentation and those in which no time for payment is stated.

SECTION 3—109. Definite Time.

(1) An instrument is payable at a definite time if by its terms it is payable

- (a) on or before a stated date or at a fixed period after a stated date; or
- (b) at a fixed period after sight; or
- (c) at a definite time subject to any acceleration; or
- (d) at a definite time subject to extension at the option of the holder, or to extension to a further definite time at the option of the maker or acceptor or automatically upon or after a specified act or event.

(2) An instrument which by its terms is otherwise payable only upon an act or event uncertain as to time of occurrence is not payable at a definite time even though the act or event has occurred.

SECTION 3—110. Payable to Order.

(1) An instrument is payable to order when by its terms it is payable to the order or assigns of any person therein specified with reasonable certainty, or to him or his order, or when it is conspicuously designated on its face as "exchange" or the like and names a payee. It may be payable to the order of

- (a) the maker or drawer; or
- (b) the drawee; or
- (c) a payee who is not maker, drawer or drawee; or
- (d) two or more payees together or in the alternative; or
- (e) an estate, trust or fund, in which case it is payable to the order of the representative of such estate, trust or fund or his successors; or
- (f) an office, or an officer by his title as such in which case it is payable to the principal but the incumbent of the office or his successors may act as if he or they were the holder; or
- (g) a partnership or unincorporated association, in which case it is payable to the partnership or association and may be indorsed or transferred by any person thereto authorized.

(2) An instrument not payable to order is not made so payable by such words as "payable upon return of this instrument properly indorsed."

(3) An instrument made payable both to order and to bearer is payable to order unless the bearer words are handwritten or typewritten.

SECTION 3—111. Payable to Bearer.

An instrument is payable to bearer when by its terms it is payable to

- (a) bearer or the order of bearer; or
- (b) a specified person or bearer; or
- (c) "cash" or the order of "cash", or any other indication which does not purport to designate a specific payee.

SECTION 3—112. Terms and Omissions Not Affecting Negotiability.

- (1) The negotiability of an instrument is not affected by
 - (a) the omission of a statement of any consideration or of the place where the instrument is drawn or payable; or
 - (b) a statement that collateral has been given to secure obligations either on the instrument or otherwise of an obligor on the instrument or that in case of default on those obligations the holder may realize on or dispose of the collateral; or
 - (c) a promise or power to maintain or protect collateral or to give additional collateral; or
 - (d) a term authorizing a confession of judgment on the instrument if it is not paid when due; or
 - (e) a term purporting to waive the benefit of any law intended for the advantage or protection of any obligor; or
 - (f) a term in a draft providing that the payee by indorsing or cashing it acknowledges full satisfaction of an obligation of the drawer; or
 - (g) a statement in a draft drawn in a set of parts (Section 3—801) to the effect that the order is effective only if no other part has been honored.
- (2) Nothing in this section shall validate any term which is otherwise illegal.

SECTION 3—113. Seal.

An instrument otherwise negotiable is within this Article even though it is under a seal.

SECTION 3—114. Date, Antedating, Postdating.

(1) The negotiability of an instrument is not affected by the fact that it is undated, antedated or postdated.

(2) Where an instrument is antedated or postdated the time when it is payable is determined by the stated date if the instrument is payable on demand or at a fixed period after date.

(3) Where the instrument or any signature thereon is dated, the date is presumed to be correct.

SECTION 3—115. Incomplete Instruments.

(1) When a paper whose contents at the time of signing show that it is intended to become an instrument is signed while still incomplete in any necessary respect it cannot be enforced until completed, but when it is completed in accordance with authority given it is effective as completed.

(2) If the completion is unauthorized the rules as to material alteration apply (Section 3—407), even though the paper was not delivered by the maker or drawer; but the burden of establishing that any completion is unauthorized is on the party so asserting.

SECTION 3—116. Instruments Payable to Two or More Persons.

An instrument payable to the order of two or more persons

- (a) if in the alternative is payable to any one of them and may be negotiated, discharged or enforced by any of them who has possession of it;
- (b) if not in the alternative is payable to all of them and may be negotiated, discharged or enforced only by all of them.

SECTION 3—117. Instruments Payable With Words of Description.

An instrument made payable to a named person with the addition of words describing him

- (a) as agent or officer of a specified person is payable to his principal but the agent or officer may act as if he were the holder;
- (b) as any other fiduciary for a specified person or purpose is payable to the payee and may be negotiated, discharged or enforced by him;

- (c) in any other manner is payable to the payee unconditionally and the additional words are without effect on subsequent parties.

SECTION 3—118. Ambiguous Terms and Rules of Construction.

The following rules apply to every instrument:

- (a) Where there is doubt whether the instrument is a draft or a note the holder may treat it as either. A draft drawn on the drawer is effective as a note.
- (b) Handwritten terms control typewritten and printed terms, and typewritten control printed.
- (c) Words control figures except that if the words are ambiguous figures control.
- (d) Unless otherwise specified a provision for interest means interest at the judgment rate at the place of payment from the date of the instrument, or if it is un-dated from the date of issue.
- (e) Unless the instrument otherwise specifies two or more persons who sign as maker, acceptor or drawer or indorser and as a part of the same transaction are jointly and severally liable even though the instrument contains such words as "I promise to pay."
- (f) Unless otherwise specified consent to extension authorizes a single extension for not longer than the original period. A consent to extension, expressed in the instrument, is binding on secondary parties and accommodation makers. A holder may not exercise his option to extend an instrument over the objection of a maker or acceptor or other party who in accordance with Section 3—604 tenders full payment when the instrument is due.

SECTION 3—119. Other Writings Affecting Instrument.

(1) As between the obligor and his immediate obligee or any transferee the terms of an instrument may be modified or affected by any other written agreement executed as a part of the same transaction, except that a holder in due course is not affected by any limitation of his rights arising out of the separate written agreement if he had no notice of the limitation when he took the instrument.

(2) A separate agreement does not affect the negotiability of an instrument.

SECTION 3—120. Instruments "Payable Through" Bank.

An instrument which states that it is "payable through" a bank or the like designates that bank as a collecting bank to make presentment but does not of itself authorize the bank to pay the instrument.

SECTION 3—121. Instruments Payable at Bank.

A note or acceptance which states that it is payable at a bank is not of itself an order or authorization to the bank to pay it.

SECTION 3—122. Accrual of Cause of Action.

- (1) A cause of action against a maker or an acceptor accrues
 - (a) in the case of a time instrument on the day after maturity;
 - (b) in the case of a demand instrument upon its date or, if no date is stated, on the date of issue.

(2) A cause of action against the obligor of a demand or time certificate of deposit accrues upon demand, but demand on a time certificate may not be made until on or after the date of maturity.

(3) A cause of action against a drawer of a draft or an endorser of an instrument accrues upon demand following his honor of the instrument. Notice of dishonor is a demand.

(4) Unless an instrument provides otherwise, interest runs at the rate provided by law for a judgment

- (a) in the case of a maker, acceptor or other primary obligor of a demand instrument, from the date of demand;
- (b) in all other cases from the date of accrual of the cause of action.

PART 2

TRANSFER AND NEGOTIATION

SECTION 3—201. Transfer: Right to Indorsement.

(1) Transfer of an instrument vests in the transferee such rights as the transferor has therein, except that a transferee who has himself been a party to any fraud or illegality affecting the instrument or who as a prior holder had notice of a defense or claim against it cannot improve his position by taking from a later holder in due course.

(2) A transfer of a security interest in an instrument vests the foregoing rights in the transferee to the extent of the interest transferred.

(3) Unless otherwise agreed any transfer for value of an instrument not then payable to bearer gives the transferee the specifically enforceable right to have the unqualified indorsement of the transferor. Negotiation takes effect only when the indorsement is made and until that time there is no presumption that the transferee is the owner.

SECTION 3—202. Negotiation.

(1) Negotiation is the transfer of an instrument in such form that the transferee becomes a holder. If the instrument is payable to order it is negotiated by delivery with any necessary indorsement; if payable to bearer it is negotiated by delivery.

(2) An indorsement must be written by or on behalf of the holder and on the instrument or on a paper so firmly affixed thereto as to become a part thereof.

(3) An indorsement is effective for negotiation only when it conveys the entire instrument or any unpaid residue. If it purports to be of less it operates only as a partial assignment.

(4) Words of assignment, condition, waiver, guaranty, limitation or disclaimer of liability and the like accompanying an indorsement do not affect its character as an indorsement.

SECTION 3—203. Wrong or Misspelled Name.

Where an instrument is made payable to a person under a misspelled name or one other than his own he may indorse in that name or his own or both; but signature in both names may be required by a person paying or giving value for the instrument.

SECTION 3—204. Special Indorsement; Blank Indorsement.

(1) A special indorsement specifies the person to whom or to whose order it makes the instrument payable. Any instrument specially indorsed becomes payable to the order of the special indorsee and may be further negotiated only by his indorsement.

(2) An indorsement in blank specifies no particular indorsee and may consist of a mere signature. An instrument payable to order and indorsed in blank becomes payable to bearer and may be negotiated by delivery alone until specially indorsed.

(3) The holder may convert a blank indorsement into a special indorsement by writing over the signature of the indorser in blank any contract consistent with the character of the indorsement.

SECTION 3—205. Restrictive Indorsements.

An indorsement is restrictive which either

- (a) is conditional; or
- (b) purports to prohibit further transfer of the instrument; or
- (c) includes the words “for collection”, “for deposit”, “pay any bank”, or like terms signifying a purpose of deposit or collection; or
- (d) otherwise states that it is for the benefit or use of the indorser or of another person.

SECTION 3—206. Effect of Restrictive Indorsement.

(1) No restrictive indorsement prevents further transfer or negotiation of the instrument.

(2) An intermediary bank, or a payor bank which is not the depository bank, is neither given notice nor otherwise affected by a restrictive indorsement of any person except the bank's immediate transferor or the person presenting for payment.

(3) Except for an intermediary bank, any transferee under an indorsement which is conditional or includes the words “for collection”, “for deposit”, “pay any bank”, or like terms (subparagraphs (a) and (c) of Section 3-205) must pay or apply any value given by him for or on the security of the instrument consistently with the indorsement and to the extent that he does so he becomes a holder for value. In addition such transferee is a holder in due course if he otherwise complies with the requirements of Section 3-302 on what constitutes a holder in due course.

(4) The first taker under an indorsement for the benefit of the indorser or another person (subparagraph (d) of Section 3-205) must pay or apply any value given by him for or on the security of the instrument consistently with the indorsement and to the extent that he does so he becomes a holder for value. In addition such taker is a holder in due course if he otherwise complies with the requirements of Section 3-302 on what constitutes a holder in due course. A later holder for value is neither given notice nor otherwise affected by such restrictive indorsement unless he has knowledge that a fiduciary or other person has negotiated the instrument in any transaction for his own benefit or otherwise in breach of duty (subsection (2) of Section 3-304).

SECTION 3—207. Negotiation Effective Although It May Be Rescinded.

(1) Negotiation is effective to transfer the instrument although the negotiation is

- (a) made by an infant, a corporation exceeding its powers, or any other person without capacity; or
- (b) obtained by fraud, duress or mistake of any kind; or
- (c) part of an illegal transaction; or
- (d) made in breach of duty.

(2) Except as against a subsequent holder in due course such negotiation is in an appropriate case subject to rescission, the declaration of a constructive trust or any other remedy permitted by law.

SECTION 3—208. Reacquisition.

Where an instrument is returned to or reacquired by a prior party he may cancel any indorsement which is not necessary to his title and reissue or further negotiate the instrument, but any intervening party is discharged as against the reacquiring party and subsequent holders not in due course and if his indorsement has been cancelled is discharged as against subsequent holders in due course as well.

PART 3

RIGHTS OF A HOLDER

SECTION 3—301. Rights of a Holder.

The holder of an instrument whether or not he is the owner may transfer or negotiate it and, except as otherwise provided in Section 3-603 on payment or satisfaction, discharge it or enforce payment in his own name.

SECTION 3—302. Holder in Due Course.

- (1) A holder in due course is a holder who takes the instrument
 - (a) for value; and
 - (b) in good faith; and
 - (c) without notice that it is overdue or has been dishonored or of any defense against or claim to it on the part of any person.
- (2) A payee may be a holder in due course.
- (3) A holder does not become a holder in due course of an instrument:

- (a) by purchase of it at judicial sale or by taking it under legal process; or
 - (b) by acquiring it in taking over an estate; or
 - (c) by purchasing it as part of a bulk transaction not in regular course of business of the transferor.
- (4) A purchaser of a limited interest can be a holder in due course only to the extent of the interest purchased.

SECTION 3—303. Taking for Value.

A holder takes the instrument for value

- (a) to the extent that the agreed consideration has been performed or that he acquires a security interest in or a lien on the instrument otherwise than by legal process; or
- (b) when he takes the instrument in payment of or as security for an antecedent claim against any person whether or not the claim is due; or
- (c) when he gives a negotiable instrument for it or makes an irrevocable commitment to a third person.

SECTION 3—304. Notice to Purchaser.

- (1) The purchaser has notice of a claim or defense if
 - (a) the instrument is so incomplete, bears such visible evidence of forgery or alteration, or is otherwise so irregular as to call into question its validity, terms or ownership or to create an ambiguity as to the party to pay; or
 - (b) the purchaser has notice that the obligation of any party is voidable in whole or in part, or that all parties have been discharged.
- (2) The purchaser has notice of a claim against the instrument when he has knowledge that a fiduciary has negotiated the instrument in payment of or as security for his own debt or in any transaction for his own benefit or otherwise in breach of duty.
- (3) The purchaser has notice that an instrument is overdue if he has reason to know
 - (a) that any part of the principal amount is overdue or that there is an uncured default in payment of another instrument of the same series; or
 - (b) that acceleration of the instrument has been made; or
 - (c) that he is taking a demand instrument after demand has been made or more than a reasonable length of time after its issue. A reasonable time for a check drawn and payable within the states and territories of the United States and the District of Columbia is presumed to be thirty days.

(4) Knowledge of the following facts does not of itself give the purchaser notice of a defense or claim

- (a) that the instrument is antedated or postdated;
- (b) that it was issued or negotiated in return for an executory promise or accompanied by a separate agreement, unless the purchaser has notice that a defense or claim has arisen from the terms thereof;
- (c) that any party has signed for accommodation;
- (d) that an incomplete instrument has been completed, unless the purchaser has notice of any improper completion;
- (e) that any person negotiating the instrument is or was a fiduciary;
- (f) that there has been default in payment of interest on the instrument or in payment of any other instrument, except one of the same series.

(5) The filing or recording of a document does not of itself constitute notice within the provisions of this Article to a person who would otherwise be a holder in due course.

(6) To be effective notice must be received at such time and in such manner as to give a reasonable opportunity to act on it.

SECTION 3—305. Rights of a Holder in Due Course.

To the extent that a holder is a holder in due course he takes the instrument free from

- (1) all claims to it on the part of any person; and
- (2) all defenses of any party to the instrument with whom the holder has not dealt except
 - (a) infancy, to the extent that it is a defense to a simple contract; and
 - (b) such other incapacity, or duress, or illegality of the transaction, as renders the obligation of the party a nullity; and
 - (c) such misrepresentation as has induced the party to sign the instrument with neither knowledge nor reasonable opportunity to obtain knowledge of its character or its essential terms; and
 - (d) discharge in insolvency proceedings; and

- (e) any other discharge of which the holder has notice when he takes the instrument.

SECTION 3—306. Rights of One Not Holder in Due Course.

Unless he has the rights of a holder in due course any person takes the instrument subject to

- (a) all valid claims to it on the part of any person; and
- (b) all defenses of any party which would be available in an action on a simple contract; and
- (c) the defenses of want or failure of consideration, nonperformance of any condition precedent, non-delivery, or delivery for a special purpose (Section 3-408); and
- (d) the defense that he or a person through whom he holds the instrument acquired it by theft, or that payment or satisfaction to such holder would be inconsistent with the terms of a restrictive indorsement. The claim of any third person to the instrument is not otherwise available as a defense to any party liable thereon unless the third person himself defends the action for such party.

SECTION 3—307. Burden of Establishing Signatures, Defenses and Due Course.

(1) Unless specifically denied in the pleadings each signature on an instrument is admitted. When the effectiveness of a signature is put in issue

- (a) the burden of establishing it is on the party claiming under the signature; but
- (b) the signature is presumed to be genuine or authorized except where the action is to enforce the obligation of a purported signer who has died or become incompetent before proof is required.

(2) When signatures are admitted or established, production of the instrument entitles a holder to recover on it unless the defendant establishes a defense.

(3) After it is shown that a defense exists a person claiming the rights of a holder in due course has the burden of establishing that he or some person under whom he claims is in all respects a holder in due course.

PART 4

SECTION 3—401. Signature.

(1) No person is liable on an instrument unless his signature appears thereon.

(2) A signature is made by use of any name, including any trade or assumed name, upon an instrument, or by any word or mark used in lieu of a written signature.

Unless the instrument clearly indicates that a signature is made in some other capacity it is an indorsement.

SECTION 3—403. Signature by Authorized Representative.

(1) A signature may be made by an agent or other representative, and his authority to make it may be established as in other cases of representation. No particular form of appointment is necessary to establish such authority.

(2) An authorized representative who signs his own name to an instrument

(a) is personally obligated if the instrument neither names the person represented nor shows that the representative signed in a representative capacity;

(b) except as otherwise established between the immediate parties, is personally obligated if the instrument names the person represented but does not show that the representative signed in a representative capacity, or if the instrument does not name the person represented but does show that the representative signed in a representative capacity.

(3) Except as otherwise established the name of an organization proceeded or followed by the name and office of an authorized individual is a signature made in a representative capacity.

SECTION 3—404. Unauthorized Signatures.

(1) Any unauthorized signature is wholly inoperative as that of the person whose name is signed unless he ratifies it or is precluded from denying it; but it operates as the signature of the unauthorized signer in favor of any person who in good faith pays the instrument or takes it for value.

(2) Any unauthorized signature may be ratified for all purposes of this Article. Such ratification does not of itself affect any rights of the person ratifying against the actual signer.

SECTION 3—405. Impostors; Signature in Name of Payee.

(1) An indorsement by any person in the name of a named payee is effective if

- (a) an impostor by use of the mails or otherwise has induced the maker or drawer to issue the instrument to him or his confederate in the name of the payee; or
- (b) a person signing as or on behalf of a maker or drawer intends the payee to have no interest in the instrument; or
- (c) an agent or employee of the maker or drawer has supplied him with the name of the payee intending the latter to have no such interest.

(2) Nothing in this section shall affect the criminal or civil liability of the person so indorsing.

SECTION 3—406. Negligence Contributing to Alteration or Unauthorized Signature.

Any person who by his negligence substantially contributes to a material alteration of the instrument or to the making of an unauthorized signature is precluded from asserting the alteration or lack of authority against a holder in due course or against a drawee or other payor who pays the instrument in good faith and in accordance with the reasonable commercial standards of the drawee's or payor's business.

SECTION 3—407. Alteration.

(1) Any alteration of an instrument is material which changes the contract of any party thereto in any respect, including any such change in

- (a) the number or relations of the parties; or
- (b) an incomplete instrument, by completing it otherwise than as authorized; or
- (c) the writing as signed, by adding to it or by removing any part of it.

(2) As against any person other than a subsequent holder in due course

- (a) alteration by the holder which is both fraudulent and material discharges any party whose contract is thereby changed unless that party assents or is precluded from asserting the defense;

(b) no other alteration discharges any party and the instrument may be enforced according to its original tenor, or as to incomplete instruments according to the authority given.

(3) A subsequent holder in due course may in all cases enforce the instrument according to its original tenor, and when an incomplete instrument has been completed, he may enforce it as completed.

SECTION 3—408. Consideration.

Want or failure of consideration is a defense as against any person not having the rights of a holder in due course (Section 3-305), except that no consideration is necessary for an instrument or obligation thereon given in payment of or as security for an antecedent obligation of any kind. Nothing in this section shall be taken to displace any statute outside this Act under which a promise is enforceable notwithstanding lack or failure of consideration. Partial failure of consideration is a defense pro tanto whether or not the failure is in an ascertained or liquidated amount.

SECTION 3—409. Draft Not an Assignment.

(1) A check or other draft does not of itself operate as an assignment of any funds in the hands of the drawee available for its payment, and the drawee is not liable on the instrument until he accepts it.

(2) Nothing in this section shall affect any liability in contract, tort or otherwise arising from any letter of credit or other obligation or representation which is not an acceptance.

SECTION 3—410. Definition and Operation of Acceptance.

(1) Acceptance is the drawee's signed engagement to honor the draft as presented. It must be written on the draft, and may consist of his signature alone. It becomes operative when completed by delivery or notification.

(2) A draft may be accepted although it has not been signed by the drawer or is otherwise incomplete or is overdue or has been dishonored.

(3) Where the draft is payable at a fixed period after sight and the acceptor fails to date his acceptance the holder may complete it by supplying a date in good faith.

SECTION 3—411. Certification of a Check.

(1) Certification of a check is acceptance. Where a holder procures certification the drawer and all prior indorsers are discharged.

(2) Unless otherwise agreed a bank has no obligation to certify a check.

(3) A bank may certify a check before returning it for lack of proper indorsement. If it does so the drawer is discharged.

SECTION 3—412. Acceptance Varying Draft.

(1) Where the drawee's proffered acceptance in any manner varies the draft as presented the holder may refuse the acceptance and treat the draft as dishonored in which case the drawee is entitled to have his acceptance cancelled.

(2) The terms of the draft are not varied by an acceptance to pay at any particular bank or place in the United States, unless the acceptance states that the draft is to be paid only at such bank or place.

(3) Where the holder assents to an acceptance varying the terms of the draft each drawer and indorser who does not affirmatively assent is discharged.

SECTION 3—413. Contract of Maker, Drawer and Acceptor.

(1) The maker or acceptor engages that he will pay the instrument according to its tenor at the time of his engagement or as completed pursuant to Section 3-115 on incomplete instruments.

(2) The drawer engages that upon dishonor of the draft and any necessary notice of dishonor or protest he will pay the amount of the draft to the holder or to any indorser who takes it up. The drawer may disclaim this liability by drawing without recourse.

(3) By making, drawing or accepting the party admits as against all subsequent parties including the drawee the existence of the payee and his then capacity to indorse.

SECTION 3—414. Contract of Indorser; Order of Liability.

(1) Unless the indorsement otherwise specifies (as by such words as "without recourse") every indorser engages that upon dishonor and any necessary notice of dishonor and protest he will pay the instrument according to its tenor at the time of his indorsement to the holder or to any subsequent indorser who takes it up, even though the indorser who takes it up was not obligated to do so.

(2) Unless they otherwise agree indorsers are liable to one another in the order in which they indorse, which is presumed to be the order in which their signatures appear on the instrument.

SECTION 3—415. Contract of Accommodation Party.

(1) An accommodation party is one who signs the instrument in any capacity for the purpose of lending his name to another party to it.

(2) When the instrument has been taken for value before it is due the accommodation party is liable in the capacity in which he has signed even though the taker knows of the accommodation.

(3) As against a holder in due course and without notice of the accommodation oral proof of the accommodation is not admissible to give the accommodation party the benefit of discharges dependent on his character as such. In other cases the accommodation character may be shown by oral proof.

(4) An indorsement which shows that it is not in the chain of title is notice of its accommodation character.

(5) An accommodation party is not liable to the party accommodated, and if he pays the instrument has a right of recourse on the instrument against such party.

SECTION 3—416. Contract of Guarantor.

(1) "Payment guaranteed" or equivalent words added to a signature mean that the signer engages that if the instrument is not paid when due he will pay it according to its tenor without resort by the holder to any other party.

(2) "Collection guaranteed" or equivalent words added to a signature mean that the signer engages that if the instrument is not paid when due he will pay it according to its tenor, but only after the holder has reduced his claim against the maker or acceptor to judgment and execution has been returned unsatisfied, or after the maker or acceptor has become insolvent or it is otherwise apparent that it is useless to proceed against him.

(3) Words of guaranty which do not otherwise specify guarantee payment.

(4) No words of guaranty added to the signature of a sole maker or acceptor affect his liability on the instrument. Such words added to the signature of one of two or more makers or acceptors create a presumption that the signature is for the accommodation of the others.

(5) When words of guaranty are used presentment, notice of dishonor and protest are not necessary to charge the user.

(6) Any guaranty written on the instrument is enforceable notwithstanding any statute of frauds.

SECTION 3—417. Warranties on Presentment and Transfer.

(1) Any person who obtains payment or acceptance and any prior transferor warrants to a person who in good faith pays or accepts that

- (a) he has a good title to the instrument or is authorized to obtain payment or acceptance on behalf of one who has a good title; and
- (b) he has no knowledge that the signature of the maker or drawer is unauthorized, except that this warranty is not given by a holder in due course acting in good faith
 - (i) to a maker with respect to the maker's own signature; or
 - (ii) to a drawer with respect to the drawer's own signature, whether or not the drawer is also the drawee; or
 - (iii) to an acceptor of a draft if the holder in due course took the draft after the acceptance or obtained the acceptance without knowledge that the drawer's signature was unauthorized; and
- (c) the instrument has not been materially altered, except that this warranty is not given by a holder in due course acting in good faith
 - (i) to the maker of a note; or
 - (ii) to the drawer of a draft whether or not the drawer is also the drawee; or
 - (iii) to the acceptor of a draft with respect to an alteration made prior to the acceptance if the holder in due course took the draft after the acceptance, even though the acceptance provided "payable as originally drawn" or equivalent terms; or
 - (iv) to the acceptor of a draft with respect to an alteration made after the acceptance.

(2) Any person who transfers an instrument and receives consideration warrants to his transferee and if the transfer is by indorsement to any subsequent holder who takes the instrument in good faith that

- (a) he has a good title to the instrument or is authorized to obtain payment or acceptance on behalf of one who has a good title and the transfer is otherwise rightful; and
- (b) all signatures are genuine or authorized; and
- (c) the instrument has not been materially altered; and
- (d) no defense of any party is good against him; and
- (e) he has no knowledge of any insolvency proceeding instituted with respect to the maker or acceptor or the drawer of an unaccepted instrument.

(3) By transferring "without recourse" the transferor limits the obligation stated in subsection (2) (d) to a warranty that he has no knowledge of such a defense.

(4) A selling agent or broker who does not disclose the fact that he is acting only as such gives the warranties provided in this section, but if he makes such disclosure warrants only his good faith and authority.

SECTION 3—418. Finality of Payment or Acceptance.

Except for recovery of bank payments as provided in the Article on Bank Deposits and Collections (Article 4) and except for liability for breach of warranty on presentment under the preceding section, payment or acceptance of any instrument is final in favor of a holder in due course, or a person who has in good faith changed his position in reliance on the payment.

SECTION 3—419. Conversion of Instrument; Innocent Representative.

- (1) An instrument is converted when
 - (a) a drawee to whom it is delivered for acceptance refuses to return it on demand; or
 - (b) any person to whom it is delivered for payment refuses on demand either to pay or to return it; or
 - (c) it is paid on a forged indorsement.

(2) In an action against a drawee under subsection (1) the measure of the drawee's liability is the face amount of the instrument. In any other action under subsection (1) the measure of liability is presumed to be the face amount of the instrument.

(3) Subject to the provisions of this Act concerning restrictive indorsements a representative, including a depositary or collecting bank, who has in good faith and in accordance with the reasonable commercial standards applicable to the business of such representative dealt with an instrument or its proceeds on behalf of one who was not the true owner is not liable in conversion or otherwise to the true owner beyond the amount of any proceeds remaining in his hands.

(4) An intermediary bank or payor bank which is not a depositary bank is not liable in conversion solely by reason of the fact that proceeds of an item indorsed restrictively (Sections 3-205 and 3-206) are not paid or applied consistently with the restrictive indorsement of an indorser other than its immediate transferor.

PART 5

PRESENTMENT, NOTICE OF DISHONOR AND PROTEST

SECTION 3—501. When Presentment, Notice of Dishonor, and Protest Necessary or Permissible.

(1) Unless excused (Section 3-511) presentment is necessary to charge secondary parties as follows:

- (a) presentment for acceptance is necessary to charge the drawer and indorsers of a draft where the draft so provides, or is payable elsewhere than at the residence or place of business of the drawee, or its date of payment depends upon such presentment. The holder may at his option present for acceptance any other draft payable at a stated date;
- (b) presentment for payment is necessary to charge any indorser;
- (c) in the case of any drawer, the acceptor of a draft payable at a bank or the maker of a note payable at a bank, presentment for payment is necessary, but failure to make presentment discharges such drawer, acceptor or maker only as stated in Section 3-502(1) (b).

(2) Unless excused (Section 3-511)

- (a) notice of any dishonor is necessary to charge any indorser;
- (b) in the case of any drawer, the acceptor of a draft payable at a bank or the maker of a note payable at a bank, notice of any dishonor is necessary, but failure to give such notice discharges such drawer, acceptor or maker only as stated in Section 3-502(1) (b).

(3) Unless excused (Section 3-511) protest of any dishonor is necessary to charge the drawer and indorsers of any draft which on its face appears to be drawn or payable outside of the states and territories of the United States and the District of Columbia. The holder may at his option make protest of any dishonor of any other instrument and in the case of a foreign draft may on insolvency of the acceptor before maturity make protest for better security.

(4) Notwithstanding any provision of this section, neither presentment nor notice of dishonor nor protest is necessary to charge an indorser who has indorsed an instrument after maturity.

SECTION 3—502. Unexcused Delay; Discharge.

(1) Where without excuse any necessary presentment or notice of dishonor is delayed beyond the time when it is due

(a) any indorser is discharged; and

(b) any drawer or the acceptor of a draft payable at a bank or the maker of a note payable at a bank who because the drawee or payor bank becomes insolvent during the delay is deprived of funds maintained with the drawee or payor bank to cover the instrument may discharge his liability by written assignment to the holder of his rights against the drawee or payor bank in respect of such funds, but such drawer, acceptor or maker is not otherwise discharged.

(2) Where without excuse a necessary protest is delayed beyond the time when it is due any drawer or indorser is discharged.

SECTION 3—503. Time of Presentment.

(1) Unless a different time is expressed in the instrument the time for any presentment is determined as follows:

(a) where an instrument is payable at or a fixed period after a stated date any presentment for acceptance must be made on or before the date it is payable;

(b) where an instrument is payable after sight it must either be presented for acceptance or negotiated within a reasonable time after date or issue whichever is later;

(c) where an instrument shows the date on which it is payable presentment for payment is due on that date;

- (d) where an instrument is accelerated presentment for payment is due within a reasonable time after the acceleration;
- (e) with respect to the liability of any secondary party presentment for acceptance or payment of any other instrument is due within a reasonable time after such party becomes liable thereon.

(2) A reasonable time for presentment is determined by the nature of the instrument, any usage of banking or trade and the facts of the particular case. In the case of an uncertified check which is drawn and payable within the United States and which is not a draft drawn by a bank the following are presumed to be reasonable periods within which to present for payment or to initiate bank collection:

- (a) with respect to the liability of the drawer, thirty days after date or issue whichever is later; and
- (b) with respect to the liability of an indorser, seven days after his indorsement.

(3) Where any presentment is due on a day which is not a full business day for either the person making presentment or the party to pay or accept, presentment is due on the next following day which is a full business day for both parties.

(4) Presentment to be sufficient must be made at a reasonable hour, and if at a bank during its banking day.

SECTION 3—504. How Presentment Made.

(1) Presentment is a demand for acceptance or payment made upon the maker, acceptor, drawee or other payor by or on behalf of the holder.

(2) Presentment may be made

- (a) by mail, in which event the time of presentment is determined by the time of receipt of the mail; or
- (b) through a clearing house; or
- (c) at the place of acceptance or payment specified in the instrument or if there be none at the place of business or residence of the party to accept or pay. If neither the party to accept or pay nor anyone authorized to act for him is present or accessible at such place presentment is excused.

(3) It may be made

- (a) to any one of two or more makers, acceptors, drawees or other payors; or

- (b) to any person who has authority to make or refuse the acceptance or payment.

(4) A draft accepted or a note made payable at a bank in the United States must be presented at such bank.

(5) In the cases described in Section 4-210 presentment may be made in the manner and with the result stated in that section.

SECTION 3—505. Rights of Party to Whom Presentment Is Made.

(1) The party to whom presentment is made may without dishonor require

- (a) exhibition of the instrument; and
- (b) reasonable identification of the person making presentment and evidence of his authority to make it if made for another; and
- (c) that the instrument be produced for acceptance or payment at a place specified in it, or if there be none at any place reasonable in the circumstances; and
- (d) a signed receipt on the instrument for any partial or full payment and its surrender upon full payment.

(2) Failure to comply with any such requirement invalidates the presentment but the person presenting has a reasonable time in which to comply and the time for acceptance or payment runs from the time of compliance.

SECTION 3—506. Time Allowed for Acceptance or Payment.

(1) Acceptance may be deferred without dishonor until the close of the next business day following presentment. The holder may also in a good faith effort to obtain acceptance and without either dishonor of the instrument or discharge of secondary parties allow postponement of acceptance for an additional business day.

(2) Except as a longer time is allowed in the case of documentary drafts drawn under a letter of credit, and unless an earlier time is agreed to by the party to pay, payment of an instrument may be deferred without dishonor pending reasonable examination to determine whether it is properly payable, but payment must be made in any event before the close of business on the day of presentment.

SECTION 3—507. Dishonor; Holder's Right of Recourse; Term Allowing Re-Presentation.

(1) An instrument is dishonored when

(a) a necessary or optional presentment is duly made and due acceptance or payment is refused or cannot be obtained within the prescribed time or in case of bank collections the instrument is seasonably returned by the midnight deadline (Section 4-301); or

(b) presentment is excused and the instrument is not duly accepted or paid.

(2) Subject to any necessary notice of dishonor and protest, the holder has upon dishonor an immediate right of recourse against the drawers and indorsers.

(3) Return of an instrument for lack of proper indorsement is not dishonor.

(4) A term in a draft or an indorsement thereof allowing a stated time for re-presentation in the event of any dishonor of the draft by nonacceptance if a time draft or by nonpayment if a sight draft gives the holder as against any secondary party bound by the term an option to waive the dishonor without affecting the liability of the secondary party and he may present again up to the end of the stated time.

SECTION 3—508. Notice of Dishonor.

(1) Notice of dishonor may be given to any person who may be liable on the instrument by or on behalf of the holder or any party who has himself received notice, or any other party who can be compelled to pay the instrument. In addition an agent or bank in whose hands the instrument is dishonored may give notice to his principal or customer or to another agent or bank from which the instrument was received.

(2) Any necessary notice must be given by a bank before its midnight deadline and by any other person before midnight of the third business day after dishonor or receipt of notice of dishonor.

(3) Notice may be given in any reasonable manner. It may be oral or written and in any terms which identify the instrument and state that it has been dishonored. A misdescription which does not mislead the party notified does not vitiate the notice. Sending the instrument bearing a stamp, ticket or writing stating that acceptance or payment has been refused or sending a notice of debit with respect to the instrument is sufficient.

(4) Written notice is given when sent although it is not received.

(5) Notice to one partner is notice to each although the firm has been dissolved.

(6) When any party is in insolvency proceedings instituted after the issue of the instrument notice may be given either to the party or to the representative of his estate.

(7) When any party is dead or incompetent notice may be sent to his last known address or given to his personal representative.

(8) Notice operates for the benefit of all parties who have rights on the instrument against the party notified.

SECTION 3—509. Protest; Noting for Protest.

(1) A protest is a certificate of dishonor made under the hand and seal of a United States consul or vice consul or a notary public or other person authorized to certify dishonor by the law of the place where dishonor occurs. It may be made upon information satisfactory to such person.

(2) The protest must identify the instrument and certify either that due presentment has been made or the reason why it is excused and that the instrument has been dishonored by nonacceptance or nonpayment.

(3) The protest may also certify that notice of dishonor has been given to all parties or to specified parties.

(4) Subject to subsection (5) any necessary protest is due by the time that notice of dishonor is due.

(5) If, before protest is due, an instrument has been noted for protest by the officer to make protest, the protest may be made at any time thereafter as of the date of the noting.

SECTION 3—510. Evidence of Dishonor and Notice of Dishonor.

The following are admissible as evidence and create a presumption of dishonor and of any notice of dishonor therein shown:

- (a) a document regular in form as provided in the preceding section which purports to be a protest;
- (b) the purported stamp or writing of the drawee, payor bank or presenting bank on the instrument or accompanying it stating that acceptance or payment has been refused for reasons consistent with dishonor;

- (c) any book or record of the drawee, payor bank, or any collecting bank kept in the usual course of business which shows dishonor, even though there is no evidence of who made the entry.

SECTION 3—511. Waived or Excused Presentment, Protest or Notice of Dishonor or Delay Therein.

(1) Delay in presentment, protest or notice of dishonor is excused when the party is without notice that it is due or when the delay is caused by circumstances beyond his control and he exercises reasonable diligence after the cause of the delay ceases to operate.

(2) Presentment or notice or protest as the case may be is entirely excused when

- (a) the party to be charged has waived it expressly or by implication either before or after it is due; or
- (b) such party has himself dishonored the instrument or has countermanded payment or otherwise has no reason to expect or right to require that the instrument be accepted or paid; or
- (c) by reasonable diligence the presentment or protest cannot be made or the notice given.

(3) Presentment is also entirely excused when

- (a) the maker, acceptor or drawee of any instrument except a documentary draft is dead or in insolvency proceedings instituted after the issue of the instrument; or
- (b) acceptance or payment is refused but not for want of proper presentment.

(4) Where a draft has been dishonored by nonacceptance a later presentment for payment and any notice of dishonor and protest for nonpayment are excused unless in the meantime the instrument has been accepted.

(5) A waiver of protest is also a waiver of presentment and of notice of dishonor even though protest is not required.

(6) Where a waiver of presentment or notice or protest is embodied in the instrument itself it is binding upon all parties; but where it is written above the signature of an indorser it binds him only.

PART 6

DISCHARGE

SECTION 3—601. Discharge of Parties.

(1) The extent of the discharge of any party from liability on an instrument is governed by the sections on

- (a) payment or satisfaction (Section 3-603); or
- (b) tender of payment (Section 3-604); or
- (c) cancellation or renunciation (Section 3-605); or
- (d) impairment of right of recourse or of collateral (Section 3-606); or
- (e) reacquisition of the instrument by a prior party (Section 3-208); or
- (f) fraudulent and material alteration (Section 3-407); or
- (g) certification of a check (Section 3-411); or
- (h) acceptance varying a draft (Section 3-412); or
- (i) unexcused delay in presentment or notice of dishonor or protest (Section 3-502).

(2) Any party is also discharged from his liability on an instrument to another party by any other act or agreement with such party which would discharge his simple contract for the payment of money.

(3) The liability of all parties is discharged when any party who has himself no right of action or recourse on the instrument

- (a) reacquires the instrument in his own right; or
- (b) is discharged under any provision of this Article, except as otherwise provided with respect to discharge for impairment of recourse or of collateral (Section 3-606).

SECTION 3—602. Effect of Discharge Against Holder in Due Course.

No discharge of any party provided by this Article is effective against a subsequent holder in due course unless he has notice thereof when he takes the instrument.

SECTION 3—603. Payment or Satisfaction.

(1) The liability of any party is discharged to the extent of his payment or satisfaction to the holder even though it is made with knowledge of a claim of another person to the instrument unless prior to such payment or satisfaction the person making the claim either supplies indemnity deemed adequate by the party seeking the discharge or enjoins payment or satisfaction by order of a court of competent jurisdiction in an action in which the adverse claimant and the holder are parties. This subsection does not, however, result in the discharge of the liability

- (a) of a party who in bad faith pays or satisfies a holder who acquired the instrument by theft or who (unless having the rights of a holder in due course) holds through one who so acquired it; or
- (b) of a party (other than an intermediary bank or a payor bank which is not a depository bank) who pays or satisfies the holder of an instrument which has been restrictively indorsed in a manner not consistent with the terms of such restrictive indorsement.

(2) Payment or satisfaction may be made with the consent of the holder by any person including a stranger to the instrument. Surrender of the instrument to such a person gives him the rights of a transferee (Section 3-201).

SECTION 3—604. Tender of Payment.

(1) Any party making tender of full payment to a holder when or after it is due is discharged to the extent of all subsequent liability for interest, costs and attorney's fees.

(2) The holder's refusal of such tender wholly discharges any party who has a right of recourse against the party making the tender.

(3) Where the maker or acceptor of an instrument payable otherwise than on demand is able and ready to pay at every place of payment specified in the instrument when it is due, it is equivalent to tender.

SECTION 3—605. Cancellation and Renunciation.

(1) The holder of an instrument may even without consideration discharge any party

- (a) in any manner apparent on the face of the instrument or the indorsement, as by intentionally cancelling the instrument or the party's signature by destruction or mutilation, or by striking out the party's signature; or
- (b) by renouncing his rights by a writing signed and delivered or by surrender of the instrument to the party to be discharged.

(2) Neither cancellation nor renunciation without surrender of the instrument affects the title thereto.

SECTION 3—606. Impairment of Recourse or of Collateral.

(1) The holder discharges any party to the instrument to the extent that without such party's consent the holder

- (a) without express reservation of rights releases or agrees not to sue any person against whom the party has to the knowledge of the holder a right of recourse or agrees to suspend the right to enforce against such person the instrument or collateral or otherwise discharges such person, except that failure or delay in effecting any required presentment, protest or notice of dishonor with respect to any such person does not discharge any party as to whom presentment, protest or notice of dishonor is effective or unnecessary; or
- (b) unjustifiably impairs any collateral for the instrument given by or on behalf of the party or any person against whom he has a right of recourse.

(2) By express reservation of rights against a party with a right of recourse the holder preserves

- (a) all his rights against such party as of the time when the instrument was originally due; and
- (b) the right of the party to pay the instrument as of that time; and
- (c) all rights of such party to recourse against others.

PART 7

ADVICE OF INTERNATIONAL SIGHT DRAFT

SECTION 3—701. Letter of Advice of International Sight Draft.

(1) A "letter of advice" is a drawer's communication to the drawee that a described draft has been drawn.

(2) Unless otherwise agreed when a bank receives from another bank a letter of advice of an international sight draft the drawee bank may immediately debit the drawer's account and stop the running of interest pro tanto. Such a debit and any resulting credit to any account covering outstanding drafts leaves in the drawer full power to stop payment or otherwise dispose of the amount and creates no trust or interest in favor of the holder.

(3) Unless otherwise agreed and except where a draft is drawn under a credit issued by the drawee, the drawee of an international sight draft owes the drawer no duty to pay an unadvised draft but if it does so and the draft is genuine, may appropriately debit the drawer's account.

PART 8

MISCELLANEOUS

SECTION 3—801. Drafts in a Set.

(1) Where a draft is drawn in a set of parts, each of which is numbered and expressed to be an order only if no other part has been honored, the whole of the parts constitutes one draft but a taker of any part may become a holder in due course of the draft.

(2) Any person who negotiates, indorses or accepts a single part of a draft drawn in a set thereby becomes liable to any holder in due course of that part as if it were the whole set, but as between different holders in due course to whom different parts have been negotiated the holder whose title first accrues has all rights to the draft and its proceeds.

(3) As against the drawee the first presented part of a draft drawn in a set is the part entitled to payment, or if a time draft to acceptance and payment. Acceptance of any subsequently presented part renders the drawee liable thereon under subsection (2). With respect both to a holder and to the drawer payment of a subsequently presented part of a draft payable at sight has the same effect as payment of a check notwithstanding an effective stop order (Section 4-407).

(4) Except as otherwise provided in this section, where any part of a draft in a set is discharged by payment or otherwise the whole draft is discharged.

SECTION 3—802. Effect of Instrument on Obligation for Which It Is Given.

(1) Unless otherwise agreed where an instrument is taken for an underlying obligation

- (a) the obligation is pro tanto discharged if a bank is drawer, maker or acceptor of the instrument and there is no recourse on the instrument against the underlying obligor; and

- (b) in any other case the obligation is suspended pro tanto until the instrument is due or if it is payable on demand until its presentment. If the instrument is dishonored action may be maintained on either the instrument or the obligation; discharge of the underlying obligor on the instrument also discharges him on the obligation.

(2) The taking in good faith of a check which is not post-dated does not of itself so extend the time on the original obligation as to discharge a surety.

SECTION 3—803. Notice to Third Party.

Where a defendant is sued for breach of an obligation for which a third person is answerable over under this Article he may give the third person written notice of the litigation, and the person notified may then give similar notice to any other person who is answerable over to him under this Article. If the notice states that the person notified may come in and defend and that if the person notified does not do so he will in any action against him by the person giving the notice be bound by any determination of fact common to the two litigations, then unless after seasonable receipt of the notice the person notified does come in and defend he is so bound.

SECTION 3—804. Lost, Destroyed or Stolen Instruments.

The owner of an instrument which is lost, whether by destruction, theft or otherwise, may maintain an action in his own name and recover from any party liable thereon upon due proof of his ownership, the facts which prevent his production of the instrument and its terms. The court may require security indemnifying the defendant against loss by reason of further claims on the instrument.

SECTION 3—805. Instruments Not Payable to Order or to Bearer.

This Article applies to any instrument whose terms do not preclude transfer and which is otherwise negotiable within this Article but which is not payable to order or to bearer, except that there can be no holder in due course of such an instrument.

ARTICLE 4

BANK DEPOSITS AND COLLECTIONS

Introduction to South Carolina Reporter's Comments

In 1930 the South Carolina General Assembly enacted (36 Stat. 1368) at least a large portion of the American Bankers Association (A. B. A.) Bank Collection Code. The provisions of this statute are now found in S. C. Code Sections 8-181 through 8-200. A 1949 Act (46 Stat. 173) added certain specific provisions as to the right of a depository bank to charge back against its customer items drawn upon itself which it finds to be uncollectible. The 1949 Statute appears as S. C. Code Sections 8-211 through 8-215. These are the basic code sections which the proposed Article 4 of the Uniform Commercial Code would supersede. In addition, two 1951 Negotiable Instruments Laws (S. C. Code Sections 8-1081 through 8-1083) dealing with stale checks and with stop payment orders would be superseded.

Because South Carolina has operated for many years under these Bank Collection Statutes, it is not believed that the proposed legislation would accomplish any sweeping changes in the current bank collection processes or in the rights and liabilities arising thereunder. The purpose of Article 4 has been said to be not to reform but to codify and simplify. It embraces more specific details than the A. B. A. Bank Collection Code and its effort is to announce definite black and white rules rather than general principles. The effort to make the rules "mechanical" may seem at times to have resulted in unnecessarily complex statutory syntax, but when the full meaning and implication of the rules are understood by bankers and bank lawyers, there should be established a certainty as to the handling of bank deposits and collections which has heretofore been absent.

ARTICLE 4

BANK DEPOSITS AND COLLECTIONS

PART 1

GENERAL PROVISIONS AND DEFINITIONS

SECTION 4—101. Short Title.

This Article shall be known and may be cited as Uniform Commercial Code—Bank Deposits and Collections.

SECTION 4—102. Applicability.

(1) To the extent that items within this Article are also within the scope of Articles 3 and 8, they are subject to the provisions of those Articles. In the event of conflict the provisions of this Article govern those of Article 3 but the provisions of Article 8 govern those of this Article.

(2) The liability of a bank for action or non-action with respect to any item handled by it for purposes of presentment, payment or collection is governed by the law of the place where the bank is located. In the case of action or non-action by or at a branch or separate office of a bank, its liability is governed by the law of the place where the branch or separate office is located.

SECTION 4—103. Variation by Agreement; Measure of Damages; Certain Action Constituting Ordinary Care.

(1) The effect of the provisions of this Article may be varied by agreement except that no agreement can disclaim a bank's responsibility for its own lack of good faith or failure to exercise ordinary care or can limit the measure of damages for such lack or failure; but the parties may by agreement determine the standards by which such responsibility is to be measured if such standards are not manifestly unreasonable.

(2) Federal Reserve regulations and operating letters, clearing house rules, and the like, have the effect of agreements under subsection (1), whether or not specifically assented to by all parties interested in items handled.

(3) Action or non-action approved by this Article or pursuant to Federal Reserve regulations or operating letters constitutes the exercise of ordinary care and, in the absence of special instructions, action or non-action consistent with clearing house rules and the like or with a general banking usage not disapproved by this Article, prima facie constitutes the exercise of ordinary care.

(4) The specification or approval of certain procedures by this Article does not constitute disapproval of other procedures which may be reasonable under the circumstances.

(5) The measure of damages for failure to exercise ordinary care in handling an item is the amount of the item reduced by an amount which could not have been realized by the use of ordinary care, and where there is bad faith it includes other damages, if any, suffered by the party as a proximate consequence.

SECTION 4—104. Definitions and Index of Definitions.

SECTION 4—105. "Depositary Bank"; "Intermediary Bank"; "Collecting Bank"; "Payor Bank"; "Presenting Bank"; "Remitting Bank".

In this Article unless the context otherwise requires:

- (a) "Depositary bank" means the first bank to which an item is transferred for collection even though it is also the payor bank;

- (b) "Payor bank" means a bank by which an item is payable as drawn or accepted;
- (c) "Intermediary bank" means any bank to which an item is transferred in course of collection except the depository or payor bank;

- (e) "Presenting bank" means any bank presenting an item except a payor bank;
- (f) "Remitting bank" means any payor or intermediary bank remitting for an item.

SECTION 4—106. Separate Office of a Bank.

A branch or separate office of a bank maintaining its own deposit ledgers is a separate bank for the purpose of computing the time within which and determining the place at or to which action may be taken or notices or orders shall be given under this Article and under Article 3.

SECTION 4—107. Time of Receipt of Items.

(1) For the purpose of allowing time to process items, prove balances and make the necessary entries on its books to determine its position for the day, a bank may fix an afternoon hour of two P. M. or later as a cut-off hour for the handling of money and items and the making of entries on its books.

(2) Any item or deposit of money received on any day after a cut-off hour so fixed or after the close of the banking day may be treated as being received at the opening of the next banking day.

SECTION 4—108. Delays.

(1) Unless otherwise instructed, a collecting bank in a good faith effort to secure payment may, in the case of specific items and with or without the approval of any person involved, waive, modify or extend time limits imposed or permitted by this Act for a period not in excess of an additional banking day without discharge of secondary parties and without liability to its transferor or any prior party.

(2) Delay by a collecting bank or payor bank beyond time limits prescribed or permitted by this Act or by instructions is excused if caused by interruption of communication facilities, suspension of payments by another bank, war, emergency conditions or other circumstances beyond the control of the bank provided it exercises such diligence as the circumstances require.

SECTION 4—109. Process of Posting.

The “process of posting” means the usual procedure followed by a payor bank in determining to pay an item and in recording the payment including one or more of the following or other steps as determined by the bank:

- (a) verification of any signature;
- (b) ascertaining that sufficient funds are available;
- (c) affixing a “paid” or other stamp;
- (d) entering a charge or entry to a customer’s account;
- (e) correcting or reversing an entry or erroneous action with respect to the item.

PART 2

COLLECTION OF ITEMS: DEPOSITARY AND COLLECTING BANKS

SECTION 4—201. Presumption and Duration of Agency Status of Collecting Banks and Provisional Status of Credits; Applicability of Article; Item Indorsed “Pay Any Bank”.

(1) Unless a contrary intent clearly appears and prior to the time that a settlement given by a collecting bank for an item is or becomes final (subsection (3) of Section 4—211 and Sections 4—212 and 4—213) the bank is an agent or sub-agent of the owner of the item and any settlement given for the item is provisional. This provision applies regardless of the form of indorsement or lack of indorsement and even though credit given for the item is subject to immediate withdrawal as of right or is in fact withdrawn; but the continuance of ownership of an item by its owner and any rights of the owner to proceeds of the item are subject to rights of a collecting bank such as those resulting from outstanding advances on the item and valid rights of setoff. When an item is handled by banks for purposes of presentment, payment and collection, the relevant provisions of this Article apply even though action of parties clearly establishes that a particular bank has purchased the item and is the owner of it.

(2) After an item has been indorsed with the words “pay any bank” or the like, only a bank may acquire the rights of a holder

- (a) until the item has been returned to the customer initiating collection; or
- (b) until the item has been specially indorsed by a bank to a person who is not a bank.

SECTION 4—202. Responsibility for Collection; When Action Seasonable.

- (1) A collecting bank must use ordinary care in
 - (a) presenting an item or sending it for presentment; and
 - (b) sending notice of dishonor or non-payment or returning an item other than a documentary draft to the bank's transferor or directly to the depository bank under subsection (2) of Section 4—212 after learning that the item has not been paid or accepted, as the case may be; and
 - (c) settling for an item when the bank receives final settlement; and
 - (d) making or providing for any necessary protest; and
 - (e) notifying its transferor of any loss or delay in transit within a reasonable time after discovery thereof.

(2) A collecting bank taking proper action before its midnight deadline following receipt of an item, notice or payment acts seasonably; taking proper action within a reasonably longer time may be seasonable but the bank has the burden of so establishing.

(3) Subject to subsection (1) (a), a bank is not liable for the insolvency, neglect, misconduct, mistake or default of another bank or person or for loss or destruction of an item in transit or in the possession of others.

SECTION 4—203. Effect of Instructions.

Subject to the provisions of Article 3 concerning conversion of instruments (Section 3—419) and the provisions of both Article 3 and this Article concerning restrictive indorsements only a collecting bank's transferor can give instructions which affect the bank or constitute notice to it and a collecting bank is not liable to prior parties for any action taken pursuant to such instructions or in accordance with any agreement with its transferor.

SECTION 4—204. Methods of Sending and Presenting; Sending Direct to Payor Bank.

(1) A collecting bank must send items by reasonably prompt method taking into consideration any relevant instructions, the nature of the item, the number of such items on hand, and the cost of collection involved and the method generally used by it or others to present such items.

(2) A collecting bank may send

- (a) any item direct to the payor bank;
- (b) any item to any non-bank payor if authorized by its transferor; and
- (c) any item other than documentary drafts to any non-bank payor, if authorized by Federal Reserve regulation or operating letter, clearing house rule or the like.

(3) Presentment may be made by a presenting bank at a place where the payor bank has requested that presentment be made.

(1) A depository bank which has taken an item for collection may supply any indorsement of the customer which is necessary to title unless the item contains the words "payee's indorsement required" or the like. In the absence of such a requirement a statement placed on the item by the depository bank to the effect that the item was deposited by a customer or credited to his account is effective as the customer's indorsement.

(2) An intermediary bank, or payor bank which is not a depository bank, is neither given notice nor otherwise affected by a restrictive indorsement of any person except the bank's immediate transferor.

SECTION 4—206. Transfer Between Banks.

Any agreed method which identifies the transferor bank is sufficient for the item's further transfer to another bank.

SECTION 4—207. Warranties of Customer and Collecting Bank on Transfer or Presentment of Items; Time for Claims.

(1) Each customer or collecting bank who obtains payment or acceptance of an item and each prior customer and collecting bank warrants to the payor bank or other payor who in good faith pays or accepts the item that

- (a) he has a good title to the item or is authorized to obtain payment or acceptance on behalf of one who has a good title;

- (b) he has no knowledge that the signature of the maker or drawer is unauthorized, except that this warranty is not given by any customer or collecting bank that is a holder in due course and acts in good faith
 - (i) to a maker with respect to the maker's own signature; or
 - (ii) to a drawer with respect to the drawer's own signature, whether or not the drawer is also the drawee; or
 - (iii) to an acceptor of an item if the holder in due course took the item after the acceptance or obtained the acceptance without knowledge that the drawer's signature was unauthorized; and
 - (c) the item has not been materially altered, except that this warranty is not given by any customer or collecting bank that is a holder in due course and acts in good faith
 - (i) to the maker of a note; or
 - (ii) to the drawer of a draft whether or not the drawer is also the drawee; or
 - (iii) to the acceptor of an item with respect to an alteration made prior to the acceptance if the holder in due course took the item after the acceptance, even though the acceptance provided "payable as originally drawn" or equivalent terms; or
 - (iv) to the acceptor of an item with respect to an alteration made after the acceptance.
- (2) Each customer and collecting bank who transfers an item and receives a settlement or other consideration for it warrants to his transferee and to any subsequent collecting bank who takes the item in good faith that
- (a) he has a good title to the item or is authorized to obtain payment or acceptance on behalf of one who has a good title and the transfer is otherwise rightful; and
 - (b) all signatures are genuine or authorized; and
 - (c) the item has not been materially altered; and
 - (d) no defense of any party is good against him; and
 - (e) he has no knowledge of any insolvency proceeding instituted with respect to the maker or acceptor or the drawer of an unaccepted item.

In addition each customer and collecting bank so transferring an item and receiving a settlement or other consideration engages that upon dishonor and any necessary notice of dishonor and protest he will take up the item.

(3) The warranties and the engagement to honor set forth in the two preceding subsections arise notwithstanding the absence of indorsement or words of guaranty or warranty in the transfer or presentment and a collecting bank remains liable for their breach despite remittance to its transferor. Damages for breach of such warranties or engagement to honor shall not exceed the consideration received by the customer or collecting bank responsible plus finance charges and expenses related to the item, if any.

(4) Unless a claim for breach of warranty under this section is made within a reasonable time after the person claiming learns of the breach, the person liable is discharged to the extent of any loss caused by the delay in making claim.

SECTION 4—208. Security Interest of Collecting Bank in Items, Accompanying Documents and Proceeds.

(1) A bank has a security interest in an item and any accompanying documents or the proceeds of either

- (a) in case of an item deposited in an account to the extent to which credit given for the item has been withdrawn or applied;
- (b) in case of an item for which it has given credit available for withdrawal as of right, to the extent of the credit given whether or not the credit is drawn upon and whether or not there is a right of charge-back; or
- (c) if it makes an advance on or against the item.

(2) When credit which has been given for several items received at one time or pursuant to a single agreement is withdrawn or applied in part the security interest remains upon all the items, any accompanying documents or the proceeds of either. For the purpose of this section, credits first given are first withdrawn.

(3) Receipt by a collecting bank of a final settlement for an item is a realization on its security interest in the item, accompanying documents and proceeds. To the extent and so long as the bank does not receive final settlement for the item or give up possession of the item or accompanying documents for purposes other than collection, the security interest continues and is subject to the provisions of Article 9 except that

- (a) no security agreement is necessary to make the security interest enforceable (subsection (1) (b) of Section 9—203); and
- (b) no filing is required to perfect the security interest; and
- (c) the security interest has priority over conflicting perfected security interests in the item, accompanying documents or proceeds.

SECTION 4—209. When Bank Gives Value for Purposes of Holder in Due Course.

For purposes of determining its status as a holder in due course, the bank has given value to the extent that it has a security interest in an item provided that the bank otherwise complies with the requirements of Section 3—302 on what constitutes a holder in due course.

SECTION 4—210. Presentment by Notice of Item Not Payable by, Through or at a Bank; Liability of Secondary Parties.

(1) Unless otherwise instructed, a collecting bank may present an item not payable by, through or at a bank by sending to the party to accept or pay a written notice that the bank holds the item for acceptance or payment. The notice must be sent in time to be received on or before the day when presentment is due and the bank must meet any requirement of the party to accept or pay under Section 3—505 by the close of the bank's next banking day after it knows of the requirement.

(2) Where presentment is made by notice and neither honor nor request for compliance with a requirement under Section 3—505 is received by the close of business on the day after maturity or in the case of demand items by the close of business on the third banking day after notice was sent, the presenting bank may treat the item as dishonored and charge any secondary party by sending him notice of the facts.

SECTION 4—211. Media of Remittance; Provisional and Final Settlement in Remittance Cases.

- (1) A collecting bank may take in settlement of an item
 - (a) a check of the remitting bank or of another bank on any bank except the remitting bank; or

- (b) a cashier's check or similar primary obligation of a remitting bank which is a member of or clears through a member of the same clearing house or group as the collecting bank; or
- (c) appropriate authority to charge an account of the remitting bank or of another bank with the collecting bank; or
- (d) if the item is drawn upon or payable by a person other than a bank, a cashier's check, certified check or other bank check or obligation.

(2) If before its midnight deadline the collecting bank properly dishonors a remittance check or authorization to charge on itself or presents or forwards for collection a remittance instrument of or on another bank which is of a kind approved by subsection (1) or has not been authorized by it, the collecting bank is not liable to prior parties in the event of the dishonor of such check, instrument or authorization.

(3) A settlement for an item by means of a remittance instrument or authorization to charge is or becomes a final settlement as to both the person making and the person receiving the settlement

- (a) if the remittance instrument or authorization to charge is of a kind approved by subsection (1) or has not been authorized by the person receiving the settlement and in either case the person receiving the settlement acts seasonably before its midnight deadline in presenting, forwarding for collection or paying the instrument or authorization,—at the time the remittance instrument or authorization is finally paid by the payor by which it is payable;
- (b) if the person receiving the settlement has authorized remittance by a non-bank check or obligation or by a cashier's check or similar primary obligation of or a check upon the payor or other remitting bank which is not of a kind approved by subsection (1) (b),—at the time of the receipt of such remittance check or obligation; or
- (c) if in a case not covered by sub-paragraphs (a) or (b) the person receiving the settlement fails to seasonably present, forward for collection, pay or return a remittance instrument or authorization to it to charge before its midnight deadline,—at such midnight deadline.

SECTION 4—212. Right of Charge-Back or Refund.

(1) If a collecting bank has made provisional settlement with its customer for an item and itself fails by reason of dishonor, suspension of payments by a bank or otherwise to receive a settlement for the item which is or becomes final, the bank may revoke the settlement given by it, charge back the amount of any credit given for the item to its customer's account or obtain refund from its customer whether or not it is able to return the items if by its midnight deadline or within a longer reasonable time after it learns the facts it returns the item or sends notification of the facts. These rights to revoke, charge-back and obtain refund terminate if and when a settlement for the item received by the bank is or becomes final (subsection (3) of Section 4—211 and subsections (2) and (3) of Section 4—213).

(2) Within the time and manner prescribed by this section and Section 4-301, an intermediary or payor bank, as the case may be, may return an unpaid item directly to the depositary bank and may send for collection a draft on the depositary bank and obtain reimbursement. In such case, if the depositary bank has received provisional settlement for the item; it must reimburse the bank drawing the draft and any provisional credits for the item between banks shall become and remain final.

(3) A depositary bank which is also the payor may charge-back the amount of an item to its customer's account or obtain refund in accordance with the section governing return of an item received by a payor bank for credit on its books (Section 4—301).

(4) The right to charge-back is not affected by

- (a) prior use of the credit given for the item; or
- (b) failure by any bank to exercise ordinary care with respect to the item but any bank so failing remains liable.

(5) A failure to charge-back or claim refund does not affect other rights of the bank against the customer or any other party.

(6) If credit is given in dollars as the equivalent of the value of an item payable in a foreign currency the dollar amount of any charge-back or refund shall be calculated on the basis of the buying sight rate for the foreign currency prevailing on the day when the person entitled to the charge-back or refund learns that it will not receive payment in ordinary course.

SECTION 4—213. Final Payment of Item by Payor Bank; When Provisional Debits and Credits Become Final; When Certain Credits Become Available for Withdrawal.

(1) An item is finally paid by a payor bank when the bank has done any of the following, whichever happens first:

- (a) paid the item in cash; or
- (b) settled for the item without reserving a right to revoke the settlement and without having such right under statute, clearing house rule or agreement; or
- (c) completed the process of posting the item to the indicated account of the drawer, maker or other person to be charged therewith; or
- (d) made a provisional settlement for the item and failed to revoke the settlement in the time and manner permitted by statute, clearing house rule or agreement.

Upon a final payment under subparagraphs (b), (c) or (d) the payor bank shall be accountable for the amount of the item.

(2) If provisional settlement for an item between the presenting and payor banks is made through a clearing house or by debits or credits in an account between them, then to the extent that provisional debits or credits for the item are entered in accounts between the presenting and payor banks or between the presenting and successive prior collecting bank seriatim, they become final upon final payment of the item by the payor bank.

(3) If a collecting bank receives a settlement for an item which is or becomes final (subsection (3) of Section 4—211, subsection (2) of Section 4—213) the bank is accountable to its customer for the amount of the item and any provisional credit given for the item in an account with its customer becomes final.

(4) Subject to any right of the bank to apply the credit to an obligation of the customer, credit given by a bank for an item in an account with its customer becomes available for withdrawal as of right

- (a) in any case where the bank has received a provisional settlement for the item,—when such settlement becomes final and the bank has had a reasonable time to learn that the settlement is final;
- (b) in any case where the bank is both a depository bank and a payor bank and the item is finally paid,—at the opening of the bank's second banking day following receipt of the item.

(5) A deposit of money in a bank is final when made but, subject to any right of the bank to apply the deposit to an obligation of the customer, the deposit becomes available for withdrawal as of right at the opening of the bank's next banking day following receipt of the deposit

SECTION 4—214. Insolvency and Preference.

(1) Any item in or coming into the possession of a payor or collecting bank which suspends payment and which item is not finally paid shall be returned by the receiver, trustee or agent in charge of the closed bank to the presenting bank or the closed bank's customer.

(2) If a payor bank finally pays an item and suspends payments without making a settlement for the item with its customer or the presenting bank which settlement is or becomes final, the owner of the item has a preferred claim against the payor bank.

(3) If a payor bank gives or a collecting bank gives or receives a provisional settlement for an item and thereafter suspends payments, the suspension does not prevent or interfere with the settlement becoming final if such finality occurs automatically upon the lapse of certain time or the happening of certain events (subsection (3) of Section 4—211, subsections (1) (d), (2) and (3) of Section 4—213).

(4) If a collecting bank receives from subsequent parties settlement for an item which settlement is or becomes final and suspends payments without making a settlement for the item with its customer which is or becomes final, the owner of the item has a preferred claim against such collecting bank.

PART 3

COLLECTION OF ITEMS: PAYOR BANKS

SECTION 4—301. Deferred Posting; Recovery of Payment by Return of Items; Time of Dishonor.

(1) Where an authorized settlement for a demand item (other than a documentary draft) received by a payor bank otherwise than for immediate payment over the counter has been made before midnight of the banking day of receipt the payor bank may revoke the settlement and recover any payment if before it has made final payment (subsection (1) of Section 4—213) and before its midnight deadline it

(a) returns the item; or

(b) sends written notice of dishonor or nonpayment if the item is held for protest or is otherwise unavailable for return.

(2) If a demand item is received by a payor bank for credit on its books it may return such item or send notice of dishonor and may revoke any credit given or recover the amount thereof withdrawn by its customer, if it acts within the time limit and in the manner specified in the preceding subsection.

(3) Unless previous notice of dishonor has been sent an item is dishonored at the time when for purposes of dishonor it is returned or notice sent in accordance with this section.

(4) An item is returned:

- (a) as to an item received through a clearing house, when it is delivered to the presenting or last collecting bank or to the clearing house or is sent or delivered in accordance with its rules; or
- (b) in all other cases, when it is sent or delivered to the bank's customer or transferor or pursuant to his instructions.

SECTION 4—302. Payor Bank's Responsibility for Late Return of Item.

In the absence of a valid defense such as breach of a presentment warranty (subsection (1) of Section 4—207), settlement effected or the like, if an item is presented on and received by a payor bank the bank is accountable for the amount of

- (a) a demand item other than a documentary draft whether properly payable or not if the bank, in any case where it is not also the depository bank, retains the item beyond midnight of the banking day of receipt without settling for it or, regardless of whether it is also the depository bank, does not pay or return the item or send notice of dishonor until after its midnight deadline; or
- (b) any other properly payable item unless within the time allowed for acceptance or payment of that item the bank either accepts or pays the item or returns it and accompanying documents.

SECTION 4—303. When Items Subject to Notice, Stop-Order, Legal Process or Setoff; Order in Which Items May Be Charged or Certified.

(1) Any knowledge, notice or stop-order received by, legal process served upon or setoff exercised by a payor bank, whether or not effective under other rules of law to terminate, suspend or modify the bank's right or duty to pay an item or to charge its customer's account for the item, comes too late to so terminate, suspend or modify such right or duty if the knowledge, notice, stop-order or legal process is received or served and a reasonable time for the bank to act thereon expires or the setoff is exercised after the bank has done any of the following:

- (a) accepted or certified the item;
- (b) paid the item in cash;
- (c) settled for the item without reserving a right to revoke the settlement and without having such right under statute, clearing house rule or agreement;
- (d) completed the process of posting the item to the indicated account of the drawer, maker or other person to be charged therewith or otherwise has evidenced by examination of such indicated account and by action its decision to pay the item; or
- (e) become accountable for the amount of the item under subsection (1) (d) of Section 4—213 and Section 4—302 dealing with the payor bank's responsibility for late return of items.

(2) Subject to the provisions of subsection (1) items may be accepted, paid, certified or charged to the indicated account of its customer in any order convenient to the bank.

PART 4

RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN PAYOR BANK AND ITS CUSTOMER

SECTION 4—401. When Bank May Charge Customer's Account.

(1) As against its customer, a bank may charge against his account any item which is otherwise properly payable from that account even though the charge creates an overdraft.

(2) A bank which in good faith makes payment to a holder may charge the indicated account of its customer according to

- (a) the original tenor of his altered item; or
- (b) the tenor of his completed item, even though the bank knows the item has been completed unless the bank has notice that the completion was improper.

SECTION 4—402. Bank's Liability to Customer for Wrongful Dishonor.

A payor bank is liable to its customer for damages proximately caused by the wrongful dishonor of an item. When the dishonor occurs through mistake liability is limited to actual damages proved. If so proximately caused and proved damages may include damages for an arrest or prosecution of the customer or other consequential damages. Whether any consequential damages are proximately caused by the wrongful dishonor is a question of fact to be determined in each case.

SECTION 4—403. Customer's Right to Stop Payment; Burden of Proof of Loss.

(1) A customer may by order to his bank stop payment of any item payable for his account but the order must be received at such time and in such manner as to afford the bank a reasonable opportunity to act on it prior to any action by the bank with respect to the item described in Section 4—303.

(2) An oral order is binding upon the bank only for fourteen calendar days unless confirmed in writing within that period. A written order is effective for only six months unless renewed in writing.

(3) The burden of establishing the fact and amount of loss resulting from the payment of an item contrary to a binding stop payment order is on the customer.

SECTION 4—404. Bank Not Obligated to Pay Check More Than Six Months Old.

A bank is under no obligation to a customer having a checking account to pay a check, other than a certified check, which is presented more than six months after its date, but it may charge its customer's account for a payment made thereafter in good faith.

SECTION 4—405. Death or Incompetence of Customer.

(1) A payor or collecting bank's authority to accept, pay or collect an item or to account for proceeds of its collection if otherwise effective is not rendered ineffective by incompetence of a customer of either bank existing at the time the item is issued or its collection is undertaken if the bank does not know of an adjudication of incompetence. Neither death nor incompetence of a customer revokes such authority to accept, pay, collect or account until the bank knows of the fact of death or of an adjudication of incompetence and has reasonable opportunity to act on it.

(2) Even with knowledge a bank may for ten days after the date of death pay or certify checks drawn on or prior to that date unless ordered to stop payment by a person claiming an interest in the account.

SECTION 4—406. Customer's Duty to Discover and Report Unauthorized Signature or Alteration.

(1) When a bank sends to its customer a statement of account accompanied by items paid in good faith in support of the debit entries or holds the statement and items pursuant to a request or instructions of its customer or otherwise in a reasonable manner makes the statement and items available to the customer, the customer must exercise reasonable care and promptness to examine the statement and items to discover his unauthorized signature or any alteration on an item and must notify the bank promptly after discovery thereof.

(2) If the bank establishes that the customer failed with respect to an item to comply with the duties imposed on the customer by subsection (1) the customer is precluded from asserting against the bank

- (a) his unauthorized signature or any alteration on the item if the bank also establishes that it suffered a loss by reason of such failure; and
- (b) an unauthorized signature or alteration by the same wrongdoer on any other item paid in good faith by the bank after the first item and statement was available to the customer for a reasonable period not exceeding fourteen calendar days and before the bank receives notification from the customer of any such unauthorized signature or alteration.

(3) The preclusion under subsection (2) does not apply if the customer establishes lack of ordinary care on the part of the bank in paying the item(s).

(4) Without regard to care or lack of care of either the customer or the bank a customer who does not within one year from the time the statement and items are made available to the customer (subsection (1)) discover and report his unauthorized signature or any alteration on the face or back of the item or does not within three years from that time discover and report any unauthorized indorsement is precluded from asserting against the bank such unauthorized signature or indorsement or such alteration.

(5) If under this section a payor bank has a valid defense against a claim of a customer upon or resulting from payment of an item and waives or fails upon request to assert the defense the bank may not assert against any collecting bank or other prior party presenting or transferring the item a claim based upon the unauthorized signature or alteration giving rise to the customer's claim.

SECTION 4—407. Payor Bank's Right to Subrogation on Improper Payment.

If a payor bank has paid an item over the stop payment order of the drawer or maker or otherwise under circumstances giving a basis for objection by the drawer or maker, to prevent unjust enrichment and only to the extent necessary to prevent loss to the bank by reason of its payment of the item, the payor bank shall be subrogated to the rights

- (a) of any holder in due course on the item against the drawer or maker; and
- (b) of the payee or any other holder of the item against the drawer or maker either on the item or under the transaction out of which the item arose; and
- (c) of the drawer or maker against the payee or any other holder of the item with respect to the transaction out of which the item arose.

PART 5

COLLECTION OF DOCUMENTARY DRAFTS

SECTION 4—501. Handling of Documentary Drafts; Duty to Send for Presentment and to Notify Customer of Dishonor.

A bank which takes a documentary draft for collection must present or send the draft and accompanying documents for presentment and upon learning that the draft has not been paid or accepted in due course must seasonably notify its customer of such fact even though it may have discounted or bought the draft or extended credit available for withdrawal as of right.

SECTION 4—502. Presentment of "On Arrival" Drafts.

When a draft or the relevant instructions require presentment "on arrival", "when goods arrive" or the like, the collecting bank need not present until in its judgment a reasonable time for arrival of the goods has expired. Refusal to pay or accept because the goods have not arrived is not dishonor; the bank must notify its transferor of such refusal but need not present the draft again until it is instructed to do so or learns of the arrival of the goods.

SECTION 4—503. Responsibility of Presenting Bank for Documents and Goods; Report of Reasons for Dishonor; Referee in Case of Need.

Unless otherwise instructed and except as provided in Article 5 a bank presenting a documentary draft

- (a) must deliver the documents to the drawee on acceptance of the draft if it is payable more than three days after presentment; otherwise, only on payment; and
- (b) upon dishonor, either in the case of presentment for acceptance or presentment for payment, may seek and follow instructions from any referee in case of need designated in the draft or if the presenting bank does not choose to utilize his services it must use diligence and good faith to ascertain the reason for dishonor, must notify its transferor of the dishonor and of the results of its effort to ascertain the reasons therefor and must request instructions.

But the presenting bank is under no obligation with respect to goods represented by the documents except to follow any reasonable instructions seasonably received; it has a right to reimbursement for any expense incurred in following instructions and to prepayment of or indemnity for such expenses.

SECTION 4—504. Privilege of Presenting Bank to Deal With Goods; Security Interest for Expenses.

(1) A presenting bank which, following the dishonor of a documentary draft, has seasonably requested instructions but does not receive them within a reasonable time may store, sell, or otherwise deal with the goods in any reasonable manner.

(2) For its reasonable expenses incurred by action under subsection (1) the presenting bank has a lien upon the goods or their proceeds, which may be foreclosed in the same manner as an unpaid seller's lien.

ARTICLE 5

LETTERS OF CREDIT

Introduction

Article 5 deals principally with the Commercial Letter of Credit issued by a financier of a sales transaction to the seller agreeing to accept drafts or pay the purchase price upon receipt of the documents which represent the goods. Thus the seller has the assurance of payment from the issuing financial institution in place of the promise of the individual buyer. The buyer makes an arrangement with the issuer of the letter for repayment, in return for the documents, and the seller can usually obtain payment upon shipment of the goods by having a draft backed by a letter of credit discounted with his bank.

Most international sales transactions are financed by the letter of credit device issued by the larger national banks with foreign departments. When a South Carolina bank receives a request from its customer for the issuance of a letter of credit, the usual practice is to forward the application to such a bank which actually issues a letter to the seller. Thus most of the letter of credit practice and the precedence setting case decisions have occurred in the states where such banks are located, principally New York. These case decisions plus the "Uniform Customs and Practices for Commercial Documentary Credits", issued by the International Chamber of Commerce and adopted by American banks in 1952 as a statement of practice, represent the principal source of the law governing letters of credit prior to the drafting of Article 5 of the Code.

The letter of credit seems to be used with increasing frequency in financing domestic transactions. With the codification of the law of letters of credit by Article 5 of the Code, it is expected that the increased degree of certainty and uniformity of law will accelerate this trend.

There are no South Carolina cases dealing with the commercial letter of credit. The letter of guaranty and the "traveler's letter of credit", whereby a bank promises to reimburse those who make advances to the holder, is the closest analogy found in the South Carolina decisions. The only statutory treatment of this subject is found in the N.I.L., S. C. Code Sections 8-993 and 8-994 dealing with the "virtual acceptance" which is a rough substitute for the letter of credit but which is now an almost obsolete practice whereby a bank may accept a draft by a separate instrument. (See Code section 3-410(1) which would repeal this provision by requiring an acceptance to be written on the face of a draft.) The analysis of Article 5, therefore, is necessarily limited to general statements of explanations of the rules expressed therein with occasional reference to decisions in other jurisdictions and to the "Uniform Customs and Practices for Commercial Documentary Credits".

ARTICLE 5

LETTERS OF CREDIT

SECTION 5—101. Short Title.

This Article shall be known and may be cited as Uniform Commercial Code—Letters of Credit.

SECTION 5—102. Scope.

(1) This Article applies

- (a) to a credit issued by a bank if the credit requires a documentary draft or a documentary demand for payment; and
- (b) to a credit issued by a person other than a bank if the credit requires that the draft or demand for payment be accompanied by a document of title; and
- (c) to a credit issued by a bank or other person if the credit is not within subparagraphs (a) or (b) but conspicuously states that it is a letter of credit or is conspicuously so entitled.

(2) Unless the engagement meets the requirements of subsection (1), this Article does not apply to engagements to make advances or to honor drafts or demands for payment, to authorities to pay or purchase, to guarantees or to general agreements.

(3) This Article deals with some but not all of the rules and concepts of letters of credit as such rules or concepts have developed prior to this act or may hereafter develop. The fact that this Article states a rule does not by itself require, imply or negate application of the same or a converse rule to a situation not provided for or to a person not specified by this Article.

SECTION 5—103. Definitions.

(1) In this Article unless the context otherwise requires

- (a) “Credit” or “letter of credit” means an engagement by a bank or other person made at the request of a customer and of a kind within the scope of this Article (Section 5-102) that the issuer will honor drafts or other demands for payment upon compliance with the conditions specified in the credit. A credit may be either revocable or irrevocable. The engagement may be either an agreement to honor or a statment that the bank or other person is authorized to honor.

- (b) A “documentary draft” or a “documentary demand for payment” is one honor of which is conditioned upon the presentation of a document or documents. “Document” means any paper including document of title, security, invoice, certificate, notice of default and the like.
- (c) An “issuer” is a bank or other person issuing a credit.
- (d) A “beneficiary” of a credit is a person who is entitled under its terms to draw or demand payment.
- (e) An “advising bank” is a bank which gives notification of the issuance of a credit by another bank.
- (f) A “confirming bank” is a bank which engages either that it will itself honor a credit already issued by another bank or that such a credit will be honored by the issuer or a third bank.
- (g) A “customer” is a buyer or other person who causes an issuer to issue a credit. The term also includes a bank which procures issuance or confirmation on behalf of that bank’s customer.

SECTION 5—104. Formal Requirements; Signing.

(1) Except as otherwise required in subsection (1) (c) of Section 5-102 on scope, no particular form of phrasing is required for a credit. A credit must be in writing and signed by the issuer and a confirmation must be in writing and signed by the confirming bank. A modification of the terms of a credit or confirmation must be signed by the issuer or confirming bank.

(2) A telegram may be a sufficient signed writing if it identifies its sender by an authorized authentication. The authentication may be in code and the authorized naming of the issuer in an advice of credit is a sufficient signing.

SECTION 5—105. Consideration.

No consideration is necessary to establish a credit or to enlarge or otherwise modify its terms.

SECTION 5—106. Time and Effect of Establishment of Credit.

(1) Unless otherwise agreed a credit is established

(a) as regards the customer as soon as a letter of credit is sent to him or the letter of credit or an authorized written advice of its issuance is sent to the beneficiary; and

(b) as regards the beneficiary when he receives a letter of credit or an authorized written advice of its issuance.

(2) Unless otherwise agreed once an irrevocable credit is established as regards the customer it can be modified or revoked only with the consent of the customer and once it is established as regards the beneficiary it can be modified or revoked only with his consent.

(3) Unless otherwise agreed after a revocable credit is established it may be modified or revoked by the issuer without notice to or consent from the customer or beneficiary.

(4) Notwithstanding any modification or revocation of a revocable credit any person authorized to honor or negotiate under the terms of the original credit is entitled to reimbursement for or honor of any draft or demand for payment duly honored or negotiated before receipt of notice of the modification or revocation and the issuer in turn is entitled to reimbursement from its customer.

SECTION 5—107. Advice of Credit; Confirmation; Error in Statement of Terms.

(1) Unless otherwise specified an advising bank by advising a credit issued by another bank does not assume any obligation to honor drafts drawn or demands for payment made under the credit but it does assume obligation for the accuracy of its own statement.

(2) A confirming bank by confirming a credit becomes directly obligated on the credit to the extent of its confirmation as though it were its issuer and acquires the rights of an issuer.

(3) Even though an advising bank incorrectly advises the terms of a credit it has been authorized to advise the credit is established as against the issuer to the extent of its original terms.

(4) Unless otherwise specified the customer bears as against the issuer all risks of transmission and reasonable translation or interpretation of any message relating to a credit.

SECTION 5—108. “Notation Credit”; Exhaustion of Credit.

(1) A credit which specifies that any person purchasing or paying drafts drawn or demands for payment made under it must note the amount of the draft or demand on the letter or advice of credit is a “notation credit”.

(2) Under a notation credit

(a) a person paying the beneficiary or purchasing a draft or demand for payment from him acquires a right to honor only if the appropriate notation is made and by transferring or forwarding for honor the documents under the credit such a person warrants to the issuer that the notation has been made; and

(b) unless the credit or a signed statement that an appropriate notation has been made accompanies the draft or demand for payment the issuer may delay honor until evidence of notation has been procured which is satisfactory to it but its obligation and that of its customer continue for a reasonable time not exceeding thirty days to obtain such evidence.

(3) If the credit is not a notation credit

(a) the issuer may honor complying drafts or demands for payment presented to it in the order in which they are presented and is discharged pro tanto by honor of any such draft or demand;

(b) as between competing good faith purchasers of complying drafts or demands the person first purchasing has priority over a subsequent purchaser even though the later purchased draft or demand has been first honored.

SECTION 5—109. Issuer’s Obligation to Its Customer.

(1) An issuer’s obligation to its customer includes good faith and observance of any general banking usage but unless otherwise agreed does not include liability or responsibility

- (a) for performance of the underlying contract for sale or other transaction between the customer and the beneficiary; or
- (b) for any act or omission of any person other than itself or its own branch or for loss or destruction of a draft, demand or document in transit or in the possession of others; or
- (c) based on knowledge or lack of knowledge of any usage of any particular trade.

(2) An issuer must examine documents with care so as to ascertain that on their face they appear to comply with the terms of the credit but unless otherwise agreed assumes no liability or responsibility for the genuineness, falsification or effect of any document which appears on such examination to be regular on its face.

(3) A non-bank issuer is not bound by any banking usage of which it has no knowledge.

SECTION 5—110. Availability of Credit in Portions; Presenter's Reservation of Lien or Claim.

(1) Unless otherwise specified a credit may be used in portions in the discretion of the beneficiary.

(2) Unless otherwise specified a person by presenting a documentary draft or demand for payment under a credit relinquishes upon its honor all claims to the documents and a person by transferring such draft or demand or causing such presentment authorizes such relinquishment. An explicit reservation of claim makes the draft or demand non-complying.

SECTION 5—111. Warranties on Transfer and Presentment.

(1) Unless otherwise agreed the beneficiary by transferring or presenting a documentary draft or demand for payment warrants to all interested parties that the necessary conditions of the credit have been complied with. This is in addition to any warranties arising under Articles 3, 4, 7 and 8.

(2) Unless otherwise agreed a negotiating, advising, confirming, collecting or issuing bank presenting or transferring a draft or demand for payment under a credit warrants only the matters warranted by a collecting bank under Article 4 and any such bank transferring a document warrants only the matters warranted by an intermediary under Articles 7 and 8.

SECTION 5—112. Time Allowed for Honor or Rejection; Withholding Honor or Rejection by Consent; "Presenter".

(1) A bank to which a documentary draft or demand for payment is presented under a credit may without dishonor of the draft, demand or credit

- (a) defer honor until the close of the third banking day following receipt of the documents; and
- (b) further defer honor if the presenter has expressly or impliedly consented thereto.

Failure to honor within the time here specified constitutes dishonor of the draft or demand and of the credit.

(2) Upon dishonor the bank may unless otherwise instructed fulfill its duty to return the draft or demand and the documents by holding them at the disposal of the presenter and sending him an advice to that effect.

(3) "Presenter" means any person presenting a draft or demand for payment for honor under a credit even though that person is a confirming bank or other correspondent which is acting under an issuer's authorization.

SECTION 5—113. Indemnities.

(1) A bank seeking to obtain (whether for itself or another) honor, negotiation or reimbursement under a credit may give an indemnity to induce such honor, negotiation or reimbursement.

(2) An indemnity agreement inducing honor, negotiation or reimbursement

- (a) unless otherwise explicitly agreed applies to defects in the documents but not in the goods; and
- (b) unless a longer time is explicitly agreed expires at the end of ten business days following receipt of the documents by the ultimate customer unless notice of objection is sent before such expiration date. The ultimate customer may send notice of objection to the person from whom he received the documents and any bank receiving such notice is under a duty to send notice to its transferor before its midnight deadline.

SECTION 5—114. Issuer's Duty and Privilege to Honor; Right to Reimbursement.

(1) An issuer must honor a draft or demand for payment which complies with the terms of the relevant credit regardless of whether the goods or documents conform to the underlying contract for sale or other contract between the customer and the beneficiary. The issuer is not excused from honor of such a draft or demand by reason of an additional general term that all documents must be satisfactory to the issuer, but an issuer may require that specified documents must be satisfactory to it.

(2) Unless otherwise agreed when documents appear on their face to comply with the terms of a credit but a required document does not in fact conform to the warranties made on negotiation or transfer of a document of title (Section 7-507) or of a security (Section 8-306) or is forged or fraudulent or there is fraud in the transaction

(a) the issuer must honor the draft or demand for payment if honor is demanded by a negotiating bank or other holder of the draft or demand which has taken the draft or demand under the credit and under circumstances which would make it a holder in due course (Section 3—302) and in an appropriate case would make it a person to whom a document of title has been duly negotiated (Section 7—502) or a bona fide purchaser of a security (Section 8—302): and

(b) in all other cases as against its customer, an issuer acting in good faith may honor the draft or demand for payment despite notification from the customer of fraud, forgery or other defect not apparent on the face of the documents but a court of appropriate jurisdiction may enjoin such honor.

(3) Unless otherwise agreed an issuer which has duly honored a draft or demand for payment is entitled to immediate reimbursement of any payment made under the credit and to be put in effectively available funds not later than the day before maturity of any acceptance made under the credit.

SECTION 5—115. Remedy for Improper Dishonor or Anticipatory Repudiation.

(1) When an issuer wrongfully dishonors a draft or demand for payment presented under a credit the person entitled to honor has with respect to any documents the rights of a person in the position of a seller (Section 2—707) and may recover from the issuer the face amount of the draft or demand together with incidental damages under Section 2—710 on seller's incidental damages and interest but less any amount realized by resale or other use or disposition of the subject matter of the transaction. In the event no resale or other utilization is made the documents, goods or other subject matter involved in the transaction must be turned over to the issuer on payment of judgment.

(2) When an issuer wrongfully cancels or otherwise repudiates a credit before presentment of a draft or demand for payment drawn under it the beneficiary has the rights of a seller after anticipatory repudiation by the buyer under Section 2—610 if he learns of the repudiation in time reasonably to avoid procurement of the required documents. Otherwise the beneficiary has an immediate right of action for wrongful dishonor.

SECTION 5—116. Transfer and Assignment.

(1) The right to draw under a credit can be transferred or assigned only when the credit is expressly designated as transferable or assignable.

(2) Even though the credit specifically states that it is nontransferable or nonassignable the beneficiary may before performance of the conditions of the credit assign his right to proceeds. Such an assignment is an assignment of a contract right under Article 9 on Secured Transactions and is governed by that Article except that

- (a) the assignment is ineffective until the letter of credit or advice of credit is delivered to the assignee which delivery constitutes perfection of the security interest under Article 9; and
- (b) the issuer may honor drafts or demands for payment drawn under the credit until it receives a notification of the assignment signed by the beneficiary which reasonably identifies the credit involved in the assignment and contains a request to pay the assignee; and
- (c) after what reasonably appears to be such a notification has been received the issuer may without dishonor refuse to accept or pay even to a person otherwise entitled to honor until the letter of credit or advice of credit is exhibited to the issuer.

(3) Except where the beneficiary has effectively assigned his right to draw or his right to proceeds, nothing in this section limits his right to transfer or negotiate drafts or demands drawn under the credit.

SECTION 5—117. Insolvency of Bank Holding Funds for Documentary Credit.

(1) Where an issuer or an advising or confirming bank or a bank which has for a customer procured issuance of a credit by another bank becomes insolvent before final payment under the credit and the credit is one to which this Article is made applicable by paragraphs (a) or (b) of Section 5—102(1) on scope, the receipt or allocation of funds or collateral to secure or meet obligations under the credit shall have the following results:

- (a) to the extent of any funds or collateral turned over after or before the insolvency as indemnity against or specifically for the purpose of payment of drafts or demands for payment drawn under the designated credit, the drafts or demands are entitled to payment in preference over depositors or other general creditors of the issuer or bank; and
 - (b) on expiration of the credit or surrender of the beneficiary's rights under it unused any person who has given such funds or collateral is similarly entitled to return thereof; and
 - (c) a change to a general or current account with a bank if specifically consented to for the purpose of indemnity against or payment of drafts or demands for payment drawn under the designated credit falls under the same rules as if the funds had been drawn out in cash and then turned over with specific instructions.
- (2) After honor or reimbursement under this section the customer or other person for whose account the insolvent bank has acted is entitled to receive the documents involved.

ARTICLE 6

BULK TRANSFER

Introduction

All of the states today have some form of Bulk Sales Act in order to give some degree of protection to unsecured creditors of a merchant, where such merchant sells out all or a major part of his stock of inventory out of the ordinary course of business. The law of fraudulent conveyances (See S. C. Code Section 57-301 to 57-310 and The Federal Bankruptcy Act Section 67d; 11 U. S. C. Section 107) voids a conveyance made by a debtor with the intent to delay, hinder or defraud creditors where the transferee participates in the scheme or has taken the property for an inadequate consideration. Where a debtor transfers his assets for an adequate consideration without the intent of defrauding his creditors, bulk sales legislation voids the transfer unless the statutory prescriptions of giving prior notice to his creditors have been complied with.

The Code does not affect the law of fraudulent conveyances. Article 6 does replace and rewrite the South Carolina Bulk Sales Act. This represents the first attempt at codification of a uniform law dealing with this subject.

ARTICLE 6

BULK TRANSFERS

SECTION 6—101. Short Title.

This Article shall be known and may be cited as Uniform Commercial Code—Bulk Transfers.

SECTION 6—102. “Bulk Transfers”; Transfers of Equipment; Enterprises Subject to This Article; Bulk Transfers Subject to This Article.

(1) A “bulk transfer” is any transfer in bulk and not in the ordinary course of the transferor’s business of a major part of the materials, supplies, merchandise or other inventory (Section 9—109) of an enterprise subject to this Article.

(2) A transfer of a substantial part of the equipment (Section 9—109) of such an enterprise is a bulk transfer if it is made in connection with a bulk transfer of inventory, but not otherwise.

(3) The enterprises subject to this Article are all those whose principal business is the sale of merchandise from stock, including those who manufacture what they sell.

(4) Except as limited by the following section all bulk transfers of goods located within this state are subject to this Article.

SECTION 6—103. Transfers Excepted From This Article.

The following transfers are not subject to this Article:

- (1) Those made to give security for the performance of an obligation;
- (2) General assignments for the benefit of all the creditors of the transferor, and subsequent transfers by the assignee thereunder;
- (3) Transfers in settlement or realization of a lien or other security interest;
- (4) Sales by executors, administrators, receivers, trustees in bankruptcy, or any public officer under judicial process;
- (5) Sales made in the course of judicial or administrative proceedings for the dissolution or reorganization of a corporation and of which notice is sent to the creditors of the corporation pursuant to order of the court or administrative agency;
- (6) Transfers to a person maintaining a known place of business in this State who becomes bound to pay the debts of the transferor in full and gives public notice of that fact, and who is solvent after becoming so bound;
- (7) A transfer to a new business enterprise organized to take over and continue the business, if public notice of the transaction is given and the new enterprise assumes the debts of the transferor and he receives nothing from the transaction except an interest in the new enterprise junior to the claims of creditors;
- (8) Transfers of property which is exempt from execution.

Public notice under subsection (6) or subsection (7) may be given by publishing once a week for two consecutive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation where the transferor had its principal place of business in this state an advertisement including the names and addresses of the transferor and transferee and the effective date of the transfer.

SECTION 6—104. Schedule of Property, List of Creditors.

(1) Except as provided with respect to auction sales, Section 6-108), a bulk transfer subject to this Article is ineffective against any creditor of the transferor unless:

- (a) The transferee requires the transferor to furnish a list of his existing creditors prepared as stated in this section; and
- (b) The parties prepare a schedule of the property transferred sufficient to identify it; and

- (c) The transferee preserves the list and schedule for six months next following the transfer and permits inspection of either or both and copying therefrom at all reasonable hours by any creditor of the transferor, or files the list and schedule in the office of the register of mesne conveyances or clerk of court in those counties where the office of register of mesne conveyances has been abolished in the county or counties wherein the property was located at the time of transfer.

(2) The list of creditors must be signed and sworn to or affirmed by the transferor or his agent. It must contain the names and business addresses of all creditors of the transferor, with the amounts when known, and also the names of all persons who are known to the transferor to assert claims against him even though such claims are disputed. If the transferor is the obligor of an outstanding issue of bonds, debentures or the like as to which there is an indenture trustee, the list of creditors need include only the name and address of the indenture trustee and the aggregate outstanding principal amount of the issue.

(3) Responsibility for the completeness and accuracy of the list of creditors rests on the transferor, and the transfer is not rendered ineffective by errors or omissions therein unless the transferee is shown to have had knowledge.

SECTION 6—105. Notice to Creditors.

In addition to the requirements of the preceding section, any bulk transfer subject to this Article except one made by auction sale (Section 6—108) is ineffective against any creditor of the transferor unless at least ten days before he takes possession of the goods or pays for them, whichever happens first, the transferee gives notice of the transfer in the manner and to the persons hereafter provided (Section 6—107).

SECTION 6—106.

EDITOR'S NOTE

This section was optional. It was eliminated as it imposes an additional burden, not presently provided for under the South Carolina statutes, on the bulk transfer purchaser.

SECTION 6—107. The Notice.

(1) The notice to creditors (Section 6-105) shall state:

- (a) that a bulk transfer is about to be made; and
- (b) the names and business addresses of the transferor and transferee, and all other business names and addresses used by the transferor within three years last past so far as known to the transferee; and
- (c) whether or not all the debts of the transferor are to be paid in full as they fall due as a result of the transaction, and if so, the address to which creditors should send their bills.

(2) If the debts of the transferor are not to be paid in full as they fall due or if the transferee is in doubt on that point then the notice shall state further:

- (a) the location and general description of the property to be transferred and the estimated total of the transferor's debts;
- (b) the address where the schedule of property and list of creditors (Section 6—104) may be inspected;
- (c) whether the transfer is to pay existing debts and if so the amount of such debts and to whom owing;
- (d) whether the transfer is for new consideration and if so the amount of such consideration and the time and place of payment.

(3) The notice in any case shall be delivered personally or sent by registered or certified mail to all the persons shown on the list of creditors furnished by the transferor (Section 6-104) and to all other persons who are known to the transferee to hold or assert claims against the transferor.

SECTION 6—108. Auction Sales; "Auctioneer".

(1) A bulk transfer is subject to this Article even though it is by sale at auction, but only in the manner and with the results stated in this section.

(2) The transferor shall furnish a list of his creditors and assist in the preparation of a schedule of the property to be sold, both prepared as before stated (Section 6-104).

(3) The person or persons other than the transferor who direct, control or are responsible for the auction are collectively called the "auctioneer". The auctioneer shall:

- (a) receive and retain the list of creditors and prepare and retain the schedule of property for the period stated in this Article (Section 6-104) ;
- (b) give notice of the auction personally or by registered or certified mail at least ten days before it occurs to all persons shown on the list of creditors and to all other persons who are known to him to hold or assert claims against the transferor.

(4) Failure of the auctioneer to perform any of these duties does not affect the validity of the sale or the title of the purchasers, but if the auctioneer knows that the auction constitutes a bulk transfer such failure renders the auctioneer liable to the creditors of the transferor as a class for the sums owing to them from the transferor up to but not exceeding the net proceeds of the auction. If the auctioneer consists of several persons their liability is joint and several.

SECTION 6—109. What Creditors Protected.

(1) The creditors of the transferor mentioned in this Article are those holding claims based on transactions or events occurring before the bulk transfer, but creditors who become such after notice to creditors is given (Sections 6—105 and 6—107) are not entitled to notice.

SECTION 6—110. Subsequent Transfers.

When the title of a transferee to property is subject to a defect by reason of his non-compliance with the requirements of this Article, then:

(1) a purchaser of any of such property from such transferee who pays no value or who takes with notice of such non-compliance takes subject to such defect, but

(2) a purchaser for value in good faith and without such notice takes free of such defect.

SECTION 6—111. Limitation of Actions and Levies.

No action under this Article shall be brought nor levy made more than six months after the date on which the transferee took possession of the goods unless the transfer has been concealed. If the transfer has been concealed, actions may be brought or levies made within six months after its discovery.

ARTICLE 7

WAREHOUSE RECEIPTS, BILLS OF LADING AND OTHER DOCUMENTS OF TITLE*Introduction*

Article 7 concerns itself with that phase of a commercial transaction relating to the shipment and storage of goods and governs the use of the "document of title" issued as a receipt for the goods. Such documents consist principally of the bill of lading issued by a carrier and the warehouse receipt issued by a warehouseman. It is common practice to transfer the goods in the hands of such bailee by the transfer of the document. Money is frequently loaned on the pledge of these documents to government agencies and banks and other private lenders. It is within this factual context that this article operates.

At the present time in South Carolina, documents of title are governed by two uniform state acts: the Uniform Warehouse Receipts Act (UWRA) and the Uniform Bills of Lading Act (UBLA). These acts were promulgated by the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws over fifty years ago. The Uniform Bills of Lading Act was enacted in thirty-one of the states, including South Carolina in 1930. This statute has been superseded by the almost identical Federal Bills of Lading Act of 1916 with respect to interstate shipments.

The Uniform Warehouse Receipts Act was adopted in all of the states, but a 1922 amendment was adopted in only some of these. South Carolina enacted the amended version of this statute in 1945.

Article 7 would replace the two existing statutes and consolidate their coverage into this single article entitled "Documents of Title". This is made possible by the fact that there are a number of problems common to all types of documents, such as negotiation of instrument and obligations of the issuer. Common solutions to these problems are provided in parts 1, 4, 5 and 6. In this way, inconsistencies and duplication of coverage are avoided. Special problems which relate only to warehouse receipts are set out in part 2 and those applicable to bills of lading are set out in part 3.

Changes in rules and practice brought about by Article 7 would be modest. Several points of uncertainty and conflict are clarified and resolved. There are a few minor changes in policy and some new coverage made necessary by changed business methods and technological developments since the drafting of the original act at the turn of the century.

ARTICLE 7

WAREHOUSE RECEIPTS, BILLS OF LADING AND OTHER DOCUMENTS OF TITLE

GENERAL

SECTION 7—101. Short Title.

This Article shall be known and may be cited as Uniform Commercial Code—Documents of Title.

SECTION 7—102. Definitions and Index of Definitions.

- (1) In this Article, unless the context otherwise requires:
- (a) “Bailee” means the person who by a warehouse receipt, bill of lading or other document of title acknowledges possession of goods and contracts to deliver them.
 - (b) “Consignee” means the person named in a bill to whom or to whose order the bill promises delivery.
 - (c) “Consignor” means the person named in a bill as the person from whom the goods have been received for shipment.
 - (d) “Delivery order” means a written order to deliver goods directed to a warehouseman, carrier or other person who in the ordinary course of business issues warehouse receipts or bills of lading.
 - (e) “Document” means document of title as defined in the general definitions in Article 1 (Section 1—201).
 - (f) “Goods” means all things which are treated as movable for the purposes of a contract of storage or transportation.
 - (g) “Issuer” means a bailee who issues a document except that in relation to an unaccepted delivery order it means the person who orders the possessor of goods to deliver. Issuer includes any person for whom an agent or employee purports to act in issuing a document if the agent or employee has real or apparent authority to issue documents, notwithstanding that the issuer received no goods or that the goods were misdescribed or that in any other respect the agent or employee violated his instructions.

(h) "Warehouseman" is a person engaged in the business of storing goods for hire.

(2) Other definitions applying to this Article or to specified Parts thereof, and the sections in which they appear are:

"Duly negotiate". Section 7—501.

"Person entitled under the document". Section 7—403(4).

(3) Definitions in other Articles applying to this Article and the sections in which they appear are:

"Contract for sale". Section 2—106.

"Overseas". Section 2—323.

"Receipt" of goods. Section 2—103.

(4) In addition Article 1 contains general definitions and principles of construction and interpretation applicable throughout this Article.

SECTION 7—103. Relation of Article to Treaty, Statute, Tariff, Classification or Regulation.

To the extent that any treaty or statute of the United States, regulatory statute of this State or tariff, classification or regulation filed or issued pursuant thereto is applicable, the provisions of this Article are subject thereto.

SECTION 7—104. Negotiable and Non-Negotiable Warehouse Receipt, Bill of Lading or Other Document of Title.

(1) A warehouse receipt, bill of lading or other document of title is negotiable

(a) if by its terms the goods are to be delivered to bearer or to the order of a named person; or

(b) where recognized in overseas trade, if it runs to a named person or assigns.

(2) Any other document is non-negotiable. A bill of lading in which it is stated that the goods are consigned to a named person is not made negotiable by a provision that the goods are to be delivered only against a written order signed by the same or another named person.

SECTION 7—105. Construction Against Negative Implication.

The omission from either Part 2 or Part 3 of this Article of a provision corresponding to a provision made in the other Part does not imply that a corresponding rule of law is not applicable.

PART 2

WAREHOUSE RECEIPTS: SPECIAL PROVISIONS

SECTION 7—201. Who May Issue a Warehouse Receipt; Storage Under Government Bond.

- (1) A warehouse receipt may be issued by any warehouseman.
- (2) Where goods including distilled spirits and agricultural commodities are stored under a statute requiring a bond against withdrawal or a license for the issuance of receipts in the nature of warehouse receipts, a receipt issued for the goods has like effect as a warehouse receipt even though issued by a person who is the owner of the goods and is not a warehouseman.

SECTION 7—202. Form of Warehouse Receipt; Essential Terms; Optional Terms.

- (1) A warehouse receipt need not be in any particular form.
- (2) Unless a warehouse receipt embodies within its written or printed terms each of the following, the warehouseman is liable for damages caused by the omission to a person injured thereby:
 - (a) the location of the warehouse where the goods are stored;
 - (b) the date of issue of the receipt;
 - (c) the consecutive number of the receipt;
 - (d) a statement whether the goods received will be delivered to the bearer, to a specified person, or to a specified person or his order;
 - (e) the rate of storage and handling charges, except that where goods are stored under a field warehousing arrangement a statement of that fact is sufficient on a non-negotiable receipt;
 - (f) a description of the goods or of the packages containing them;
 - (g) the signature of the warehouseman, which may be made by his authorized agent;
 - (h) if the receipt is issued for goods of which the warehouseman is owner, either solely or jointly or in common with others, the fact of such ownership; and
 - (i) a statement of the amount of advances made and of liabilities incurred for which the warehouseman claims a lien or security interest (Section 7—209). If the precise amount of such advances made or of such liabilities incurred is, at the time of the issue of the receipt, unknown to the warehouseman or to his agent who issues it, a statement of the fact that advances have been made or liabilities incurred and the purpose thereof is sufficient.

(3) A warehouseman may insert in his receipt any other terms which are not contrary to the provisions of this Act and do not impair his obligation of delivery (Section 7—403) or his duty of care (Section 7—204). Any contrary provisions shall be ineffective.

SECTION 7—203. Liability for Non-Receipt or Misdescription.

A party to or purchaser for value in good faith of a document of title other than a bill of lading relying in either case upon the description therein of the goods may recover from the issuer damages caused by the non-receipt or misdescription of the goods, except to the extent that the document conspicuously indicates that the issuer does not know whether any part or all of the goods in fact were received or conform to the description, as where the description is in terms of marks or labels or kind, quantity or condition, or the receipt or description is qualified by "contents, condition and quality unknown", "said to contain" or the like, if such indication be true, or the party or purchaser otherwise has notice.

SECTION 7—204. Duty of Care; Contractual Limitation of Warehouseman's Liability.

(1) A warehouseman is liable for damages for loss of or injury to the goods caused by his failure to exercise such care in regard to them as a reasonably careful man would exercise under like circumstances but unless otherwise agreed he is not liable for damages which could not have been avoided by the exercise of such care.

(2) Damages may be limited by a term in the warehouse receipt or storage agreement limiting the amount of liability in case of loss or damage, and setting forth a specific liability per article or item, or value per unit of weight, beyond which the warehouseman shall not be liable; provided, however, that such liability may on written request of the bailor at the time of signing such storage agreement or within a reasonable time after receipt of the warehouse receipt be increased on part or all of the goods thereunder, in which event increased rates may be charged based on such increased valuation, but that no such increase shall be permitted contrary to a lawful limitation of liability contained in the warehouseman's tariff, if any. No such limitation is effective with respect to the warehouseman's liability for conversion to his own use.

(3) Reasonable provisions as to the time and manner of presenting claims and instituting actions based on the bailment may be included in the warehouse receipt or tariff.

SECTION 7—205. Title Under Warehouse Receipt Defeated in Certain Cases.

A buyer in the ordinary course of business of fungible goods sold and delivered by a warehouseman who is also in the business of buying and selling such goods takes free of any claim under a warehouse receipt even though it has been duly negotiated.

SECTION 7—206. Termination of Storage at Warehouseman's Option.

(1) A warehouseman may on notifying the person on whose account the goods are held and any other person known to claim an interest in the goods require payment of any charges and removal of the goods from the warehouse at the termination of the period of storage fixed by the document, or, if no period is fixed, within a stated period not less than thirty days after the notification. If the goods are not removed before the date specified in the notification, the warehouseman may sell them in accordance with the provisions of the section on enforcement of a warehouseman's lien (Section 7—210).

(2) If a warehouseman in good faith believes that the goods are about to deteriorate or decline in value to less than the amount of his lien within the time prescribed in subsection (1) for notification, advertisement and sale, the warehouseman may specify in the notification any reasonable shorter time for removal of the goods and in case the goods are not removed, may sell them at public sale held not less than one week after a single advertisement or posting.

(3) If as a result of a quality or condition of the goods of which the warehouseman had no notice at the time of deposit the goods are a hazard to other property or to the warehouse or to persons, the warehouseman may sell the goods at public or private sale without advertisement on reasonable notification to all persons known to claim an interest in the goods. If the warehouseman after a reasonable effort is unable to sell the goods he may dispose of them in any lawful manner and shall incur no liability by reason of such disposition.

(4) The warehouseman must deliver the goods to any person entitled to them under this Article upon due demand made at any time prior to sale or other disposition under this section.

(5) The warehouseman may satisfy his lien from the proceeds of any sale or disposition under this section but must hold the balance for delivery on the demand of any person to whom he would have been bound to deliver the goods.

SECTION 7—207. Goods Must Be Kept Separate; Fungible Goods.

(1) Unless the warehouse receipt otherwise provides, a warehouseman must keep separate the goods covered by each receipt so as to permit at all times identification and delivery of those goods except that different lots of fungible goods may be commingled.

(2) Fungible goods so commingled are owned in common by the persons entitled thereto and the warehouseman is severally liable to each owner for that owner's share. Where because of overissue a mass of fungible goods is insufficient to meet all the receipts which the warehouseman has issued against it, the persons entitled include all holders to whom overissued receipts have been duly negotiated.

SECTION 7—208. Altered Warehouse Receipts.

Where a blank in a negotiable warehouse receipt has been filled in without authority, a purchaser for value and without notice of the want of authority may treat the insertion as authorized. Any other unauthorized alteration leaves any receipt enforceable against the issuer according to its original tenor.

SECTION 7—209. Lien of Warehouseman.

(1) A warehouseman has a lien against the bailor on the goods covered by a warehouse receipt or on the proceeds thereof in his possession for charges for storage or transportation (including demurrage and terminal charges), insurance, labor, or charges present or future in relation to the goods, and for expenses necessary for preservation of the goods or reasonably incurred in their sale pursuant to law. If the person on whose account the goods are held is liable for like charges or expenses in relation to other goods whenever deposited and it is stated in the receipt that a lien is claimed for charges and expenses in relation to other goods, the warehouseman also has a lien against him for such charges and expenses whether or not the other goods have been delivered by the warehouseman. But against a person to whom a negotiable warehouse receipt is duly negotiated a warehouseman's lien is limited to charges in an amount or at a rate specified on the receipt or if no charges are so specified then to a reasonable charge for storage of the goods covered by the receipt subsequent to the date of the receipt.

(2) The warehouseman may also reserve a security interest against the bailor for a maximum amount specified on the receipt for charges other than those specified in subsection (1), such as for money advanced and interest. Such a security interest is governed by the Article on Secured Transactions (Article 9).

(3) A warehouseman's lien for charges and expenses under subsection (1) or a security interest under subsection (2) is also effective against any person who so entrusted the bailor with possession of the goods that a pledge of them by him to a good faith purchaser for value would have been valid but is not effective against a person as to whom the document confers no right in the goods covered by it under Section 7—503.

(4) A warehouseman loses his lien on any goods which he voluntarily delivers or which he unjustifiably refuses to deliver.

SECTION 7—210. Enforcement of Warehouseman's Lien.

(1) Except as provided in subsection (2), a warehouseman's lien may be enforced by public or private sale of the goods in block or in parcels, at any time or place and on any terms which are commercially reasonable, after notifying all persons known to claim an interest in the goods. Such notification must include a statement of the amount due, the nature of the proposed sale and the time and place of any public sale. The fact that a better price could have been obtained by a sale at a different time or in a different method from that selected by the warehouseman is not of itself sufficient to establish that the sale was not made in a commercially reasonable manner. If the warehouseman either sells the goods in the usual manner in any recognized market therefor, or if he sells at the price current in such market at the time of his sale, or if he has otherwise sold in conformity with commercially reasonable practices among dealers in the type of goods sold, he has sold in a commercially reasonable manner. A sale of more goods than apparently necessary to be offered to insure satisfaction of the obligation is not commercially reasonable except in cases covered by the preceding sentence.

(2) A warehouseman's lien on goods other than goods stored by a merchant in the course of his business may be enforced only as follows:

- (a) All persons known to claim an interest in the goods must be notified.
 - (b) The notification must be delivered in person or sent by registered or certified letter to the last known address of any person to be notified.
 - (c) The notification must include an itemized statement of the claim, a description of the goods subject to the lien, a demand for payment within a specified time not less than ten days after receipt of the notification, and a conspicuous statement that unless the claim is paid within that time the goods will be advertised for sale and sold by auction at a specified time and place.
 - (d) The sale must conform to the terms of the notification.
 - (e) The sale must be held at the nearest suitable place to that where the goods are held or stored.
 - (f) After the expiration of the time given in the notification, an advertisement of the sale must be published once a week for two weeks consecutively in a newspaper of general circulation where the sale is to be held. The advertisement must include a description of the goods, the name of the person on whose account they are being held, and the time and place of the sale. The sale must take place at least fifteen days after the first publication. If there is no newspaper of general circulation where the sale is to be held, the advertisement must be posted at least ten days before the sale in not less than six conspicuous places in the neighborhood of the proposed sale.
- (3) Before any sale pursuant to this section any person claiming a right in the goods may pay the amount necessary to satisfy the lien and the reasonable expenses incurred under this section. In that event the goods must not be sold, but must be retained by the warehouseman subject to the terms of the receipt and this Article.
- (4) The warehouseman may buy at any public sale pursuant to this section.
- (5) A purchaser in good faith of goods sold to enforce a warehouseman's lien takes the goods free of any rights of persons against whom the lien was valid, despite noncompliance by the warehouseman with the requirements of this section.
- (6) The warehouseman may satisfy his lien from the proceeds of any sale pursuant to this section but must hold the balance, if any, for delivery on demand to any person to whom he would have been bound to deliver the goods.

(7) The rights provided by this section shall be in addition to all other rights allowed by law to a creditor against his debtor.

(8) Where a lien is on goods stored by a merchant in the course of his business the lien may be enforced in accordance with either subsection (1) or (2).

(9) The warehouseman is liable for damages caused by failure to comply with the requirements for sale under this section and in case of willful violation is liable for conversion.

PART 3

BILLS OF LADING: SPECIAL PROVISIONS

SECTION 7—301. Liability for Non-Receipt or Misdescription; "Said to Contain"; "Shipper's Load and Count"; Improper Handling.

(1) A consignee of a non-negotiable bill who has given value in good faith or a holder to whom a negotiable bill has been duly negotiated relying in either case upon the description therein of the goods, or upon the date therein shown, may recover from the issuer damages caused by the misdating of the bill or the non-receipt or misdescription of the goods, except to the extent that the document indicates that the issuer does not know whether any part or all of the goods in fact were received or conform to the description, as where the description is in terms of marks or labels or kind, quantity, or condition or the receipt or description is qualified by "contents or condition of contents of packages unknown", "said to contain", "shipper's weight, load and count" or the like, if such indication be true.

(2) When goods are loaded by an issuer who is a common carrier, the issuer must count the packages of goods if package freight and ascertain the kind and quantity if bulk freight. In such cases "shipper's weight, load and count" or other words indicating that the description was made by the shipper are ineffective except as to freight concealed by packages.

(3) When bulk freight is loaded by a shipper who makes available to the issuer adequate facilities for weighing such freight, an issuer who is a common carrier must ascertain the kind and quantity within a reasonable time after receiving the written request of the shipper to do so. In such cases "shipper's weight" or other words of like purport are ineffective.

(4) The issuer may by inserting in the bill the words "shipper's weight, load and count" or other words of like purport indicate that the goods were loaded by the shipper; and if such statement be true the issuer shall not be liable for damages caused by the improper loading. But their omission does not imply liability for such damages.

(5) The shipper shall be deemed to have guaranteed to the issuer the accuracy at the time of shipment of the description, marks, labels, number, kind, quantity, condition and weight, as furnished by him; and the shipper shall indemnify the issuer against damage caused by inaccuracies in such particulars. The right of the issuer to such indemnity shall in no way limit his responsibility and liability under the contract of carriage to any person other than the shipper.

SECTION 7—302. Through Bills of Lading and Similar Documents.

(1) The issuer of a through bill of lading or other document embodying an undertaking to be performed in part by persons acting as its agents or by connecting carriers is liable to anyone entitled to recover on the document for any breach by such other persons or by a connecting carrier of its obligation under the document but to the extent that the bill covers an undertaking to be performed overseas or in territory not contiguous to the continental United States or an undertaking including matters other than transportation this liability may be varied by agreement of the parties.

(2) Where goods covered by a through bill of lading or other document embodying an undertaking to be performed in part by persons other than the issuer are received by any such person, he is subject with respect to his own performance while the goods are in his possession to the obligation of the issuer. His obligation is discharged by delivery of the goods to another such person pursuant to the document, and does not include liability for breach by any other such persons or by the issuer.

(3) The issuer of such through bill of lading or other document shall be entitled to recover from the connecting carrier or such other person in possession of the goods when the breach of the obligation under the document occurred, the amount it may be required to pay to anyone entitled to recover on the document therefor, as may be evidenced by any receipt, judgment, or transcript thereof, and the amount of any expense reasonably incurred by it in defending any action brought by anyone entitled to recover on the document therefor.

SECTION 7—303. Diversion; Reconsignment; Change of Instructions.

(1) Unless the bill of lading otherwise provides, the carrier may deliver the goods to a person or destination other than that stated in the bill or may otherwise dispose of the goods on instructions from

- (a) the holder of a negotiable bill; or
- (b) the consignor on a non-negotiable bill notwithstanding contrary instructions from the consignee; or
- (c) the consignee on a non-negotiable bill in the absence of contrary instructions from the consignor, if the goods have arrived at the billed destination or if the consignee is in possession of the bill; or
- (d) the consignee on a non-negotiable bill if he is entitled as against the consignor to dispose of them.

(2) Unless such instructions are noted on a negotiable bill of lading, a person to whom the bill is duly negotiated can hold the bailee according to the original terms.

SECTION 7—304. Bills of Lading in a Set.

(1) Except where customary in overseas transportation, a bill of lading must not be issued in a set of parts. The issuer is liable for damages caused by violation of this subsection.

(2) Where a bill of lading is lawfully drawn in a set of parts, each of which is numbered and expressed to be valid only if the goods have not been delivered against any other part, the whole of the parts constitute one bill.

(3) Where a bill of lading is lawfully issued in a set of parts and different parts are negotiated to different persons, the title of the holder to whom the first due negotiation is made prevails as to both the document and the goods even though any later holder may have received the goods from the carrier in good faith and discharged the carrier's obligation by surrender of his part.

(4) Any person who negotiates or transfers a single part of a bill of lading drawn in a set is liable to holders of that part as if it were the whole set.

(5) The bailee is obliged to deliver in accordance with Part 4 of this Article against the first presented part of a bill of lading lawfully drawn in a set. Such delivery discharges the bailee's obligation on the whole bill.

SECTION 7—305. Destination Bills.

(1) Instead of issuing a bill of lading to the consignor at the place of shipment a carrier may at the request of the consignor procure the bill to be issued at destination or at any other place designated in the request.

(2) Upon request of anyone entitled as against the carrier to control the goods while in transit and on surrender of any outstanding bill of lading or other receipt covering such goods, the issuer may procure a substitute bill to be issued at any place designated in the request.

SECTION 7—306. Altered Bills of Lading.

An unauthorized alteration or filling in of a blank in a bill of lading leaves the bill enforceable according to its original tenor.

SECTION 7—307. Lien of Carrier.

(1) A carrier has a lien on the goods covered by a bill of lading for charges subsequent to the date of its receipt of the goods for storage or transportation (including demurrage and terminal charges) and for expenses necessary for preservation of the goods incident to their transportation or reasonably incurred in their sale pursuant to law. But against a purchaser for value of a negotiable bill of lading a carrier's lien is limited to charges stated in the bill or the applicable tariffs, or if no charges are stated then to a reasonable charge.

(2) A lien for charges and expenses under subsection (1) on goods which the carrier was required by law to receive for transportation is effective against the consignor or any person entitled to the goods unless the carrier had notice that the consignor lacked authority to subject the goods to such charges and expenses. Any other lien under subsection (1) is effective against the consignor and any person who permitted the bailor to have control or possession of the goods unless the carrier had notice that the bailor lacked such authority.

(3) A carrier loses his lien on any goods which he voluntarily delivers or which he unjustifiably refuses to deliver.

SECTION 7—308. Enforcement of Carrier's Lien.

(1) A carrier's lien may be enforced by public or private sale of the goods, in bloc or in parcels, at any time or place and on any terms which are commercially reasonable, after notifying all persons known to claim an interest in the goods. Such notification must include a statement of the amount due, the nature of the proposed sale and the time and place of any public sale. The fact that a better price could have been obtained by a sale at a different time or in a different method from that selected by the carrier is not of itself sufficient to establish that the sale was not made in a commercially reasonable manner. If the carrier either sells the goods in the usual manner in any recognized market therefor or if he sells at the price current in such market at the time of his sale or if he has otherwise sold in conformity with commercially reasonable practices among dealers in the type of goods sold he has sold in a commercially reasonable manner. A sale of more goods than apparently necessary to be offered to ensure satisfaction of the obligation is not commercially reasonable except in cases covered by the preceding sentence.

(2) Before any sale pursuant to this section any person claiming a right in the goods may pay the amount necessary to satisfy the lien and the reasonable expenses incurred under this section. In that event the goods must not be sold, but must be retained by the carrier subject to the terms of the bill and this Article.

(3) The carrier may buy at any public sale pursuant to this section.

(4) A purchaser in good faith of goods sold to enforce a carrier's lien takes the goods free of any rights of persons against whom the lien was valid, despite noncompliance by the carrier with the requirements of this section.

(5) The carrier may satisfy his lien from the proceeds of any sale pursuant to this section but must hold the balance, if any, for delivery on demand to any person to whom he would have been bound to deliver the goods.

(6) The rights provided by this section shall be in addition to all other rights allowed by law to a creditor against his debtor.

(7) A carrier's lien may be enforced in accordance with either subsection (1) or the procedure set forth in subsection (2) of Section 7—210.

(8) The carrier is liable for damages caused by failure to comply with the requirements for sale under this section and in case of willful violation is liable for conversion.

SECTION 7—309. Duty of Care; Contractual Limitation of Carrier's Liability.

(1) A carrier who issues a bill of lading whether negotiable or non-negotiable must exercise the degree of care in relation to the goods which a reasonably careful man would exercise under like circumstances. This subsection does not repeal or change any law or rule of law which imposes liability upon a common carrier for damages not caused by its negligence.

(2) Damages may be limited by a provision that the carrier's liability shall not exceed a value stated in the document if the carrier's rates are dependent upon value and the consignor by the carrier's tariff is afforded an opportunity to declare a higher value or a value as lawfully provided in the tariff, or where no tariff is filed he is otherwise advised of such opportunity; but no such limitation is effective with respect to the carrier's liability for conversion to its own use.

(3) Reasonable provisions as to the time and manner of presenting claims and instituting actions based on the shipment may be included in a bill of lading or tariff.

PART 4WAREHOUSE RECEIPTS AND BILLS OF LADING:
GENERAL OBLIGATIONS*SECTION 7—401. *Irregularities in Issue of Receipt or Bill or Conduct of Issuer.

The obligations imposed by this Article on an issuer apply to a document of title regardless of the fact that

- (a) the document may not comply with the requirements of this Article or of any other law or regulation regarding its issue, form or content; or
- (b) the issuer may have violated laws regulating the conduct of his business; or
- (c) the goods covered by the document were owned by the bailee at the time the document was issued; or
- (d) the person issuing the document does not come within the definition of warehouseman if it purports to be a warehouse receipt.

SECTION 7—402. Duplicate Receipt or Bill; Overissue.

Neither a duplicate nor any other document of title purporting to cover goods already represented by an outstanding document of the same issuer confers any right in the goods, except as provided in the case of bills in a set, overissue of documents for fungible goods and substitutes for lost, stolen or destroyed documents. But the issuer is liable for damages caused by his overissue or failure to identify a duplicate document as such by conspicuous notation on its face.

SECTION 7—403. Obligation of Warehouseman or Carrier to Deliver; Excuse.

(1) The bailee must deliver the goods to a person entitled under the document who complies with subsections (2) and (3), unless and to the extent that the bailee establishes any of the following:

- (a) delivery of the goods to a person whose receipt was right-ful as against the claimant;
- (b) damage to or delay, loss or destruction of the goods for which the bailee is not liable;
- (c) previous sale or other disposition of the goods in lawful enforcement of a lien or on warehouseman's lawful termination of storage;
- (d) the exercise by a seller of his right to stop delivery pursuant to the provisions of the Article on Sales (Section 2—705);
- (e) a diversion, reconsignment or other disposition pursuant to the provisions of this Article (Section 7—303) or tariff regulating such right;
- (f) release, satisfaction or any other fact affording a personal defense against the claimant;
- (g) any other lawful excuse.

(2) A person claiming goods covered by a document of title must satisfy the bailee's lien where the bailee so requests or where the bailee is prohibited by law from delivering the goods until the charges are paid.

(3) Unless the person claiming is one against whom the document confers no right under Sec. 7—503 (1), he must surrender for cancellation or notation of partial deliveries any outstanding negotiable document covering the goods, and the bailee must cancel the document or conspicuously note the partial delivery thereon or be liable to any person to whom the document is duly negotiated.

(4) "Person" entitled under the document" means holder in the case of a negotiable document, or the person to whom delivery is to be made by the terms of or pursuant to written instructions under a non-negotiable document.

SECTION 7—404. No Liability for Good Faith Delivery Pursuant to Receipt or Bill.

A bailee who in good faith including observance of reasonable commercial standards has received goods and delivered or otherwise disposed of them according to the terms of the document of title or pursuant to this Article is not liable therefor. This rule applies even though the person from whom he received the goods had no authority to procure the document or to dispose of the goods and even though the person to whom he delivered the goods had no authority to receive them.

PART 5WAREHOUSE RECEIPTS AND BILLS OF LADING:
NEGOTIATION AND TRANSFER*SECTION 7—501. *Form of Negotiation and Requirements of "Due Negotiation".

(1) A negotiable document of title running to the order of a named person is negotiated by his indorsement and delivery. After his indorsement in blank or to bearer any person can negotiate it by delivery alone.

(2) (a) A negotiable document of title is also negotiated by delivery alone when by its original terms it runs to bearer.

(b) When a document running to the order of a named person is delivered to him the effect is the same as if the document had been negotiated.

(3) Negotiation of a negotiable document of title after it has been indorsed to a specified person requires indorsement by the special indorsee as well as delivery.

(4) A negotiable document of title is "duly negotiated" when it is negotiated in the manner stated in this section to a holder who purchases it in good faith without notice of any defense against or claim to it on the part of any person and for value, unless it is established that the negotiation is not in the regular course of business or financing or involves receiving the document in settlement or payment of a money obligation.

(5) Indorsement of a non-negotiable document neither makes it negotiable nor adds to the transferee's rights.

(6) The naming in a negotiable bill of a person to be notified of the arrival of the goods does not limit the negotiability of the bill nor constitute notice to a purchaser thereof of any interest of such person in the goods.

SECTION 7—502. Rights Acquired by Due Negotiation.

(1) Subject to the following section and to the provisions of Section 7—205 on fungible goods, a holder to whom a negotiable document of title has been duly negotiated acquires thereby:

- (a) title to the document;
- (b) title to the goods;
- (c) all rights accruing under the law of agency or estoppel, including rights to goods delivered to the bailee after the document was issued; and
- (d) the direct obligation of the issuer to hold or deliver the goods according to the terms of the document free of any defense or claim by him except those arising under the terms of the document or under this Article. In the case of a delivery order the bailee's obligation accrues only upon acceptance and the obligation acquired by the holder is that the issuer and any indorser will procure the acceptance of the bailee.

(2) Subject to the following section, title and rights so acquired are not defeated by any stoppage of the goods represented by the document or by surrender of such goods by the bailee, and are not impaired even though the negotiation or any prior negotiation constituted a breach of duty or even though any person has been deprived of possession of the document by misrepresentation, fraud, accident, mistake, duress, loss, theft or conversion, or even though a previous sale or other transfer of the goods or document has been made to a third person.

(1) A document of title confers no right in goods against a person who before issuance of the document had a legal interest or a perfected security interest in them and who neither

- (a) delivered or entrusted them or any document of title covering them to the bailor or his nominee with actual or apparent authority to ship, store or sell or with power to obtain delivery under this Article (Section 7—403) or with power of disposition under this Act (Sections 2—403 and 9—307) or other statute or rule of law; nor

(b) acquiesced in the procurement by the bailor or his nominee of any document of title.

(2) Title to goods based upon an unaccepted delivery order is subject to the rights of anyone to whom a negotiable warehouse receipt or bill of lading covering the goods has been duly negotiated. Such a title may be defeated under the next section to the same extent as the rights of the issuer or a transferee from the issuer.

(3) Title to goods based upon a bill of lading issued to a freight forwarder is subject to the rights of anyone to whom a bill issued by the freight forwarder is duly negotiated; but delivery by the carrier in accordance with Part 4 of this Article pursuant to its own bill of lading discharges the carrier's obligation to deliver.

SECTION-7—504. Rights Acquired in the Absence of Due Negotiation; Effect of Division; Seller's Stoppage of Delivery.

(1) A transferee of a document, whether negotiable or non-negotiable, to whom the document has been delivered but not duly negotiated, acquires the title and rights which his transferor had or had actual authority to convey.

(2) In the case of a non-negotiable document, until but not after the bailee receives notification of the transfer, the rights of the transferee may be defeated

- (a) by those creditors of the transferor who could treat the sale as void under Section 2—402; or
- (b) by a buyer from the transferor in ordinary course of business if the bailee has delivered the goods to the buyer or received notification of his rights; or
- (c) as against the bailee by good faith dealings of the bailee with the transferor.

(3) A diversion or other change of shipping instructions by the consignor in a non-negotiable bill of lading which causes the bailee not to deliver to the consignee defeats the consignee's title to the goods if they have been delivered to a buyer in ordinary course of business and in any event defeats the consignee's rights against the bailee.

(4) Delivery pursuant to a non-negotiable document may be stopped by a seller under Section 2—705, and subject to the requirement of due notification there provided. A bailee honoring the seller's instructions is entitled to be indemnified by the seller against any resulting loss or expense.

SECTION 7—505. Indorser Not a Guarantor for Other Parties.

The indorsement of a document of title issued by a bailee does not make the indorser liable for any default by the bailee or by previous indorsers.

SECTION 7—506. Delivery Without Indorsement: Right to Compel Indorsement.

The transferee of a negotiable document of title has a specifically enforceable right to have his transferor supply any necessary indorsement but the transfer becomes a negotiation only as of the time the indorsement is supplied.

SECTION 7—507. Warranties on Negotiation or Transfer of Receipt or Bill.

Where a person negotiates or transfers a document of title for value otherwise than as a mere intermediary under the next following section, then unless otherwise agreed he warrants to his immediate purchaser only in addition to any warranty made in selling the goods

- (a) that the document is genuine; and
- (b) that he has no knowledge of any fact which would impair its validity or worth; and
- (c) that his negotiation or transfer is rightful and fully effective with respect to the title to the document and the goods it represents.

SECTION 7—508. Warranties of Collecting Bank as to Documents.

A collecting bank or other intermediary known to be entrusted with documents on behalf of another or with collection of a draft or other claim against delivery of documents warrants by such delivery of the documents only its own good faith and authority. This rule applies even though the intermediary has purchased or made advances against the claim or draft to be collected.

SECTION 7—509. Receipt or Bill: When Adequate Compliance With Commercial Contract.

The question whether a document is adequate to fulfill the obligations of a contract for sale or the conditions of a credit is governed by the Articles on Sales (Article 2) and on Letters of Credit (Article 5).

PART 6

WAREHOUSE RECEIPTS AND BILLS OF LADING:
MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONSSECTION 7—601. Lost and Missing Documents.

(1) If a document has been lost, stolen or destroyed, a court may order delivery of the goods or issuance of a substitute document and the bailee may without liability to any person comply with such order. If the document was negotiable the claimant must post security approved by the court to indemnify any person who may suffer loss as a result of non-surrender of the document. If the document was not negotiable, such security may be required at the discretion of the court. The court may also in its discretion order payment of the bailee's reasonable costs and counsel fees.

(2) A bailee who without court order delivers goods to a person claiming under a missing negotiable document is liable to any person injured thereby, and if the delivery is not in good faith becomes liable for conversion. Delivery in good faith is not conversion if made in accordance with a filed classification or tariff or, where no classification or tariff is filed, if the claimant posts security with the bailee in an amount at least double the value of the goods at the time of posting to indemnify any person injured by the delivery who files a notice of claim within one year after the delivery.

Except where the document was originally issued upon delivery of the goods by a person who had no power to dispose of them, no lien attaches by virtue of any judicial process to goods in the possession of a bailee for which a negotiable document of title is outstanding unless the document be first surrendered to the bailee or its negotiation enjoined, and the bailee shall not be compelled to deliver the goods pursuant to process until the document is surrendered to him or impounded by the court. One who purchases the document for value without notice of the process or injunction takes free of the lien imposed by judicial process.

SECTION 7—603. Conflicting Claims; Interpleader.

If more than one person claims title or possession of the goods, the bailee is excused from delivery until he has had a reasonable time to ascertain the validity of the adverse claims or to bring an action to compel all claimants to interplead and may compel such interpleader, either in defending an action for non-delivery of the goods, or by original action, whichever is appropriate.

ARTICLE 8

INVESTMENT SECURITIES

General Introduction

Article 8 of the Uniform Commercial Code is a unique effort to state legal rules for transfer of all forms of investment securities. Such securities present special problems which are not shared by commercial paper and which, therefore, require special treatment. In South Carolina, at present, investment securities are governed by a variety of statutes. The Uniform Stock Transfer Act (Chapter 7 of the Corporation Law, S. C. Code Sections 12-17.1-12-17.25 (Supp. 1963)) applies only to stock certificates. The Negotiable Instruments Law (S. C. Code Sections 8-801 et seq. (1962)) applies to bonds, debentures, and other forms of creditor securities, as well as to commercial paper. The Uniform Act for the Simplification of Fiduciary Security Transfers, S. C. Code Sections 62-451—62-456 (1962), states important rules but only for a limited class of security transfers. A variety of state and municipal bond statutes specially provide for the negotiability of those instruments many of which would be non-negotiable under the N.I.L. Scattered provisions elsewhere in the South Carolina Code of Laws also apply to investment securities. Since the transfer and registration of all forms of investment securities are subject to uniform treatment, adoption of Article 8 would, first of all, simplify the statute law.

The advantages of Article 8, if the Uniform Commercial Code is adopted, are several. First, since the transfer and registration of all investment securities can be treated alike, adoption of Article 8 would simplify the relevant statute law. Second, Article 8 covers areas of commercial practice not previously found in any other general statute, e. g., transfer of investment securities issued in registered form (including stock and many bonds). Third, Article 8 states many rules inappropriate to commercial paper but essential to ready marketability of investment paper. Finally, it conveniently codifies a great deal of scattered case-law both in South Carolina and elsewhere.

The problems of investment securities in the United States have chiefly clustered around the application and effect of the N.I.L. on bonds, debentures and like securities. Unlike the English Bills of Exchange Act which applied only to bills, notes and checks, the N.I.L. definition of negotiable instrument was unlimited, so that its requirements for negotiability applied to all instruments, including bonds, etc. See President and Directors of the Manhattan Co. v. Morgan, 242 N. Y. 38, 150 N. E. 94 (1926). South Carolina cases have similarly judged the negotiability of investment securities against the N.I.L. requirements, and the case law rules which it codified. Since the effect was often to deny negotiability to important classes of investment securities, and thus to make them unmarketable, special statutes were enacted declaring negotiable various instruments which could not meet the N.I.L. tests. See the South Carolina Reporter's Comments to Code section 8-202 discussing state and municipal bonds, and the Appendix setting forth relevant statutory provisions.

Among the chief barriers to bond negotiability under the N.I.L., which Article 8 corrects, are the following:

(1) References in bonds to special indenture provisions governing the mortgage or other security, e. g., vesting the trustee with exclusive power to foreclose the security, etc. The technical difficulty was that such provisions seemed contrary to the N.I.L. requirement of an "unconditional promise" to pay a sum certain in money. N. I. L. Section 1(2), S. C. Code Section 8-811(2). Enoch v. Brandon, 249 N. Y. 263, 164 N. E. (45) (1928) partly resolved the problem by holding that all such provisions applied only to the security and did not affect the bond's basic promise to pay. Article 8 does not require an "unconditional promise" to pay as a prerequisite to negotiability of bonds. And Code section 8-202(1) authorizes incorporation by reference of terms in an indenture or other instrument. Together these Code sections remove the threat to negotiability.

(2) Payment from Particular Assets: Certain municipal bonds provide for payment only out of a special fund, e. g., revenues of a public utility, thus avoiding in South Carolina the constitutional limit on general obligation bonds. Equipment trust certificates are similarly payable only out of special funds, e. g., rentals from equipment leases. See also corporation income bonds. Such provisions contravene the N.I.L. requirement of an unconditional promise (Section 1(2) and 3, S. C. Code Sections 8-811(2), 8-813). Special South Carolina statutes make revenue bonds fully negotiable. See

S. C. Code Section 59-396, Appendix, infra. Commercial Code Article 8 contains no provision shadowing negotiability of bonds payable from special funds or sources.

(3) Some doubt is occasionally voiced as to negotiability of securities in registered form, on the ground that typical provisions for transfer of such instruments "on the books of the" issuer conflict with forms of transfer prescribed by the N.I.L. This appears to be an unreal fear, since "transfer on the books" is essentially a registration of transfer. The Commercial Code, however, makes it clear that registered form securities are fully negotiable, whether they be bonds or stocks (previously covered by the Uniform Stock Transfer Act).

As indicated above, unlike the N.I.L., Article 8 does not specify what provisions an investment security must contain or may not contain in order to be fully negotiable. As fully explained in the notes to Code section 8-102, almost all securities are negotiable if they are "of a type commonly dealt in upon securities exchanges or markets or commonly recognized . . . as a medium for investment." Code section 8-101(1)(a)(ii).

The South Carolina Reporter's Comments to Article 8 compares the Code provisions with present South Carolina law,⁶ especially the statutes, and the new corporation law. There are relatively few South Carolina cases pertinent to the Article 8 provisions, but it is believed that all of them have been located and cited for comparison and comment. Constant reference is made to the new Corporation Law. Article 8 provisions are not compared with the commercial paper sections of Article 3 to avoid undue bulk and peripheral explanations of the variations. In general, the reader is urged to refer back to Article 3 section comments for discussion of common topics not covered by Article 8 section comments.

- (a) unless specifically denied in the pleadings, each signature on the security or in a necessary indorsement is admitted;
- (b) when the effectiveness of a signature is put in issue the burden of establishing it is on the party claiming under the signature but the signature is presumed to be genuine or authorized;
- (c) when signatures are admitted or established production of the instrument entitles a holder to recover on it unless the defendant establishes a defense or a defect going to the validity of the security; and

- (d) after it is shown that a defense or defect exists the plaintiff has the burden of establishing that he or some person under whom he claims is a person against whom the defense or defect is ineffective (Section 8—202).

SECTION 8—106. Applicability.

The validity of a security and the rights and duties of the issuer with respect to registration of transfer are governed by the law (including the conflict of laws rules) of the jurisdiction of organization of the issuer.

SECTION 8—107. Securities Deliverable; Action for Price.

(1) Unless otherwise agreed and subject to any applicable law or regulation respecting short sales, a person obligated to deliver securities may deliver any security of the specified issue in bearer form or registered in the name of the transferee or indorsed to him or in blank.

(2) When the buyer fails to pay the price as it comes due under a contract of sale the seller may recover the price

- (a) of securities accepted by the buyer; and
- (b) of other securities if efforts at their resale would be unduly burdensome or if there is no readily available market for their resale.

PART 2

ISSUE—ISSUER

SECTION 8—201. “Issuer.”

(1) With respect to obligations on or defenses to a security “issuer” includes a person who

- (a) places or authorizes the placing of his name on a security (otherwise than as authenticating trustee, registrar, transfer agent or the like) to evidence that it represents a share, participation or other interest in his property or in an enterprise or to evidence his duty to perform an obligation evidenced by the security; or
- (b) directly or indirectly creates fractional interests in his rights or property which fractional interests are evidenced by securities; or

(c) becomes responsible for or in place of any other person described as an issuer in this section.

(2) With respect to obligations on or defenses to a security a guarantor is an issuer to the extent of his guaranty whether or not his obligation is noted on the security.

(3) With respect to registration of transfer (Part 4 of this Article) "issuer" means a person on whose behalf transfer books are maintained.

SECTION 8—202. Issuer's Responsibility and Defenses; Notice of Defect or Defense.

(1) Even against a purchaser for value and without notice, the terms of a security include those stated on the security and those made part of the security by reference to another instrument, indenture or document or to a constitution, statute, ordinance, rule, regulation, order or the like to the extent that the terms so referred to do not conflict with the stated terms. Such a reference does not of itself charge a purchaser for value with notice of a defect going to the validity of the security even though the security expressly states that a person accepting it admits such notice.

(2) (a) A security other than one issued by a government or governmental agency or unit even though issued with a defect going to its validity is valid in the hands of a purchaser for value and without notice of the particular defect unless the defect involves a violation of constitutional provisions in which case the security is valid in the hands of a subsequent purchaser for value and without notice of the defect.

(b) The rule of subparagraph (a) applies to an issuer which is a government or governmental agency or unit only if either there has been substantial compliance with the legal requirements governing the issue or the issuer has received a substantial consideration for the issue as a whole or for the particular security and a stated purpose of the issue is one for which the issuer has power to borrow money or issue the security.

(3) Except as otherwise provided in the case of certain unauthorized signatures on issue (Section 8—205), lack of genuineness of a security is a complete defense even against a purchaser for value and without notice.

(4) All other defenses of the issuer including nondelivery and conditional delivery of the security are ineffective against a purchaser for value who has taken without notice of the particular defense.

(5) Nothing in this section shall be construed to affect the right of a party to a “when, as and if issued” or a “when distributed” contract to cancel the contract in the event of a material change in the character of the security which is the subject of the contract or in the plan or arrangement pursuant to which such security is to be issued or distributed.

SECTION 8—203. Staleness as Notice of Defects or Defenses.

(1) After an act or event which creates a right to immediate performance of the principal obligation evidenced by the security or which sets a date on or after which the security is to be presented or surrendered for redemption or exchange, a purchaser is charged with notice of any defect in its issue or defense of the issuer

- (a) if the act or event is one requiring the payment of money or the delivery of securities or both on presentation or surrender of the security and such funds or securities are available on the date set for payment or exchange and he takes the security more than one year after that date; and
- (b) if the act or event is not covered by paragraph (a) and he takes the security more than two years after the date set for surrender or presentation or the date on which such performance became due.

(2) A call which has been revoked is not within subsection (1).

SECTION 8—204. Effect of Issuer's Restrictions on Transfer.

Unless noted conspicuously on the security a restriction on transfer imposed by the issuer even though otherwise lawful is ineffective except against a person with actual knowledge of it.

SECTION 8—205. Effect of Unauthorized Signature on Issue.

An unauthorized signature placed on a security prior to or in the course of issue is ineffective except that the signature is effective in favor of a purchaser for value and without notice of the lack of authority if the signing has been done by

- (a) an authenticating trustee, registrar, transfer agent or other person entrusted by the issuer with the signing of the security or of similar securities or their immediate preparation for signing; or

- (b) an employee of the issuer or of any of the foregoing entrusted with responsible handling of the security.

SECTION 8—206. Completion or Alteration of Instrument.

(1) Where a security contains the signatures necessary to its issue or transfer but is incomplete in any other respect

- (a) any person may complete it by filling in the blanks as authorized; and
- (b) even though the blanks are incorrectly filled in, the security as completed is enforceable by a purchaser who took it for value and without notice of such incorrectness.

(2) A complete security which has been improperly altered even, though fraudulently remains enforceable but only according to its original terms.

SECTION 8—207. Rights of Issuer With Respect to Registered Owners.

(1) Prior to due presentment for registration of transfer of a security in registered form the issuer or indenture trustee may treat the registered owner as the person exclusively entitled to vote, to receive notifications and otherwise to exercise all the rights and powers of an owner.

(2) Nothing in this Article shall be construed to affect the liability of the registered owner of a security for calls, assessments or the like.

SECTION 8—208. Effect of Signature of Authenticating Trustee, Registrar or Transfer Agent.

(1) A person placing his signature upon a security as authenticating trustee, registrar, transfer agent or the like warrants to a purchaser for value without notice of the particular defect that

- (a) the security is genuine; and
- (b) his own participation in the issue of the security is within his capacity and within the scope of the authorization received by him from the issuer; and
- (c) he has reasonable grounds to believe that the security is in the form and within the amount the issuer is authorized to issue.

(2) Unless otherwise agreed, a person by so placing his signature does not assume responsibility for the validity of the security in other respects.

SECTION 8—301. Rights Acquired by Purchaser; "Adverse Claim"; Title Acquired by Bona Fide Purchaser.

(1) Upon delivery of a security the purchaser acquires the rights in the security which his transferor had or had actual authority to convey except that a purchaser who has himself been a party to any fraud or illegality affecting the security or who as a prior holder had notice of an adverse claim cannot improve his position by taking from a later bona fide purchaser. "Adverse claim" includes a claim that a transfer was or would be wrongful or that a particular adverse person is the owner of or has an interest in the security.

(2) A bona fide purchaser in addition to acquiring the rights of a purchaser also acquires the security free of any adverse claim.

(3) A purchaser of a limited interest acquires rights only to the extent of the interest purchased.

SECTION 8—302. "Bona Fide Purchaser."

A "bona fide purchaser" is a purchaser for value in good faith and without notice of any adverse claim who takes delivery of a security in bearer form or of one in registered form issued to him or indorsed to him or in blank.

SECTION 8—303. "Broker."

"Broker" means a person engaged for all or part of his time in the business of buying and selling securities, who in the transaction concerned acts for, or buys a security from or sells a security to a customer. Nothing in this Article determines the capacity in which a person acts for purposes of any other statute or rule to which such person is subject.

SECTION 8—304. Notice to Purchaser of Adverse Claims.

(1) A purchaser (including a broker for the seller or buyer but excluding an intermediary bank) of a security is charged with notice of adverse claims if

- (a) the security whether in bearer or registered form has been indorsed "for collection" or "for surrender" or for some other purpose not involving transfer; or
- (b) the security is in bearer form and has on it an unambiguous statement that it is the property of a person other than the transferor. The mere writing of a name on a security is not such a statement.

(2) The fact that the purchaser (including a broker for the seller or buyer) has notice that the security is held for a third person or is registered in the name of or indorsed by a fiduciary does not create a duty of inquiry into the rightfulness of the transfer or constitute notice of adverse claims. If, however, the purchaser (excluding an intermediary bank) has knowledge that the proceeds are being used or that the transaction is for the individual benefit of the fiduciary or otherwise in breach of duty, the purchaser is charged with notice of adverse claims.

SECTION 8—305. Staleness as Notice of Adverse Claims.

An act or event which creates a right to immediate performance of the principal obligation evidenced by the security or which sets a date on or after which the security is to be presented or surrendered for redemption or exchange does not of itself constitute any notice of adverse claims except in the case of a purchase

- (a) after one year from any date set for such presentment or surrender for redemption or exchange; or
- (b) after six months from any date set for payment of money against presentation or surrender of the security if funds are available for payment on that date.

SECTION 8—306. Warranties on Presentment and Transfer.

(1) A person who presents a security for registration of transfer or for payment or exchange warrants to the issuer that he is entitled to the registration, payment or exchange. But a purchaser for value without notice of adverse claims who receives a new, reissued or re-registered security on registration of transfer warrants only that he has no knowledge of any unauthorized signature (Section 8—311) in a necessary indorsement.

(2) A person by transferring a security to a purchaser for value warrants only that

- (a) his transfer is effective and rightful; and
- (b) the security is genuine and has not been materially altered; and
- (c) he knows no fact which might impair the validity of the security.

(3) Where a security is delivered by an intermediary known to be entrusted with delivery of the security on behalf of another or with collection of a draft or other claim against such delivery, the intermediary by such delivery warrants only his own good faith and authority even though he has purchased or made advances against the claim to be collected against the delivery.

(4) A pledgee or other holder for security who redelivers the security received, or after payment and on order of the debtor delivers that security to a third person makes only the warranties of an intermediary under subsection (3).

(5) A broker gives to his customer and to the issuer and a purchaser the warranties provided in this section and has the rights and privileges of a purchaser under this section. The warranties of and in favor of the broker acting as an agent are in addition to applicable warranties given by and in favor of his customer.

SECTION 8—307. Effect of Delivery Without Indorsement; Right to Compel Indorsement.

Where a security in registered form has been delivered to a purchaser without a necessary indorsement he may become a bona fide purchaser only as of the time the indorsement is supplied, but against the transferor the transfer is complete upon delivery and the purchaser has a specifically enforceable right to have any necessary indorsement supplied.

SECTION 8—308. Indorsement, How Made; Special Indorsement; Indorser Not a Guarantor; Partial Assignment.

(1) An indorsement of a security in registered form is made when an appropriate person signs on it or on a separate document an assignment or transfer of the security or a power to assign or transfer it or when the signature of such person is written without more upon the back of the security.

(2) An indorsement may be in blank or special. An indorsement in blank includes an indorsement to bearer. A special indorsement specifies the person to whom the security is to be transferred, or who has power to transfer it. A holder may convert a blank indorsement into a special indorsement.

(3) "An appropriate person" in subsection (1) means

(a) the person specified by the security or by special indorsement to be entitled to the security; or

- (b) where the person so specified is described as a fiduciary but is no longer serving in the described capacity,—either that person or his successor; or
- (c) where the security or indorsement so specifies more than one person as fiduciaries and one or more are no longer serving in the described capacity,—the remaining fiduciary or fiduciaries, whether or not a successor has been appointed or qualified; or
- (d) where the person so specified is an individual and is without capacity to act by virtue of death, incompetence, infancy or otherwise,—his executor, administrator, guardian or like fiduciary; or
- (e) where the security or indorsement so specifies more than one person as tenants by the entirety or with right of survivorship and by reason of death all cannot sign,—the survivor or survivors; or
- (f) a person having power to sign under applicable law or controlling instrument; or
- (g) to the extent that any of the foregoing persons may act through an agent,—his authorized agent.

(4) Unless otherwise agreed the indorser by his indorsement assumes no obligation that the security will be honored by the issuer.

(5) An indorsement purporting to be only of part of a security representing units intended by the issuer to be separately transferable is effective to the extent of the indorsement.

(6) Whether the person signing is appropriate is determined as of the date of signing and an indorsement by such a person does not become unauthorized for the purposes of this Article by virtue of any subsequent change of circumstances.

(7) Failure of a fiduciary to comply with a controlling instrument or with the law of the state having jurisdiction of the fiduciary relationship, including any law requiring the fiduciary to obtain court approval of the transfer, does not render his indorsement unauthorized for the purposes of this Article.

SECTION 8—309. Effect of Indorsement Without Delivery.

An indorsement of a security whether special or in blank does not constitute a transfer until delivery of the security on which it appears or if the indorsement is on a separate document until delivery of both the document and the security.

SECTION 8—310. Indorsement of Security in Bearer Form.

An indorsement of a security in bearer form may give notice of adverse claims (Section 8—304) but does not otherwise affect any right to registration the holder may possess.

SECTION 8—311. Effect of Unauthorized Indorsement.

Unless the owner has ratified an unauthorized indorsement or is otherwise precluded from asserting its ineffectiveness

- (a) he may assert its ineffectiveness against the issuer or any purchaser other than a purchaser for value and without notice of adverse claims who has in good faith received a new, reissued or re-registered security on registration of transfer; and
- (b) an issuer who registers the transfer of a security upon the unauthorized indorsement is subject to liability for improper registration (Section 8—404).

SECTION 8—312. Effect of Guaranteeing Signature or Indorsement.

(1) Any person guaranteeing a signature of an indorser of a security warrants that at the time of signing

- (a) the signature was genuine; and
- (b) the signer was an appropriate person to indorse (Section 8—308); and
- (c) the signer had legal capacity to sign.

But the guarantor does not otherwise warrant the rightfulness of the particular transfer.

(2) Any person may guarantee an indorsement of a security and by so doing warrants not only the signature (subsection 1) but also the rightfulness of the particular transfer in all respects. But no issuer may require a guarantee of indorsement as a condition to registration of transfer.

(3) The foregoing warranties are made to any person taking or dealing with the security in reliance on the guarantee and the guarantor is liable to such person for any loss resulting from breach of the warranties.

SECTION 8—313. When Delivery to the Purchaser Occurs; Purchaser's Broker as Holder.

(1) Delivery to a purchaser occurs when

- (a) he or a person designated by him acquires possession of a security; or

- (b) his broker acquires possession of a security specially indorsed to or issued in the name of the purchaser; or
- (c) his broker sends him confirmation of the purchase and also by book entry or otherwise identifies a specific security in the broker's possession as belonging to the purchaser; or
- (d) with respect to an identified security to be delivered while still in the possession of a third person when that person acknowledges that he holds for the purchaser; or
- (e) appropriate entries on the books of a clearing corporation are made under Section 8—320.

(2) The purchaser is the owner of a security held for him by his broker, but is not the holder except as specified in subparagraphs (b), (c) and (e) of subsection (1). Where a security is part of a fungible bulk the purchaser is the owner of a proportionate property interest in the fungible bulk.

(3) Notice of an adverse claim received by the broker or by the purchaser after the broker takes delivery as a holder for value is not effective either as to the broker or as to the purchaser. However, as between the broker and the purchaser the purchaser may demand delivery of an equivalent security as to which no notice of an adverse claim has been received.

SECTION 8—314. Duty to Deliver, When Completed.

(1) Unless otherwise agreed where a sale of a security is made on an exchange or otherwise through brokers

- (a) the selling customer fulfills his duty to deliver when he places such a security in the possession of the selling broker or of a person designated by the broker or if requested causes an acknowledgment to be made to the selling broker that it is held for him; and
- (b) the selling broker including a correspondent broker acting for a selling customer fulfills his duty to deliver by placing the security or a like security in the possession of the buying broker or a person designated by him or by effecting clearance of the sale in accordance with the rules of the exchange on which the transaction took place.

(2) Except as otherwise provided in this section and unless otherwise agreed, a transferor's duty to deliver a security under a contract of purchase is not fulfilled until he places the security in form to be negotiated by the purchaser in the possession of the purchaser or of a person designated by him or at the purchaser's request causes an acknowledgment to be made to the purchaser that it is held for him. Unless made on an exchange a sale to a broker purchasing for his own account is within this subsection and not within subsection (1).

SECTION 8—315. Action Against Purchaser Based Upon Wrongful Transfer.

(1) Any person against whom the transfer of a security is wrongful for any reason, including his incapacity, may against anyone except a bona fide purchaser reclaim possession of the security or obtain possession of any new security evidencing all or part of the same rights or have damages.

(2) If the transfer is wrongful because of an unauthorized indorsement, the owner may also reclaim or obtain possession of the security or new security even from a bona fide purchaser if the ineffectiveness of the purported indorsement can be asserted against him under the provisions of this Article on unauthorized indorsements (Section 8—311).

(3) The right to obtain or reclaim possession of a security may be specifically enforced and its transfer enjoined and the security impounded pending the litigation.

SECTION 8—316. Purchaser's Right to Requisites for Registration of Transfer on Books.

Unless otherwise agreed the transferor must on due demand supply his purchaser with any proof of his authority to transfer or with any other requisite which may be necessary to obtain registration of the transfer of the security but if the transfer is not for value a transferor need not do so unless the purchaser furnishes the necessary expenses. Failure to comply with a demand made within a reasonable time gives the purchaser the right to reject or rescind the transfer.

SECTION 8—317. Attachment or Levy Upon Security.

(1) No attachment or levy upon a security or any share or other interest evidenced thereby which is outstanding shall be valid until the security is actually seized by the officer making the attachment or levy but a security which has been surrendered to the issuer may be attached or levied upon at the source.

(2) A creditor whose debtor is the owner of a security shall be entitled to such aid from courts of appropriate jurisdiction, by injunction or otherwise, in reaching such security or in satisfying the claim by means thereof as is allowed at law or in equity in regard to property which cannot readily be attached or levied upon by ordinary legal process.

SECTION 8—318. No Conversion by Good Faith Delivery.

An agent or bailee who in good faith (including observance of reasonable commercial standards if he is in the business of buying, selling or otherwise dealing with securities) has received securities and sold, pledged or delivered them according to the instructions of his principal is not liable for conversion or for participation in breach of fiduciary duty although the principal had no right to dispose of them.

SECTION 8—319. Statute of Frauds.

A contract for the sale of securities is not enforceable by way of action or defense unless

- (a) there is some writing signed by the party against whom enforcement is sought or by his authorized agent or broker sufficient to indicate that a contract has been made for sale of a stated quantity of described securities at a defined or stated price; or
- (b) delivery of the security has been accepted or payment has been made but the contract is enforceable under this provision only to the extent of such delivery or payment; or
- (c) within a reasonable time a writing in confirmation of the sale or purchase and sufficient against the sender under paragraph (a) has been received by the party against whom enforcement is sought and he has failed to send written objection to its contents within ten days after its receipt; or
- (d) the party against whom enforcement is sought admits in his pleading, testimony or otherwise in court that a contract was made for sale of a stated quantity of described securities at a defined or stated price.

SECTION 8—320. Transfer or Pledge within a Central Depository System.

- (1) If a security
 - (a) is in the custody of a clearing corporation or of a custodian bank or a nominee of either subject to the instructions of the clearing corporation; and

- (b) is in bearer form or indorsed in blank by an appropriate person or registered in the name of the clearing corporation or custodian bank or a nominee of either; and
- (c) is shown on the account of a transferor or pledgor on the books of the clearing corporation;

then, in addition to other methods, a transfer or pledge of the security or any interest therein may be effected by the making of appropriate entries on the books of the clearing corporation reducing the account of the transferor or pledgor and increasing the account of the transferee or pledgee by the amount of the obligation or the number of shares or rights transferred or pledged.

(2) Under this section entries may be with respect to like securities or interests therein as a part of a fungible bulk and may refer merely to a quantity of a particular security without reference to the name of the registered owner, certificate or bond number or the like and, in appropriate cases, may be on a net basis taking into account other transfers or pledges of the same security.

(3) A transfer or pledge under this section has the effect of a delivery of a security in bearer form or duly indorsed in blank (Section 8-301) representing the amount of the obligation or the number of shares or rights transferred or pledged. If a pledge or the creation of a security interest is intended, the making of entries has the effect of a taking of delivery by the pledgee or a secured party (Sections 9-304 and 9-305). A transferee or pledgee under this section is a holder.

(4) A transfer or pledge under this section does not constitute a registration of transfer under Part 4 of this Article.

(5) That entries made on the books of the clearing corporation as provided in subsection (1) are not appropriate does not affect the validity or effect of the entries nor the liabilities or obligations of the clearing corporation to any person adversely affected thereby.

REGISTRATION

INTRODUCTORY NOTE

Part 4 of Article 8, dealing with the issuer's rights and duties on registration of transfer of securities, makes the most far-reaching alterations of prior law. In South Carolina, however, the local impact of these changes is softened because the 1960 General Assembly enacted the Uniform Act for Simplification of Fiduciary Security

Transfers ("Simplification Act"), S. C. Code Sections 62-451 through 62-462 containing rules similar to those of Part 4 of the Code. Speaking generally, Part 4 applies the Simplification Act's theory to the registration of all securities transfers, whether or not be fiduciaries.

The significance of the Code rules on registering transfer can only be appreciated against prior experience, and since the principles of the Simplification Act, despite local adoption, are not widely known, it is useful to highlight this background.

A security in registered form, including all stock (at least in the United States) and many bonds, names the owner and "may be" registered, as to that owner (or his nominee), on the books of the corporation. See Corp. Law Section 1.2(g), S. C. Code Section 12-11.2(g) (Supp.) In large part, this is to enable the corporation to determine definitely, at any given time, who is entitled to vote stock, to receive dividends, interest, or other distributions, etc. Only collaterally is it to accomodate the security owner. See the dictum in Fraser & Dill v. Charleston, 11 S. C. 486 (1878). When a registered security is disposed of, it is normal (though not necessary) to register it out of the original owner's name and into that of the new owner. Thus, the buyer (or his broker) may purchase the security, and then present it properly indorsed to the issuer for registration in the buyer's name. Or the seller (or his broker) will present the security to the issuer for registration into the buyer's name, or more commonly into that of a broker, before the actual sale is made. So regarded, the issuer does not transfer the security in any meaningful sense; what he does is to record or register a transfer, either completed or projected, as the case may be.

A special definition of the key term "issuer" (see Code section 8-201(3)) as the "person on whose behalf transfer books are maintained", applies throughout Part 4 of Article 8. In the case of a small or medium-size corporation, the transfer books are normally kept by the corporation which issued the securities, sometimes by an employee known as the "transfer clerk". In the case of a corporation with widely traded securities, normally (but not invariably) books are kept on its behalf by one or more agents such as a bank or trust company. Thus, a "transfer agent" handles the actual transfer of stock or bonds on the corporation's books, issuing new certificates, and often performing other services such as mailing notices and disbursing dividends. One or more "registrars" keep a continuing record of the issue and cancellation of the issuer's securities to insure that the corporation does not issue more shares than authorized or overissue debt securities contrary to indenture restrictions or the like. If the issuer does not list its securities on the New York Stock Exchange, the same institution may act as both transfer agent and registrar. The New York Stock Exchange rules require a separate registrar and transfer agent in any city where such facilities are available, so that there may be an independent check on the issue and cancellation of securities. Thus, South Carolina Electric and Gas Company has New York and South Carolina transfer agents and registrars for its common stock; and New York (but not South Carolina) transfer agents and registrars for its preferred stock. These market customs explain the Code's special definition of "issuer" for Part 4 of Article 8.

Many securities, especially stock, state that they could be transferred only on the books of the corporation (the issuer), e. g., State Bank of South Carolina v. Herman Cox & Co., 11 Rich, Eq. 344 (S. C. 1860), and many still so state. This implied, and the theory came to be, that until the corporation's books were changed to reflect the new owner, the transfer was incomplete. On this theory, "transfer on the books" meant more than just registration, and was integral to conveying full title. An unregistered transfer was said to be merely an "assignment" of the security, but the assignee was not a true "owner", since he was not such as to the corporation and third parties. This terminology has carried forward, so that, in the language of transfer agents and of some statutes (e. g., the Simplification Act), a security is "assigned" by its owner, and it is "transferred" on the issuer's books, "in person" or by one's "attorney". However, despite continued use of these terms, the meaning has changed. Since the Uniform Transfer Act (Corporation Law) Ch. 7, S. C. Code Section 12-17.1 et seq. (Supp.), a transfer of the stock certificate transfers whether or not the new owner is registered on the books. (After transfer and before registration, the record owner holds the stock for the transferee as a trustee of a "dry trust" and may be compelled the interest, thus constituting the transferee the owner of the stock, in equity to give the transferee a proxy to vote the shares.) In general, a security transfer is complete when delivered and, where necessary, properly indorsed. Viewed this way, "transfer on the books" is logically immaterial to the actual transfer of ownership; it is merely a matter of recording or registering the transfer, and thus has, in principle, nothing more to do with the transfer than recording a deed has to do with the validity of the transfer between the parties.

Securities may be improperly transferred, either because (1) transfer was in breach of trust (using that term to apply broadly to all breaches of fiduciary duty. Thus, the focus of the problem has been the issuer's duty to inquire into adverse claims to a security whose transfer it is asked to register. No duty of inquiry by the issuer was the rule under early American decisions, e. g., Bank of Virginia v. Craig, 6 Leigh (50 Va.) 390 (1835), which followed English cases, e. g., Hartga v. Bank of England, 3 Ves. Jr. 56, 30 Eng. Rep. 891 (Ch. 1796), since codified as Companies Act 1968, 11 & 12 Geo. 6, c. 38, section 117. Under this view, the issuer was liable for registering transfer on a forged or otherwise unauthorized indorsement, but not for registering a transfer that was wrongful in the sense of a breach of trust or other duty. Fiduciary security transfers could be registered easily and simply, both into and out of a fiduciary's name; in the case of a transfer by one not named as a fiduciary, e. g., by a broker, the issuer need only satisfy itself that the presenter had authority from the fiduciary.

An 1848 circuit decision by Chief Justice Taney decisively altered relevant American law. Lowry v. Commerical & Farmers' Bank, 15 Fed. Case 1040 (No. 8581) (C. C. D. Md. 1848) declared (Id. at 1047) that the corporation is the custodian of the shares of stock, and clothed with power sufficient to protect the rights of everyone interested, from unauthorized transfers; it is a trust placed in the hands of the corporation for the protection of individual interests, and like every other trustee, it is bound to execute the trust with proper diligence and care, and is responsible for any injury sustained by its negligence and misconduct.

The court held that a corporation transferring securities contrary to provisions of a will is liable for breach of trust, since it constructively had knowledge of the terms of this publicly recorded document. A line of authority firmly established this as the rule in South Carolina. Magwood v. Railroad Bank, 5 S. C. 379 (1874) (leading case with full discussion of policy) Witsell v. Charleston, 7 S. C. 88 (1875); Webb v. Graniteville Mfg. Co., 11 S. C. 396 (1878); Chapman v. City Council of Charleston, 28 S. C. 373 (1888). On the other hand, the South Carolina courts often upheld issuers' registration of transfer. E.g., Campbell v. Bank of Charleston, 3 S. C. 384 (1871) (Executor wrongfully sold decedent's stock to BFP; bank demanded and relied on probate judge's certificate of authority in registering transfer; held, bank protected because "it exercised all the care and caution demanded by a due regard to its own interest" and that of the injured owner); State Bank of South Carolina v. Herman Cox & Co., 11 Rich. Eq. 344 (S. C. 1860) (Transfer by attorney-in-fact for his personal interests to a BFP; held, BFP prevails over the owner; no question raised as to propriety of bank's registering transfer; Fraser & Dill v. City Council of Charleston, 11 S. C. 486 (1878) (issuer, City of Charleston, properly registered wrongful transfer of city stock; indeed, "the bank [BFP] could have compelled the city to [register] transfer [of] the stock").

An obvious consequence of a rule which in effect makes the corporation guarantee the rightfulness of any security transfer was excessive documentation of fiduciary security transfers, with great expense and delay to the presenter, coupled with various indemnity agreements and guarantees.

Leaving aside the history of reforms in this area (see Braucher, Security Transfers by Fiduciaries, 43 Minn. L. Rev. 193 (1958), South Carolina, in effect, repudiated its cases accepting the Taney doctrine when it adopted the Simplification Act. The heart of this Act (S. C. Code Section 62-454) permits the issuer to assume the rightfulness of a fiduciary security transfer, absent notice of adverse claims given in prescribed form (S. C. Code Section 62-456), expressly negates liability when the issuer acts in accord with the statute (S. C. Code Section 62-457). Another local statute authorizes banks and trust company fiduciaries to hold securities "in the name of a nominee or nominees thereof", and negates an issuer's liability for registering transfer "when the transfer is made upon the authorization of such nominee" (S. C. Code Section 62-433). The Uniform Stock Transfer Act did not touch stock registration.

Viewed against these recent statutory developments, Part 4 of the Code is a logical step. Following the Simplification Act's cue, it declares general rules for all security transfers. Briefly summarized, Code section 8-401 makes it the issuer's affirmative duty to register transfer, and correlatively recognizes the presenter's enforceable right thereto, if specified conditions are met. (1) The security is indorsed by an "appropriate person" (Code section 9-308), that is, by persons authorized to make the necessary signatures, even though a particular transfer may be in breach of trust or otherwise wrongful. Registering transfer on a forged or otherwise unauthorized signature, exposes the issuer to its traditional absolute liability. (2) The issuer has no duty to inquire into the rightfulness of the transfer, that is, into adverse claims or it has discharged that duty. Code section 8-403. If both conditions are fulfilled, the issuer is not liable, Code section 8-404(1); otherwise, it remains liable, viz., for registering an unauthorized transfer or failing to fulfill its limited duty of inquiry, if any. See Code section 8-404(2). The issuer may protect itself by demanding "reasonable assurances" that signatures are genuine and effective (Code section 8-402), by a signature guarantee (Code section 8-312); but it is penalized if it demands further assurances (Code section 8-402).

In sum, the Code modifies the issuer's strict trustee liability under the Taney decision and its progeny, but falls far short of reinstating the early American rule of no trustee liability. Whether or not the Code properly adopted this half-way house, the draftsmen declined to discard entirely the Taney doctrine but sought (and probably have achieved) a pragmatic solution to the problem of excessive documentation.

REGISTRATION

SECTION 8—401. Duty of Issuer to Register Transfer.

(1) Where a security in registered form is presented to the issuer with a request to register transfer, the issuer is under a duty to register the transfer as requested if

- (a) the security is indorsed by the appropriate person or persons (Section 8—308); and
- (b) reasonable assurance is given that those indorsements are genuine and effective (Section 8—402); and
- (c) the issuer has no duty to inquire into adverse claims or has discharged any such duty (Section 8—403); and
- (d) any applicable law relating to the collection of taxes has been complied with; and
- (e) the transfer is in fact rightful or is to a bona fide purchaser.

(2) Where an issuer is under a duty to register a transfer of a security the issuer is also liable to the person presenting it for registration or his principal for loss resulting from any unreasonable delay in registration or from failure or refusal to register the transfer.

SECTION 8—402. Assurance that Indorsements Are Effective.

(1) The issuer may require the following assurance that each necessary indorsement (Section 8—308) is genuine and effective

- (a) in all cases, a guarantee of the signature (subsection (1) of Section 8-312) of the person indorsing; and
- (b) where the indorsement is by an agent, appropriate assurance of authority to sign;
- (c) where the indorsement is by a fiduciary, appropriate evidence of appointment or incumbency;
- (d) where there is more than one fiduciary, reasonable assurance that all who are required to sign have done so;
- (e) where the indorsement is by a person not covered by any of the foregoing, assurance appropriate to the case corresponding as nearly as may be to the foregoing.

(2) A “guarantee of the signature” in subsection (1) means a guarantee signed by or on behalf of a person reasonably believed by the issuer to be responsible. The issuer may adopt standards with respect to responsibility provided such standards are not manifestly unreasonable.

(3) “Appropriate evidence of appointment or incumbency” in subsection (1) means

- (a) in the case of a fiduciary appointed or qualified by a court, a certificate issued by or under the direction or supervision of that court or an officer thereof and dated within sixty days before the date of presentation for transfer; or
- (b) in any other case, a copy of a document showing the appointment or a certificate issued by or on behalf of a person reasonably believed by the issuer to be responsible or, in the absence of such a document or certificate, other evidence reasonably deemed by the issuer to be appropriate. The issuer may adopt standards with respect to such evidence provided such standards are not manifestly unreasonable. The issuer is not charged with notice of the contents of any document obtained pursuant to this paragraph (b) except to the extent that the contents relate directly to the appointment or incumbency.

(4) The issuer may elect to require reasonable assurance beyond that specified in this section but if it does so and for a purpose other than that specified in subsection 3(b) both requires and obtains a copy of a will, trust, indenture, articles of co-partnership, by-laws or other controlling instrument it is charged with notice of all matters contained therein affecting the transfer.

SECTION 8—403. Limited Duty of Inquiry.

(1) An issuer to whom a security is presented for registration is under a duty to inquire into adverse claims if

- (a) a written notification of an adverse claim is received at a time and in a manner which affords the issuer a reasonable opportunity to act on it prior to the issuance of a new, re-issued or re-registered security and the notification identifies the claimant, the registered owner and the issue of which the security is a part and provides an address for communications directed to the claimant; or
- (b) the issuer is charged with notice of an adverse claim from a controlling instrument which it has elected to require under subsection (4) of Section 8—402.

(2) The issuer may discharge any duty of inquiry by any reasonable means, including notifying an adverse claimant by registered or certified mail at the address furnished by him or if there be no such address at his residence or regular place of business that the security has been presented for registration of transfer by a named person, and that the transfer will be registered unless within thirty days from the date of mailing the notification, either

- (a) an appropriate restraining order, injunction or other process issues from a court of competent jurisdiction; or
- (b) an indemnity bond sufficient in the issuer's judgment to protect the issuer and any transfer agent, registrar or other agent of the issuer involved, from any loss which it or they may suffer by complying with the adverse claim is filed with the issuer.

(3) Unless an issuer is charged with notice of an adverse claim from a controlling instrument which it has elected to require under subsection (4) of Section 8—402 or receives notification of an adverse claim under subsection (1) of this section, where a security presented for registration is indorsed by the appropriate person or persons the issuer is under no duty to inquire into adverse claims. In particular

- (a) an issuer registering a security in the name of a person who is a fiduciary or who is described as a fiduciary is not bound to inquire into the existence, extent, or correct description of the fiduciary relationship and thereafter the issuer may assume without inquiry that the newly registered owner continues to be the fiduciary until the issuer receives written notice that the fiduciary is no longer acting as such with respect to the particular security;
- (b) an issuer registering transfer on an indorsement by a fiduciary is not bound to inquire whether the transfer is made in compliance with a controlling instrument or with the law of the state having jurisdiction of the fiduciary relationship, including any law requiring the fiduciary to obtain court approval of the transfer; and
- (c) the issuer is not charged with notice of the contents of any court record or file or other recorded or unrecorded document even though the document is in its possession and even though the transfer is made on the indorsement of a fiduciary to the fiduciary himself or to his nominee.

SECTION 8—404. Liability and Non-Liability for Registration.

(1) Except as otherwise provided in any law relating to the collection of taxes, the issuer is not liable to the owner or any other person suffering loss as a result of the registration of a transfer of a security if

- (a) there were on or with the security the necessary indorsements (Section 8—308); and
- (b) the issuer had no duty to inquire into adverse claims or has discharged any such duty (Section 8—403).

(2) Where an issuer has registered a transfer of a security to a person not entitled to it the issuer on demand must deliver a like security to the true owner unless

- (a) the registration was pursuant to subsection (1); or
- (b) the owner is precluded from asserting any claim for registering the transfer under subsection (1) of the following section; or
- (c) such delivery would result in overissue, in which case the issuer's liability is governed by Section 8—104.

SECTION 8—405. Lost, Destroyed and Stolen Securities.

(1) Where a security has been lost, apparently destroyed or wrongfully taken and the owner fails to notify the issuer of that fact within a reasonable time after he has notice of it and the issuer registers a transfer of the security before receiving such a notification, the owner is precluded from asserting against the issuer any claim for registering the transfer under the preceding section or any claim to a new security under this section.

(2) Where the owner of a security claims that the security has been lost, destroyed or wrongfully taken, the issuer must issue a new security in place of the original security if the owner

- (a) so requests before the issuer has notice that the security has been acquired by a bona fide purchaser; and
- (b) files with the issuer a sufficient indemnity bond; and
- (c) satisfies any other reasonable requirements imposed by the issuer.

(3) If, after the issue of the new security, a bona fide purchaser of the original security presents it for registration of transfer, the issuer must register the transfer unless registration would result in overissue, in which event the issuer's liability is governed by Section 8—104. In addition to any rights on the indemnity bond, the issuer may recover the new security from the person to whom it was issued or any person taking under him except a bona fide purchaser.

SECTION 8—406. Duty of Authenticating Trustee, Transfer Agent or Registrar.

(1) Where a person acts as authenticating trustee, transfer agent, registrar, or other agent for an issuer in the registration of transfers of its securities or in the issue of new securities or in the cancellation of surrendered securities

- (a) he is under a duty to the issuer to exercise good faith and due diligence in performing his functions; and
- (b) he has with regard to the particular functions he performs the same obligation to the holder or owner of the security and has the same rights and privileges as the issuer has in regard to those functions.

(2) Notice to an authenticating trustee, transfer agent, registrar or other such agent is notice to the issuer with respect to the functions performed by the agent.

ARTICLE 9

SECURED TRANSACTIONS

Article 9 is probably the most important article of the Code since its scope reaches transactions whose intended effect is to create a security interest in personal property. Furthermore, in order to accomplish its fundamental objective of providing uniform and simplified rules governing chattel security which meet modern commercial needs, it has been necessary to introduce a number of new concepts which would more substantially change existing practice than any other article of the Code.

In limiting the area of coverage to chattel financing, Article 9 divorces itself from its ancestor, the real property mortgage. Existing state statutory expressions of local public policy regulating credit (e. g., usury and small loan acts) and creating liens in favor of preferred creditors (e. g., landlords and materialmen) are unaffected by this article. Also, existing federal legislation dealing with the recording of a security interest in certain types of collateral, such as airplanes, and ships and state automobile title laws, are made to fit into the scheme of Article 9 without change. The remaining aspects of secured financing law including the creation, attachment and perfection of a security interest are treated for the first time in an integrated comprehensive and uniform way by this article.

In treating a security transaction as a single unity in which there is a conveyance of a security interest in personal property to secure the payment of a debt, Article 9 rejects any distinction based on the form or designation of the device employed, such as chattel mortgage, conditional sales agreement, trust receipt, etc. Different results are reached in some instances on functional grounds depending upon the nature of the collateral and its use. For this purpose, Section 9-109 divides all collateral into four classifications: consumer goods, used for personal purposes; equipment, used principally in business; farm products in possession of a person engaged in farming operations; and inventory held by a business enterprise for sale or materials used, consumed, or manufactured.

Consistent with this general functional rather than formal and conceptual approach, Article 9 states substantive rules without regard to the ancient controversy over whether the secured party acquires "title" to collateral or a "mere lien."

Creation of the Security Interest

In order to create or convey a security interest which is valid between the parties, a minimum of formalities are prescribed by the Code. The pledge type is recognized and requires nothing more than delivery of the collateral or documents of title which represent the goods pledged. For the creation of the more usual type of non-possessory security interest, all that is necessary is a simple security agreement signed by the debtor containing a general description of the collateral (9-203). When there is such an agreement, value is given, and the debtor has rights in the collateral, the security interest attaches in favor of the secured party (9-204).

In a modern industrial economy there is frequently an urgent need for even the most successful and solvent business enterprise to acquire working capital in order to finance the acquisition of inventory and meet current operational expenses. A financier may be willing to supply these funds only when he can acquire a valid security interest in the commercial debtor's inventory or equipment which will stand up against claims of third parties. Since inventory is frequently in a state of motion in the resale or manufacturing cycle, what is needed is an effective "floating lien" which automatically feeds the security agreement as it is acquired by the debtor. Where the collateral is business equipment which may be replaced before the loan is repaid, it is also commercially desirable for the replacements to automatically attach to the security interest.

One of the most significant accomplishments of Article 9 is that it meets these needs by expressly validating the "after-acquired-property" clause in a security agreement whereby a lien on inventory or replacement equipment attaches as it is acquired by the debtor (9-204). To complete the commercial objective of a continuing extension of credit secured by new inventory or equipment as acquired, Section 9-204 expressly validates the extension of the security interest to future advances.

The effectiveness of this inventory financing arrangement to withstand the attack of unsecured creditors directly, or through their representatives, the trustee in bankruptcy, has been in doubt ever since the 1925 United States Supreme Court decision of Benedict v. Ratner (268 U. S. 353) held the transaction void where the debtor was given unfettered dominion or control over the inventory collateral. Code Section 9-205 removes that doubt by rejecting the princial of Benedict v. Ratner as a matter of state law which should be controlling in federal bankruptcy litigation.

The validation of the “after-acquired-property” clause as the key to effective commercial financing, does not apply to consumer goods acquired by the debtor more than ten days after the secured party gives value. This is in recognition of the social and economic objection of tying up all of the future acquisitions of an individual by such a continuing blanket lien. A similar policy decision is the basis of the limitation on crop financing to crops which become such within one year after the security agreement is executed.

Perfection

The Code continues to recognize that for most types of collateral, perfection of the security interest against third parties—the real test of its effectiveness—may be accomplished alternatively by pledge or by record notice. The Code adopts what may be generally described as a “lien creditor-race” approach. Only creditors who have obtained a lien without knowledge of the security interest and before it is perfected may defeat the security interest (9-301). As between conflicting security interests in the same collateral, priority is accorded to the first to perfect, regardless of notice, and regardless of the order of attachment. Furthermore, a bona fide purchaser of the collateral for value and without knowledge of the security interest has the right to rely on possession in the debtor and will usually take free of the unfiled security interest.

These generalizations are subject to some important exceptions and modifications which need to be outlined in order to present a clearer and more accurate picture of the Code’s approach to perfection. It should be noted that perfection is a relative term since the security interest may be perfected as to one class of third parties but not as to another.

In the contest of inventory financing, it is the usual understanding of the parties that the debtor will sell his inventory in the ordinary course of business and is usually so authorized. Code Section 9-307 recognizes this commercial understanding by providing that the buyer out of inventory in the ordinary course of business takes free of the inventory financier’s security interest, even though he has knowledge of it. The proceeds received from such sale of inventory are subject to a continuing security interest in favor of the inventory financier, if perfected by express coverage in the instrument filed for record. In the event of insolvency proceedings against the debtor, the perfected security interest in proceeds which are commingled with other funds of the debtor is limited to an amount received within ten days of the institution of such insolvency proceedings (9-306). Thus, the inventory financier who properly perfects his security interest, will be protected against the honest insolvency of the debtor, to the extent of the value of the collateral. Despite the Code's rejection of the Benedict Rule, which compelled the security financier to exercise some control over the inventory collateral, some element of the policing and accounting doctrine of that case remains, in order to avoid the loss of proceeds received by the debtor more than ten days prior to insolvency proceedings.

Where the secured party does not authorize the sale of the collateral, as where the collateral is business equipment, or in the case of crop financing, a purchaser of the collateral will take subject to the perfected security interest.

No filing is necessary in order to perfect a purchase money security interest in consumer goods and farm equipment having purchase price not in excess of $2500. Purchases from the debtor, however, will take free of the unfiled security interest in such goods (9-302), (9-307). This treatment of consumer goods does not apply to the financing of automobiles for private use where the state's certificate of title law, eliminating the requirement of perfection by filing, would govern (9-302).

For the mechanics of perfecting a non-possessory security interest in chattel by filing, the Code borrows the concept of "notice filing" from the Uniform Trust Receipts Act (enacted in 33 states but not South Carolina) as an alternative to filing the security agreement itself. This is record or constructive notice by the filing of an abbreviated statement which need only contain the signature and address of the debtor and secured party and a general description of the types or items of the collateral. This "financing statement" device is designed principally to facilitate the perfection of a security interest in inventory where there is a continuing change in the collateral and in the amount of indebtedness. The record notice is effective for a period of five years from the time the statement is presented to the filing clerk with the fee, subject to renewal for a like term by filing a "continuation statement" (9-403).

Since this non-informative notice filing does not reveal the amount of the secured debt at any given time, Section 9-208 makes provision for the debtor to obtain a statement from the secured party of record setting out this information which may be then relied on by third parties who deal with the debtor. Whenever there is no longer an outstanding obligation, Section 9-405 places the burden on a secured party of record to send a "termination statement" to the filing officer to remove the financing statement from the record. If the secured party fails to send such a termination statement within ten days after demand by the debtor, he is liable for $100. damages plus any loss caused to the debtor by such failure.

Where the collateral remains at rest in the possession of the debtor, the secured party may continue the present practice of filing the security agreement as a "financing statement" rather than execute the separate abbreviated statement which will usually be limited to inventory financing. In that event, the Code eliminates most of the formal and technical prerequisites to filing such as acknowledgement or witnessing. A new requirement is that the secured party must also sign the agreement as a prerequisite to effective filing in order to establish his responsibility for issuing the termination statement.

Priorities

It has been stated that priority among conflicting security interests in the same collateral is determined by the order of perfection. This is true regardless of the order in which the consideration passes—that is, the time when the secured loan is made—and regardless of actual knowledge. A most important application of this rule and the notice filing concept is the protection it affords to the inventory financier in granting maximum protection against the honest insolvency of his debtor. The financier having determined that the debtor's property is not subject to a recorded security interest or creditor's lien, may execute and file the abbreviated financing statement containing a general description of the collateral to be covered, an after-acquired property clause and claim of proceeds, if appropriate. Thereafter, the security agreement may be executed and the money advanced, at which time the security interest in the collateral attaches, but with the effective date of perfection as of the prior time when the financing statement was filed. Even if a creditor of the debtor should acquire a lien or advance money and take a security interest in the same collateral, his interest would be subordinate to the security interest which was filed first, but which attached later. Assuming that the collateral is inventory and the secured party has authorized its sale, he may now look to the proceeds which were expressly claimed in the filed financing statement and any replacement of inventory which was covered by the after-acquired property clause, all of which were perfected as of the time of initial filing. It is apparent that the drafters of Article 9 focused their attention on this chattel financing situation and set out to accomplish this result by giving maximum protection to the diligent secured party against losses resulting from the honest insolvency of the debtor. It is also apparent that the policy objective designed to lead to this result was to encourage the supplying of working capital, which is a vital ingredient of the expanding industrial economy.

The "first-to-perfect" rule, as the basic formula for determining the order of priorities, is subject to an important qualification where one of the competing claimants holds a purchase money security interest to secure the purchase price of newly acquired goods and the other claims the purchased collateral under an after-acquired property clause. In the context of equipment financing, if the purchase money financier perfects his security interest within ten days after the debtor receives protection in the collateral, he will have a priority claim in this collateral over the financier claiming under an after-acquired property clause. (9-312(4)). This preferred treatment of the purchase money security interest constitutes an exception to the usual rule that after-acquired property feeds a security interest when acquired and is deemed perfected as of the time of the filing of the financing statement containing an after-acquired property clause. Where the collateral is inventory, the purchase money security claimant has priority over a conflicting security interest, only when he perfects before the debtor receives possession of the collateral (without benefit of the ten day grace period for filing), and only if he gives notice of his claim to the inventory financier who has previously filed a financing statement claiming the same inventory under an after-acquired property clause. (9-312(3)). The reason for the additional requirement of notice in order for the purchase money financier of inventory to enjoy a priority position, is to save the initial general inventory financier from the risk of continuing to make advances to the debtor under the belief that the subsequently acquired inventory continues to feed his security interest.

Several other special modifications of the first to perfect priority rule are provided for by the Code. Section 9-312(2) accords priority to a perfected security interest in crops to secure a loan given not more than three months before the crops are planted. Section 9-310 gives priority to statutory liens for services or materials, unless the statute creating the lien provides otherwise.

A security interest in personal property which thereafter becomes a fixture by attachment to real property, takes priority over all prior security claims in the realty (9-313). Similarly, a security interest in goods which are affixed to other goods, (typically a security interest in tires, subsequently installed on cars) takes priority over prior claims to the whole. (9-314.)

Under Section 9-315, a perfected security interest in goods, which through processing become so commingled as to lose their identity in the product or mass (e. g., raw materials), continues in the product or mass. This section also covers the case where the collateral consists of components assembled into a machine and which do not lose their identity. In that case, the security interest may be continued in the product if expressly claimed in the filed financing statement; if not so claimed, the identifiable part will be treated as an accession under Section 9-314. When more than one security interest attaches to the product or mass, the secured parties share in proportion to their contribution.

Default

Part 5 of Article 9 is designed to afford greater flexibility and simplicity in the prescribed manner of liquidating the collateral on default in payment of the secured debt. This policy is balanced against the protection of the debtor's interest that the collateral will realize its fair value. This objective is expressed in Section 9-504 by the key standard for the liquidation sale that it be "commercially reasonable." Without an attempt at a specific definition of this term, certain guidelines and minimum standards are prescribed for the proper disposition of the collateral by the secured party. It may be by public or private sale; with or without processing; in bulk or in parcels. Reasonable notice of the time and place of the disposition must be given to the debtor and other secured parties of record, unless the collateral is perishable, or threatens to decline speedily in value, or is of a type customarily sold on a recognized market.

Code Section 9-505 authorizes the secured party in the possession of the collateral after default to retain the collateral in satisfaction of the debt if the debtor, or any secured party of record, does not object to such written proposal within 30 days after receipt. Where the collateral is consumer goods and the debtor has paid 60% of the obligation, however, the collateral must be disposed of within 90 days after the secured party takes possession. If the secured party fails to comply with this requirement where the collateral is consumer goods, Section 9-507 gives the debtor the right to recover damages in an amount no less than the total credit charge plus 10% of the debt.

ARTICLE 9

SECURED TRANSACTIONS; SALES OF ACCOUNTS, CONTRACT RIGHTS AND CHATTEL PAPER

Introduction

One of the more important facets of a commercial transaction is the giving of a security interest in personal property for the purpose of securing a debt. Article 9 governs all such security transactions with a few stated exceptions of minor importance (See Commercial Code section 9-104). Its enactment would, therefore, replace a number of existing statutes scattered throughout the Code of Laws of South Carolina which have been drafted at different times by different hands. For example, statutes affecting chattel mortgages (S. C. Code Sections 45-151 to 45-164) and their perfection against third parties (S. C. Code Sections 60-301 to 60-310), assignments of accounts receivable, (S. C. Code Sections 45-201 to 45-211) and factors liens on merchandise (S. C. Code Sections 45-401 to 45-410) would be repealed. In their place, Article 9 would provide a single integrated set of rules designed to simplify, clarify and modernize and to make uniform the law of chattel financing.

While Article 9 deals with the transactions which presently employ such security devices as chattel mortgages, conditional sale contracts, trust receipts, assignments of accounts receivable, factors liens and the like, the rules are stated without regard to the form of the device or the location of title. The approach is to treat a security transaction as a single entity in which there is a conveyance of a security interest. There are some different results based on the more functional ground of the nature of the collateral, i. e., consumer goods, equipment, inventory and farm products.

Article 9 is divided into five parts. Part 1 lays down general rules of applicability and definition of terms. Part 2 governs the validity of security agreements and the rights of the parties to such agreement. Part 3 is concerned with the rights of third parties and states rules of priority. Part 4 governs filing requirements, and Part 5 rights and obligations upon default in payment of the secured debt.

SECTION 9—103. Accounts, Contract Rights, General Intangibles and Equipment Relating to Another Jurisdiction; and Incoming Goods Already Subject to a Security Interest.

(1) If the office where the assignor of accounts or contract rights keeps his records concerning them is in this state, the validity and perfection of a security interest therein and the possibility and effect of proper filing is governed by this Article; otherwise by the law (including the conflict of laws rules) of the jurisdiction where such office is located.

(2) If the chief place of business of a debtor is in this state, this Article governs the validity and perfection of a security interest and the possibility and effect of proper filing with regard to general intangibles or with regard to goods of a type which are normally used in more than one jurisdiction (such as automotive equipment, rolling stock, airplanes, road building equipment, commercial harvesting equipment, construction machinery and the like) if such goods are classified as equipment or classified as inventory by reason of their being leased by the debtor to others. Otherwise, the law (including the conflict of laws rules) of the jurisdiction where such chief place of business is located shall govern. If the chief place of business is located in a jurisdiction which does not provide for perfection of the security interest by filing or recording in that jurisdiction, then the security interest may be perfected by filing in this state.

(3) If personal property other than that governed by subsections (1) and (2) is already subject to a security interest when it is brought into this state, the validity of the security interest in this state is to be determined by the law (including the conflict of laws rules) of the jurisdiction where the property was when the security interest attached. However, if the parties to the transaction understood at the time that the security interest attached that the property would be kept in this state and it was brought into this state within 30 days after the security interest attached for purposes other than transportation through this state, then the validity of the security interest in this state is to be determined by the law of this state. If the security interest was already perfected under the law of the jurisdiction where the property was when the security interest attached and before being brought into this state, the security interest continues perfected in this state for four months and also thereafter if within the four month period it is perfected in this state. The security interest may also be perfected in this state after the expiration of the four month period; in such case perfection dates from the time of perfection in this state. If the security interest was not perfected under the law of the jurisdiction where the property was when the security interest attached and before being brought into this state, it may be perfected in this state; in such case perfection dates from the time of perfection in this state.

(4) Notwithstanding subsections (2) and (3), if personal property is covered by a certificate of title issued under a statute of this state or any other jurisdiction which requires indication on a certificate of title of any security interest in the property as a condition of perfection, then the perfection is governed by the law of the jurisdiction which issued the certificate.

SECTION 9—104. Transactions Excluded From Article.

This Article does not apply

- (a) to a security interest subject to any statute of the United States such as the Ship Mortgage Act, 1920, to the extent that such statute governs the rights of parties to and third parties affected by transactions in particular types of property; or

- (b) to a landlord's lien; or
- (c) to a lien given by statute or other rule of law for services or materials except as provided in Section 9-310 on priority of such liens; or
- (d) to a transfer of a claim for wages, salary or other compensation of an employee; or
- (e) to an equipment trust covering railway rolling stock; or
- (f) to a sale of accounts, contract rights or chattel paper as part of a sale of the business out of which they arose, or an assignment of accounts, contract rights or chattel paper which is for the purpose of collection only, or a transfer of a contract right to an assignee who is also to do the performance under the contract; or
- (g) to a transfer of an interest or claim in or under any policy of insurance; or
- (h) to a right represented by a judgment; or
- (i) to any right of set-off; or
- (j) except to the extent that provision is made for fixtures in Section 9-313, to the creation or transfer of an interest in or lien on real estate, including a lease or rents thereunder; or
- (k) to a transfer in whole or in part of any of the following:
any claim arising out of tort; any deposit, savings, passbook or like account maintained with a bank, savings and loan association, credit union or like organization.

Section 9—105. Definitions and Index of Definitions.

- (1) In this Article unless the context otherwise requires:
 - (a) "Account debtor" means the person who is obligated on an account, chattel paper, contract right or general intangible;
 - (b) "Chattel paper" means a writing or writings which evidence both a monetary obligation and a security interest in or a lease of specific goods. When a transaction is evidenced both by such a security agreement or a lease and by an instrument or a series of instruments, the group of writings taken together constitutes chattel paper;
 - (c) "Collateral" means the property subject to a security interest, and includes accounts, contract rights and chattel paper which have been sold;
 - (d) "Debtor" means the person who owes payment or other performance of the obligation secured, whether or not he owns or has rights in the collateral, and includes the seller of accounts, contract rights or chattel paper. Where the debtor and the owner of the collateral are not the same person, the term "debtor" means the owner of the collateral in any provision of the Article dealing with the collateral, the obligor in any provision dealing with the obligation, and may include both where the context so requires;

- (e) "Document" means document of title as defined in the general definitions of Article 1 (Section 1-201);
 - (f) "Goods" includes all things which are movable at the time the security interest attaches or which are fixtures (Section 9-313), but does not include money, documents, instruments, accounts, chattel paper, general intangibles, contract rights and other things in action. "Goods" also include the unborn young of animals and growing crops;
 - (g) "Instrument" means a negotiable instrument (defined in Section 3-104), or a security (defined in Section 8-102) or any other writing which evidences a right to the payment of money and is not itself a security agreement or lease and is of a type which is in ordinary course of business transferred by delivery with any necessary indorsement or assignment;
 - (h) "Security agreement" means an agreement which creates or provides for a security interest;
 - (i) "Secured party" means a lender, seller or other person in whose favor there is a security interest, including a person to whom accounts, contract rights or chattel paper have been sold. When the holders of obligations issued under an indenture of trust, equipment trust agreement or the like are represented by a trustee or other person, the representative is the secured party.

SECTION 9—106. Definitions: “Account”; “Contract Right”; “General Intangibles”.

“Account” means any right to payment for goods sold or leased or for services rendered which is not evidenced by an instrument or chattel paper. “Contract right” means any right to payment under a contract not yet earned by performance and not evidenced by an instrument or chattel paper. “General intangibles” means any personal property (including things in action) other than goods, accounts, contract rights, chattel paper, documents and instruments.

SECTION 9—107. Definitions: “Purchase Money Security Interest”.

A security interest is a “purchase money security interest” to the extent that it is

- (a) taken or retained by the seller of the collateral to secure all or part of its price; or
- (b) taken by a person who by making advances or incurring an obligation gives value to enable the debtor to acquire rights in or the use of collateral if such value is in fact so used.

SECTION 9—108. When After-Acquired Collateral Not Security for Antecedent Debt.

Where a secured party makes an advance, incurs an obligation, releases a perfected security interest, or otherwise gives new value which is to be secured in whole or in part by after-acquired property his security interest in the after-acquired collateral shall be deemed to be taken for new value and not as security for an antecedent debt if the debtor acquires his rights in such collateral either in the ordinary course of his business or under a contract of purchase made pursuant to the security agreement within a reasonable time after new value is given.

SECTION 9—109. Classification of Goods; "Consumer Goods"; "Equipment"; "Farm Products"; "Inventory".

Goods are

(1) "consumer goods" if they are used or bought for use primarily for personal, family or household purposes;

(2) "equipment" if they are used or bought for use primarily in business (including farming or a profession) or by a debtor who is a non-profit organization or a governmental subdivision or agency or if the goods are not included in the definitions of inventory, farm products or consumer goods;

(3) "farm products" if they are crops or livestock or supplies used or produced in farming operations or if they are products of crops or livestock in their unmanufactured states (such as ginned cotton, wool-clip, maple syrup, milk and eggs), and if they are in the possession of a debtor engaged in raising, fattening, grazing or other farming operations. If goods are farm products they are neither equipment nor inventory;

(4) "inventory" if they are held by a person who holds them for sale or lease or to be furnished under contracts of service or if he has so furnished them, or if they are raw materials, work in process or materials used or consumed in a business. Inventory of a person is not to be classified as his equipment.

SECTION 9—110. Sufficiency of Description.

For the purposes of this Article any description of personal property or real estate is sufficient whether or not it is specific if it reasonably identifies what is described.

SECTION 9—111. Applicability of Bulk Transfer Laws.

The creation of a security interest is not a bulk transfer under Article 6 (see Section 6-103).

SECTION 9—112. Where Collateral Is Not Owned by Debtor.

Unless otherwise agreed, when a secured party knows that collateral is owned by a person who is not the debtor, the owner of the collateral is entitled to receive from the secured party any surplus under Section 9—502(2) or under Section 9—504(1), and is not liable for the debt or for any deficiency after resale, and he has the same right as the debtor

- (a) to receive statements under Section 9—208;
- (b) to receive notice of and to object to a secured party's proposal to retain the collateral in satisfaction of the indebtedness under Section 9—505;
- (c) to redeem the collateral under Section 9-506;
- (d) to obtain injunctive or other relief under Section 9—507 (1); and
- (e) to recover losses caused to him under Section 9—208(2).

SECTION 9—113. Security Interests Arising Under Article on Sales.

A security interest arising solely under the Article on Sales (Article 2) is subject to the provisions of this Article except that to the extent that and so long as the debtor does not have or does not lawfully obtain possession of the goods

- (a) no security agreement is necessary to make the security interest enforceable; and
- (b) no filing is required to perfect the security interest; and
- (c) the rights of the secured party on default by the debtor are governed by the Article on Sales (Article 2).

PART 2

VALIDITY OF SECURITY AGREEMENT AND RIGHTS OF PARTIES THERETO

SECTION 9—201. General Validity of Security Agreement.

Except as otherwise provided by this Act a security agreement is effective according to its terms between the parties, against purchasers of the collateral and against creditors. Nothing in this Article validates any charge or practice illegal under any statute or regulation thereunder governing usury, small loans, retail installment sales, or the like, or extends the application of any such statute or regulation to any transaction not otherwise subject thereto.

SECTION 9—202. Title to Collateral Immaterial.

Each provision of this Article with regard to rights, obligations and remedies applies whether title to collateral is in the secured party or in the debtor.

SECTION 9—203. Enforceability of Security Interest; Proceeds, Formal Requisites.

(1) Subject to the provisions of Section 4—208 on the security interest of a collecting bank and Section 9—113 on a security interest arising under the Article on Sales, a security interest is not enforceable against the debtor or third parties unless

- (a) the collateral is in the possession of the secured party; or
- (b) the debtor has signed a security agreement which contains a description of the collateral and in addition, when the security interest covers crops or oil, gas or minerals to be extracted or timber to be cut, a description of the land concerned. In describing collateral, the word “proceeds” is sufficient without further description to cover proceeds of any character.

(2) A transaction, although subject to this Article, is also subject to statutes or regulations thereunder governing usury, small loans, retail installment sales, or the like, and in the case of conflict between the provisions of this Article and any such statute, the provisions of such statute control. Failure to comply with any applicable statute has only the effect which is specified therein.

SECTION 9—204. When Security Interest Attaches; After-Acquired Property; Future Advances.

(1) A security interest cannot attach until there is agreement (subsection (3) of Section 1—201) that it attach and value is given and the debtor has rights in the collateral. It attaches as soon as all of the events in the preceding sentence have taken place unless explicit agreement postpones the time of attaching.

(2) For the purposes of this section the debtor has no rights

- (a) in crops until they are planted or otherwise become growing crops, in the young of livestock until they are conceived;
- (b) in fish until caught, in oil, gas or minerals until they are extracted, in timber until it is cut;
- (c) in a contract right until the contract has been made;
- (d) in an account until it comes into existence.

(3) Except as provided in subsection (4) a security agreement may provide that collateral, whenever acquired, shall secure all obligations covered by the security agreement.

(4) No security interest attaches under an after-acquired property clause

- (a) to crops which become such more than seven years after the security agreement is executed except that a security interest in crops which is given in conjunction with a lease or a land purchase or improvement transaction evidenced by a contract, mortgage or deed of trust may if so agreed attach to crops to be grown on the land concerned during the period of such real estate transaction;
- (b) to consumer goods other than accessions (Section 9—314) when given as additional security unless the debtor acquires rights in them within ten days after the secured party gives value.

(5) Obligations covered by a security agreement may include future advances or other value whether or not the advances or value are given pursuant to commitment.

SECTION 9—205. Use or Disposition of Collateral Without Accounting Permissible.

A security interest is not invalid or fraudulent against creditors by reason of liberty in the debtor to use, commingle or dispose of all or part of the collateral (including returned or repossessed goods) or to collect or compromise accounts, contract rights or chattel paper, or to accept the return of goods or make repossessions, or to use, commingle or dispose of proceeds, or by reason of the failure of the secured party to require the debtor to account for proceeds or replace collateral. This section does not relax the requirements of possession where perfection of a security interest depends upon possession of the collateral by the secured party or by a bailee.

SECTION 9—206. Agreement Not to Assert Defenses Against Assignee; Modification of Sales Warranties Where Security Agreement Exists.

(1) Subject to any statute or decision which establishes a different rule for buyers or lessees of consumer goods, an agreement by a buyer or lessee that he will not assert against an assignee any claim or defense which he may have against the seller or lessor is enforceable by an assignee who takes his assignment for value, in good faith and without notice of a claim or defense, except as to defenses of a type which may be asserted against a holder in due course of a negotiable instrument under the Article on Commercial Paper (Article 3). A buyer who as part of one transaction signs both a negotiable instrument and a security agreement makes such an agreement.

(2) When a seller retains a purchase money security interest in goods the Article on Sales (Article 2) governs the sale and any disclaimer, limitation or modification of the seller's warranties.

SECTION 9—207. Rights and Duties When Collateral Is in Secured Party's Possession.

(1) A secured party must use reasonable care in the custody and preservation of collateral in his possession. In the case of an instrument or chattel paper reasonable care includes taking necessary steps to preserve rights against prior parties unless otherwise agreed.

(2) Unless otherwise agreed, when collateral is in the secured party's possession

- (a) reasonable expenses (including the cost of any insurance and payment of taxes or other charges) incurred in the custody, preservation, use or operation of the collateral are chargeable to the debtor and are secured by the collateral;
- (b) the risk of accidental loss or damage is on the debtor to the extent of any deficiency in any effective insurance coverage;
- (c) the secured party may hold as additional security any increase or profits (except money) received from the collateral, but money so received, unless remitted to the debtor, shall be applied in reduction of the secured obligation;
- (d) the secured party must keep the collateral identifiable but fungible collateral may be commingled;
- (e) the secured party may repledge the collateral upon terms which do not impair the debtor's right to redeem it.

(3) A secured party is liable for any loss caused by his failure to meet any obligation imposed by the preceding subsections but does not lose his security interest.

(4) A secured party may use or operate the collateral for the purpose of preserving the collateral or its value or pursuant to the order of a court of appropriate jurisdiction or, except in the case of consumer goods, in the manner and to the extent provided in the security agreement.

SECTION 9—208. Request for Statement of Account or List of Collateral.

(1) A debtor may sign a statement indicating what he believes to be the aggregate amount of unpaid indebtedness as of a specified date and may send it to the secured party with a request that the statement be approved or corrected and returned to the debtor. When the security agreement or any other record kept by the secured party identifies the collateral a debtor may similarly request the secured party to approve or correct a list of the collateral.

(2) The secured party must comply with such a request within two weeks after receipt by sending a written correction or approval. If the secured party claims a security interest in all of a particular type of collateral owned by the debtor he may indicate that fact in his reply and need not approve or correct an itemized list of such collateral. If the secured party without reasonable excuse fails to comply he is liable for any loss caused to the debtor thereby; and if the debtor has properly included in his request a good faith statement of the obligation or a list of the collateral or both the secured party may claim a security interest only as shown in the statement against persons misled by his failure to comply. If he no longer has an interest in the obligation or collateral at the time the request is received he must disclose the name and address of any successor in interest known to him and he is liable for any loss caused to the debtor as a result of failure to disclose. A successor in interest is not subject to this section until a request is received by him.

(3) A debtor is entitled to such a statement once every six months without charge. The secured party may require payment of a charge not exceeding $10 for each additional statement furnished.

PART 3

RIGHTS OF THIRD PARTIES; PERFECTED AND UNPERFECTED SECURITY INTERESTS;
RULES OF PRIORITYSECTION 9—301. Persons Who Take Priority Over Unperfected Security Interests; "Lien Creditor".

(1) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (2), an unperfected security interest is subordinate to the rights of

(a) persons entitled to priority under Section 9-312;

- (b) a person who becomes a lien creditor without knowledge of the security interest and before it is perfected;
 - (c) in the case of goods, instruments, documents, and chattel paper, a person who is not a secured party and who is a transferee in bulk or other buyer not in ordinary course of business to the extent that he gives value and receives delivery of the collateral without knowledge of the security interest and before it is perfected;
 - (d) in the case of accounts, contract rights, and general intangibles, a person who is not a secured party and who is a transferee to the extent that he gives value without knowledge of the security interest and before it is perfected.
- (2) If the secured party files with respect to a purchase money security interest before or within ten days after the collateral comes into possession of the debtor, he takes priority over the rights of a transferee in bulk or of a lien creditor which arise between the time the security interest attaches and the time of filing.
- (3) A "lien creditor" means a creditor who has acquired a lien on the property involved by attachment, levy or the like and includes an assignee for benefit of creditors from the time of assignment, and a trustee in bankruptcy from the date of the filing of the petition or a receiver in equity from the time of appointment. Unless all the creditors represented had knowledge of the security interest such a representative of creditors is a lien creditor without knowledge even though he personally has knowledge of the security interest.

SECTION 9—302. When Filing Is Required to Perfect Security Interest; Security Interest to Which Filing Provisions of This Article Do Not Apply.

- (1) A financing statement must be filed to perfect all security interest except the following:
- (a) a security interest in collateral in possession of the secured party under Section 9-305;
 - (b) a security interest temporarily perfected in instruments or documents without delivery under Section 9-304 or in proceeds for a 10 day period under Section 9-306;
 - (c) a purchase money security interest in farm equipment having a purchase price not in excess of $2,500; but filing is required for a fixture under Section 9-313 or for a motor vehicle required to be licensed;

- (d) a purchase money security interest in consumer goods; but filing is required for a fixture under Section 9-313 or for a motor vehicle required to be licensed;
 - (e) an assignment of accounts or contract rights which does not alone or in conjunction with other assignments to the same assignee transfer a significant part of the outstanding accounts or contract rights of the assignor;
 - (f) a security interest of a collecting bank (Section 4-208) or arising under the Article on Sales (see Section 9-113) or covered in subsection (3) of this section.
- (2) If a secured party assigns a perfected security interest, no filing under this Article is required in order to continue the perfected status of the security interest against creditors of and transferees from the original debtor.
- (3) The filing provisions of this Article do not apply to a security interest in property subject to a statute
- (a) of the United States which provides for a national registration or filing of all security interests in such property; or
 - (b) of this state which provides for central filing of, or which requires indication on a certificate of title of, such security interests in such property, including, but not limited to, the filing provisions of Section 60-252, Code of Laws of South Carolina, 1962, for a security interest in property of any description or any interest therein created by a mortgage made by a railroad company as defined in Section 58-852, Code of Laws of South Carolina, 1962.
- (4) A security interest in property covered by a statute described in subsection (3) can be perfected only by registration or filing under that statute or by indication of the security interest on a certificate of title or a duplicate thereof by a public official.

SECTION 9—303. When Security Interest is Perfected; Continuity of Perfection.

- (1) A security interest is perfected when it has attached and when all of the applicable steps required for perfection have been taken. Such steps are specified in Sections 9-302, 9-304, 9-305 and 9-306. If such steps are taken before the security interest attaches, it is perfected at the time when it attaches.
- (2) If a security interest is originally perfected in any way permitted under this Article and is subsequently perfected in some other way under this Article, without an intermediate period when it was unperfected, the security interest shall be deemed to be perfected continuously for the purpose of this Article.

SECTION 9—304. Perfection of Security Interest in Instruments, Documents, and Goods Covered by Documents; Perfection by Permissive Filings; Temporary Perfection Without Filing or Transfer of Possession.

(1) A security interest in chattel paper or negotiable documents may be perfected by filing. A security interest in instruments (other than instruments which constitute part of chattel paper) can be perfected only by the secured party's taking possession, except as provided in subsections (4) and (5).

(2) During the period that goods are in the possession of the issuer of a negotiable document therefor, a security interest in the goods is perfected by perfecting a security interest in the document, and any security interest in the goods otherwise perfected during such period is subject thereto.

(3) A security interest in goods in the possession of a bailee other than one who has issued a negotiable document therefor is perfected by issuance of a document in the name of the secured party or by the bailee's receipt of notification of the secured party's interest or by filing as to the goods.

(4) A security interest in instruments or negotiable documents is perfected without filing or the taking of possession for a period of 21 days from the time it attaches to the extent that it arises for new value given under a written security agreement.

(5) A security interest remains perfected for a period of 21 days without filing where a secured party having a perfected security interest in an instrument, a negotiable document or goods in possession of a bailee other than one who has issued a negotiable document therefor

- (a) makes available to the debtor the goods or documents representing the goods for the purpose of ultimate sale or exchange or for the purpose of loading, unloading, storing, shipping, transshipping, manufacturing, processing or otherwise dealing with them in a manner preliminary to their sale or exchange; or

- (b) delivers the instrument to the debtor for the purpose of ultimate sale or exchange or of presentation, collection, renewal or registration of transfer.

(6) After the 21 day period in subsections (4) and (5) perfection depends upon compliance with applicable provisions of this Article.

SECTION 9—305. When Possession by Secured Party Perfects Security Interest Without Filing.

A security interest in letters of credit and advices of credit (subsection (2) (a) of Section 5-116), goods, instruments, negotiable documents or chattel paper may be perfected by the secured party's taking possession of the collateral. If such collateral other than goods covered by a negotiable document is held by a bailee, the secured party is deemed to have possession from the time the bailee receives notification of the secured party's interest. A security interest is perfected by possession from the time possession is taken without relation back and continues only so long as possession is retained, unless otherwise specified in this Article. The security interest may be otherwise perfected as provided in this Article before or after the period of possession by the secured party.

SECTION 9—306. "Proceeds"; Secured Party's Rights on Disposition of Collateral.

(1) "Proceeds" includes whatever is received when collateral or proceeds is sold, exchanged, collected or otherwise disposed of. The term also includes the account arising when the right to payment is earned under a contract right. Money, checks and the like are "cash proceeds". All other proceeds are "non-cash proceeds".

(2) Except where this Article otherwise provides, a security interest continues in collateral notwithstanding sale, exchange or other disposition thereof by the debtor unless his action was authorized by the secured party in the security agreement or otherwise, and also continues in any identifiable proceeds including collections received by the debtor.

(3) The security interest in proceeds is a continuously perfected security interest if the interest in the original collateral was perfected but it ceases to be a perfected security interest and becomes unperfected ten days after receipt of the proceeds by the debtor unless

- (a) a filed financing statement covering the original collateral also covers proceeds; or

- (b) the security interest in the proceeds is perfected before the expiration of the ten day period.
- (4) In the event of insolvency proceedings instituted by or against a debtor, a secured party with a perfected security interest in proceeds has a perfected security interest
 - (a) in identifiable non-cash proceeds;
 - (b) in identifiable cash proceeds in the form of money which is not commingled with other money or deposited in a bank account prior to the insolvency proceedings;
 - (c) in identifiable cash proceeds in the form of checks and the like which are not deposited in a bank account prior to the insolvency proceedings; and
 - (d) in all cash and bank accounts of the debtor, if other cash proceeds have been commingled or deposited in a bank account, but the perfected security interest under this paragraph (d) is
 - (i) subject to any right of set-off; and
 - (ii) limited to an amount not greater than the amount of any cash proceeds received by the debtor within ten days before the institution of the insolvency proceedings and commingled or deposited in a bank account prior to the insolvency proceedings less the amount of cash proceeds received by the debtor and paid over to the secured party during the ten day period.
- (5) If a sale of goods results in an account or chattel paper which is transferred by the seller to a secured party, and if the goods are returned to or are repossessed by the seller or the secured party, the following rules determine priorities:
 - (a) If the goods were collateral at the time of sale for an indebtedness of the seller which is still unpaid, the original security interest attaches again to the goods and continues as a perfected security interest if it was perfected at the time when the goods were sold. If the security interest was originally perfected by a filing which is still effective, nothing further is required to continue the perfected status; in any other case, the secured party must take possession of the returned or repossessed goods or must file.
 - (b) An unpaid transferee of the chattel paper has a security interest in the goods against the transferor. Such security interest is prior to a security interest asserted under para- graph (a) to the extent that the transferee of the chattel paper was entitled to priority under Section 9-308.

- (c) An unpaid transferee of the account has a security interest in the goods against the transferor. Such security interest is subordinate to a security interest asserted under paragraph (a).
- (d) A security interest of an unpaid transferee asserted under paragraph (b) or (c) must be perfected for protection against creditors of the transferor and purchasers of the returned or repossessed goods.

SECTION 9—307. Protection of Buyers of Goods.

(1) A buyer in ordinary course of business (subsection (9) of Section 1-201) other than a person buying farm products from a person engaged in farming operations takes free of a security interest created by his seller even though the security interest is perfected and even though the buyer knows of its existence.

(2) In the case of consumer goods and in the case of farm equipment having an original purchase price not in excess of $2500 (other than fixtures, see Section 9-313), a buyer takes free of a security interest even though perfected if he buys without knowledge of the security interest, for value and for his own personal, family or household purposes or his own farming operations unless prior to the purchase the secured party has filed a financing statement covering such goods.

SECTION 9—308. Purchase of Chattel Paper and Non-Negotiable Instruments.

A purchaser of chattel paper or a non-negotiable instrument who gives new value and takes possession of it in the ordinary course of his business and without knowledge that the specific paper or instrument is subject to a security interest has priority over a security interest which is perfected under Section 9-304 (permissive filing and temporary perfection). A purchaser of chattel paper who gives new value and takes possession of it in the ordinary course of his business has priority over a security interest in chattel paper which is claimed merely as proceeds of inventory subject to a security interest (Section 9-306), even though he knows that the specific paper is subject to the security interest.

SECTION 9—309. Protection of Purchasers of Instruments and Documents.

Nothing in this Article limits the rights off a holder in due course of a negotiable instrument (Section 3-302) or a holder to whom a negotiable document of title has been duly negotiated (Section 7-501) or a bona fide purchaser of a security (Section 8-301) and such holders or purchasers take priority over an earlier security interest even though perfected. Filing under this Article does not constitute notice of the security interest to such holders or purchasers.

SECTION 9-310. Priority of Certain Liens Arising by Operation of Law.

When a person in the ordinary course of his business furnishes services or materials with respect to goods subject to a security interest, a lien upon goods in the possession of such person given by statute or rule of law for such materials or services takes priority over a perfected security interest unless the lien is statutory and the statute expressly provides otherwise.

SECTION 9—311. Alienability of Debtor's Rights: Judicial Process.

The debtor's rights in collateral may be voluntarily or involuntarily transferred (by way of sale, creation of a security interest, attachment, levy, garnishment or other judicial process) notwithstanding a provision in the security agreement prohibiting any transfer or making the transfer constitute a default.

SECTION 9—312. Priorities Among Conflicting Security Interests in the Same Collateral.

(1) The rules of priority stated in the following sections shall govern where applicable: Section 4-208 with respect to the security interest of collecting banks in items being collected, accompanying documents and proceeds; Section 9-301 on certain priorities; Section 9-304 on goods covered by documents; Section 9-306 on proceeds and repossessions; Section 9-307 on buyers of goods; Section 9-308 on possessory against nonpossessory interest in chattel paper or non-negotiable instruments; Section 9-309 on security interests in negotiable instruments, documents or securities; Section 9-310 on priorities between perfected security interests and liens by operation of law; Section 9-313 on security interests in fixtures as against interest in real estate; Section 9-314 on security interest in accessions as against interest in goods; Section 9-315 on conflicting security interests where goods lose their identity or become part of a product; and Section 9-316 on contractual subordination.

(2) A perfected security interest in crops for new value given to enable the debtor to produce the crops during the production season and given not more than three months before the crops become growing crops by planting or otherwise takes priority over an earlier perfected security interest to the extent that such earlier interest secures obligations due more than six months before the crops become growing crops by planting or otherwise, even though the person giving new value had knowledge of the earlier security interest.

(3) A purchase money security interest in inventory collateral has priority over a conflicting security interest in the same collateral if

- (a) the purchase money security interest is perfected at the time the debtor receives possession of the collateral; and
- (b) any secured party whose security interest is known to the holder of the purchase money security interest or who, prior to the date of the filing made by the holder of the purchase money security interest, had filed a financing statement covering the same items or type of inventory, has received notification of the purchase money security interest before the debtor receives possession of the collateral covered by the purchase money security interest; and
- (c) such notification states that the person giving the notice has or expects to acquire a purchase money security interest in inventory of the debtor, describing such inventory by item or type.

(4) A purchase money security interest in collateral other than inventory has priority over a conflicting security interest in the same collateral if the purchase money security interest is perfected at the time the debtor receives possession of the collateral or within ten days thereafter.

(5) In all cases not governed by other rules stated in this section (including cases of purchase money security interest which do not qualify for the special priorities set forth in subsections (3) and (4) of this section), priority between conflicting security interests in the same collateral shall be determined as follows:

- (a) in the order of filing if both are perfected by filing, regardless of which security interest attached first under Section 9-204 (1) and whether it attached before or after filing;
- (b) in the order of perfection unless both are perfected by filing, regardless of which security interest attached first under Section 9-204(1) and, in the case of a filed security interest, whether it attached before or after filing; and
- (c) in order of attachment under Section 9-204(1) so long as neither is perfected.

(6) For the purpose of the priority rules of the immediately preceding subsection, a continuously perfected security interest shall be treated at all times as if perfected by filing if it was originally so perfected and it shall be treated at all times as if perfected otherwise than by filing if it was originally perfected otherwise than by filing.

SECTION 9—313. Priority of Security Interests in Fixtures.

(1) The rules of this section do not apply to goods incorporated into a structure in the manner of lumber, bricks, tile, cement, glass, metal work and the like and no security interest in them exists under this Article unless the structure remains personal property under applicable law. The law of this state other than this Act determines whether and when other goods become fixtures. This Act does not prevent creation of an encumbrance upon fixtures or real estate pursuant to the law applicable to real estate.

(2) A security interest which attaches to goods before they become fixtures takes priority as to the goods over the claims of all persons who have an interest in the real estate except as stated in subsection (4).

(3) A security interest which attaches to goods after they become fixtures is valid against all persons subsequently acquiring interests in the real estate except as stated in subsection (4) but is invalid against any person with an interest in the real estate at the time the security interest attaches to the goods who has not in writing consented to the security interest or disclaimed an interest in the goods as fixtures.

(4) The security interests described in subsections (2) and (3) do not take priority over

- (a) a subsequent purchaser for value of any interest in the real estate; or

(b) a creditor with a lien on the real estate subsequently obtained by judicial proceedings; or

(c) a creditor with a prior encumbrance of record on the real estate to the extent that he makes subsequent advances if the subsequent purchase is made, the lien by judicial proceedings is obtained, or the subsequent advance under the prior encumbrance is made or contracted for without knowledge of the security interest and before it is perfected. A purchaser of the real estate at a foreclosure sale other than an encumbrancer purchasing at his own foreclosure sale is a subsequent purchaser within this section.

(5) When under subsections (2) or (3) and (4) a secured party has priority over the claims of all persons who have interests in the real estate, he may, on default, subject to the provisions of Part 5, remove his collateral from the real estate but he must reimburse any encumbrancer or owner of the real estate who is not the debtor and who has not otherwise agreed for the cost of repair of any physical injury, but not for any diminution in value of the real estate caused by the absence of the goods removed or by any necessity for replacing them. A person entitled to reimbursement may refuse permission to remove until the secured party gives adequate security for the performance of this obligation.

SECTION 9—314. Accessions.

(1) A security interest in goods which attaches before they are installed in or affixed to other goods takes priority as to the goods installed or affixed (called in this section "accessions") over the claims of all persons to the whole except as stated in subsection (3) and subject to Section 9-315(1).

(2) A security interest which attaches to goods after they become part of a whole is valid against all persons subsequently acquiring interests in the whole except as stated in subsection (3) but is invalid against any person with an interest in the whole at the time the security interest attaches to the goods who has not in writing consented to the security interest or disclaimed an interest in the goods as part of the whole.

(3) The security interests described in subsections (1) and (2) do not take priority over

(a) a subsequent purchaser for value of any interest in the whole; or

- (b) a creditor with a lien on the whole subsequently obtained by judicial proceedings; or
- (c) a creditor with a prior perfected security interest in the whole to the extent that he makes subsequent advances if the subsequent purchase is made, the lien by judicial proceedings obtained or the subsequent advance under the prior perfected security interest is made or contracted for without knowledge of the security interest and before it is perfected. A purchaser of the whole at a foreclosure sale other than the holder of a perfected security interest purchasing at his own foreclosure sale is a subsequent purchaser within this section.

(4) When under subsections (1) or (2) and (3) a secured party has an interest in accessions which has priority over the claims of all persons who have interests in the whole, he may on default subject to the provisions of Part 5 remove his collateral from the whole but he must reimburse any encumbrancer or owner of the whole who is not the debtor and who has not otherwise agreed for the cost of repair of any physical injury but not for any diminution in value of the whole caused by the absence of the goods removed or by any necessity for replacing them. A person entitled to reimbursement may refuse permission to remove until the secured party gives adequate security for the performance of this obligation.

SECTION 9—315. Priority When Goods Are Commingled or Processed.

(1) If a security interest in goods was perfected and subsequently the goods or a part thereof have become part of a product or mass, the security interest continues in the product or mass if

- (a) the goods are so manufactured, processed, assembled or commingled that their identity is lost in the product or mass; or
- (b) a financing statement covering the original goods also covers the product into which the goods have been manufactured, processed or assembled.

In a case to which paragraph (b) applies, no separate security interest in that part of the original goods which has been manufactured, processed or assembled into the product may be claimed under Section 9—314.

(2) When under subsection (1) more than one security interest attaches to the product or mass, they rank equally according to the ratio that the cost of the goods to which each interest originally attached bears to the cost of the total product or mass.

SECTION 9—316. Priority Subject to Subordination.

Nothing in this Article prevents subordination by agreement by any person entitled to priority.

SECTION 9—317. Secured Party Not Obligated on Contract of Debtor.

The mere existence of a security interest or authority given to the debtor to dispose of or use collateral does not impose contract or tort liability upon the secured party for the debtor's acts or omissions.

SECTION 9—318. Defense Against Assignee; Modification of Contract After Notification of Assignment; Term Prohibiting Assignment Ineffective; Identification and Proof of Assignment.

(1) Unless an account debtor has made an enforceable agreement not to assert defenses or claims arising out of a sale as provided in Section 9-206 the rights of an assignee are subject to

- (a) all the terms of the contract between the account debtor and assignor and any defense or claim arising therefrom; and
- (b) any other defense or claim of the account debtor against the assignor which accrues before the account debtor receives notification of the assignment.

(2) So far as the right to payment under an assigned contract right has not already become an account, and notwithstanding notification of the assignment, any modification of or substitution for the contract made in good faith and in accordance with reasonable commercial standards is effective against an assignee unless the account debtor has otherwise agreed but the assignee acquires corresponding rights under the modified or substituted contract. The assignment may provide that such modification or substitution is a breach by the assignor.

(3) The account debtor is authorized to pay the assignor until the account debtor receives notification that the account has been assigned and that payment is to be made to the assignee. A notification which does not reasonably identify the rights assigned is ineffective. If requested by the account debtor, the assignee must seasonably furnish reasonable proof that the assignment has been made and unless he does so the account debtor may pay the assignor.

(4) A term in any contract between an account debtor and an assignor which prohibits assignment of an account or contract right to which they are parties is ineffective.

PART 4

FILING

SECTION 9—401. Place of Filing; Erroneous Filing; Removal of Collateral.

(1) The proper place to file in order to perfect a security interest is as follows:

- (a) when the collateral is equipment used in farming operations, or farm products, or accounts, contract rights or general intangibles arising from or relating to the sale of farm products by a farmer, or consumer goods, then in the office of the Register of Mesne Conveyances or the Clerk of Court in the county of the debtor's residence or if the debtor is not a resident of this state then in the office of the Register of Mesne Conveyances or the Clerk of Court in the county where the goods are kept, and in addition when the collateral is crops in the office of the Register of Mesne Conveyances or the Clerk of Court in the county where the land on which the crops are growing or to be grown is located;
- (b) when the collateral is goods which at the time the security interest attaches are or are to become fixtures, then in the office where a mortgage on the real estate concerned would be filed or recorded;
- (c) in all other cases, in the office of the Secretary of State.

(2) A filing which is made in good faith in an improper place or not in all of the places required by this section is nevertheless effective with regard to any collateral as to which the filing complied with the requirements of this Article and is also effective with regard to collateral covered by the financing statement against any person who has knowledge of the contents of such financing statement.

(3) A filing which is made in the proper place in this state continues effective even though the debtor's residence or place of business or the location of the collateral or its use, whichever controlled the original filing, is thereafter changed.

(4) If collateral is brought into this state from another jurisdiction, the rules stated in Section 9—103 determine whether filing is necessary in this state.

SECTION 9—402. Formal Requisites of Financing Statement; Amendments.

(1) A financing statement is sufficient if it is signed by the debtor and the secured party, gives an address of the secured party from which information concerning the security interest may be obtained, gives a mailing address of the debtor and contains a statement indicating the types, or describing the items, of collateral. A financing statement may be filed before a security agreement is made or a security interest otherwise attaches. When the financing statement covers crops growing or to be grown or goods which are or are to become fixtures, the statement must also contain a description of the real estate concerned. A copy of the security agreement is sufficient as a financing statement if it contains the above information and is signed by both parties.

(2) A financing statement which otherwise complies with subsection (1) is sufficient although it is signed only by the secured party when it is filed to perfect a security interest in

- (a) collateral already subject to a security interest in another jurisdiction when it is brought into this state. Such a financing statement must state that the collateral was brought into this state under such circumstances.
- (b) proceeds under Section 9-306 if the security interest in the original collateral was perfected. Such a financing statement must describe the original collateral.

(3) A form substantially as follows is sufficient to comply with subsection (1):

Name of debtor (or assignor)
Address
Name of secured party (or assignee)
Address
1. This financing statement covers the following types (or items) of property:
 (Describe)
2. (If collateral is crops) The above described crops are growing or are to be grown on:
 (Describe Real Estate)

3. (If collateral is goods which are or are to become fixtures)
The above described goods are affixed or to be affixed to:
(Describe Real Estate)

4. (If proceeds or products of collateral are claimed) Proceeds—
Products of the collateral are also covered.
Signature of Debtor (or Assignor)
Signature of Secured Party (or Assignee)

(4) The term “financing statement” as used in this Article means the original financing statement and any amendments but if any amendment adds collateral, it is effective as to the added collateral only from the filing date of the amendment.

(5) A financing statement substantially complying with the requirements of this section is effective even though it contains minor errors which are not seriously misleading.

SECTION 9—403. What Constitutes Filing; Duration of Filing; Effect of Lapsed Filing; Duties of Filing Officer.

(1) Presentation for filing of a financial statement and tender of the filing fee or acceptance of the statement by the filing officer constitutes filing under this Article.

(2) A filed financing statement which states a maturity date of the obligation secured of five years or less is effective until such maturity date and thereafter for a period of sixty days. Any other filed financing statement is effective for a period of five years from the date of filing. The effectiveness of a filed financing statement lapses on the expiration of such sixty day period after a stated maturity date or on the expiration of such five year period, as the case may be, unless a continuation statement is filed prior to the lapse. Upon such lapse the security interest becomes unperfected. A filed financing statement which states that the obligation secured is payable on demand is effective for five years from the date of filing.

(3) A continuation statement may be filed by the secured party (i) within six months before and sixty days after a stated maturity date of five years or less, and (ii) otherwise within six months prior to the expiration of the five year period specified in subsection (2). Any such continuation statement must be signed by the secured party, identify the original statement by file number and state that the original statement is still effective. Upon timely filing of the continuation statement, the effectiveness of the original statement is continued for five years after the last date to which the filing was effective whereupon it lapses in the same manner as provided in subsection (2) unless another continuation statement is filed prior to such lapse. Succeeding continuation statements may be filed in the same manner to continue the effectiveness of the original statement. Unless a statute on disposition of public records provides otherwise, the filing officer may remove a lapsed statement from the files and destroy it.

(4) A filing officer shall mark each statement with a consecutive file number and with the date and hour of filing and shall hold the statement for public inspection. In addition the filing officer shall index the statements according to the name of the debtor and shall note in the index the file number and the address of the debtor given in the statement.

(5) The fee for filing, indexing and furnishing filing data for an original or a continuation statement shall be $1.00, but this subsection shall not have the effect of repealing existing law as to filing fees in the several counties.

SECTION 9—404. Termination Statement.

(1) Whenever there is no outstanding secured obligation and no commitment to make advances, incur obligations or otherwise give value, the secured party must on written demand by the debtor send the debtor a statement that he no longer claims a security interest under the financing statement, which shall be identified by file number. A termination statement signed by a person other than the secured party of record must include or be accompanied by the assignment or a statement by the secured party of record that he has assigned the security interest to the signer of the termination statement. The fee for filing and indexing such an assignment or statement thereof shall be fifty cents. If the affected secured party fails to send such a termination statement within ten days after proper demand therefor he shall be liable to the debtor for one hundred dollars, and in addition for any loss caused to the debtor by such failure.

(2) On presentation to the filing officer of such a termination statement he must note it in the index. The filing officer shall remove from the files, mark "terminated" and send or deliver to the secured party the financing statement and any continuation statement, statement of assignment or statement of release pertaining thereto.

(3) The fee for filing and indexing a termination statement including sending or delivering the financing statement shall be fifty cents.

SECTION 9—405. Assignment of Security Interest; Duties of Filing Officer; Fees.

(1) A financing statement may disclose an assignment of a security interest in the collateral described in the statement by indication in the statement of the name and address of the assignee or by an assignment itself or a copy thereof on the face or back of the statement. Either the original secured party or the assignee may sign this statement as the secured party. On presentation to the filing officer of such a financing statement the filing officer shall mark the same as provided in section 9-403(4). The fee for filing, indexing and furnishing filing data for a financing statement so indicating an assignment shall be $1.00.

(2) A secured party may assign of record all or a part of his rights under a financing statement by the filing of a separate written statement of assignment signed by the secured party of record and setting forth the name of the secured party of record and the debtor, the file number and the date of filing of the financing statement and the name and address of the assignee and containing a description of the collateral assigned. A copy of the assignment is sufficient as a separate statement if it complies with the preceding sentence. On presentation to the filing officer of such a separate statement, the filing officer shall mark such separate statement with the date and hour of the filing. He shall note the assignment on the index of the financing statement. The fee for filing, indexing and furnishing filing data about such a separate statement of assignment shall be fifty cents.

(3) After the disclosure or filing of an assignment under this section, the assignee is the secured party of record.

SECTION 9—406. Release of Collateral; Duties of Filing Officer; Fees.

A secured party of record may by his signed statement release all or a part of any collateral described in a filed financing statement. The statement of release is sufficient if it contains a description of the collateral being released, the name and address of the debtor, the name and address of the secured party, and the file number of the financing statement. Upon presentation of such a statement to the filing officer he shall mark the statement with the hour and date of filing and shall note the same upon the margin of the index of the filing of the financing statement. The fee for filing and noting such a statement of release shall be fifty cents.

SECTION 9—407. Information From Filing Officer.

(1) If the person filing any financing statement, termination statement, statement of assignment, or statement of release, furnishes the filing officer a copy thereof, the filing officer shall upon request note upon the copy the file number and date and hour of the filing of the original and deliver or send the copy to such person.

(2) Upon request of any person, the filing officer shall issue his certificate showing whether there is on file on the date and hour stated therein, any presently effective financing statement naming a particular debtor and any statement of assignment thereof and if there is, giving the date and hour of filing of each such statement and the names and addresses of each secured party therein. The uniform fee for such a certificate shall be $1.00 plus fifty cents for each financing statement and for each statement of assignment reported therein. Upon request the filing officer shall furnish a copy of any filed financing statement or statement of assignment for a uniform fee of fifty cents per page.

PART 5

DEFAULT

SECTION 9—501. Default; Procedure When Security Agreement Covers Both Real and Personal Property.

(1) When a debtor is in default under a security agreement, a secured party has the rights and remedies provided in this Part and except as limited by subsection (3) those provided in the security agreement. He may reduce his claim to judgment, foreclose or otherwise enforce the security interest by any available judicial procedure. If the collateral is documents the secured party may proceed either as to the documents or as to the goods covered thereby. A secured party in possession has the rights, remedies and duties provided in Section 9-207. The rights and remedies referred to in this subsection are cumulative.

(2) After default, the debtor has the rights and remedies provided in this Part, those provided in the security agreement and those provided in Section 9-207.

(3) To the extent that they give rights to the debtor and impose duties on the secured party, the rules stated in the subsections referred to below may not be waived or varied except as provided with respect to compulsory disposition of collateral (subsection (1) of Section 9-505) and with respect to redemption of collateral (Section 9-506) but the parties may by agreement determine the standards by which the fulfillment of these rights and duties is to be measured if such standards are not manifestly unreasonable:

- (a) subsection (2) of Section 9-502 and subsection (2) of Section 9-504 insofar as they require accounting for surplus proceeds of collateral;
- (b) subsection (3) of Section 9-504 and subsection (1) of Section 9-505 which deal with disposition of collateral;
- (c) subsection (2) of Section 9-505 which deals with acceptance of collateral as discharge of obligation;
- (d) Section 9-506 which deals with redemption of collateral; and
- (e) subsection (1) of Section 9-507 which deals with the secured party's liability for failure to comply with this Part.

(4) If the security agreement covers both real and personal property, the secured party may proceed under this Part as to the personal property or he may proceed as to both the real and the personal property in accordance with his rights and remedies in respect of the real property in which case the provisions of this Part do not apply.

(5) When a secured party has reduced his claim to judgment the lien of any levy which may be made upon his collateral by virtue of any execution based upon the judgment shall relate back to the date of the perfection of the security interest in such collateral. A judicial sale, pursuant to such execution, is a foreclosure of the security interest by judicial procedure within the meaning of this section, and the secured party may purchase at the sale and thereafter hold the collateral free of any other requirements of this Article.

SECTION 9—502. Collection Rights of Secured Party.

(1) When so agreed and in any event on default the secured party is entitled to notify an account debtor or the obligor on an instrument to make payment to him whether or not the assignor was theretofore making collections on the collateral, and also to take control of any proceeds to which he is entitled under Section 9-306.

(2) A secured party who by agreement is entitled to charge back uncollected collateral or otherwise to full or limited recourse against the debtor and who undertakes to collect from the account debtors or obligors must proceed in a commercially reasonable manner and may deduct his reasonable expenses of realization from the collections. If the security agreement secures an indebtedness, the secured party must account to the debtor for any surplus, and unless otherwise agreed, the debtor is liable for any deficiency. But, if the underlying transaction was a sale of accounts, contract rights, or chattel paper, the debtor is entitled to any surplus or is liable for any deficiency only if the security agreement so provides.

SECTION 9—503. Secured Party's Right to Take Possession After Default.

Unless otherwise agreed a secured party has on default the right to take possession of the collateral. In taking possession a secured party may proceed without judicial process if this can be done without breach of the peace or may proceed by action. If the security agreement so provides the secured party may require the debtor to assemble the collateral and make it available to the secured party at a place to be designated by the secured party which is reasonably convenient to both parties. Without removal a secured party may render equipment unusable, and may dispose of collateral on the debtor's premises under Section 9-504.

SECTION 9—504. Secured Party's Right to Dispose of Collateral After Default; Effect of Disposition.

(1) A secured party after default may sell, lease or otherwise dispose of any or all of the collateral in its then condition or following any commercially reasonable preparation or processing. Any sale of goods is subject to the Article on Sales (Article 2). The proceeds of disposition shall be applied in the order following to

- (a) the reasonable expenses of retaking, holding, preparing for sale, selling and the like and, to the extent provided for in the agreement and not prohibited by law, the reasonable attorneys' fees and legal expenses incurred by the secured party;
- (b) the satisfaction of indebtedness secured by the security interest under which the disposition is made;
- (c) the satisfaction of indebtedness secured by any subordinate security interest in the collateral if written notification of demand therefor is received before distribution of the proceeds is completed. If requested by the secured party, the holder of a subordinate security interest must seasonably furnish reasonable proof of his interest, and unless he does so, the secured party need not comply with his demand.

(2) If the security interest secures an indebtedness, the secured party must account to the debtor for any surplus, and, unless otherwise agreed, the debtor is liable for any deficiency. But if the underlying transaction was a sale of accounts, contract rights, or chattel paper, the debtor is entitled to any surplus or is liable for any deficiency only if the security agreement so provides.

(3) Disposition of the collateral may be by public or private proceedings and may be made by way of one or more contracts. Sale or other disposition may be as a unit or in parcels and at any time and place and on any terms but every aspect of the disposition including the method, manner, time, place and terms must be commercially reasonable. Unless collateral is perishable or threatens to decline speedily in value or is of a type customarily sold on a recognized market, reasonable notification of the time and place of any public sale or reasonable notification of the time after which any private sale or other intended disposition is to be made shall be sent by the secured party to the debtor, and except in the case of consumer goods to any other person who has a security interest in the collateral and who has duly filed a financing statement indexed in the name of the debtor in this state or who is known by the secured party to have a security interest in the collateral. The secured party may buy at any public sale and if the collateral is of a type customarily sold in a recognized market or is of a type which is the subject of widely distributed standard price quotations he may buy at private sale.

(4) When collateral is disposed of by a secured party after default, the disposition transfers to a purchaser for value all of the debtor's rights therein, discharges the security interest under which it is made and any security interest or lien subordinate thereto. The purchaser takes free of all such rights and interests even though the secured party fails to comply with the requirements of this Part or of any judicial proceedings

(a) in the case of a public sale, if the purchaser has no knowledge of any defects in the sale and if he does not buy in collusion with the secured party, other bidders or the person conducting the sale; or

(b) in any other case, if the purchaser acts in good faith.

(5) A person who is liable to a secured party under a guaranty, indorsement, repurchase agreement or the like and who receives a transfer of collateral from the secured party or is subrogated to his rights has thereafter the rights and duties of the secured party. Such a transfer of collateral is not a sale or disposition of the collateral under this Article.

SECTION 9—505. Compulsory Disposition of Collateral; Acceptance of the Collateral as Discharge of Obligation.

(1) If the debtor has paid sixty per cent of the cash price in the case of a purchase money security interest in consumer goods or sixty per cent of the loan in the case of another security interest in consumer goods, and has not signed after default a statement renouncing or modifying his rights under this Part a secured party who has taken possession of collateral must dispose of it under Section 9—504 and if he fails to do so within twenty-one days after he takes possession the debtor at his option may recover in conversion or under Section 9—507(1) on secured party's liability.

(2) In any other case involving consumer goods or any other collateral a secured party in possession may, after default, propose to retain the collateral in satisfaction of the obligation. Written notice of such proposal shall be sent to the debtor and except in the case of consumer goods to any other secured party who has a security interest in the collateral and who has duly filed a financing statement indexed in the name of the debtor in this state or is known by the secured party in possession to have a security interest in it. If the debtor or other person entitled to receive notification objects in writing within thirty days from the receipt of the notification or if any other secured party objects in writing within thirty days after the secured party obtains possession the secured party must dispose of the collateral under Section 9—504. In the absence of such written objection the secured party may retain the collateral in satisfaction of the debtor's obligation.

SECTION 9—506. Debtor's Right to Redeem Collateral.

At any time before the secured party has disposed of collateral or entered into a contract for its disposition under Section 9—504 or before the obligation has been discharged under Section 9—505(2) the debtor or any other secured party may unless otherwise agreed in writing after default redeem the collateral by tendering fulfillment of all obligations secured by the collateral as well as the expenses reasonably incurred by the secured party in retaking, holding and preparing the collateral for disposition, in arranging for the sale, and to the extent provided in the agreement and not prohibited by law, his reasonable attorneys' fees and legal expenses.

SECTION 9—507. Secured Party's Liability for Failure to Comply With This Part.

(1) If it is established that the secured party is not proceeding in accordance with the provisions of this Part disposition may be ordered or restrained on appropriate terms and conditions. If the disposition has occurred the debtor or any person entitled to notification or whose security interest has been made known to the secured party prior to the disposition has a right to recover from the secured party any loss caused by a failure to comply with the provisions of this Part. If the collateral is consumer goods, the debtor has a right to recover in any event an amount not less than the credit service charge plus ten per cent of the principal amount of the debt or the time price differential plus ten per cent of the cash price.

(2) The fact that a better price could have been obtained by a sale at a different time or in a different method from that selected by the secured party is not of itself sufficient to establish that the sale was not made in a commercially reasonable manner. If the secured party either sells the collateral in the usual manner in any recognized market therefor or if he sells at the price current in such market at the time of his sale or if he has otherwise sold in conformity with reasonable commercial practices among dealers in the type of property sold he has sold in a commercially reasonable manner. The principles stated in the two preceding sentences with respect to sales also apply as may be appropriate to other types of disposition. A disposition which has been approved in any judicial proceeding or by any bona fide creditors' committee or representative of creditors shall conclusively be deemed to be commercially reasonable, but this sentence does not indicate that any such approval must be obtained in any case nor does it indicate that any disposition not so approved is not commercially reasonable.
